This year with transportation overloads, serious labor shortages and restricted movement of fertilizer materials to plants—at least 45 per cent of the spring tonnage must move before March 1 if fertilizer is to be on farms when needed.

Getting your order in now with your local Southern States Cooperative Service Agency is the first step in solving the fertilizer situation. The next step is to take delivery of your fertilizer as soon as you get it. Southern States fertilizer plants, Service Agencies and farm members are overworked by transportation and storage shortages—If you don't act now.

I have been traveling around a little bit as usual. There came a bid to meet with the Kiwanis down at Princeton. This is Dr. John C. Buckley's home town, down on the Seneca Trail about a hundred miles below Marlinton. The Doctor, who used to live here in charge of a prosperous drug store.

The city of Princeton is the capital of Mercer County. It is in the short grass country of the great Flat Top coal region. Nearby is the educational center of Athens, with its Concord State College. Just down the Trail ten miles or so is the coal camp of Bluefield.

In this city of Bluefield, they took all available land for rail road yards; then the business houses preempted one side of the level street at the foot of the hill. The homes and residences generally were stuck around on the hill-sides kind of promiscuous-like. Finally the residential portion, has sloped over the ridges to a nice valley section toward the Virginia State line, and over it.

Still speaking of Mr. Shott, I have heard of old Virginia democrats shedding their political coats when they crossed into republican territory. This was not the case with Mr. Shott; he came by his party affiliation honest, like many another of good Confederate stock who were beguiled to follow the late General William Mahone back in Readjuster-Fund days when the then young Mr. Shott was in what has been termed the formative years of life.

The controversy was over the Old Virginia State debt. General Mahone had his plan to readjust the indebtedness, and it made him governor. Others wanted to and did "fund" the debt and finally paid it off in a couple of generations. The Funders called the Readjusters just plain repudiators but you know how it is in all hot political campaigns. The result was the Readjusters were just naturally run out of the democratic party and became republicans.

That, of course, is ancient history and of no moment at this time and place. The reason of using up good newspaper space is to lead up to what I have always considered one of the best political anecdotes on the whole market.

Uncle Stephen, good old color of mine, was on his upward way and had arrived at the Beautiful Gate. As he knocked, good St. Peter asked who sought admittance. The reply was Stephen, of Virginia. The next question, riding or walking? The reply, walking. Then the crack of doom not admitting any foot passengers today into the Celestial City!

Uncle Stephen turned away to weed down the Delectable Mountain, back toward this world. He met General William Mahone, who also walked toward the Beautiful Gate. There were salutations and Uncle Stephen told the General the fate that met him. Now the General was a resourceful man, so he told Uncle Stephen if he would just let him meet his shoulders they would be able to enter the Beautiful Gate together.

On April 24, 1861, Jackson was ordered to Harper's Ferry to take command. The garrison consisted of a number of independent companies of infantry, a few companies of cavalry, and 15 smooth bore cannon of small caliber. The new commander was a sorry looking substitute for the brilliant figures he superseded. Seven hours-daily drill soon showed their effect on the recruits. Besides discipline and instruction, Jackson had the entire administration of command on his hands.

A single railroad connected Washington with the west, the Baltimore & Ohio. The natural course would have been to destroy the line at once, but instead, Jackson caused all eastbound trains to pass the bridge between the hours of 10 A. M. and 3 P. M. One night, as soon as this schedule was working, he ordered his officer in command, at Point of Rocks to stop all eastbound trains, and at Martinsburg he ordered the reverse. Thus he caught all the trains and ran them to Winchester, then by horse power over the Valley Pike to Strasburg, 18 miles farther south. This capture was Jackson's only exploit during his first visit to Harper's Ferry.

On May 24th, Joseph E. Johnson assumed command, and Jackson was assigned to command the first Brigade. This Brigade afterward came to be the most famous in the Confederate Army, and with their General, was known as the Stonewall Brigade, composed of:

The 4th Virginia—Col. Allen.
The 4th Virginia—Col. Preston.
The 5th Virginia—Col. Harper.
The 27th Virginia—Lieut. Col. Echols.
The 33rd Virginia—Col. Cummings.

He longingly replied that, as much as he admired Jackson and would like to see him, he didn't want to go by way of Castle Thunder, a Confederate military prison, to accomplish the mission. All night long the Confederates slept on their arms waiting for the dawn. When dawn broke, a silver mist floated up over the river, but the southern gunners knew the range of their targets, and as the sun rising over Loudoun Heights dispersed the vapors, the whole of Jackson's artillery became engaged. Two of A. P. Hill's brigades worked their way to the left rear of Bolivar Heights, and with ten guns that had crossed the Shenandoah at Keyes Ford, proved highly effective in annihilating the enemy. The Federal batteries kept up a heavy fire until their ammunition began to run short, when the fire slackened. Lawton and Jones had closed so near enough to hear the voices of the Federals. Jackson then ordered the charge of all infantry. The Federal gunners in a last desperate effort to stop the charge, ran their guns out again, but too late as all Confederate guns opened front, flank and rear firing over the heads of the infantry, completely silencing their opponents.

Lee's invasion of Maryland was the occasion of bringing Harpers Ferry again to notice. Martinsburg was occupied by a Federal force, under General White, and Harpers Ferry by a Federal force under command of Col. Miles. It was necessary to clear both places of the enemy in order to give Lee's trains a safe road through the valley. Accordingly, Jackson was ordered to cross at Williamsport, capture Martinsburg and Harpers Ferry. Upon the approach of Jackson, White evacuated Martinsburg and retreated to Harpers Ferry. On the 13th of September, Jackson passed thru Hallowtown, halting his command on School House Hill, 1 mile east. In the meantime, General McLaws occupied Maryland Heights and General Walker, Loudon Heights, thus securely blocking the Federals in Harpers Ferry. At 1 o'clock on the 14th, Walker signaled he was ready, but Jackson's reply was to wait until he heard from McLaws, who reported 3:30 P. M., he was in position. Jackson then issued the following order: "Today, Major-General McLaws will attack so as to sweep with his artillery the ground occupied by the enemy, take his batteries in reverse, and operate as circumstance may justify. Brigadier-General Walker will take in reverse the battery on the turnpike and sweep with his artillery the ground occupied by the enemy and silence the batteries on the Island in the Shenandoah, should he find a battery there. Major-General A. P. Hill will move along the left bank of the Shenandoah and thus turn the enemy's left flank and enter Harpers Ferry. Brigadier-General Lawton will move along the turnpike for the purpose of supporting General Hill, and otherwise operating against the enemy to the left of General Hill. Brigadier-General Jones (commanding the Stonewall Brigade) will with one of his brigades and a battery of artillery, make a demonstration against the enemy's right; the remaining part of his division will constitute the reserve and move along the turningpike."

During the residence of this writer in Reading, Penna., I made the acquaintance of General Griggs, and he always seemed anxious to hear of Harpers Ferry. I jokingly said, "General, you seem interested in Harpers Ferry. Why did you so hurriedly leave on Sunday night September 14, 1862?"

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. W. N. Thomas sends in this letter from her son, French, who is now in Great Britain.

December 10, 1943 11 a. m.

Dear Mother and all:

Just a few lines this morning to say I am O. K. I have not heard from you for a few days but hope all of you are well.

I had a birthday card from Mildred yesterday; also a letter from Roscoe. He is still working in the shipyard and said he was getting along fine. He did not pass the army examination.

I was on a nice trip yesterday. Went to see Shakespeare's home at Stratford-on-Avon. We had a very nice time. We saw Mary Arden's home, Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, the church he went to, Ann Hathaway Cottage, Warwick Castle and a lot of other very interesting things. They had a reception at one of these towns yesterday. The Mayor and Mayoress and a few other civilians, met us and took us to a restaurant and we had beer and a very good lunch. They sure did treat us nice. Then they did the same thing at this other town at supper. We had a very enjoyable day.

It sure is damp and cold over here. The most of us have taken colds and suppose we will have them until summer.

Suppose you have had snow by now. We have not had any here yet. Mildred said Robbie was in Africa, was in hopes he would be here somewhere and I could look him up.

Love to all, French.
Mrs. French Thomas received the following letter from the Mayoress of Warwick concerning her husband:

The Mayor's Parlor, Warwick.

Dear Mrs. Thomas:

Last week we had the pleasure of entertaining a contingent of the United States Army. They were a fine body of men and were all most appreciative of being shown round the Castle and other historic buildings of our ancient town. At lunch I had the honor of addressing a contingent of the United States Army in Warwick to all of you who are left at home.

Mr. Greenbank is drawing away I should think a card from you to your family. I am sure you will be able to thank the boys out of us.

seen your husband, and that he was well and enjoying his visit. He was one of our guests and I told him that I would write and wish you a happy Christmas too, knowing that your husband will be looked after as well as possible.

That the day may soon be here when you will be reunited is the sincere wish of

A. Olivia Ansell,
Mayoress 1941-44.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper Anderson received the following letter from their son, Corporal Cecil Anderson, who is overseas:

December 12, 1943.

Dear Mom and Dad:

I received two packages and it got here all right with the cap and shoes and belt. Thanks for sending it. Tell Dick I got the candy and the boys said tell him it sure was good and they also said the home made candy was good. We always divide what we get like that and I also got the picture of the sweet little girl. She looks for the world like her daddy and she looks plenty smart but I could not tell about her size. I imagine she is bigger than she looks.

Well, I hope Dick does not have to leave you and I am glad he is working at the tannery again. Do not worry about me for I am making it fine. Take care of Delores and you all take care of yourselves and write me.

Love, Chub.

Mrs. Eva M. Moore, of Stony Bottom, sends in the following letter from her son, Pl. Sergeant Delbert D. Moore, serving somewhere in New Guinea:

Dearest Mother:

Will drop you a line to let you know that I am O. K. and getting along fine.

Mother, Floyd and I are at the same place. I went down to see him last night. It was the first time I had seen him but I knew he was here two or three days ago. Boys, that is pretty lucky us both being on the same place, isn't it? But it is hard to tell how long we will be together.

Floyd sure is looking good. I bet he weighs 135 or 140 pounds. The army life must agree with him. Floyd was showing me some pictures of Jack and Bill and they looked like they were as big as I am. Now I bet he bet the whole lot of them will be able to thank the boys out of us.

Well, mother, it is time for me to go to work, so I will close for this time. Tell everybody hello for me and I will write you a longer letter later on.

With all my love, Deb.

The Greenbank Farm Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. Virginia Hendrickson. There were five members and five visitors present. Mrs. R. O. Crowley led the devotion—the topic—working together for a greater cause. A very interesting program on Our War Time Responsibilities was presented by Mrs. Tilden Brown. Our Army and Navy Boys

The public relations department of the Fifth Air Force, operating in the Pacific area, sends the following about the record of Major Zed S. Smith III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zed S. Smith, Jr., of Marlinton.

Among the many pilots of the Fifth Air Force who struck at New Britain in the recent invasion was Major Zed S. Smith of Marlinton. Flying a B-24 "The Liberator" he played a prominent part in the severe bombing raid to land targets prior to the strike by ground forces.

In the past eight months Major Smith has covered many thousands of miles, and on one mission of 5700 miles sixteen hours in duration, to Balikpapan, Borneo, established the record for the longest combat mission of the war. To date with his crew, he has bombed enemy bases from Rabaul to Soeraja, for a total of 50,000 miles.

In a skip bombing attack some months ago at Macassar, Major Smith sank a cruiser, and for his part in the aerial war in the Southwest Pacific theatre has been decorated with the air medal and the distinguished flying cross.

Enlisting in the army in March 1941, Major Smith, 23, received his flight training at Mather Field, California.

Mrs. Dennis Galford, of Marlinton has just received the good news that her husband has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant. Sergeant Dennis F. Galford is in the Air Corps, stationed at San Angelo, Texas.

Mrs. T. G. Alderman, of Huntington, received this letter from her son, Sgt. Glenn R. Spinks, of the Army Air Corps, serving overseas:

Some where in England,
Jan. 4, 1944.

My dearest Mother and All:

I received a V-mail letter from you today. I am always very happy to hear from you and the home folks.

This leaves me in good heart and getting along fine. I hope these few lines find you all the same.

I am still working at the same job and like it fine. Guess you have already received my letter, telling you I got the box of candy. It didn't last long, but we all enjoyed it very much.

All in one barrack share with one another, so no one is left out. We had a very nice Christmas, considering everything. Plenty of turkey for Xmas, and also New Year's day.

I went to a Scotch Families' New Year's party in town. Stayed over night and the next day. I had a swell time.

Do you hear from Warren often? I haven't heard for a long time now. I haven't heard from Nelson either for some time.

I received my first copy of The Times yesterday. I sure enjoyed reading it. I hope you soon I get the next one. I enjoyed reading the letters written by Hubert and Harold. If I could write interestingly, like others, I would not mind if you had it printed.

There is so little one can write about.

There's never a day passes that I don't think of you and the rest of the family. I am only hoping by another Christmas we can all be together.

I had a letter from Norman a few days ago. He was getting along O. K.

Well Mother, since I don't know of anything to write, I will say good night and best wishes to you all. With love Glenn.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Raymond Cochran, of Beard, from her son, Walter:

Australia, Dec. 25, 1943.

Dear Mom and All:

A year ago, at this time I was with you, but I hope my being absent didn't keep you all from having a nice and cheerful Christmas. I've been lucky, this was the first one in my life. I have spent away from home. There are boys here, who have been over seas two years, and some of them had been in the army before that. These are the boys who need sympathy. We were given the afternoon off. We had a real good dinner prepared for us. We had chicken, although it could have been better, it was still chicken. They gave us a menu of the meal. They haven't told us yet whether or not, we could mail it home. We couldn't mail the one given us Thanksgiving.

The dining room was highly decorated, and a loud speaker hooked up, so we could hear the Christmas music. It seemed funny to hear "Jingle Bells" - The part where it says: "Oh, what fun it is to ride in a one horse open sleigh" - then to reach up and wipe the sweat out of your eyes. I don't see why these Aussies bother to sing those songs.

I listened to a broadcast from the States in the afternoon, that was really good. It was a special "Command Performance" from California, for the men and women overseas. It lasted about an hour.

I got yours and Delphia's cards yesterday; also, a letter from Delphia. It had been several days since I had heard from any of you. Maybe the mail will be more regular now, that Christmas is over.

I had my hopes all built up for nothing - by Clarence being put in I. A. Anyway, that made me very happy, of course. It certainly was a pleasant thought to have over Christmas. I went to church this evening and the Chaplain based his sermon on the condition of the world and what the day meant to men in uniform. This was a worth while message and well delivered. I suppose that is why an army chaplain is more at home with soldiers than a civilian minister. We live in a world entirely apart from the rest of the world, and he can preach accordingly. The recreation hall was decorated from floor, to ceiling. They had to hold services in it, since the chapel was too small for all the men. I wish you could have heard that crowd sounding off on all the Christmas songs. We didn't have the snow and the home family, and all the things so important to a person at this time of year, yet during the hour that gang certainly had the Christmas spirit.

The organization gave all of us a tea shirt and a bill fold today. Sure was nice of them.

Sunday Afternoon.

I didn't get this finished last night so will work on it again. I got another paper today, that was a lot older than the other ones. This one was dated October 29th. The package Delphia said had been sent, has not arrived yet. It may get here yet as some come in every day.

I don't imagine Clarence would be able to find the camera; if I could get some film, I think I could borrow one. Several boys have six twenty box cameras. In some places back there, film is sold on certain days of the week. It is almost impossible to get any here.

I sure could go for some of that fresh meat. We have a very good variety. I suppose we've had enough liver and heart to last me the rest of my life. Sometimes, I think these Australian cattle are made of heart and liver. I've lost fifteen pounds in the last two months. I think it was caused by the heat. Nearly everybody has lost weight. I was glad I wasn't so fat, after the weather got so hot. One hundred and sixty is enough any way. I ate a lot of ice cream and drank milk, when we first came here, but now we can hardly get either one.

Right now, they don't even have soft drinks at the P. X. due to the water shortage. So long as we can get water to drink, I don't care much. I was tired of this Aussie pop anyway. I expect most things like that is almost as scarce back there.

I was in town on Dec. 23, and you would never have known, it was so near Christmas. Back home at this time, you wouldn't have been able to walk.

I imagine the kids had quite a time while they were off during the holidays.

I may not be able to write to the rest for awhile as I have several to write to, that sent me presents and cards.

I am sending this week's camp paper. It was especially printed so we could send it home. There isn't much in it.

Give my regards to all.

Your son, Walter.

Durbin—Under the leadership of their principal Max Povey, of the Durbin Graded school set out to sell fifteen thousand dollars worth of War Bonds, series E. If this is done, the name of the Durbin school will go on the wing of a fighting plane. On February 1, they asked a few thousand dollars of going over the top, and with two weeks more to go it looks like the children are going to make it.

Soldier John Townsend, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Barlow Townsend, heard what his old home town school was doing to back the attack, so he wrote to his mother to buy a thousand dollar bond out of the money he had been saving up from his Army pay for an education after the war is over and he is back home again. Soldier John said this would not only help the school but his country and the freedom for which he is fighting.

This is what I call real post-war planning.

Friend Charles Washburn of Lost Creek, Harrison county, sends me one of his "Rural Rambles" as follows about a rare visitor:

In West Virginia the meeting place between east and west, north and south! It would seem. For R. C. Helmick, retired business man of West Milford, has just seen what appears to be an arctic three-toed woodpecker feeding at his bird cafeteria.

No other of the 64 forms of woodpeckers found in the United States and Canada answers the description of this visitor. Slightly larger than a downy, solid black from the top of its head to the tip of its longer tail, this fits the arctic three-toed description exactly. This bird normally ranges from the northern tier of states to central Alaska. Its closest habitat is New York state.

Most woodpeckers have four toes, but a few streamlined types have only three, the arctic among them. And most woodpeckers are more or less barred. So this looks like a find, and places the arctic far south of its known range.

A few years ago, I saw a flock of red polls feeding under a tulip poplar below the woods and just outside my lawn fence. Yet the red poll is not supposed to venture south of the Canadian border. They, like the arctic three-toed woodpecker, had probably drifted south along the mountains in search of food; and were now—the time being April—on the way home.

Mr. Helmick is that rare avian, a close observer. It was he, who first called my attention to the presence of the mocking bird in this vicinity. From a long residence in the south, he became familiar with this wonderful songster; and when he saw several among the trees on his grounds was promptly able to identify them.

I tell you folks, there are more queer things in bird, plant, and animal life sticking around among these West Virginia hills than we can fully realize. Just keep your eyes and ears open, like Mr. Helmick and you will hear and see such oddities as would page Mr. Ripley.

Editor's Note—Only once have I seen the three-toed arctic woodpecker. A dozen or so years ago about this time of year, I happened to see a strange looking woodpecker. It was pecking on a marrow bone near the Marlinton bridge. I immediately looked up the late Dr. Hunter Kee, who was a considerable of a bird expert. With the help of a field glass and a bird book the identification was positive. As I recall we went within a few yards of the little stranger; and he paid us no mind at all.

On Wednesday, February 2, just at 1 o'clock, H. L. Kincaid saw a small red parachute come drifting down to the ground near his home on [Douthards Creek. Investigation proved it to be a "weather" balloon, sent up by the Huntington Weather Station just three hours previously. Mr. Kincaid immediately brought the balloon and instruments to Marlinton to be mailed back as per instructions. The place the balloon landed was about twelve miles southeast of Marlinton; about a hundred and fifty miles air line east of Huntington.

A person with a conscience is a rarity today. In this vain and deluded world so turned from God away To walk adversely in His sight Contrary to the gospel light Defying his destructive might They boldly disobey.

Some persons with a conscience Are so unpopular They are sent to prison camps

When nations go to war And there with criminals confused And put to work and made to mind

By others who are gospel blind And do men's rights ignore.

Christ Jesus had a conscience When Peter drew his sword And struck that servant that they met

Contrary to God's word. And later when he could have had Twelve legions of angels by His side

He let His conscience lead and guide And trusted in the Lord.

A clear and universal conscience, Today is very rare We see the very opposite Prevailing everywhere

The conscientious sigh and cry At what they see with their own eye

But can no remedy apply So they just grin and bear.

Go now and get your Bible Read second Timothy There are four chapters in this book

So notice chapter three We are right now in the last days Behold the actions and the ways

Of those who give to God no praise But fall for every passing craze

Of immortality.

Mary Moyer Barkley aged over 85 years, widow of the late Calvin Barkley, died December 24, 1943; at the home of her son on Browns Creek. On Sunday afternoon her body was laid to rest in the Dille cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. J. W. Pugh.

Mrs. Barkley was a native of Pendleton county. Forty-five years of her life was spent in Pocahontas county. She is survived by three sons and two daughters, William, of Massillon, Ohio; Claude, of Elkins; Lee of Dunmore; Maude Spencer, of Bartow and Sadie Simmons of Pennsylvania. Two sons preceded her several years ago. Also surviving are two sisters, one brother, thirty-one grandchildren, thirty-five great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Mrs. Barkley had been a devout Christian woman and will be missed in her community.

I cannot say and I will not say That she is dead, she's just away With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,

She has wandered into an unknown land Think of her still as she same I say,

She is not dead, she is just away. J. W. P.

Mrs. Hugh Hill was hostess to the Loblolly Farm Womens Club on January 28. Seventeen members answered roll call with some wartime responsibility. We also had one visitor and Mrs. LaRose.

Mrs. Nettie Kinnison was leader of the devotional and lesson. Our War Time Responsibility. On this timely topic Mrs. Kinnison had prepared an extremely interesting program. Mrs. LaRose discussed in detail the following subjects: Food waste, small fruits and neighborhood leaders.

She urged everyone to purchase garden seeds early. February 2nd was selected for an all day meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Cutlip for demonstration on the Clothing Construction Project. After adjournment, the hostess served delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. D. S. Ryder, Mrs. R. N. Williams, leader.

This is the time of year when most farmers are able to find a little free time. And here is a chance to convert that time into War Bonds.

The country needs more pulpwood—millions of cords to meet the increased munitions demands of this Year of Invasion. Pulpwood prices are now at their peak. You can increase your profits a third by investing in War Bonds and holding them till maturity.

Dear Stella and All:
I haven't received any mail for a week; sure hope I will get some tomorrow.
I haven't heard from Glen for a long time. Have you? Where is he?
I have been around a lot, in the last few weeks. I have been to Naples, and it is a nice town, what is left of it. Anyway, I like Italy better than north Africa.
Do you all ever hear from Forrest and Howard? They are in a better place than I am.
I got the pictures O. K. Thanks a million for them.
Did you have a big Christmas? I didn't have such a nice one, as I hardly knew it was Xmas here. Well I hope anyway; that I am at home next year.
Did the men kill any deer? Did Paul come down to hunt?
Well as I have several other letters to write, I will sign off. So please write real soon and tell everyone, hello!
Love to all,
Guy.
Mrs. Roy Cassel of Baltimore, received the following letter from her brother, Oliver, who is in the U. S. Army, stationed at Fort Hayes, Ohio:
January 28, 1944.
Fort Hayes,
Columbus, (18) Ohio.
Dear Bertie:
I received your letter yesterday and sure was glad to hear from you. I am glad you are all well. I hope Star gets O. K. Are you both working now, or is Roy all that is working? Tell John I said he was making good money to what I am making. Well the army suits a guy like me, just fine. I am just twice as mean as I used to be. They feed us so well, that I feel like a young mule.
Well, I received a letter from Mary Ethel the other day. She and she was coming to see you last Sunday.

The weather is nice down here. It is so warm. I have noticed the grass around the camp is green again. We haven't had a bit of snow here. Have had quite a bit of rain. I got a letter from home today, and Dad said there had been about 10 inches of snow up there, but it had about all melted off.
Cecil Gaylor was in, Grace and Woods saw him. He was O. K. He is in California now I guess. I received a letter from Norman. He is still in Mississippi. I received a letter from George. He is still at Camp Stewart, Georgia.
Well, good luck has come at last. My buddies have arrived from good old Pocahontas county to talk to now. The one I know the best is James McGraw. He married Alma Carpenter. We had a long talk last night. He is in the barracks right beside mine.
Well, as news is scarce I will close for this time. You still write. With good luck and with God willing, we shall win.
Write soon, Your brother,
Pvt. Oliver H. Tacy,
C. B. Fort Hayes,
Columbus, (18) Ohio.

Dear Mom and All:
I will drop you a letter to let you know I am well. How are you? Fine I hope. I am some where in Ireland. It rains every day. This is a nice country. I got sick one time. There is lots of water.
What is Dad working at now? It won't be long until Christmas. I hope you all have a Merry Xmas. I did not have time to get anything to send. If you send me a box any time, take this letter to the Post Master and tell him I want a box. It must not exceed 5 lbs. weight.
You can send me a cake any time.
I would like to see you all, and Doris and Clark. I hope they are well.
Don't worry, I will be all right. Is Calvin going to school? Tell him I will write him a letter soon. Well, I haven't any more news to write for this time. Hope to get a letter soon.
Good night, With love,

Dear Mother:
Will scratch a few lines now, that I have nothing else to do at present.
I had a very nice Xmas, and a good time New Years. Still I don't want to spend another Xmas in the Army.
I got the candy and cigarette case. Thanks a lot, and the candy was good, but it didn't last very long. The cigarette case was nice too. I'm glad you sent me something I could use.
Tell Ralph and Gaudie I said thanks for the cigarettes. How is Goldie by now? Fine, I hope. It really looked pretty here Xmas day, for the night before, it rained and sleeted and froze on the trees. Right now, it is raining and snowing. It will rain a while and then snow awhile. One thing here the snow doesn't lay on the ground but it gets muddy. I hope it rains this week, for we have a four day bivouac from Sunday to Friday. If it rains, I don't think we will have to go.
Oh! yes, thanks for the picture of you and Dad. It is good of both of you. I had a picture taken in town last night and had it mailed from there. It wasn't a very good picture of me, but was good of the other two fellows with me.
Well, your mean son was made Buck Sergeant, the 24th of Dec. A very good Xmas present.
I'm glad you like the present I sent you. I couldn't pay too much for it, when I was buying it for you and Dad.
I don't know how true this rumor is, but I heard they were going to give us furloughs again, starting about the middle of Feb. I hope it is true, but you never know until the last minute.
News is scarce so will close. Hoping this finds you all well.

Dear Cal:
I will drop you a few lines tonight, as I haven't anything else to do. I want to be sure that you get my new address, for I sure love the Times. I hope you keep it coming, it is almost like meeting somebody from Pocahontas County and having a nice talk with them. The rest of the boys got a big kick out of it; especially the field notes, and the letters from soldiers, which you publish weekly.
Do you have any snow there yet? I hope you get enough to catch a nice panther story from, anyway.
I suppose things around there are pretty dead now, that all the boys are in the army. I am planning on a furlough before long maybe I can tell you a few things that I have had to happen to me, that I don't dare write about.
I sure miss "Wibe" hot dogs, and the movies I used to enjoy there. I can go ice skating here. We sure can have fun; for the lakes are nice.
It has been over a year, since I left for the army. During this time I have been in several different states, but I'll take good old West Virginia hills anytime.

My Captain is from Wheeling, W. Va., so he knows something about the W. Va. hills. I suppose, well, I'll have to use, as it is bed time. So be sure and send The Times to my new address below.

WE BOUGHT EXTRA WAR BONDS 4TH WAR LOAN

Display your colors now!

DURING this 4th War Loan Drive you are again asked to do something extra to help smash the Axis. Your part is to invest in at least one extra hundred dollar Bond. But don't stop there if you can do more. For remember—no matter how many Bonds you buy—no matter what denominations they are—you get back on maturity $4 for every $3 you invest. And that's on the word of Uncle Sam, creator of the safest investment the world has ever known. So before you look into your wallet—LOOK INTO YOUR HEART. Your company, the place where you work, has been given a quota to meet in this 4th War Loan Drive. Do your part to help meet this quota. And remember, millions of America's fighters are waiting for your answer, your pledge that you are backing them to the limit.

Let's ALL BACK THE ATTACK!

This is an official U. S. Treasury advertisement—prepared under the auspices of Treasury Department and War Advertising Council.

"So can your boy be proud of you!"

"You've earned some sort of medal yourself, I'd say, for giving lots of us drivers safe warning. Good thing you kept harping on rationing. You said limited driving couldn't keep clearing out the rank acids always left from combustion; they'd linger and corrode the engine. But you said that plating, of course, wouldn't seem let metals corrode. And you convinced me, all right, about keeping my engine OIL-PLATED with your patented Conoco Nth oil. Now my OIL-PLATED engine is cooling me through, and I say good for you!... helping the home front! They all should know how Conoco Nth gives engines protective OIL-PLATING!"

The law of it is that Conoco Nth motor oil—engine oil—includes a certain amount of zinc. It's called "Zinc Plating" and it's what makes the engine cool down faster. It's the reason you can keep your engine running longer. It's the reason you can keep your engine running longer. It's the reason you can keep your engine running longer.

The following candidates will appear at the Circuit Court for Pocahontas County, on Saturday, January 20, 1944:

County Clerk: Moody Kincaid
D. Mary E. Moore
Legislators: Jesse McElroy D.
A. E. Cooper R.
Assessor: Dewey Burr D.

Judicial Committee: J. W. Mason R., Elizabeth Richardson R., Congressional Committee: Calvin W. Price D., J. S. G. 23

County Executive Committee: Greenbank: J. F. Ashford D., W. F. Groff R., Mrs. L. C. McCutcheon D.

Edray: J. P. McLaughlin D., Walter Shafer R., Kathleen Vaughn R.

Huntersville: Mrs. Margaret Harold D., S. S. Gibson R.
Little Levels: Harold Elmer R.

Board of Education
Huntersville: A. T. White
Greenbank: Jos. C. Woodall
Levels: Herbert G. Hill

Judge S. H. Sharp is a candidate for delegate at large to the Republican national convention.

Dewey Burr, of Huntersville, is a candidate for the office of Assessor of Pocahontas County. He is a good man, properly equipped in every way for this important office. He is a farmer and school teacher, and a veteran of the first World War. He offers the strong set kind of a line of deputies. In the field will be Fred Moomau, of Greenbank, and Joel P. Beard, of the Levels; in the office will be Miss Anna Lee Ervine, of Marlinton.

Judge Mark L. Jarrett is a candidate for re-election as Judge of our Circuit Court. He has fulfilled the best traditions of this high office. He is a man of deep learning, fine principles, unlimited energy, and the understanding heart, sometimes called judicial temperament.

Raymond J. Funkhouser, of Charles Town, who is shelling the woods for enough voters to make him the republican nominee for governor, was in Pocahontas last Wednesday. The way the republican party leaders looked into town to meet him was one surprise to me. He was smart like a fox in securing Captain Edward L. Blake, of the West Virginia News, as his campaign manager and publicity man. I consider the Captain tops. He sure attracted the party leaders here in Pocahontas County to Mr. Funkhouser.

In remembrance of Ethel Wilmer Beverage, who passed away on February 6, 1941.

A precious one from us has gone. A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled.

God in His wisdom has recalled The boon His love has given, And though the body slumbers here, The soul is safe in Heaven.

Her Children.

There Will Be Enough Fertilizer IF . . .

YOUR Southern States fertilizer plants will be able to manufacture enough fertilizer for all 1944 crop needs of farmers who purchased fertilizer last year, provided the fertilizer can be kept moving from the plants to Service Agencies and on to farms during the winter months. Here's how you can help:

1. PLACE YOUR ORDER NOW with your Southern States Cooperative Service Agency for delivery as soon as possible.
2. TAKE IMMEDIATE DELIVERY. Pile bags of fertilizer in the barn on a low platform made of two-by-fours and old lumber.
3. STORE FERTILIZER IN A DRY PLACE. A little dry placed over and around the bags will help keep the fertilizer dry and in good mechanical condition.

Our Army and Navy Boys

January 31, 1946

Dear Mr. Editor:
Just a line of greeting from a family if there ever was one. I usually read several magazines and found this poem that should be interesting to read and think about.

GOSSIP TOWN

Have you heard of Gossip Town, On the shore of Falschood Bay, Where old Dame Homer, with rustling gown, Is going the live long day?

It is not far to Gossip Town, For people who want to go, The idle tales will take you there, In just an hour or so.

The Thoughtless road is a popular route, And most folks start that way, But it's steep down grade, and if you don't look out, You will land in Falschood Bay.

You glide through the Valley of Vicious Folk, And into the tunnel of Hate, Then crossing the Add-To bridge, you walk.

Right into the city gate, The principal street is called, They say, And I've heard is the public well, And the breeze that blow from Falschood Bay.

Are laden with don't-you-tell, In the midst of the town is Tell-Tell Park, You're never quite safe while there, For it's owner is Madam Suspicious Remark.

Who lives on the street Don't Care, Just back of the park is Slander's Row, 'Twas there Godd Name died, Pierced by a dart from Jealousy's bow.

In the hands of Envious Pride, From Gossip Town peace long since fled, But Trouble, Grief and Woe, And Sorrow and Care will most insist.

If ever you chance to go, A Friend, Pvt. Bill Brenner, Company B, 348 Infantry, APO 450 Camp Livingston, La.

Staff Sergeant Carl Rosberg is spending a fifteen day furlough with his mother, Mrs. Lillian Johnson, at Boyer. Enlisting in the Army in April, 1941, he spent two years in Alaska and is now stationed in Camp Carson, Colorado.

RED NOTES

I heard a very reliable fisherman say, that he had caught a brook trout, about 15 inches long, and 10 inches high. My friend, John, who lives on the banks of the Kanawha River, and so far as I know, is the only one who has caught a brook trout in the Kanawha. He says he caught it on the banks of the Kanawha, near the mouth of the river. He says he caught it on the banks of the Kanawha, near the mouth of the river. He says he caught it on the banks of the Kanawha, near the mouth of the river.

Charleston—The trout season opens on Saturday, April 28, and extends through July 15. The season is June 24, through November 30. Pike season is June 24, to April 30.

Minimum length of brook trout is six inches; brown and rainbow trout seven inches; rock bass five inches; black bass nine inches; cutthroat ten inches. Great limits: Bass eight a day; brook trout fifteen a day; brown ten a day; rainbow ten a day. However, no more than 15 brook, brown and rainbow in one day.

Charleston—Do your brush burning before March 30. This is the advice given the public by the Conservation Commission in emphasizing an urgent need of keeping at a minimum forest fire hazards during the spring fire season between March 30 and May 30.

The Commission, at its recent meeting in Charleston, adopted a motion authorizing Executive Director Jack Shipman, to advise the public "through newspapers and placards" to do brush burning early. "Only in case of an emergency," it was set forth in the motion, would permits be issued during the spring fire season.

I hear that J. O. Kellison down Jacob way has cashed in on eighteen foxes and four wild cats since first of February. Fred Sharp has picked up ten foxes, hunting mostly on Saturdays.

Down on the Lee Flat Austin Duncan and Jack McNeill have asserted themselves. They have caught eight gray foxes, got two holed up, and know of only two more on the flat. They say the grouse on the flat are down to a bare half dozen, with rabbits about gone too. From Burr Valley, Ernest Burr says he has not got to going so strong on the foxes yet; his kill is less than a dozen so far.

Canning Sugar

Housewives who wish to can early fruit now may obtain five extra pounds of sugar by using sugar stamp No. 40, from book 4, OPA has announced. The stamp will remain valid for canning sugar through February 28, 1946. (correct) This action was designed primarily to provide sugar in the south where early fruit, such as strawberries, is about ready for canning.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Henry J. McKinley, Mortician and business man of Elkins, West Virginia, announces for State Senate in the 12th District.

He was defeated by Senator G. Belknap of Sutton, Braxton county two years ago, by slightly over 100 votes in a four way race. He has been asked by the democratic voters and his friends from every county in the 12th district to make the race again. He further states that he is making this race on his own merits and qualifications and a real democrat, striving for honest and progressive democracy, says that he is not affiliated with any factional group and if elected to this office he can represent the people of the 12th district with honor, dignity and fairness to all. —political adv.

Red Cross War Fund

The collection of the Red Cross War Fund begins this year on March first and it is hoped to be completed in four weeks. The asking from Pocahontas County is $5900, and this asking was accepted as our goal at a meeting of the Pocahontas County Red Cross Chapter held at Marlinton on last Friday afternoon. The asking for the whole nation is two hundred million dollars. Last year our goal was $3500, and it was over $3800.

This year, the Pocahontas County Chapter is $2400; the balance $3500 goes to American Red-Cross headquarters.

In the matter of service to the soldiers, the telegraph and telephone expenses amount to more than fifty dollars a month by the local chapter.

Through much free work and time of a number of patriotic citizens the budget is kept down to $200 a month.

This year Mrs. H. M. Widney is Chairman of the Pocahontas County Red Cross War Fund Campaign. She will also head the Greenbank District workers. Miss Anna Lee Ervine is district chairman for Edray and Huntersville; Miss Price McLaughlin for Little Levels District.

The American Red Cross always gives a reason for the need of whatever money the public is asked to contribute. Since the beginning of the War it has been found that the Red Cross has been spending at the rate of $20, on each man in the armed service.

This year, the number under arms is ten million men and women; this number will require service by the Red Cross costing two hundred million dollars you and I are given opportunity to contribute a part.

Pocahontas County has twelve hundred men and women in the armed service. These will cost the Red Cross $24,000 the next year; they say our proper share of this expense is $5,000.

It is going to take more than a gathering of chips and whitrocks to make up this War Fund. How about contributing an amount at least equal to one day's wage?

The Fourth War Bond Drive

(Written by Merl Gay)

O K Folks, we have the Fourth War Bond Drive, Uncle Sam wants some money, so that we may thrive. After the war is over and the soldiers come home, Then we can go to Europe and see old Rome. He wants to make each soldier a gun, So that they can put the Axis on the run, But if you are tight, and keep all your money, And the Axis come over here—you'll look funny. We will have to work, and a job we won't hunt, But every bond helps the boys on the front. Uncle Sam wants us to make a great sacrifice, For if the Japs win, we might have to eat rice. Every American knows the story, So lend Uncle Sam some money without any fuss, You will get it and interest back within ten years. Then you can spend it without any fears. This time buy an extra bond for Uncle Sam. We will show the Axis we don't give a damn. All the bonds we buy will surely rap, The living daylight out of the Japs. Uncle Sam only wants five million and a half, We can lend him that and then laugh. Because that much money will make the Axis crave, That six feet of earth—called a grave.

At a congregational meeting of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church held on Sunday morning six deacons were added to the board: J. E. H. mrick, Beecher Meadows, Frances McElwee, Layman Davis, Mack Brooks and John T. Bear.

THURSDAY, FEB. 17, 1944

R. B. Sneed, president of the Red and Gun Club, put some of the other organizations on the spot when he wanted to know why they haven't joined the fight to clean up Greenbrier river. He cited the fact that the Nuttall Rod and Gun Club, the White Oak Hunting and Fishing Club and the Talbot Sportsman's Association are the only outfits which have contributed money to carry on the legal battle.

And he paid his "respects" to Cal Price, the Marlinton newspaper editor who has fought for the tanneries which are alleged to have dumped the black waste matter into the river. Sneed pointed out that Price is a "big shot" in the Affiliated Sportsmen's outfit—and he got a rise out of a Mercer county, who professed ignorance about Price's viewpoint.

Sneed declared that Price has "broken faith with the sportsmen by his attitude." And Sneed was definitely right.

In reply to such idle vamping in the column of the paid professional agitator maintained by the Beckley Post-Herald, I must, as a misanthropic creature of circumstances, exclaim, "twas ever thus from childhood's happy hour!" For instance, I am an ardent crusading dry, with a record of temperance business policy and practice, which costs me real money. Yet, I am in bad with the anti-alcohol league; the W. C. T. U. has not been around in years for my honorary membership dues.

Years ago the opposition paper got religion, and witnessed one powerful profession by promising not to renew certain liquor advertising after contract expiring dates. So moved was one of my good old dry subscribers that he just quit me cold to subscribe for the opposition sheet. I asked how come he would desert a veteran in the ranks of temperance for a new beginner who was not yet dry behind the ears! He rather flabbergasted me by quoting the text about more joy in the kingdom over one repenting sinner than many just persons who need no repentance. I could only weakly reply that while the text was indeed a heavenly one, he had made one hell of an application of it.

Broken faith with the sportsmen of West Virginia! Let my rod arm forget its cunning to lay a cast of flies just right around some water breaking, submerged boulder, to bring to life in morning light or evening shade the flashing gleam of orange and gold on the sides of a surging trout, if I prefer not fishing and hunting above my chief joy. However, I am temperate in my pleasure. If my hunting and fishing way takes food from the mouths, and clothes from the backs of little children, I will forego from this time on.

This feeling may be a hang-over from a far back. It may be that my folks a thousand years ago lived on the wrong side of the track, as the saying is, to suffer privation when the king and his barons took good farm lands and turned them into deer parks for their own selfish pleasure.

Now, history repeats. Over in the Flat Top Coal regions the streams are poisoned with the bitter sulphur drainage from the mines. The coal barons have come over on the Greenbrier drainage to erect their summer homes. They claim they cannot disport themselves on their bathing beaches because the waters may be at times a bit discolored from perfectly wholesome wash from tanning plants a hundred miles and more up stream. Away, with this war essential industry; away with payrolls which feed and clothe hundreds of families, and help support now prosperous communities of contented people. For our selfish pleasure regardless of its effect upon the fortunes of others, we will make the old stream a purely sporting proposition like it was back in Indian times. Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn.

Now, to make my position perfectly clear, I contend there is no pollution in tannery wash to endanger health nor kill fish. The State Health Commissioner's office bears this out. However, to prevent undue discoloration for some miles down stream during periods of low water, automatic ganges have been installed to regulate the flow according to the stage of water.

As for the courts, a perfectly good and well intentioned attorney found himself in a very embarrassing position some months back when his case was called up and he found himself without evidence to support charges so blithely made. Like a man, he asked that the case be dismissed at once of his client. For the sake of his feelings, I refrain from commenting on the matter at the time. Looks like now they are out to catch another lot of suckers, to mire themselves another lawyer.

The Post-Herald's kept agitator hopped to me some months ago for giving him a bum steer back in 1936, when I sent him to a favorite bass hole and camp site down Burpside way. His first count in the indictment was that I had indicted hardship on him by sending him nearly two miles off the hard road; second, the water looked black when he finally did get to the river. The crazy, butter fingered Ike; he forgot to remember the big industrial plant he was picking at had been down for six years back in 1936. Let us have peace.

It certainly is odd how tastes run wild. The story has come to me that when my friend, Cal Price (product of the virgin soil and timber region of Pocahontas County, normally thought of as one with a relish for potatoes and beans, etc.) went to John Buckley's town of Princeton, for a Kiwanis affair recently, he showed extreme unrest until they placed him with a trip on over to Bluefield for—of all things—a shrimp cocktail!

—Marlinton Journal.

Now, Dear Aubrey, if a shrimp is a lowly creature made to be taken advantage of and eaten up by his betters, what in the name of all creation is a shrimp for "chow" on the part of a perfect host, Dr. John C. Buckley proposed the shrimp feast. Now I can eat shrimp all right; they are nourishing little dickens. I can take them with my beans and taters, for they do slip down real smooth like. I can't say I have such a hankering for them. So, who am I to say John nay, when he is well set for a mess of crawl bottoms!

You know only half the story; the best part is the sea food place was just fresh out of shrimp. They recommended a jumble called a sea food plate. It was mostly fish and really fine.

These sniveling words are not to imply that I may have doubts whether shrimp might come under the unclean list according to Moses. I take my eating food rules from the New Dispensation, with good apostle Peter as my guide.

The book says the shrimp is a crustacean, relative of the lobster and crawfish. A shrimp is about two inches long, tapering, with an arched back, as if hump-backed. They are held in great esteem as an article of food. And I says, why should not an old dry land terrapin choke down a few shrimp just to be polite!

Talking about shrimp, years ago, I took a trip down to the settlement to attend the annual meeting of the International Fishermen Society. This is a high and heavy scientific outfit. I was much interested in a paper on fresh water shrimp as food for brook trout. Not only did the trout do well and grow fast on a shrimp diet, but it gave the fish wonderful coloring, both of scale and flesh. I sought interview with the scientist to ask whether he would recommend the introduction of fresh water shrimp into the trout streams of the Greenbrier Valley. He said not to be too rash; we all know what had happened when the English sparrow was turned loose in America and the European hare in Australia. Go easy and in years to come proper scientific investigation ...and that we would all see what we would see. I put the fresh water shrimp out of mind, and a full score of years passed. One day about 9:00 A. M., there was a call from the hotel. A gentleman was passing through. He had but a couple of hours, and he desired to be cleaned to a trout stream. What would I recommend. The man turned out to be a biologist of international fame. I took him to Stony Creek, dropped him off and came back to work. Along about nine o'clock that night the gentleman turned up—wet, muddy, hungry and well satisfied. He had enjoyed a perfect day. Never before, he said, had he seen such big trout for their age, nor ones so highly colored. He attributed it all to amazing number of fresh water shrimp to be found in the lime stone springs, which fed the stream. I had never thought of it before; those crawl bottoms with the brown bands on their backs are fresh water shrimp.

RURAL RAMBLES

With Charles Washburn
As a Farmer-Seer It

"Peace now!" is the cry and aim of a lot of muddle-heads who ought to but don't know any better. By rights, they should all be gathered up and put in the crazy house until the war is over.

For peace now, a negotiated peace, is what Hitler and Hirohito want. Such a peace would give them a great part of what they have stolen, and leave them unpunished to plan another war of rapine, famine and murder.

You can't have peace with a copperhead. The only way is to render it innocuous and keep it that way. To cry peace now is treason.

Now, don't misunderstand me. Like any other sensible man, I detest and abhor war. But now that the muddling of American and British so-called statesmen have got us into it, we want to see it through to the final finish. That means the overthrow of Germany and Japan, their occupation, and control of their ability to make war for at least a hundred years.

But mark my words! As soon as the Allies are victorious and the war is over, this same vicious element which asks for "Peace now!" will weep for the woes of the vanquished. They don't weep for the ravished girls and women and the cruel murder of the menfolk of Poland, Europe, China and the Philippines. No, indeed. But they will say that the people of Germany and Japan were innocent, were misled, and should not be punished for the crimes of their leaders. Rot!

As individuals most of the Germans are good citizens, most of the Japs are harmless and industrious. But as nations, the "kultur" of the German, the "civilization" of the Jap is a thin veneer. Underneath they are savages and should be treated as such, firmly and carefully. Children should not be allowed to play with fire, nor these two nations play with the implements of war. No, never again.

And further, as soon as this war is over, this same lunatic fringe of peace mongers will begin to cry for disarmament. They cannot comprehend that it is not the peaceful nations that should disarm. They cannot see that a strong, ready to fight, well-equipped army and navy is the best insurance against war.

In an imperfect and war like world, the one and only salvation, the only possible guarantee for peace for a peace loving nation is to be always and ever strongly prepared for war.

Have a Coca-Cola=Here's to old times

...or welcoming home a sailor son

These days there can be more real welcome in a snack shared in the kitchen than in any an old-time banquet. And with ice-cold Coca-Cola to add refreshment, you have all the makings at hand for a good time. As our men in camp and overseas so often tell, in all the world there's no more cordial invitation than these three familiar American words, Have a "Coke". At your icebox, the same as in P. X.'s around the globe, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—that becomes the global symbol of American hospitality.

MARLINTON COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you have Coca-Cola called "Coke".

POLITICS

Governor Neely is out for the democratic nomination for Congress up in the First District.

As expected, June McElwain is a candidate for reelection to the House of Delegates. I believe his election. He has been down there enough to know his way around and so to be of real use to the State and County he represents.

In the scramble for governor, the democrats have to pick from five—Clarence Meadows, of Beckley, late Attorney General; Rush Holt, late U. S. Senator; Robert Ramsey, late Congress, 1st District; Blackburn Watts, late Prosecuting Attorney of Kanawha County; Grover McPeck, of Paducah City. The contest seems to lie between Meadows and Holt.

With the republicans there are three for governor—Mayor Boone Dawson, of Charleston; R. J. Funkhouser, of Charles Town; W. M. Garrison, of Wayne. The contest is between Dawson and Funkhouser.

Grain Hoarding

Speaking of hoarding, reminds us of some of what we will be eating, and that depends somewhat on what we grow. The Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics of the USDA, Dr. Harold Stalling reported, that as a nation we need to develop our supply of grain and yellow vegetables. Fortunately, some of the most valuable vegetables from a nutritional point of view are among the most common and more easily grown. High on the list are: tomatoes, cabbage, chard, kale, and leaf greens. All these are easy to grow. Other good vegetables for nutrition are: lima beans, carrots, green lettuce, spinach and turnips, and of course, no list would be complete without soybeans. Potatoes, sweet potatoes, and sweet corn are excellent for energy, and other values, but they take a great deal of growing space. The experienced gardener doesn't plan to grow them unless he has a large garden.

Right in line with this suggestion, the County Extension Staff, together with the Farm Security Supervisors will conduct a series of garden planning schools throughout the county, starting Monday, February 28, and ending Friday, March 3. Following is a schedule for these schools and the time and places they will be held:

Monday, Feb. 28—Garden School Forum, County Agent's Office, 8:00 p. m.

Tuesday, Feb. 29—Mt. Lebanon School, 2:00 p. m.

Tuesday, Feb. 29—Bruffey's Creek School, 8:00 p. m.

Tuesday, Feb. 29—Droop Mt. School, 8:00 p. m.

Tuesday, Feb. 29—Slatsfork Grade School, 8:00 p. m.

Farm Loan Meeting

The annual Stockholders meeting of the Pocahontas County National Farm Loan Association at the Court House on last Saturday morning was well attended. The treasurer's report showed things in shipshape. However, few loans are being made and many loans are being paid. Among those speaking at the meeting, beside President Z. S. Smith, Jr. and Secretary R. P. Bell, were County Agent, Ben Morgan, Opie Lowe and Henry W. Beard.

The production of food for Liberty and cooperation among farmers for mutual advancement in particular and for general advancement, in general were the texts.

The Board of Directors are Z. S. Smith, Jr., Moffet McNeel, G. M. Sharp, Morgan Rader, and O. G. Arbogast. The president is Z. S. Smith, Jr., and the Secretary-treasurer is R. P. Bell.

Burned to Death

Henry N. Moore, aged 41 years was burned to death on Friday night, February 18, 1944, in the fire which consumed his house, on Jerico Road near Marlinton. This was a small house rented from John W. Moore. He was alone in the house, his wife having come to town. On Saturday afternoon Squire T. S. McKel held an inquest. The jury returned verdict that the deceased had come to death in a fire, which had consumed his house, the origin of which was unknown. The deceased is survived by his wife. They came here from Roanoke, Virginia, sometime last summer.

Charles E. Frye, of Hillbush, West Virginia, an electrical engineer, who has been on duty with the Army Air Forces, is now stationed at Fort Belvoir, Montana.

FIELD NOTES

Last week, Rev. S. B. Lepaley, late of Marlinton, was down at Atlanta, attending a big church meeting. He clipped out a field note from an Atlanta paper for me. It is about foxes mostly. West Virginia, it would appear, is no worse off than Georgia, when it comes to a plague of foxes. Hear their word of complaint:

The gray foxes are taking the country. It's getting to be a task to raise chickens and turkeys, the fur bearing predators are so plentiful.

There are two or three reasons for this, according to a veteran fur buyer. One is that the young men, who used to keep the hills trapped out, are gone to the Army. Another is that the breed of dogs in the hills has been sullied with feline in recent years. The dogs are not as smart on the trail as they used to be. The fox is smarter than the present day dog. Another is that the great federal game refuges, where trapping is by permit only, is giving haven to the animals.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to many relatives and friends of the bride and groom by Mrs. McLaughlin, assisted by Mrs. Beal and Mrs. Arlie Belcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson will reside in Marlinton.

DEDICATION WEEK OF CHURCHES

At the altars of 24 Methodist churches during the Week of Dedication, February 27 to March 5th, men, women and children will respond to call from their bishops and pastors for their dedication of "self, service and substance" to the service of God and man.

Million members will contribute to a sacrificial offering which will be used to continue and expand the denomination's ministry to members of the armed forces, displaced families in war torn areas. Foreign missionaries in 48 countries, the Pan-American Institute in Panama, and church extension activities at home and abroad also will receive support from the week of Dedication offering.

Marlinton Methodist church will observe Week of Dedication by special services Wednesday and Thursday, March first and second at 7:30 p. m. and Sunday March 5, a sacrificial offering will be received Sunday, March 5. Holy communion will be observed Thursday, March 2, at 7:30 p. m.

The membership visitation, a part of the Bishops Crusade for an abiding Peace, will be carried out, during the week of Dedication. We expect to contact every Methodist home in this visitation. Remember the dates, March first, second, and March the fifth.

WAR BONDS SALE

As of Saturday, February 19, the report for the sale of War Bonds in Pocahontas County showed we were over our quota of $76,400 for E Bonds by $21,000 of nearly 30 per cent. At that time, our county stood third in E Bond sales. A safe guess is that by the time all sales of E Bonds in Pocahontas are reported, the amount will reach $100,000.

The quota for all bonds for the County was $185,600. On last Saturday our total sales had topped $227,248.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gibson celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Friday, February 18, 1944, with a nice quiet day. On account of the bad weather and the scarcity of workers their children could not be with them but the day was enjoyed just the same. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gibson were reared in Virginia and forty years ago they came to West Virginia, where Mr. Gibson operated saw mill business until that was all finished. Since then he has farmed. There were ten children, seventeen grand-children and two great-grand-children.

Mrs. Marjorie Kanole, of Cleveland, Ohio, is visiting her parents Dr. and Mrs. L. C. McCutcheon.

Red Cross War Fund

The month of March is the time to raise two hundred million dollars of Red Cross War Fund.

Our Pocahontas County share is $5900. Of this amount $2400 is for use in Pocahontas and $3500 on the various war fronts. The Red Cross spends over a year for every service man. In other words our 1900 Pocahontas service people are now costing the American Red Cross $24,000 a year, and not one cent is begrudged either.

On next Tuesday night, February 29, the Big Red Cross War Fund drive will be started off with a most wonderful nation-wide broadcasting program. Tune in, and let your conscience guide your contribution.

FIRST IN THE HEART OF WASHINGTON

HERE were a lot of "firsts" attributed to Washington, but in the heart of this great patriot there was only one first: his country... our country. While we are fighting for what he founded, let's put personal ambitions behind us and make this country our first thought, too.

MARCH RED CROSS WAR FUND MONTH

A PROCLAMATION

By The President of The United States of America.

Whereas, the War has entered a decisive stage, requiring the fullest measure of individual sacrifice.

Whereas, The American National Red Cross is an auxiliary to the United States armed forces and, as such, is providing indispensable service to our troops throughout the world as well as to their families at home;

Whereas, these wartime activities including collection of life-saving blood for the wounded, recreation work in military hospitals, provision of aid to families of servicemen, shipment of food parcels to prisoners of war, production of surgical dressings, operation of overseas clubs and recreation centers, and recruitment of Army and Navy nurses; all combine to save countless lives, restore hope, and provide comfort for our fighting men;

Whereas, through its vast network of local chapters, this agency of our people simultaneously conducts an extensive program of training and community service, while continuing with traditional efficiency to lessen the distress of those overwhelmed by disaster, and

Whereas, this agency is wholly dependent upon individual support and personal participation and is issuing its 1944 appeal to the entire citizenship for a minimum War Fund of $200,000,000.

NOW, Therefore, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, and President of the American National Red Cross, do hereby designate the month beginning March 1, 1944 as "Red Cross Month" and earnestly beseech my fellow Americans to observe it by opening their hearts to this humanitarian appeal in order that we may keep the Red Cross at the side of our fighting men and their dependents in their hour of need.

The month of March is thus set aside to raise by popular contribution two hundred million dollars for the American Red Cross War Fund. It has been found out this organization spends an average of $20 a year on each member of the armed forces in the war. There are in round numbers ten million men and women now under arms.

Our share in Pocahontas county of this asking is placed at $5900. Of this amount, $3500 goes to headquarters; $2400 is retained here to meet the budget expenses of the Pocahontas County Chapter. The reason the budget can be kept down to $200 a month is due to the free volunteer labor on the part of patriotic people.

It has been suggested that the suggestion be made working people that during the month of March they contribute as much as one day's wages to the Red Cross War Fund.

Anyway, to raise the amount asked, $5900, is going to require the regular contributors to double their usual contribution and more. Remember, so many Red Cross contributors of former years are no longer with us—in armed forces or away at war. However if workers will contribute a day's wage and the rest double their usual subscription we will go over the top. It is hoped the publication of names of contributors can be started soon.

One Pocahontas County has not failed her country and her soldiers yet.

How long will the red and blue stamps be good in Book Four? The validity period of all red and blue stamps will be approximately 17-22 weeks.

Dear Cal:

In your issue of Feb. 17 you discuss the adverse criticism you have had about the tanneries of Marlinton. As I have told you I have a mile waterfront near mile post 5 (five miles from Ronover) to my knowledge not a single fish has been found dead in this stretch of water from tannery poisoning. However, for a good many years the growth of bass in this section has been very slow due to a lack of food from the runs flowing into Greenbrier. Your critics could do much more for good fishing, in my humble opinion, by encouraging the Conservation Commission to re-stock food instead of re-stocking bass each year. It seems rather foolish and inconsistent to operate a restocking program when the present supply is suffering with malnutrition.

Your friend,
J. Floyd Harrison,
Asst. Pres. Atty. Wayne W. Va.

Of course the birds of summer are expected back on Valentine day, to make up and repossess the land for a season. Just one week later, I allowed I heard a robin, I saw field sparrows, and the next day I saw plenty of robins. I thought I heard black birds.

Just let me line in here the statement I can no more trust my ears, when it comes to bird calls. All winter long I have heard the call of the bobwhite, the whistle of the red bird, the chirp of the robin, and the click of the black bird. I have traced all these calls to a panel of European starlings which have been feeding all winter long on food put out for birds. They have ever been great mimics, but it seems to me they imitate each year, particularly in quoting the call of the bobwhite.

While I cannot be positive, I have the idea the robins now in this town are our own particular birds, bred and born here. To prove it for sure, I am looking for a robin bird with a lot of white; also for a robin with a withered foot. The pied-back robin has been noticed for several years, on lower Camden, at the tannery, and around the court house. When he arrives, we know for sure our robins are back. I am always looking for robins with metal bands on their legs; especially in the migrating time of spring and fall. I will find one sometime, for a lot of people and more and more of them each year are banding birds.

Last year I did find a robin with a withered leg, and it kept turning up all summer. Along about the first of November I thought maybe I saw a flock of migrating robins stopping down in the yard for food. They were tame and let me get real close. Then a fine bird hopped upon the front porch, and I saw my crippled little friend of summer days. I figure this flock had gathered up to fly away down south. Our robins go to Tennessee and North Carolina. People have found out this by putting metal bands on the legs of trapped birds.

About the first of November, another flight of robins—hungry like wolves—dropped down to feed on berries of the honey suckle and American yew and withered, frosted apples. These birds were wild, with dirty plumage as if they had been raised in a coal mine country.

Still writing about robins, Oley Jackson tells me that robins have been at his place beyond the Airport much of the winter; roosting in the pine trees about his house. He has had a lot of blue birds about the place since early January.

This was one winter that brought the jay birds out of the woods to feed at the common board. There was usually a scattering of the smaller birds when a blue jay came bulging in. Even a cardinal would stand aside for a jay, in sort of armed neutrality attitude.

The other snowy Sunday afternoon, I was spying on the birds, when down plopped a jay. He greedily swallowed bread and grains, and then took up a crust to hide in some leaves under a mock orange bush. In a minute, a cardinal was down right there, and then up again, on a twig, with that crust in his bill. It looked like a bander to me, as the red bird held the crust down with one foot and broke it to pieces with his strong beak. The jay saw what was going on but he paid it no mind.

I heard distinctly the whistle of a cardinal one morning in early February. I tried it down with but mistake to a flock of mockingbirds. However, there were also a number of robins around. Then I heard for the first time in early spring the whistled song of the cardinal. This soft description, as far as I had known, is usually held up with early season to be understood to be the first of the season.

the world from what any bird does, though far enough away from the nest.

Few things indeed have I heard the whistled song of the cardinal. It is only of recent years that I have found their nests. Anyway the other whistling, winter morning I heard a rock cardinal low toing it in a bush hemlock beside the feeding place. Of all bird melody, I say this whistled song of the cardinal is the sweetest, even if it only carries a few yards at most.

Since the foregoing was written and in type, a neighbor in the Flatwoods does report the unusual call of the whippoorwill in February. His wife thought it most certainly a mocking bird, but my friend went out in the gray dawn and saw the whippoorwill sit away. The arrival of the whippoorwill in the Greenbrier Valley is the sign to plant corn, along with white oak leaves the size of a squirrel ear, and bloom of the dog wood.

Considerable tempest of the proverbial tea pot variety in Congress last week. To begin with, some time back the President asked for ten billions in new taxes to pay for the war. The idea was to pay as we go as far as we can; to pay war taxes out of war time profits; to keep down prices from inflated values; to play fair with the men who are actually fighting the war by not passing on to them to pay in peace time no more of the war debt than possible.

Congress pottfogged around, under the misguidance of birds largely responsible for the present headache of an income tax law. They passed a two billion dollar tax bill instead of the ten billion dollar one requested by the President, and the fifteen billion dollar one suggested by Mr. Willkie.

The President very properly exercised his constitutional power and vetoed the bill. In returning it, he told Congress a plenty. Among other things, he said the bill was not tax for the needy but relief for the greedy.

Because the President in returning the bill to Congress, did not assume an apologetic, not to say fawning, attitude, but spoke out in meeting, Congress went off in the air. Merits and demerits of the makeshift bill were not discussed—they said their honor had been questioned. Majority head man, Senator Barkley, of

"The pulpwood shortage affects every farmer" says War Food Administrator MARVIN JONES

Every farmer has a direct, personal interest in the shortage of pulpwood because so many pulpwood products such as cartons, wraps, liners, pads and bags, enter into the marketing of his own farm products.

"Uncle Sam's pulpwood needs of 14,000,000 cords in 1944 are keyed to the invasion of Hitler's conquered Europe. The War Food Administration is working with the War Production Board and the War Manpower Commission to increase the production of pulpwood and other forest products.

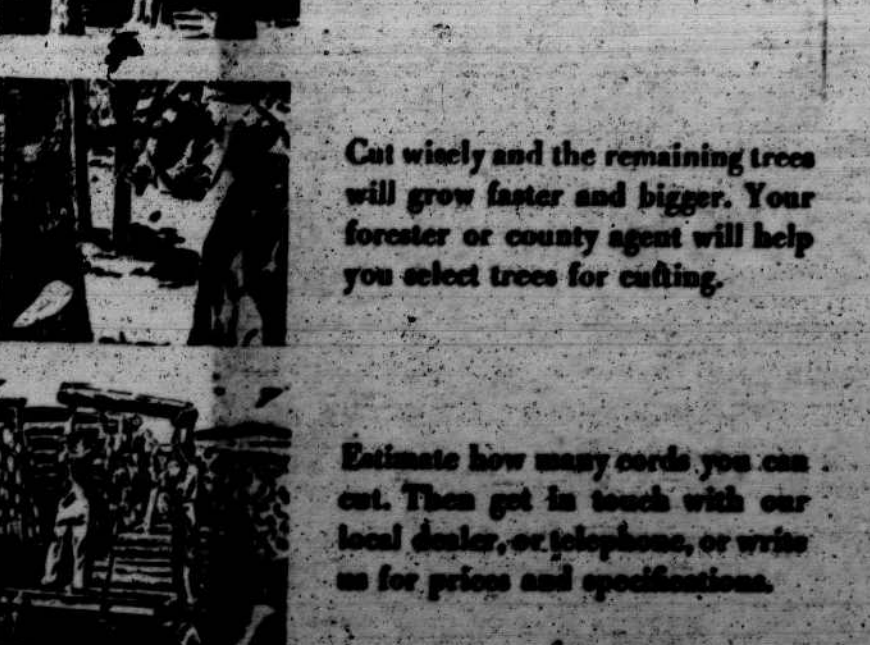

"If you have any time at all in which you could cut pulpwood, get in touch with your County War Board or County Agent."

By cutting pulpwood, a farmer—

- 1 Helps secure his own supply of containers.
- 2 Earns extra money (prices are at a peak).
- 3 Gets draft deferment credits.
- 4 Backs up our fighting forces.
- 5 Improves his timber stand—proper thinning is good business.

Now is the time to cut or thin your timber while prices are high and pulpwood is badly needed.

SOMEWHERE IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC

(Author unknown)
Somewhere in the north Atlantic,
where the sun is in a haze,
And each long day is followed by another slightly wiser.
Where the wind don't blow thick,
Or the shifting dawn don't make
And a white man dreams and wishes for the silver, grayer haze.

Somewhere in the north Atlantic,
where a woman is never seen,
Where the sky is never cloudy,
And the green is never green.
Where the birds with nightly squeaking, robe a man of themed sleep.
Where there isn't any whisky and the beer is in a heat.

Somewhere in the North Atlantic, where the nights were made for love
Where the moon is like a searchlight and the northern stars above

Sparkles like a diamond necklace on a balmy tropic night.
It's a shameless waste of beauty, where there's not a girl in sight.

Somewhere in the north Atlantic,
where the mail is always late,
Where a Christmas card in April is considered up to date;
Where we never have a pay day and we never have a cent.
But we do miss the money, cause we'd like to gamble every cent.

Somewhere in the north Atlantic, where the soldiers work and play

And a hundred different rumors
Spring from everything you say.
So take me back to my home land
let me hear the Mission Bell
For this God for taken outpost, is a substitute for hell.

And do our best in every way
To help each other bring the day
When we can shout with joy and may.

Oh Tokyo, Dear Tokyo—
We're 'borry please' to bomb you so.
But you requested it you know
So BOMBS AWAY! Look out below!

The price you used to pay for scrap
Was cheap enough for any Jap—
But you took Uncle for a sap.
So here's your scrap—right in your lap.

You thought you'd get it cheaper still
And right you were for that you will.

You'll get it free of charge until You let us know you've had your

Our bombing planes will fan your

Our bursting bombs will never

And MEAN IT when you're 'sorthis find you all, well and happy I happy, as mother, I am in "Italy"

Mother how is the weather up home! Plenty of snow I guess, you all, and did Arle and Vida come in for Xmas? Well Mother don't worry about me, as I will be all right. Well, I will close, so bye, bye, to all and answer real soon. Your son, June.

Dear Mr. Price:
How are things coming back there, these days? Fine, I hope.
I am getting along very well.
I have been receiving the Times

HE FOLKS

This poem was written by Miss Dorothy Shinaberry of near Huntersville, West Virginia.

A fellow sits and thinks of home
At this time of the year.
He often wonders why he left
And sometimes sheds a tear.

He listens closely to the songs
Of the moon and star
He tries so hard to figure out
Why he wandered quite so far.

He pictures his dear home, so far away.
The bright fire and his room.
The little things that mattered not
When he began to roam.

He then remembers his only girl.
The way she fixed her hair.
The little things she'd do or say
That started him to care.

All these things return to mind
And I see them all so plain
I know that I will never leave
When I get home again.

So with this verse I send my love
And many thoughts so kind
My greatest wish is that I could be
With you at home this time.

The Mt. Zion Farm Womans
Club met at the home of Mrs.
Odie Gay for the February meeting. Nine members were present and Mrs. LaRose who gave a very interesting talk on Marrial. The theme of the lesson was More Fruits from the Family Garden. The lesson was led by Hattie Bambrick and discussed by all. A demonstration was given by Mrs. Gay. The March meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Walter Hively. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Lillian Moore and daughter Frankie Sue and sister Mrs.
J. H. Lipscomb and son Nolan were home from Baltimore last week, visiting Mrs. Vaughan Fertig at Cloverlick.

TO THE VOTERS

There will be no general Registration this year; no house to house canvass or sitting of Registrars at each Precinct, as has been the custom every two years in the past. Under the new "Permanent Registration law of 1941," put into effect in 1942 and amended by the Legislature of 1943, voters already registered need not register again so long as they remain in the same Precinct and have not since Registration changed their name by marriage or otherwise.

Any voter who is not already registered may do so by appearing in person at the Office of the County Clerk any time until thirty days to the Primary election which is on April 8, 1944. After this date no one can register or change his or her registration in any manner for the Primary Election to be held on Tuesday, May the 9th, 1944.

Voters moving from one Precinct to another must secure a transfer, which can be done by appearing at the County Clerk's Office, in person, with their registration receipt or by filling up COMPLETELY the back or reverse side of their registration receipt and mailing same to the Clerk before April 8, 1944. It is necessary to put number or name of Precinct to which they have moved, otherwise the Clerk will be unable to transfer the registration cards to proper Precinct and should the records be placed in wrong Precinct they would be unable to vote.

Any voter moving from one County to another in this State must appear at the County Clerk's office of his new residence and register.

Any female voter who has since registering, changed her name shall appear at the Clerk's Office and re-register and old records must be canceled. This must be done before one can vote unless change of name is made within the thirty days preceding date of Primary Election in which case, one is entitled to vote under old name.

Any person desiring to Register or secure transfer must know name or number of his or her Precinct in order to secure proper Registration or Transfer and this information shall be furnished the Clerk by the voter at the time he appears to register or be transferred, thus saving an extra trip.

We have in this notice tried to inform the voters as fully as possible the procedure they must follow and may we request your cooperation.

Clerk Pocahontas County Court.

Have a Coca-Cola = Hallo, Bracie

When a Pole says Hallo, Bracie, he greets you as a brother. The Amerilieves in home or at home from his own family refrigerator. Everywhere the enjoyment of Coca-Cola is the pleasant expression of friendly comrad-

THE ELLIS MONUMENT

The Ellis Monument
of Elkins, W. Va., is now represented in this territory by the well known, experienced monument man,
GEORGE L. SMITH, with headquarters in Mar-lington, at the Clark Hotel.
He will be glad to be consulted about your monument needs. Letting in your name now. All information furnished free.

My Son and my Brother, they fight for me, they fight for you They keep moving high, the red white and blue.
They are going to sink Japan's Rising Sun.
Who is it? You say. Well those are my brothers, and he is my son.

They guard our homes, they guard our land; if they make a mistake, we'll understand They're not heroes, but carry their guns.
Yes, I'm proud of these boys, because they're my brothers and my son.

They will help win the War, they will fight to the end.
Though they may fall by an enemy gun.
They are my Brothers and Darling Son.

Mrs. Vaughan Fertig.

My Dearest Sir:
Tonight, will try and answer your letter, that I received today, and I was more than glad to hear from you. I am very well at present, and hope you and all the family are the same. I was glad you received my card, as it was made in great Britain. I suppose you are getting plenty of cold weather by now, it being January. I can tell you that I would love to see you and be there with you, since it has been more than two years, since I last saw you. But Helen, believe me, I haven't forgotten any of you, and just soon as the war is over, and I am free again,
I'm coming home and take a long stay with you. Could you please send me Lillian's address? I would love to write to her, but do not have her correct address, since she left for Maryland.

Are you still living at Clover Lick? Guess you had a big snow for Xmas! The boys over here, are always talking about a white Xmas at home. You know I can imagine by thinking about it how wonderful it would be to see all the trees covered with snow.

Well Sir, don't work too hard, and tell all hello, for me. Hoping to see you soon. Answer soon.
With all my love and God bless you all. Your brother, Neal.

Fort Benning, Ga.

Dearest Sister and All:
Just a few lines in answer to your nice letter, and I sure was glad to hear from you all and hope this finds you all in the best of health. Well Sir, I am getting along just fine, but it sure is lonesome here in this place they call Hospital. I hope they don't keep me in here much longer. Yes, Sir,
I would just give anything if you could be down here with me.
There are a lot of boys in here, some with broken backs, broken arms and legs.

Helen, I sure would like to get to some home in February on a furlough when my sisters come home from Baltimore, but I suppose I'll still be in here. Sir, I wrote you the other day to send me some smoking and I got them today and many thanks for them.
I got a letter from Dad today. I will send you my letter Neal

Important

Motorists! Be sure all of your gasoline coupons are endorsed immediately.

That was the advice this week of E. H. Wade, chairman of the Pocahontas County War Price and Rationing Board, who disclosed that the Office of Price Administration is planning a nation-wide spot check of motorists' coupon books during the week of March 6.

The enforcement campaign will be conducted by OPA investigators at filling stations, and is another move on the part of the OPA to break up the black market in gasoline.

"The gasoline black market has reached alarming proportions in recent weeks," Mr. Wade said.
"Diversion of gasoline to black market means that legitimate civilian drivers are being deprived of essential fuel."

The mileage rationing regulations require all motorists to endorse all coupons with the license number and State of registration of the car immediately upon receipt of coupons of the rationing board.

Help of filling stations and distributors has also been enlisted by the OPA in the anti-Black Market campaign. Distributors will screen out all unendorsed and otherwise improper coupons when exchanged by filling stations. In-turn, the amount of gallonage reserved by the unendorsed and improper coupons will be charged back to the filling stations, which will lose that amount from their inventories.

Because of this, Mr. Wade said, it is imperative that filling station operators and attendants require all coupons to be endorsed.

and infant son, Kenneth Roger.

All persons expecting to enter the Hospital as Maternity patients please mark with INDELI-TABLE INK, (not pencil) each and every piece of their regalia with their last name before coming to the Hospital. We will NOT be responsible for any articles not so labeled. This will not only prevent the loss of hard-to-get infant's wear, but will save endless time for the Nurses, and endless headaches for the Superintendent.

BOARD OF TRADE

The March meeting of the Pocahontas County Board of Trade will be held at the Marlinton Methodist church on next Thursday, March 16, at 8:20 o'clock.

Get your nominations in to Kerth Nottingham or Frank Johnson, or Harry Cochran, at once so they will have some idea how many plates to contract for.

The program will be something special. A speaker will be provided by the West Penn Service Company. The subject is post-war planning, and the discourse will be illustrated with plenty of slide pictures.

"The Message," the Camp Crowder paper, Camp Crowder, Missouri. Their home now is in North Hollywood, California.

Stirl Q. Terry, a trainee at the Ordnance Replacement Training Center, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, and formerly a resident of Marlinton, was recently honored by receiving an expert medal, the highest award given by the Army, in rifle marksmanship.

The Ordnance soldier is primarily trained as a technician. However, much emphasis is placed on rifle instruction. This training will prove extremely valuable in the field. On many occasions, the soldier's life may depend on his ability as a rifleman. Consequently, one third of the basic training period is spent in developing this skill.

Before the men are taken to the range for actual firing, they must spend some time in intensive preliminary instruction. Here they are taught the care and cleaning of the rifle, proper use of the sling, trigger, sights and other essential parts. They are put through a series of calisthenic drills to limber up the muscles that are used in assuming the various firing positions. After they have been drilled in all these details, they are sent to the range where, regardless of the weather conditions, they must fire for accuracy.

In many instances, this is the first time that the new soldier has ever fired a rifle. However, because of the complete training these men receive, the percentage of better than average scores is very high.

Private Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dixie Terry, living at Marlinton, West Virginia. He is the husband of Juanita Terry, also of Marlinton, and the father of three children: Bobbie Joe, 5; Chelverene, 3; and Stirl William, 2.

The family of Robert Shoemaker has been notified that he is missing in action during a bombing raid over Europe, in Bulgaria. Robert enlisted in the Air Corps of the Army, about eight years ago, at the age of 19 years. He was married, his wife residing in New York. His mother, Mrs. William Shoemaker, resides in Marlinton; also two brothers, Joe and Paul Shoemaker.

Corporal Wm. (Billy) McKelvey, stationed in New Jersey, is home on furlough this week. He visited his grandmother, Mrs. Albert Sharp, Tuesday.

Mrs. H. C. Varner has received word that her son, Dock, who is in England, is able to be out of the hospital where he was confined with throat trouble.

Lieutenant Fred W. Gibson, of Dalhart, Texas, and his brother, Stanley Gibson, Amarillo, Texas, were home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Gibson on Elk, last week.

P. F. C. Jesse L. Myers, was home on a seven day furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, of Boyer. He has returned to his station in Fort Bragg, N. C.

This young man has been in the Service one year March 30th. He has a brother serving in the Air Force somewhere in England.

Frank R. Gibson, Seaman, First Class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Gibson, is somewhere in the Pacific.

Foster Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dock Gibson, has his call to report for duty in the Navy on March 15th.

Billy Evans, who was employed at the Fish Hatchery before his recent induction into the Navy, has been assigned to the Marines, and is now stationed at Parris Island, South Carolina.

FIELD NOTES

A successful grower of good sheep in a part of the country usually overrun with bears, gave me his recipe for growing them right through overcoming the plague of internal parasites and the pest of bears, all in one dose. The recipe was handed down to him by his father, who also, was a successful grower of good sheep in a bear country. The mixture is 25 pounds of salt, 5 pounds of sulphur, 2 1/2 pounds of tobacco dust and a half pound of blue stone. This farmer has a record of eight years in which he has lost no sheep from bears, although a bear was killed in his pasture. Although in the same period of time his neighbors have lost sheep to bears almost every year, and one neighbor had 35 head taken.

The idea is that bears object to the smells of sulphur and maybe tobacco. That naturally brought up the question of the efficacy of a sulphur string put around a pasture field to keep bears away from sheep. The farmer said he had not tried that for his sheep apparently needed no more protection than the salt-sulphur dosing they were getting. However, last summer, the ground hogs got to eating too strong on his cucumber patch. He sulphured good and strong a stretch of binder twine, and strung it around the patch. The ground hogs then quit using on his cucumbers.

Mrs. Dan Beverage, who lives on the head of Stony Creek, has proved herself to be a successful tripper of foxes. So far this season, she has caught four—two reds and two grays. She baits with meat cracklins, and when she gets a fox to using at the bait she sets a bunch of traps. Three of the foxes were caught at the same place. Another fox got in her trap, but he was able to pull out.

E. H. Landis, of Stamping Creek, came in to tell me that a convey of thirteen ring-necked pheasants using about his place. Also, he recently saw a fine buck deer and a two-year old bear not far from his house.

Dan Carpenter works in the saw mill on Stamping Creek. On the side he does a bit of trapping for fur skins. Some days ago he located the faint markings of a well used fox path between his home and the mill. He strung a line of traps in this path. The other evening on his way home from work he went by to look his traps. He had the extra good luck to find two fine red foxes caught within less than a hundred yards of each other.

W. M. Perry was up from Reick one day last week. I inquired how well he was coming, harvesting his crop of fox for this season. He said he and a neighbor had taken nineteen foxes and one wild cat. The foxes were now down to about what his neighbor liked to save for seed; but there were still a few wild cats to be taken. In an area of not over three miles square, they had caught and killed fifteen gray foxes.

Twenty-eight hours on a stretch after a big red fox is the record of three hounds belonging to Lee Barkley, Frank Deputy, E. H. McLaughlin, up Browns Creek way. On Friday morning they started one powerful big red fox on Browns Mountain. Along a

The drive for $5000 Red Cross War Funds in Pocahontas County is off to a fair start. However, it is going to require some real sacrificial giving on the part of a lot of people to put it over. It is suggested that as many people as possible contribute as much as a day's wage. Remember, the Red Cross is spending on an average of $25 a year on each member of the armed forces.

Dr. Calvin Price,

Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear "Doc":

I see where you have been giving Aubrey Ferguson the dickens for razzing you about going to Bluefield; to eat some shrimps, and since Aubrey is going in the Navy soon, I feel obligated to jump on you. In the first place Aubrey is a nice boy and keeps his Bible always handy, and when he says an old-time mountaineer shouldn't go all the way to Bluefield to eat shrimps, he is talking my language. I'm ashamed of you, and if this story ever gets around I hate to think what the boys will say when they get to Morgantown next fall for the press meeting—I realize that shrimp is a relative of the lobster and the crawfish and that it has an arched back, but why, of all things, go to Bluefield to get some! I hear that you got back at Aubrey by quoting from the Scriptures, and that you said the great Moses didn't have shrimp on the unclean list, and that anyone who is a follower of the good Peter—Not being up on what these brethren had to say about eating habits I am willing to give you the benefit of the doubt, but I still believe if Aubrey took you to task about eating shrimp that he had good Bible reason, and therefore you are all wet—What gets us, though, is how anybody from the land of panthers, etc., would waste time on the lowly shrimp—I certainly hope, Doctor, you do something one of these days to erase this black spot from your otherwise spotless reputation.

WILLIUM.

Dear Willium:

For more than three score years my eating has been beyond reproach, judged from good old mountain standards.

I says bear meat is good for what ails you internally and bear grease on the head saves the hair; with ground hog as a fair substitute.

I have ever held to the succulent ramp as a delightful addition to and change from the regular daily staples of our crust as an anti-scorbutic.

To relieve the tedium of a regular diet of hog ham, hen eggs and salt fish, I have enlarged the list of my eatables to embrace the oyster and the clam.

At times in a sportive mood, I have even shut my eyes as to what was right and wrong regard less, to gulp down remains of the lobster and the crab.

Then there is mud turtle, with its seven kinds of meat, from fish to fowl, easily discernable by those of discriminating taste, snapper is always a welcome change from the stored things of the cellar when the thunder of spring wakes up this one of the seven sleepers from out his winter's bed down in the mud. The ancients held to the perfectly logical conclusion that whereas the turtle never was afflicted with such things as the pip but lived until he died of violence, his meat was good to tone up the system and to give good lasting quantities.

I have never got down low enough to eat dry land terrapin as yet. However a worldly friend of mine tells me he read in a fiction magazine piece recently, in which dry land terrapin was a main dish on the table of a mountain home the day the sheriff called. He ate it, and liked it, even after being told it was land turtle. I am not committing myself just yet on a mess of land turtle. I gets my information about that second hand. That there magazine has of recent weeks been banned from the mails because of too loose a pucker string in passing on things it prints. Naturally, I cannot trust my moral integrity to get first hand information by reading the piece. One cannot be too careful, my dear Willium. I am in bad with you and Aubrey, barely on probation as it were, after one mess of shrimp which I did not get. If it gets out that I have read Esquire, I am assured you and he and the rest of the scribes will proceed to cast me out of the company of all good men.

I accept as a fact that a diet of terrapin is inclined to add length of days and to develop studious disposition. So, I looked up in the book on the traits and characteristics, reputation and disposition of the shrimp. The authority said in effect, as high as I could make out, that he was quick on his feet, light, airy, and in constant travel sideways, backward, up and down, as well as forward; three speed gears each way; lives for the day and don't give a darn. So I take it, the hump backed little dickens is intended to be eaten as a herb, for to relieve the too serious and solemn effects of heavy diet like the seven distinct kinds of meat furnished by the mud turtle. I believe the old time expression had it, to get the humor out of the system.

Naturally, old dryland terrapins like you and Aubrey can be depended on to be agin sea food in general and shrimp in particular. However, now I do not know what about it with Aubrey joining up with the Navy, but then it has always been put down that the Baptist persuasion in the maritime part of the militant forces of righteousness.

However, why multiply words about such small piddles as the eating of the crawl bottom, especially to birds like you and Aubrey. You all who guzzle down your ramps with gusto only to choke on the shrimp.

In your letter of some weeks back, following my appearance at ox roast on Point Mountain you wrote to inquire how come I was able to connect with free food on public occasions over a good part of the great domain which is West Virginia and adjoining states. I had laid off to tell you in about one thousand words that I do not take personal credit for such talent. It is a natural gift which I have assiduously cultivated. In the pathetic words of the old saying, it requires no art to catch a sucker. Maybe this is applicable to shrimp too.

Rewards, Calvin.

Once again he went over the points of the article he had for sale, and when he had finished the old York sherman, turning to his son, said, enthusiastically: "Do you hear that, my lad? Well, that's the way I want you to sell our goods on the road."

"I wonder if Bill thinks he has been paying his taxes the 'easy way'?"
"Bill is too smart to be taken in by the tax arguments of the saloon crowd, he just drinks because he wants to, or maybe he can't help himself!"
"I saw in the paper that Uncle Sam spent only fifty seven cents to collect each hundred dollars of federal revenue last year."
"Yes, and for every dollar the saloon turns in to Uncle Sam, he collects three dollars from the public. That's what I call paying taxes the 'easy way'!"
"Could the Federal Government get along without the tax money collected from the public by the saloons?"
"Of course it could. Last year the ten percent rebate total Federal revenue came from liquor taxes."
"A lot of people know that the whole liquor tax argument is simply a smoke screen. The saloon crowd wants to keep legal the business of starting non-drinkers to drink, and getting moderate drinkers, like Bill, to drink more, and to satisfy the drunkard."
"That's about right. Let's give Bill a hand before he gets into trouble."

of every food store in the County will be open for a special sale of foodstuffs on March 12, 1944. The sale is a part of a nationwide campaign to mobilize price control regulations by helping retailers understand the necessary requirements, Mr. Wade said.

Approximately 10 price panel representatives and board clerks will participate in the campaign in Pocahontas county, under direction of Mrs. Libby Rexrode, county price clerk.

While OPA officials in Washington help us by providing national rules and regulations, they cannot actually make price control effective here in Pocahontas county without our help," Mr. Wade said. A strong compliance for community protection program, he added, "is the only way to protect us from the invasion of inflationary forces."

In the survey, a list of ten selected foods will be checked for selling and ceiling prices, Chairman Wade explained, in pointing out that board officials, retailers and consumers have long recognized the need for such a survey.

While calling on the retailers, the price panel representatives will:

1. Assist storekeepers by explaining price regulations, helping them with the display of necessary official store signs and price lists, including groceries, meats, and soaps.

2. Compare the retailer's selling prices on a selected list of foods with O. P. A. Ceilings.

Chairman Wade said that the local Board recognizes the need for enforcement action in some cases, but the primary job was one of helping retailers and consumers understand price regulations, and showing them that 100 per cent compliance with the regulations will result in a firm control of prices and living costs in this area.

Following the initial check of all stores, results will be tabulated and a second check will be made of stores where violations were discovered to determine whether storekeepers have corrected errors. Storekeepers found "out of line" on the re-check will be called before the price panel.

FARM CLUB MEETS

Mrs. D. S. Ryder was hostess to the Lohelle Farm Women's Club, Feb. 25. Seventeen members responded to the call.

We also had four visitors.

Mrs. Otto Klammann had charge of the devotional and lesson, "Fruitful lives" was the theme of our devotional and the lesson.

The most helpful point brought out in the lesson, was the importance of the Soy bean product in the diet. During the business session the Club donated five dollars to the Red Cross fund. Discussion was open for a first Aid class, which we hope to have sometime in May. Members were solicited to help with the Red Cross drive. The hostess served dainty refreshments, during the social hour. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. Andy Fritt, with Mrs. Frank Morrison leader.

MAYBE... future cars with Glareless Lighting

BUT... OIL-PLATING YOUR ENGINE is like outdoing the future—today

2,965,194 people bought the "Instant" cars—mostly 1941 models. Twenty-odd million cars are still older. All the probable new car orders—even if dated today—won't be quickly filled. Then what future car improvement is likely to mean more than the instant improvement of your present car's health?

The best you can do for it is to have available Conoco Nth motor oil. But get more than an oil change; adopt the major advancement of motor oil that oil-plate—by getting Conoco Nth oil for your indispensable oil change this Spring. Conoco Nth motor oil adds protective oil-plate to working parts by "oil-plate" effect. This comes from the special modern synthetic in patented

Conoco Nth motor oil... at regular price. OIL-PLATING defies engine acids. These "kiss" every engine; they're part of every explosion. They tend to corrode metals most where your engine's driven little—not heated throughout—often re-started after full cooling. Yet even for more favorable plating driving you'll want acid-resistant OIL-PLATING. Why not get it without waiting? Today! Simply change to New Millage Merchant's Conoco Nth oil for Spring. Rev. L. S. Shires, of Route 1, Cornington, Virginia, sends in this interesting letter from his nephew James Shires, who has been in North Ireland four months:

Dear Uncle L. S.:

I just spent several days in Belfast. I went in for one day but decided to stay and see more of the place.

I attended a concert of the Belfast Philharmonic Orchestra. They had a guest violinist of the B. B. C. Part of the program was for Chorus and Orchestra and the rest for Orchestra. The main selection was Beethoven's Concerto for Violin and Orchestra. Their next concert is on March 31, which I hope to attend.

I also visited the Belfast Museum and Art Gallery. They have many exhibits which were fine but most of the more valuable collections have been removed. They own one of the most valuable and complete collections of spinning wheels and accessories there is. Their paintings seem to be mostly the works of Sir John Lavery. Their botanical gardens have a collection of tropical plants which seem to be much better than that in Washington.

I was out around Queen's University, near Belfast Castle, and around the bombed sections of the city.

Love, James.

Our young friend, Taylor Town send, writes us as follows from Somewhere in England:

February 28, 1944

Dear Mr. Price:

Will write you these few lines to say "Old Timer" and fellow West Virginian to say hello and hope everything is fine with you. Well, I guess those good old West Virginia hills are covered with snow by now but I sure would like to see them right now. I cannot say much about this country, but it is all the way different from America, but believe me, from what I have seen there are some beautiful fine people here.

I met two boys from Marlinton on the journey over: Leland Weatherholt and Lloyd Alderman. Sure was good to see them.

Well I am nearly out of space and lest I forget, please send my paper to this address for it is always a "mad stampede" when my paper comes, and even sometimes I have to read it second or third, so just keep up those bear stories for us.

As ever, Johnnie.

P.F.C. Clarence Everett Carpenter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carpenter, of Cloverlick, stationed at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, left the following poem with us for publication when he was home on furlough recently:

A SOLDIER'S PRAYER

God, if by my hand a man should die,
And by his death a Mother cry,
And if his death takes a Father from a child,
I pray will you forgive!
I do not want to kill a man,
I want to help him if I can.

When on some far-dung battlefield

Will you forgive?
I should take another's life
I should take a life away;
God, in heaven, hear me I pray.

Will you forgive?
I should take another's life
I should take a life away;
God, in heaven, hear me I pray.

You know the pain that in my heart,
That pierces like a sudden dart
God, since you know just how I feel,

When I am called upon to kill,
My God in heaven I know You will forgive.
Just a lonely soldier somewhere in Italy,
May God Bless Our America is my motto forever—Ezra Waters.

Meadows for Party Unity

Clarence W. Meadows, 40-year old Beckley judge, is making a clean and vigorous campaign for the Democratic nomination as Governor. He visited Clarksville and the northern section of the state last week and formally opened his campaign Wednesday March 15, in a frank radio talk. Meadows, former attorney general, is telling voters forcefully that the Democratic party can wholeheartedly unite in his candidacy with harmony and accord. Judge Meadows says most emphatically that he in making his own campaign and consulted no individual or groups prior to announcing.

Democrats throughout the State are familiar with the fact that Clarence Meadows discussed with many leaders and the rank and file of the party four years ago the fact that he planned to run for governor then and at that time, he decided to wait until 1944—this year.

Meadows has an intimate knowledge of state government and when elected governor, will have first hand experience on all the problems which confront a chief executive of West Virginia. He was elected attorney general in 1938. This post, to which comes every problem of state government, was capably filled by the young Beckley judge. After being graduated in law in 1927, Meadows served four years in the West Virginia National Guard; was a member of the House of Delegates from Raleigh county in 1931-1933; served as prosecuting attorney from 1933 to 1936 and then became attorney general.

Judge Meadows has opened state headquarters in his home city of Beckley and plans between now and the primary on May 9th to visit every section of West Virginia. From party leaders and hundreds of individual voters Judge Meadows has assurance of support and was pleased with the cordial reception on his first visit of the campaign to this section of the state.

Mountain Spirit

March 1, 1944

Dear Mr. Price:
As you travel from Morgantown toward Cheat Lake, the road runs thru the hills. Suddenly, you round a bend, and there ahead of you, in the high, continuous stretch of the Chestnut Ridge, rising abruptly out of the hills and extending as far as the eye can see.

I have seen that ridge and those hills in many moods. In the enclosed sketch I have tried to catch a few of those moods.

Charles G. Baker,

Morgantown, W. Va.

SPIRIT OF THE MOUNTAINS

(By Chas. G. Baker)

The mountains stood in grand array,
As far as mortal eye could see,
Deep blue were they, as range on range
Their stately peaks spoke forth their might.

The green hills, forest clad, in all
The verdure nature gives so full,
In silent reverence bowed their heads
Before the power of their lords.

Late Autumn Came

The mountains stood in grand array,
As far as mortal eye could see;
Dull grey were they, as ridge on ridge,
Their misty summits whispered doubts.

The brown hills, now all stripped and bare,
With nature's skeletons standing bleak,
With silent hope reached toward their lords
To find some trace of faith again.

And Winter Came

The mountains stood in grand array,
As far as mortal eye could see;
Blue white were they, as snow-capped crests
Stood hard and grim against the sky.

Th bleak, white hills, still skeleton clad,
Wind swept and cold in winter's grip,
In shuddering fear looked toward their lords
To find some spark of life and warmth.

And then one day

The setting sun broke through the clouds,
One long, warm, golden ray pierced thru;
One mighty peak, above them all,
Caught full the glory of that beam.

The white clad hills, not hopeless now,
No longer shuddering in dull fear
In silent awe beheld their lord
With glory crowned their lord indeed.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

This week Senator Fred C. Allen is over in the Counties of Nicholas, Braxton and Webster, in the interest of his candidacy to succeed himself in the State Senate from this, the Twelfth District. The Senator represented the old Tenth District for a term of four years, and is now on the last year of a term from the new Twelfth District. He is Chairman of the all important and all powerful Committee on Finance. He should be given credit for a full share of the successful efforts of the financial committees to cut State taxes eleven million dollars; lopping that much off the proposed budget, without hurting efficient state government in the least. Mind you, that is eleven million for each year of a two year period. The choice of a man for chairman of the Senate's financial committee does not come about by chance; a Senator has to serve and prove his worth and ability.

In the eight years of his service Senator Allen did not miss a roll call; never failed to vote, never changed his vote nor explained it either. Being the first name called on a roll call, with him, it was a foretold eye or nay. He let it go as cast, regardless of how those who voted after him called their preference.

That is what I call a man.

As has been noted in these columns, this Greenbrier Valley is being scourged with a pest of gray foxes. If our own County of Pocahontas was the only area polluted with them, I would be blaming it on the four big boundaries set aside as game sanctuaries—Little River, on the head of the Greenbrier, Cranberry Glades, Seneca State Forest and Watoga State Park. Each of these areas are over ten thousand acres in extent. When you close an area to all hunting for the purpose of protecting game animals and birds, you just fix things right for predators to set up housekeeping.

State after state and county after county are reporting too many gray foxes. The Conservation Commission has increased the bounty to $3.50 to encourage hunting the varmints down. With the able bodied men off to the army and war plants, it does not leave enough to do the required hunting and trapping, though the bounty is good and for is high.

Cousin Gratz Slaven reports a walk over on his land, which backs into the Greenbrier near Greenbank. The snow showed the foxes had come down full force from Little Mountain the night before. He guessed there were upwards of forty of them. They were hunting in pairs—a small one and a big one. The little one would go into a ground hog hole to run a rabbit out, and the big one would catch the rabbit. He found the remains of seven rabbits the foxes had killed. Some of these rabbits were only partly eaten.

An old time way to keep foxes down to the irreducible minimum was by scattering poison. This was also hard on the desirable meat eaters like raccoons. However, the old trapper and hunters worked out a way to use the poison that was comparatively safe to all concerned, except foxes. A hunter would take his little rifle and shoot little birds. Each little bird would have a deadly dose of strychnine sifted into it. When he had a sufficient number of poisoned bait the hunter would start out in the snow to string a line through the mountains for ten to fifteen miles—a convenient day's walk. On fox trees a poisoned bird would be hung up. The first fox up to the smelling place would swallow down the poisoned bait. He would not go far. The next day the hunter would retrace his line, to gather up and skin his fur.

Years ago, it was the custom to poison the offal of deer killed in the woods. This was as bad for dogs as foxes and wild cats. However, this was the practice of still hunters who were dead set against hounds in the deer woods anyway. I always heard this practice was hard on raccoons. The other day I had some direct evidence on the case.

About forty years ago Gratz Slaven had a mind he wanted some venison. The season was getting a little late, and buck deer were no good to eat, so he went over on Lost Ridge and knocked down a couple of fine does. He hog dressed his deer in the woods. He sprinkled strychnine plentifully on the offal, as he had noticed some fox sign around. The weather set in bad with a lot of snow, and it was along toward spring before he got back to see what damage the poisoned bait had done. It had done a plenty. Besides four or five foxes, there were over thirty dead coons to be skinned out. One coon had died sitting up on top of the poisoned bait.

Dear Cal: In the issue of your paper, dated March 2, 1944, describing the unusual marking of robins, I wish to give a brief description of a robin here in Cass, that has a white head, dotted with black spots that extend half way down its neck. He is small in stature, unusually red breasted, with a white end of the tail, which can only be detected when in flight. This robin is tame and dwells near the Methodist church. On cold stormy days you will find him perched on the neighbor's yard fence, looking for his feed, which is not rationed. By the size of the bird and his bright plumage, I guess he is a '43 hatch. However, if he is lucky through the spring, summer and fall, I will be looking for his return next spring, and if located will report again on the white-headed robin in the spring of '45.

"Yuh mean thar's a WAR on!"

Not long ago, the papers carried a story of two heroic brothers who wandered into town and found to their great surprise that America was at war.

Probably the prices they had to pay for food and supplies gave them the first sharp, shocking realization that something was happening.

At least, in the unlikely event that their ears were closed to electricity, you can be sure that they never noticed the war in their electric bills!

Even though almost everything else costs more in war, the price of household electricity has stayed at the low pre-war level. Moreover, every war industry has had ample electric power, and all essential civilian needs have been satisfied.

We're proud of the big war job our industry has done—by careful planning, hard work, and good business management. We're proud to have a part in that job—and hope that you'll never know there's a war on by looking at your electric bill!

To the draft boards the nation owes a large debt of gratitude. Probably it will never get around to pay the debt. But that will be all right with the boards. By now, after more than three years of voluntary and in the main, thankless service, they are no doubt hardened to the idea that their reward must be the satisfaction of knowing that they have done their bit for the country in a critical time and done it well.

As a matter of fact, they are too busy to listen for applause. Through their 6,500 offices flows a whole generation of American manhood. In their hands is the responsibility of sorting millions of men fairly to the men and fairly to the country. They must consider the men one by one, for no two men are alike. There can be no herding of them into the armed forces. Each man must be judged separately for his fitness, physical, mental and moral, his family's economic status and the community's ability to spare him from civilian duties. The task, the greatest study and shifting of human life in our history, calls for days and nights of gratuitous devotion from tens of thousands of citizens.

While finding manpower for the Army and the Navy the boards must keep up the home front strength. They must understand a mountainous volume of regulations. They must keep the records—a staggering job in itself, as their clerks can testify. Continually, as military demands grow and reclassification is required, they must make decisions—those of the average board affect the lives and the future of 3,000 men, to say nothing of the well-being of the man's parents, wives and children. They must always be patient and lenient, making allowances for ignorance and carelessness.

They are doing the job, doing it conscientiously and in the American way of democratic good sense. They typify "democracy at work with its sleeves rolled up." The fact that the work is decentralized, that it is performed by neighbors of the young men on whom the country must call, helps to explain the success of the Selective Service System.

Democracy, the Totalitarianism, would break down under the strain and confusion of total war. The work of the draft board answers that.

MORE ABOUT SHRIMP

Dear Calvin:—I would like to refer you to let Corinthians 8, 13, wherefore, if any "Shrimp" makes my brother to offend, I will eat no more "Shrimp" while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend.

G. W. Slicer, Huntington, W. Va.

Dear Calvin: I have read in the Times and Journal papers about the eating of shrimp. Being as this is a land of liberty, justice and equality to all, and being as they are ganging up on you, and since Wyllyum, of the Clarkeburg Exponent has come in against you, I come to your defense. Don't we see the great John the Baptist going forth, eating locusts and wild honey.

Then there is the great St. Paul, the missionary, who traveled far and near and was no respecter of persons. So let me quote:

Whatsoever is sold in the shambles, that eat, asking no questions for conscience sake, for the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. If any of them that believe not bid you to a feast and ye be disposed to go; whatsoever is set before you, eat, asking no questions for conscience sake. End of quote.

So, Cal, just hold on, even if they do make you a little jittery. I myself am a country boy, too, and like swamp food from frog hams up to (I suspect) water buffalo.

Soldiers Write of Red Cross

Red Cross Chapter of Pocahontas County, Marlinton, W. Va.

William J. Knight has been in for over one year in North Africa, and he wrote that they were each given a Red Cross Kit when they were ready to sail, and he was the only one, so far as he knew, who received one from his home state and it came from Pocahontas County. He was very much pleased with his gift, and I, too, thank you. Sincerely yours, Mrs. John Knight

I received your gift at a time when there just wasn't anything like it available. Believe me, I was truly grateful. Your contribution in both time and money will always be appreciated deeply by all the men of the service.

Thank you once again, for renewed faith in the "home front." Any reminder of USA is a real morale builder. Sincerely, W. R. G. Green.

Dear Ladies: A little note of thanks for the useful bags we received from your chapter and I want you to know how much the boys appreciate the gift. Every article included was really useful and it must have taken a great deal of thought on your part in making the selection. So I say thanks again for myself and I'm sure I talk for many of the men. You are really doing something for the boys. Yours gratefully, Pvt. J. L. Korngut.

October 24, 1943. 7 P. M.

Greetings: I received a Red Cross bag from your chapter when I was on my way back from the front over seas. I really appreciated receiving this gift from you as it presented me with some things I hadn't had for quite a while. I don't know what to say more except I am glad to be once more in this great country of ours. I would appreciate very much, hearing from you once again. I wish you good luck in your great work.

Sincerely a thankful soldier, Harry D. Carpenter.

Clevis, N. M. February 4, 1944

To Pocahontas County Chapter: Just a few lines to thank you for the very nice bags that you people made up for us fellows in the service. I never received it until I was on my way back to the states. If every one thought as much as you people do of the boys in the service—well the mothers and fathers would have nothing to worry about their boys being away from home.

I myself belong to the "Pocahontas" in Wilmington, Delaware. We arrived back in the states in time to be home for Christmas.

The first thing I did was go to the Red Cross to see every one. It was sure a good thing to get back home. Once again, I wish to thank you for everything. A Lonely Boy in the Service.

Peeling Season

The Best Time to Cut Pulpwood

PEELED PULPWOOD brings a substantially higher price, and offers many other advantages to the producer. It is lighter and easier to handle and load because the sticks are smooth. You can haul your logs in fewer trips with a considerable saving in time, gasoline and rubber.

and sap are gone and the smooth, dry log is easily hauled.

Pulpwood producers should plan to cut and peel as much pulpwood as possible during the coming season when the bark peels freely.

Specifications

PEELED wood:

- Length 5 feet; diameter at least 4 inches at small end.
- Branches and knots to be trimmed close with body of stick. Ends sawn square.
- Remove all outer and inner bark.
- Do not include bark, crushed or decayed heavy sticks.
- Saw only living trees.

Peeled Wood Easier to Handle

While wood should be peeled as soon as cut, it can be sawed up any time that is convenient. Most cutters prefer to peel their trees where they fall and leave them there to dry. The tree loses up to half its weight when the bark

The following article about Lt. Major Alderman of the United States Army, is from a Caracas, Venezuela, paper. She is the daughter of Dock Alderman, of Mississippi. She lived in the family of Senator Fred Allen, and graduated from the Marlinton High School. Then she trained for a nurse in St. Francis Hospital in Charleston. The translation from Spanish to English was made by Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, of Hillsboro High School faculty.

Lt. Major Alderman of the North American Army is one of the thousands of women who are enlisting in the military ranks of the Democracy.

After the war? Certainly the greater part of us women who have assumed the places of the men in the army, in the office of Administration, in the factories and defense plants will return to our old jobs, becoming again, as before the war, the typical American women, well-dressed, well-groomed, clinging to our strictly feminine, personal appearance.

Thus spoke to me, Miss Major Alderman, a second lieutenant of the American Army, who has come to Caracas, for a few days. She is one of those innumerable women, who, with all the fervor of a free people which is anxiously desiring to defend its liberty, is contributing all her strength to the cause of Democracy. A woman lieutenant of the American Army, she wears proudly the bars of her rank on her olive grey uniform. Her cap is tilted with coquetry on her well-combed head; the hose that cover her well-formed legs are of finest Nylon, and her finger nails are long and well manicured.

Ten months ago, I entered the army, because I wished to contribute with all my strength to the struggle against the enemy. I am a graduate nurse, having completed my studies in the St. Nicholas Hospital of Louisville, in the State of Kentucky. In my rank as nurse I was assigned the task of supervising the physical welfare of the laborers in an armament plant, but I desired to do what I am doing: a strong and useful job, helping the "boys" who are sent to the battle front. And I now find myself at the head of a body of nurses stationed at Trinidad.

As Lt. Alderman tells me, the work for the nurses at the base of Trinidad is hard, but it is very well divided. Each group of nurses works six hours daily; this leaves them the remainder of the time for the rest which is necessary, taking into account the nature of the work, and also, for diversions. That is very important in a part of the world where the men are in the proportion of ten for each woman and the poor boys feel sad and depressed, there being for that reason a moral obligation on the part of all women to make them feel light-hearted and gay, and finally to conserve the morale that has made the North American Army one of the strongest in the world.

Lt. Alderman is in the company of two soldiers, like herself. The one, Major Santa Maria, of the Air Force, is a charming person of Spanish Ancestry, but one hundred percent North American. The other, Second Lieutenant Jaime A. Fonseca, of the Venezuelan military establishment. Lt. Fonseca has been taking out our two illustrious guests to show them the various Venezuelan military establishments. Both Major Santa Maria and Lt. Alderman are enchanted with the attentions they have received, with the climate of our country, and with the contribution that the countries of South America are giving to the military forces of our first cousins of the North. In spite of what Butler says...

...because I wished to contribute with all my strength to the struggle against the enemy. I am a graduate nurse, having completed my studies in the St. Nicholas Hospital of Louisville, in the State of Kentucky. In my rank as nurse I was assigned the task of supervising the physical welfare of the laborers in an armament plant, but I desired to do what I am doing: a strong and useful job, helping the "boys" who are sent to the battle front. And I now find myself at the head of a body of nurses stationed at Trinidad.

The following letter is from S. Sgt. Wm. C. McElwain, of Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md.

Dear Mr. Price:

Just a few lines to let you know I have changed my address. I was transferred the 26th of Feb. and I think I shall like B. D. S. fine. I believe I will only be here for three months or less. I have started to school, and it is tough, but I will make it or else.

I hope to get a furlough in a couple of months and maybe get back to Marlinton to see some of my old friends. There are not many left, for I have been in the service nearly five years. A lot has changed since I left. I would like to write you a long letter, but I have taken so many notes that I am getting pen shy. Also, behind on my letters. I guess Bobby Viers is the next on the list.

Please send my paper to the address below.

S. Sgt. Wm. C. McElwain, 121 St. Squad Sep. Bomb Disposal School, Aberdeen Prov. Ground, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Brice Caspell, of Cass, sends the following letter, from her son Delbert, who is serving in the South Pacific.

U. S. S. Pennsylvania, Feb. 25, 1944

Dear Mom, Dad and All:

Dating this letter, reminds me, that we are now in our shortest month, but short as it is, I'll try and make it noteworthy, by producing a letter. I have been thinking a lot about you folks back home; and maybe a little more than usual yesterday. The all-American Washington Birthday dinner, probably was the reminder. It was just like home, in the old days. Everything on the menu, from chicken soup and roast turkey, down through pumpkin pie and ice cream, which brought back memories of happy gatherings around the family table, and to top the memories, there was the hopeful and helpful slogan at the end of the printed menu: "One day nearer Victory. One day nearer Tokyo." The line that should follow was not printed; but you know as I do, that it is also, "One day nearer Home."

The other noteworthy events of the month, tells us that too. The U. S. Flag now flies over some conquered Japanese territory. And in other islands of the Pacific the Japs must be getting jittery, as they begin to feel the power, that we can throw at them. The Japs ought to be on the run soon. When they stop, that will be the signal for me really to run in the direction of home. Of course, all of us hope that we'll get a "break"—that circumstances will permit a leave for a good visit with you.

If it comes, I'll surely take it; but both you and I have to remember that the important thing, is to get the job done—the war won. Then we'll clear the decks for the biggest event, home for good.

In the meantime, while I'm away, I want you to know that everything is going smoothly for me. The only rough spot is the separation from you at home. Let's hope and pray, it won't be for long. Love to all,

Delbert.

MAYBE... Sliding Doors on safe cars tomorrow

BUT... OIL-PLATING YOUR ENGINE is like outdoing the future—today

"A bird in the hand" is worth a whole flock of 1950 cars with wings—or even more moderate 1945 models that aren't here yet either. Better grasp the big advertisement that's ready now... Better have your engine OIL-PLATED!

Conoco Nth motor oil, for your needed Spring change, at once brings your engine internal OIL-PLATING—the foe of cured engine acids. These unavoidable "leftovers" of combustion were a menace even when partly driven off by the steady heat of long trips. But rationing brought short jumps, with overcool operation that magnified acid attacks. It's high time now—in any car, under any conditions—to check rampant acids. And you'll succeed with Conoco Nth oil, containing an advanced synthetic. This acts "magnet-like"... makes metals attract and hold their acid-resistant shield of OIL-PLATING.

Though your engine's cool or hot—running or not—the OIL-PLATING doesn't all promptly drain down to the tank. And where there's OIL-PLATING, the acids that want to destroy are told to "Keep Off!" That's how Conoco Nth oil can advance your car's change to keep going. Change for Spring today at Your Nearest Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

MUNTZING

For Congress

HE SAYS...

"If it's fair to put a ceiling on products the farmer has to sell, then it's only right to set a floor below which the price of his products shouldn't fall. Give the farmer an outlet for his products and he won't need subsidies."

VOL. 42 NO. 10

MARLINTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 30, 1944

$2.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Des Smith reported to Lewisburg last Tuesday, to go from a Greenbrier draft board to the Navy.

Richard D. Leisher, formerly of Marlinton, graduated from Fort Worth, Texas, High School at mid-term, and is now in the Navy V 12. Richard is stationed at N. T. A. C., Arlington, Texas, where he will receive his 8 months college work before going to Naval Aviation Training Camp. His address is: R. D. Leisher, USNE, V 12, N. T. A. C. Box 222, Arlington, Texas. His father, Major D. L. Leisher is Executive Officer at the Quartermaster's Post, at Fort Worth, Texas.

Corporal Phyllis Sheets, of the WACs, Air Corps, stationed in California, was called home last week by the illness of her father, Mayor Carl Sheets. She made the trip by plane, to Roanoke, Virginia.

Loy Sharp, who recently finished his "boot" training at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, is now stationed at Shoemaker, California.

Four of the five young men of seventeen years, who went to Huntington last week for examination as aviation cadets are Ray Viles, George Schofield, Kyle Hannah and Merfit Galford.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel R. Neel, Jr., son of the Rev. S. R. Neel, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, and Mrs. Neel, has recently been commissioned a first lieutenant in the army and has gone to Harvard university for training as a chaplain. His wife and daughter will visit here for some time before returning to their home in Grand Rapids, Michigan. Lieut. Neel's brother, Robert Neel, is employed in the War department in Washington, D. C., spent the week end here.

Lieut. Neel lived in Marlinton during the time his father, Rev. S. R. Neel, was pastor of the Marlinton Methodist church.

Naval District

Great Lakes, Illinois: New recruits in the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Illinois, are two Pocahontas County, West Virginia men.

They are now receiving instructions in seamanship, military drill and naval procedure. Soon they will be given a series of aptitude tests, for determining whether they will be assigned to one of the Navy's service schools, or to immediate active duty at sea.

Upon completing their recruit training, these men will be home on a nine-day leave. They are: Darius L. Loudermilk, 32, husband of Mrs. Evelyn A. Loudermilk, of Greenbank; and Aubrey E. Ferguson, 26, husband of Mrs. Alma H. Ferguson, Marlinton.

Headquarters, European Theatre of Operations

"We're aching for a crack at the Nazis," is the universal comment among United States soldiers in on Infantry unit, going through intensive pre-invasion training in Great Britain.

Among the men in this Infantry unit is P.F.C. Fred R. Cole, of Greenbank, Pocahontas county, W. Va.

This Infantry unit, trained to razor edge for the liberation of Europe, has already qualified its men in use of Infantry weapons—rifle, machine gun, automatic rifle and mortar. Hand-to-hand combat, long marches, and constant "toughening up" exercises all form a part of the daily routine for these soldiers.

"The flyers, artillerymen, tank men and all others may get the glory, but we're the ones who'll go in and take the spots that are tough," say these "rough and ready" soldiers. And they're getting ready to do just that.

Greensboro, N. C., Pvt. Forrest C. Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Simmons, of Bartow, W. Va., has arrived at Basic Training, Center No. 10 of the AAF Training Command.

While attached to this station, Pvt. Simmons will take basic training in the AAF and undergo a course in physical conditioning. He is here as a pre-aviation cadet candidate.

He was formerly employed by the Pocahontas Tanning Co., of Durbin, W. Va. He attended Greenbank high school, where he was a member of the varsity club, graduating in 1942. Pvt. Simmons entered the Army June 19, 1942 at Fort Hayes, Ohio.

Mrs. Ruth Friel, of Marlinton, has received a telegram saying her son, Lloyd E. Friel has been slightly wounded in action in Los Negros Admiralty Group, on March 2nd. He has been in Australia and New Guinea since July 1943.

Mrs. E. B. Wooddell has received the good news that her son, Sergeant Porter L. Wooddell, is back in the United States. He has been in the Aleutian Islands and Alaska for two and a half years. Mr. and Mrs. Wooddell have two other sons in the Service and a daughter in the Waves. Elisha E. is in the Marines; Archie Gray is a sailor in the Navy.

Corporal Daniel Higgins was home last week from the Army with home folks. He is stationed at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas.

Lt. Oliver Ryder, of the Quartermaster's Department, stationed at Fort Dix, New Jersey, is home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ryder.

All applications must be filed for action of the Board at a regular meeting. No application will be processed between Board meetings.

CHIMNEY SMOKE

(By Jane Callison Ruckman, aged 9 years.)

I see the smoke from chimney tops
Curl upward to the sky,
So clear it hardly shows at all,
Upfloating far and high.
The swallows cut across its path
When they are flying by.

It is now Lt. Walter Jett, (j. g.), United States Navy. He has recently been promoted from ensign. He is down around Australia and New Guinea with the fleet.

Albert Kirkpatrick, quartermaster Second Class, of the United States Navy, on Shipboard, is on leave with his parents, Squire and Mrs. J. A. Kirkpatrick, at Casa. He has seen two years service.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason May have learned that their son, Corporal Mason May, Jr., who is serving in England, has been promoted to Sergeant.

HOW FREE MEN FIGHT

Ask any German or Jap. They'll tell you that free men are adaptable, courageous, invincible. Business and banking under the free-enterprise system are also unbeatable—responsive to America's needs, alert, progressive. Yet there are reformers who would "centralize" and "socialize" business and banking. You have seen how free men fight. You have seen how business and banking, serving in the free American way, have made our country great. What do you think is the best American way?

(GOOD LUCK)

...or sealing friendships in New Zealand

His own, says the New Zealander when he wants to "give you his heart wished." The American soldier says it another way. How a "Coke", says he, and in three words he has made a friend. It's a phrase that says Welcome, neighbor from Auckland to Albuquerque, from New Zealand to New Mexico. "Round the globe, Coca-Cola stands for the peace that refreshes," has become the high sign between friendly-minded people. So, of course, Coca-Cola belongs in your kitchen or home.

It Buys More!

A penny's worth of electricity is so much that many persons are wasteful of it. Although we are nearer to Victory, we still have to be saving of our productive resources. You can help by using only the electric service you need. Your savings may not seem to amount to much in themselves, but add them to the savings in millions of other homes, and the total will be a lot towards relieving the critical shortage in fuel, manpower and transportation. Use as much electricity as you need, but need what you use.

Soil and Water Conservation

For many years farmers and cattlemen in Pocahontas County, have been tilling and grazing their farm lands. During this period has been noted a very decided decrease in the quality and quantity of production, particularly with regard to pasture and pasture grasses. This is possibly more in evidence, as we see more and more broom-sedge creeping into our pasture areas. During the last few years with government assistance through various farm programs, this gradual deterioration has been somewhat checked, and on cropland, almost completely stopped. An additional opportunity to not only check the decline of our pasture and cropland, but to even improve it, is now being offered to farmers of Pocahontas County.

On Friday, April 14, at one-thirty in the Circuit Court Room of the Court House, a hearing is being held to hear just causes as to why Pocahontas County should be added to the Soil Conservation District.

Now existing Greenbrier Valley Soil and Water Conservation District. If the county is added to the District, farmers who are interested will be assisted in planning their farming activities to conserve the maximum soil and water resources on their farms; and at the same time produce a sufficient quantity of feed to adequately supply the needs of the livestock that can be pastured on their farms. This planning will include more practical use of lime and fertilizer, strip cropping, water impounding dams, reforestation, crop rotation, contour furrows, and any other practices that might seem desirable to go into a farm program.

In the District Program no one will be asked to participate unless he wants to do so, and if he does participate there will be nothing in his farm planning only those things that he himself agrees to.

The first step in getting up a District is a petition signed by at least twenty-five interested farmers. This petition was filed with the State Soil Conservation Commission about two months ago. The second step is a public hearing, as was noted above, which has been set for April 14. If the reaction at the hearing is favorable, the third step will be a referendum, at which each land owner who owns three or more acres will be permitted to vote for or against the District. If sixty or more percent of those farmers voting favor the District it will be set up. Following that, any farmer who desires to participate in the District program will then sit down with the farmer, go over his farm and farming plans, and work out a farming program that will give the farmer maximum returns, and at the same time bring about maximum conservation.

It is hoped that the farm folks of the county, and non-farm folks as well, who are interested will attend the hearing and express themselves as to whether a District should be set up. This District program is a farmer program, one that is controlled and planned by farmers themselves. It is not a government program, and it is not a federal program. It is a program that will benefit the farmer and the community in general.

On Friday night April 7, at 7:30, there will be a meeting at the Office of the County Agent, in Marlinton, for the consideration of the production of food. This is an important war proposition. Food production is going to meet with many difficult problems. Probably, the most difficult one will be farm labor. So the meeting on Friday night may well be termed a farm labor conference.

Cass—Mrs. Roy Cassell and son, Sten, have returned to Cass from Baltimore.

Why America's Future Looks Bright

Fifteen thousand banks, serving every nook and cranny of this great land — under the virile and proved free-enterprise system — provide good reason for faith in America's future. Banks are tied up with progress — with your success — in many ways. But in order to respond to local conditions flexibly and to serve their communities faithfully, banks must have continuing freedom of action in the post-war world. You serve your country and yourself when you help preserve the American Way of free, chartered banking.

Dear Mr. Price

The following poem was sent to Mrs. Hively of Arlington, Va. by a GI from the 3rd Division, Italy.

THE CRIPPLED DRAFTSMAN

"We are crippled draftsmen
Of World War Number Two
With disability discharged
And no work we can do.

"Victims of the draft boards
And doctors' overzeal,
We daily tramp the streets and roads—
Will we have to beg or steal?

"Some of us lost good jobs—
I lost a business too,
I had when I was drafted—
It's not our fault, we're through.

"I have been from factory to factory
But the answer is always the same
"We don't hire men past 40
Who are crippled or lame."

"Did I go to the Veterans' Bureau
And file a claim, you say?
I filed it many months ago
I'm still waiting patiently.

"So please pardon how I feel,
But I really think it's true,
Instead of so much NEW DEAL
We need a SQUARE DEAL, too!"

The following letter is from Sgt. Roscoe Reynolds, who is stationed at Anzio Beachhead, Italy:

Dear Calvin:

It has been a long time since I have written you, but that's not saying that I have forgotten you good folks back home.

I was planning on writing you from Sicily, and about the greatest invasion of history, I think, but neglected doing it. We certainly are proud of the equipment you folks are sending us.

With the radio informing us that the Third Division is official here ("enhancing our glory," I think it said), I guess the old rock of the Marne is getting a lion's share of newspaper space, back in the States.

While no one here could ever accuse the GI of being prima donna and God knows nobody here would ever say "enhancing glory" is any glamour job. We do like to read about ourselves, and the magazines for newspapers, which mentions the name of the Third, or includes a photo of a dirt-stained doggy wearing our square blue and white striped patch, it races through the outfit, like news of a victory. Speaking of newspaper pictures, we are easier to recognize now, that we wear the patch on both sides of our helmets as well as on the left shoulder.

The news that we are "officially" here (with the eyes of the world upon us) first reached us via radio and our Division News Sheet. Yes we have an Anzio newspaper—which is only one mimeographed sheet with no pin-up girls or comics, but it brings the outside world into places where it missed most. Even the Krauts had us on the air one night. According to a guy who hears the nightly show job, from the Nazi propaganda factory, that famous soft-voiced girl in Berlin, welcomed us to Anzio, and asked the boys how they liked it here. Well, she's getting her answer—mitt guns on. That girl on the radio has a strange fascination, throughout the entire Mediterranean area, she is affectionately known as the "Berlin bitch"—and her ears would be very red, if she could hear things guys on this side of the line say about her.

Did I say doughnuts? No, but I've been thinking about them all day. Probably the strangest secret weapon, buried away in a

BATTLE OF BLANDING

This is the Battle of Blanding, The battle of sand and of smoke; Of weather uncertain And feet that are hurting And men that are always broke.

This is the Battle of Blanding, So simulate while you may; You simulate loading And even exploding, So simulate, soldiers, today.

This is the Battle of Blanding, Of seventeen weeks of H; But think of the chaps Out fightin' the Japs And then—by golly!—it's swell.

Huntingdon, England.—To show their appreciation for the many good times they had enjoyed at the American Red Cross Club here, 50 GI's recently transferred to another post, drove 40 miles to attend the first anniversary of the club and to pay their respects to Lucy Houston, of Alexandria, Va., assistant director of the club, and Virginia Gardner, of Wheeling, W. Va., staff assistant.

The large audience of GI's and their British friends which filled to overflowing the comfortable lounge cheered enthusiastically as a sergeant, chairman of the program, concluded his speech with the words:

"A thousand thanks from a thousand Yanks to the American Red Cross."

Among the 50 GI's who arrived in two Army trucks from distant posts for the celebration were Cpl. William Sinkovitch, Butler, Pa.; Sgt. Morris Yeager, Shamokin, Pa.; Master Sgt. Bolshaw Jazier, Wilkes, Berre Pa.; Sgt. Charles Hafer, Reading, Pa.; Tech. Sgt. Leo Danilewicz, Edwardsville, Pa.; and Sergeant Leo Dilley, Marlinton, W. Va.

In the middle of a walled garden, the club is a lovely old house formerly the headquarters of the local Masonic lodge. It is next door to the house where Oliver Cromwell was born and down the street from the family home of Samuel Pepys. It has retained much of the atmosphere of a private home.

I just can't tell you how it has grown in a year," Miss Houston said. "The more space we get, the more we seem to need, but we try very hard to keep it like a home."

In order to make sure that the increase in space needed by the Red Cross is met with a commensurate increase in funds to keep this fine organization in tip-top shape to help our boys, be sure that you give more this year to your local chapter of Red Cross for the War Fund Drive.

Prisoner of War

I'm a prisoner of war
On a foreign shore
Where I fought for the red, white, and blue,
In my prison of stone,
I keep thinking of home
And I dream of the ones I love so true.

In my dungeon so bare
With the ground for my chair
How I long for the sunshine above,
Though my arm's in a sling
There's a song that I sing,
It's the song of the sweet land I love.

I'm a prisoner of war,
And my clothes are torn.
But my heart and my spirit are strong.
In my old duffle bag,
There's a piece of the flag,
And it cheers me and carries me along.

Every day that I'm here
Seems just like a year but Though I'm weary I'll never say die,
"Give me strength," is my prayer
So that I may be there
When the great birds of Freedom fill the sky.

Send them a ray of sunshine by giving to the Red Cross.

The following poem is from P. F. C. Kermit O. Foe, of Cass, who is stationed overseas, in Sicily:

TILL PEACE IS WON

Only yesterday, I was a little boy
With laughing eyes and face of joy.
Playing with a train of cars
And nibbling chocolate candy bars.

A little lad with golden head
And clothes of brightest blue and red.
Today I am a man and far away
I said good-bye in such a way,
you could not cry
But forced a smile and thought
God, what a war, it must be fought.

By boys who left as I have done,
to stay 'til earth's freedom
was won.
Lord keep me safe, I pray each day
Let Mom be brave and shed no tears
And have no fear, though I am young
I'm very proud to be her son
May she stand by dear God, 'til peace is won.

The following letter is from Alfred VanReenan to his Mother, Mrs. Ernest B. VanReenan. He has been in Iran, since January 1943.

Dear Mother:

After so long, I will answer your letter. I was sure glad to hear from you, and I hope this finds everybody well. Hope you have recovered from the flu and keep well the rest of the winter. I sure wish I were back there, so I could come to see you, but we will have to wait till this war is over. You don't need worry about me, because I am getting along fine and always feel well. You said that you all were having a lot of snow. The weather is fine here, the sun always shines and we don't have snow here. It has been a long time, since we had any rain here.

Well I suppose Dad has plenty of work now. I sure wish this war was over and I could come back and see your new home. I bet it is a nice place since you have got it fixed up. I hope you don't work too hard and make yourself sick again.

So take care of yourself and answer and tell me the news from back there.

From your son some where in Iran, Alfred.

Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and getting along O. K., and still reading The Times, and I sure enjoy reading the following poem was sent to Mrs. Hively of Arlington, Va. by a GI from the 3rd Division, Italy.

THE CRIPPLED DRAFTSMAN

"We are crippled draftsmen
Of World War Number Two
With disability discharged
And no work we can do.

"Victims of the draft boards
And doctors' overzeal,
We daily tramp the streets and roads—
Will we have to beg or steal?

"Some of us lost good jobs—
I lost a business too,
I had when I was drafted—
It's not our fault, we're through.

"I have been from factory to factory
But the answer is always the same
"We don't hire men past 40
Who are crippled or lame."

"Did I go to the Veterans' Bureau
And file a claim, you say?
I filed it many months ago
I'm still waiting patiently.

"So please pardon how I feel,
But I really think it's true,
Instead of so much NEW DEAL
We need a SQUARE DEAL, too!"

The following letter is from Sgt. Roscoe Reynolds, who is stationed at Anzio Beachhead, Italy:

Dear Calvin:

It has been a long time since I have written you, but that's not saying that I have forgotten you good folks back home.

I was planning on writing you from Sicily, and about the greatest invasion of history, I think, but neglected doing it. We certainly are proud of the equipment you folks are sending us.

With the radio informing us that the Third Division is official here ("enhancing our glory," I think it said), I guess the old rock of the Marne is getting a lion's share of newspaper space, back in the States.

While no one here could ever accuse the GI of being prima donna and God knows nobody here would ever say "enhancing glory" is any glamour job. We do like to read about ourselves, and the magazines for newspapers, which mentions the name of the Third, or includes a photo of a dirt-stained doggy wearing our square blue and white striped patch, it races through the outfit, like news of a victory. Speaking of newspaper pictures, we are easier to recognize now, that we wear the patch on both sides of our helmets as well as on the left shoulder.

The news that we are "officially" here (with the eyes of the world upon us) first reached us via radio and our Division News Sheet. Yes we have an Anzio newspaper—which is only one mimeographed sheet with no pin-up girls or comics, but it brings the outside world into places where it missed most. Even the Krauts had us on the air one night. According to a guy who hears the nightly show job, from the Nazi propaganda factory, that famous soft-voiced girl in Berlin, welcomed us to Anzio, and asked the boys how they liked it here. Well, she's getting her answer—mitt guns on. That girl on the radio has a strange fascination, throughout the entire Mediterranean area, she is affectionately known as the "Berlin bitch"—and her ears would be very red, if she could hear things guys on this side of the line say about her.

Did I say doughnuts? No, but I've been thinking about them all day. Probably the strangest secret weapon, buried away in a Huntingdon, England.—To show their appreciation for the many good times they had enjoyed at the American Red Cross Club here, 50 GI's recently transferred to another post, drove 40 miles to attend the first anniversary of the club and to pay their respects to Lucy Houston, of Alexandria, Va., assistant director of the club, and Virginia Gardner, of Wheeling, W. Va., staff assistant.

The large audience of GI's and their British friends which filled to overflowing the comfortable lounge cheered enthusiastically as a sergeant, chairman of the program, concluded his speech with the words:

"A thousand thanks from a thousand Yanks to the American Red Cross."

Among the 50 GI's who arrived in two Army trucks from distant posts for the celebration were Cpl. William Sinkovitch, Butler, Pa.; Sgt. Morris Yeager, Shamokin, Pa.; Master Sgt. Bolshaw Jazier, Wilkes, Berre Pa.; Sgt. Charles Hafer, Reading, Pa.; Tech. Sgt. Leo Danilewicz, Edwardsville, Pa.; and Sergeant Leo Dilley, Marlinton, W. Va.

In the middle of a walled garden, the club is a lovely old house formerly the headquarters of the local Masonic lodge. It is next door to the house where Oliver Cromwell was born and down the street from the family home of Samuel Pepys. It has retained much of the atmosphere of a private home.

I just can't tell you how it has grown in a year," Miss Houston said. "The more space we get, the more we seem to need, but we try very hard to keep it like a home."

In order to make sure that the increase in space needed by the Red Cross is met with a commensurate increase in funds to keep this fine organization in tip-top shape to help our boys, be sure that you give more this year to your local chapter of Red Cross for the War Fund Drive.

The following poem is from P. F. C. Kermit O. Foe, of Cass, who is stationed overseas, in Sicily:

TILL PEACE IS WON

Only yesterday, I was a little boy
With laughing eyes and face of joy.
Playing with a train of cars
And nibbling chocolate candy bars.

A little lad with golden head
And clothes of brightest blue and red.
Today I am a man and far away
I said good-bye in such a way,
you could not cry
But forced a smile and thought
God, what a war, it must be fought.

By boys who left as I have done,
to stay 'til earth's freedom
was won.
Lord keep me safe, I pray each day
Let Mom be brave and shed no tears
And have no fear, though I am young
I'm very proud to be her son
May she stand by dear God, 'til
peace is won.

• I just learned that for every $100 he earns, the average soldier or sailor buys $16.50 worth of War Bonds. We civilians are only buying $9.20 worth! Are we going to let these boys finance this war for us... as well as fight it? Let's look to our budgets, and increase our bond-buying.

OIL-PLATING YOUR ENGINE is like outdoing the future—today

The first changes in new cars might be "miracles"—or moderate. Regardless, no new engine will be free from corrosive acids; always "planted" inside by every engine's explosions—just as in your present car. The more it stands unused, the greater the risk from trapped acid. This stepped-up risk arrived with rationing. With it before, when steady heat in unrationed driving ousted acids partly, the present motorist still has advantage of all the extra acid-resistance made possible by having his engine OIL-PLATED.

This big advancement—a safely OIL-PLATED engine—can be "added equipment" in your own car right today, at the mere price of a Spring oil change.

Out with unfit Winter oil! Then change to Conoco Nth motor oil to have your engine automatically OIL-PLATED. The highly advanced synthetic in Conoco Nth oil—patented—seems like "magnetism" in causing inner engine surfaces to attract and hold layers of OIL-PLATING... a corrosion-resisting shield between acids trapped inside and every surface that's OIL-PLATED.

Wouldn't that make you OIL-PLATE your Victory car? It can help you bridge the gap until then, too. Simply change to Conoco Nth for Spring at Your Milage Market or Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

Our Army and Navy Boys

The following letter is from Pvt. Guy F. VanRensen, stationed in Hawaiian Islands.

Dear Mr. Price:

I have been thinking about dropping you a few lines for quite some time, but just never got a round to it.

Well, I really did have a big time today. All of us West Va. "hill-billies" that are on this island, had a West Va. reunion and a "Shindig". I got up real early this morning and started for town and the first fellow I met up with was Grunt Long, the next Pooley Curry and Brown Wiley. So you can judge for yourself, what kind of a time, that many boys from the same town would have. We saw on the register book, where Thomas King was there too. But we never could locate him. There were several other fellows from Poconohontas county—a couple of Sheets boys from Greenbank, and a Kramer boy from Millpoint.

I came back in to camp tonight and found a letter from home and The Poconohontas Times. So, I think that is a pretty good day for a soldier $3.00 a month from home. What do you think?

I really do enjoy getting your paper. It is just the same as getting a twenty page letter from home.

Well it is getting sorta late, and about time for the lights to go out. So will sign off. Aloha, and best wishes to all my friends in Poconohontas County.

A home town boy,
Pvt. Guy F. VanRensen.

Staff Sgt. Henry Rife, has been missing in action in the European Theatre of war, since March 4th, according to the message received by his sister, Mrs. Frank Watson, of Lucas Mill. It is believed however, that Sgt. Rife may be a prisoner of war in Germany. He was a gunner on a Bomber.

Mrs. Watson received the message from the War Dept. March 25, saying her brother was missing. Later she received a telegram from the War Dept. saying all the members of the crew had bailed out somewhere over Germany, when their Bomber had caught fire and crashed. It may be several weeks before definite information is received as to his whereabouts.

Sgt. Rife landed in England on Nov. 1st and was wounded in action on his fifth mission, Dec. 16th, following which he was decorated with Purple Heart, the Air Medal and the Flying Cross and three Oak Leaf Clusters.

His brother, Cpl. Oscar Rife, a ground mechanic in the Air Force, was stationed only seven miles from Sgt. Henry. The brothers had purchased bicycles in order to visit each other on time off and had been fortunate in spending two or three leaves to get together. On Oscar's last visit to the headquarters of Henry March 20th, he was told that his brother was missing in action.

The boys are sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rife.

Sgt. Rife will be remembered around Marlinton as "Duck Rife," who was in the C. G. C. at Watona, a few years ago.

Miss Lucille Beverage, who is the following letter, she received from Pfc. Garland Beverage, of Poconohontas, California:

Dear Sally:

Will drop you a few lines in answer to the letter I received today. I was kinda surprised that you answered my letter. But may be it's best, that we can be friends.

Well, you were here tonight. I'm sure we could find lots to talk about. The grass is nice and green, and the trees are in full leaf, but still, I'd rather be back in West Va. I don't know how long I will be here or where I will go when I do move.

Do you know Norman's address? I haven't heard from him since I was home on furlough. If you have his address, send it to me please, and tell Paul hello.

As news is scarce, I will close, hoping to get a letter from you soon. Love, Wint.

Miss Lucille Beverage received this letter from Pfc. Dice Rimel, who is somewhere in the Army:

Hello Lillie:

How are you this dark, stormy weather? Fine, I hope. This leaves me one of the best, as usual.

What's wrong, I haven't got a letter from you, for what seems like a year to me. Haven't forgotten me, have you, or haven't you any pen or pencil. Write and tell me if you haven't and I'll see what I can do about it. I got a letter from Margie a few days ago, and you see she hasn't forgotten me.

You should see me sitting here with a gal in my arms and a pipe in my mouth. Oh, I forgot there isn't any girls here, but a few nurses.

Well, I guess I will close, hoping to hear from you soon. Love, "Dice"

Mrs. Margie Wilfong of Route 1, Marlinton, received the following letter from her son, Harry, who is in the Navy:

Dear Mother:

Will write you to let you know I am well and getting along fine. I hope you are in good health. When you receive this letter I would have written you sooner, but I took a long sea trip. I was on the sea for a long time. I can't tell you how long I was on the sea. I can't tell you where I am, but I really am a long ways from home. I crossed the equator the other day, the first time in my life. Sailors who cross the equator are known as "Shell-Backs". So I am one of the funny now. I have been doing a lot of traveling lately. I have seen quite a few of the islands in the Pacific, some of which are not so nice to look at. Where I am the climate is so hot the temperature is unbearable at times. I sure would like to see you and the rest of the family.

Those pictures of Genevieve, Boyd, Richard and Jane. Honest,

I could hardly believe my eyes when I looked at them. They must have grown up fast. I must close now, I can't write long letters.

Tell all I said hello, and I hope to see you soon.

Your son, Harry.

Why is a bank that is free from government domination and control best for you? Because it is more responsive to your needs, more efficient, more progressive. Some reformers haven't yet learned that free enterprise is the greatest of all spurs to service and accomplishment. A free, independent bank is always in mesh with its community. A government-dominated bank is responsive only to the source of domination. For the sake of our country's future let's preserve the American Way of banking.

Calvin

In an article by Prof. William B. Hamilton, it is stated that Lincoln proposed to restore the South with reconstructing it. "After West Virginia was admitted to the Union," he writes, "four counties were left over from 'loyal' Virginia, and that Lincoln recognized this rump government, and maintained it in the hope that it might prove a nucleus about which Virginia could be reorganized."

Which were the "four counties left over"? Maybe there is basis for a piece here.

Mr. Clare, W. Va.

That refers to the restored Government of Virginia. Be it remembered that on June 20, 1864, there were two governors in Wheeling. One was Governor Francis H. Pierpont, reelected on May 23, for a three year term beginning January 4, 1864, of Restored Government of Virginia. The other governor present that day was to Governor Arthur I. Boreman, elected head of the new State of West Virginia.

Two years before Governor Pierpont had taken oath of office and entered upon his duties as head of the Restored Government. He now felt he must needs move the seat of government beyond the confines of the newly created State. Several months before, the General Assembly had made provision that whenever the governor should deem it expedient for the public good that the offices of the treasurer and auditor should be kept in the city of Alexandria, or in any other place in the commonwealth outside the city of Wheeling, he should make proclamation thereof. He was also authorized to convene the General Assembly at such place he should select for the seat of government. Governor Pierpont chose Alexandria and made proclamation accordingly.

The lieutenant governor, adjutant general, auditor, treasurer and attorney general all resigned. Governor Pierpont then appointed an auditor, and with him and the secretary of state proceeded to Alexandria. There he filled all vacancies by appointment.

In the election held on May 23, 1863, wherein Governor Pierpont was reelected for a three year term members of the General Assembly were also chosen in that part of Virginia outside of West Virginia, which adhered to the Restored Government, or, perhaps more properly speaking that part which was occupied and under control of the Federal armies. These members thus chosen constituted the second General Assembly of the Restored Government. This session convened in early December, 1863, and adjourned early the following February. The counties referred to were Accomac, Northampton, Fairfax, Loudon, Norfolk and Princess Anne, with the cities of Alexandria and Norfolk and the district of Hampton. This legislature consisted of six senators and ten delegates.

Before adjourning the legislature elected all state officers, and provided for a constitutional convention. This convention met February 13, 1864, in Alexandria and lasted until April. The number making up the convention was small, and its action could not be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection by reason of war conditions. Citizens by the wholesale were disqualified from voting under this constitution.

The second session of the legislature to convene in Alexandria met in December, 1864. Two United States Senators were elected, but neither was admitted to sit in the Senate. Among other woes of the commonwealth detailed in Governor Pierpont's message was the difficulty in reorganizing county governments, due to the open and active hostility of General Benjamin F. Butler, commandant of the Military District of Virginia and North Carolina. By thus blocking Governor Pierpont and President Lincoln old Spotsylvania was actively and effectively laying pipe for the coming down of the horse carpet baggers to depose the land.

This legislature also provided that the seat of government could be removed by the governor to Norfolk or any other convenient place when the interest of the state required, but that Richmond was the real seat when the city could be safely occupied.

In May, 1865, Governor Pierpont removed the Restored Government to Richmond. General David H. Hunter, "Fort Crater" the efficient general. The governor and his lieutenants remained in the general assembly, attempting the state constitution delegates to appear before the governor before their terms would expire as of July 1. Governor Pierpont informed the legislature that without repeal of the harsh disfranchisement laws this state could not be reconstructed; that there were no persons to vote; that he as governor could not remove this disability. An extra session was called, to meet in Richmond June 19. It lasted for five days. The disability to vote was removed. Counties represented were Accomac, Northampton, Prince William, Norfolk, Loudon, Elizabeth City, Fairfax, Princess Anne with the cities of Norfolk and Alexandria and the District of Hampton. It was so contested meeting; the military and civil federal authorities did not approve.

Governor Pierpont held on, balked and overpowered by the military governor, for more than a year after his elected term expired. He was succeeded on April 16, 1868, by a provisional governor appointed by General John M. Schofield, commandant of the Military Department of Virginia.

With all this writing around, I cannot say which were the "four left over counties," but guess these were Eastern Shore Counties of Accomac and Northampton, and the close in ones to Washington, Loudon and Fairfax.

Just a line to say that history has not been especially fair to Governor Pierpont. He tried hard enough to take care of a most trying situation in honest, honorable, legal ways; to avoid the despoiling of a state by a horde of mercenaries. Had President Lincoln lived and been able to exert some influence over Congress, the name of Governor Pierpont would properly have gone down in history as the protector of a commonwealth; having accomplished what he bravely attempted.

When Governor Pierpont arrived in Richmond he found the United States Marshall busy listing property of late confederates for confiscation. Then came the national proclamation confiscating the estates of certain classes unless pardoned. The pardon bill proved to be a farce. He protested against taking of property never designed to be confiscated. He blocked the efforts of a particularly obnoxious species of thieves known as "pardon brokers." He came to the relief of citizens under civil indictment for things which were under the province of military authority. He was a good, broad gauge man, and he was not allowed to have this way in carrying out the desire of President Lincoln in restoring government in secession states. The rich loot of the "conquered provinces" was just too great a temptation and Congress had its share of responsibility for the disgraceful period of reconstruction. Mind you, I write reconstruction, not restored government.

Editor Pocahontas Times:

Dear Sir:—Years ago I was a subscriber to the Pocahontas Times, and recently was given a few copies by Mr. Buzzard, publisher of our town paper here. In reading familiar names and places, I am home sick for the paper again. So enclosed you will find $1. for a year's subscription. I still remember articles written for the Times by the Rev. Wm. Price. One was in the year of 1890, when I was married and built a new house on my parent's farm near Greenbank. As the Rev. Price was making a preaching tour from Back Allegheny to Greenbank, he passed our new house and asked the party who was with him who had built the new house? The answer was, Gordon Slaven and he had married a house to keep his house (my wife's maiden name was Greenhouse.)

We lived in this new house until after our first child was born in 1901. Then we moved to Stony Bottom. From there back to this same house again. When our second child was a baby we moved to a lumber camp near Arbovale for two years. From there to Durbin, from there to Williamsburg, Greenbrier county from there to Cornstalk, from there to Renick, from there to Dellsburg, Pa., from there to Walnut Bottom, Pa., and from there to our present location, and glad to get back to good old West Virginia.

This town is well known for its mineral spring, and has been since since Indians came here for the healing waters. The spring has a flow of 3,000 gallons a minute, and a temperature of 74 degrees. The town has all its running water from this spring. A drought never affects it. It is used in the swimming pool and all bath houses in part.

In the history of Berkeley Springs, it is stated George Washington praised the water highly. Main street is named after him; also one after Lord Fairfax, as both visited here.

If I make another move and its not a silent one, I may write again so my friends may know in this way where I am.

Gordon L. Slaven.

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

Our Army and Navy Boys

Headquarters, European Theatre of Operations—Alertness of a sentry and the speed with which a fire fighting crew responded to the alarm resulted in negro troops saving thousands of gallons of petroleum products endangered by fire recently at a Quartermaster Depot in England, operated by United States colored troops. The fire apparently was started by a spark from a passing freight engine. It was sweeping through dry brush and grass over a wide area towards petroleum stacks when troops arrived on the scene. Employing British fire fighting methods developed in the 1940 blitz and taught them by the British Army Air Service, the crews checked and extinguished the flames before the arrival of a civilian fire brigade from a nearby town. One of the soldiers taking prominent part was Corporal Charles W. Wilson, chief mechanic in the depot motor pool. He is a former employee at the Pocahontas Tannery in Frank, West Virginia. He has been in the Army 14 months. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson, Sr.; his wife, Yvonne, and a two-month old daughter, Charmaine, live on Route 5, Staunton, Virginia. Two older brothers, Granville, a Sergeant, and Frank, a Private, are in the Army, serving in the Pacific area.

Chanute field, Ill.—Private first class Robert K. Gillispie, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gillispie, of Greenbank has completed training and has been graduated from this school of the Army Air Forces Training Command. While attending this Army Air Forces Training Command school he received instruction in the Airplane Instrument Specialist Course, and in various technical operations vital to the maintenance of the country's fighting planes.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sheets, of Durbin received the following letter from their son, Calvin E. Sheets, 1st Class, who is on duty at sea.

Dear Mom and All: I'll write a few lines now, and in a couple of days when I get in port I can send it. It has been nearly a month since I saw land last or the last chance I had to write. This finds me getting along fine. Sure hope everything is O. K. at home. How is Jim, Dad and all getting along? Is Dad still at home? There should be plenty of news waiting from home since it has been a month since I have heard. I only got three letters in the last port I was in—one from you, one from Melvins, and one from Nancy. That was plenty though, just so I hear from home once in a while.

So Hayward has gone across. Is "Chicks" boy still in Calif. Tell all my buddies, hello, for me. Tell Melvins to tell Junior I'm going to collect 2 boxes of cigars instead of one, when I get back. Tell Maynard that the cigarettes he sent, was sure glad to get them. They tasted plenty good. I'll try to write Rowena a letter, for she is always anxious to hear. Did Arnold Lee get his furlough? I never did hear. Well, tell Jim to be a good boy and I'll close for this time. Will write again when I get a chance. Love, your son, Calvin.

Atlee Landis of Covington, Va. received the following letter, from his brother, Charles:

Dear Bro. Atlee & All: Will try and write you a few lines to let you know I am O. K. I hope you and Ione are both well again, and I was very sorry to hear of you having so much sickness.

I like it O. K. in England, but I would rather be back in the states. I often think of the good meal Dorothy and I ate with you.

I am glad I could get a chance to get another mail this time. I am going to try and find out how Lee is doing, as they are in England. If we meet we will have a time. Give my regards to all and I will write you a long letter when I get some air mail stamps, so do write often and soon. Love, your Bro. Charles.

The following letter is from Cpl. James Weiford, somewhere in England:

Dear Mr. Price: Due to a slight change in my address, and in order to get your paper, I think it is my duty to let you know. I don't want to miss one issue of it. I sure do appreciate the news of what is going on back home, and please print my address in the paper, and that I am getting along fine, for the friends I don't get to write.

Thanks very much. Cpl. James Weiford.

Sailor Raymond Geiger, Aviation Smith, First Class, stationed at Norfolk, writes his mother, as follows. Raymond has served three years and ten months, enlisting at the age of 19, just after he graduated from the Marlinton High School, Class of '40:

Dear Mother: Well I guess you know I have seen some country in the last few days. I was transferred to Rhode Island. I stayed up there about 36 hours and then I was transferred again. I was in New York twice in three days. I guess I will be settled for a couple months now. The next time will be a ship I guess. This place is bare in the sticks. I think it supposed to be a summer resort. I think I will like it fine up here when the weather gets warm.

Tell Gladys to write to me. I may get to see you in a few weeks. I may get about six days leave. I may bring Rosa and the children up here. If I go to sea, may be she will come to stay with you a few weeks this summer. If I get leave and bring them up here we will try and go by to see you and Ellet. He should have been with me on this trip. We sure had some fun. Don't forget to write. Your son, Raymond.

Mrs. Eugene Kelly of Clover, Lick, received the following letter from her son, Loren Kelly, stationed in the Marshall Islands:

Dear Mom: Well here I am again. I'm fine and hope this letter finds you all the same. We just got word today, that we could tell that we were in the Marshall Islands. We were outside of the Islands about one day and night. We stayed at our Gun Station all day and night. It was a tough battle, but we came out all OK. We left there, after three days, and the Islands are ours.

Well folks, when I get home, I'll have more medals than a Kmas tree.

How is the family and neighborhood? Is Jim still working for Mr. Coyner? Is Sis Rhoda, still in school? Tell her I said for her to finish school.

Mom, did you receive the money order I sent? I hope you did. I have no use for money where I am. So, I'll send you more any time. So the money you can spend and save me a bank account when I get home.

I see lots of natives and sights I have never before seen.

I wrote to Bernell and received one letter, which I answered, but have not had time to receive a reply. I was sure glad he was still in the States, and hope he stays there. The army is a tough notch. I'm glad Jim isn't in the Service yet.

Well Mom, I haven't a worry in the world, as long as you all stay well. I'm sending my letters by Air mail, so you will soon get them.

There are lots of swell fellows on my ship. We all get along fine. We have some good times along with the bad. I would like to see everybody out there, but won't for awhile longer. Mom, do you get to see Roundy Noonan? Tell him, I would like to see him, and to write me a long, interesting letter.

I would like to tell you what our ship looks like, but it is a mystery ship. We saw lots of dead Japs at the Marshall Islands. The only good Japs are dead ones. We have been eating coconuts, pineapples and bananas.

This is all I can write this time. As ever, your loving son, Loren O. Kelly.

The "Lobelia Farm Women's Club" met at the home of Mrs. Andy Pitt, with sixteen members, two visitors and Mrs. LaRosa present.

Mrs. Frank Morrison, was in charge of the devotional and lesson. The lesson was War time dollars. Mrs. LaRosa presented to our Club a beautiful cup back in recognition of 100 per cent completion of better living projects. During the social hour the hostesses served delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Clifford Hill with Mrs. Otha Kincaid leader.

E. Clyde Bussard, who was employed on a farm near Pocahontas county, reports to Benjamin F. Cress, state supervisor of the Agricultural Extension Service Emergency Farm Labor Program. Mr. Bussard will assist Ben Morgan, county agricultural agent, in recruiting all available farm labor in Pocahontas county and will aid in placing workers where they are needed. If more workers are recruited than needed on farms in this county, they may be placed on farms in adjoining counties where they are needed. The state supervisor of the Farm Labor program points out.

Mr. Bussard will aid farmers of the county in finding the labor they need when they need it, and will also get information for the County War Board or agricultural departments.

In announcing the appointment of Mr. Bussard, Mr. Cress stated that before definite plans can be made for recruiting the workers needed, estimates of labor requirements for the year must be made.

Advance requests for labor made now by farmers for help they will need during the year—even though changes in these requests may have to be made later—will indicate about how much labor will be needed, what kind of labor can be used, and during what periods it will be needed. With this information, the Farm Labor Program can direct its efforts toward recruiting to meet these needs.

For this reason, farmers are urged to let Mr. Bussard or Mr. Morgan know as soon as possible their estimated labor needs for the year, as such information is essential to supplying the needs later on.

Likewise, anyone not fully employed and who is willing to do some farm work, is requested to get in touch with Mr. Bussard or Mr. Morgan and make known his availability for farm work. Mr. Cress stated, "His remark that farm work is war work, and that the need is urgent, for surely Food Fights for Freedom."

We need more PEELED PULPWOOD

This is the time for profitable peeling of pulpwood. Our mill needs peeled pulpwood to maintain its wartime operating schedule and produce the pulpwood products needed by our armed forces and war industries.

Prices Are Highest

Peeled pulpwood brings the highest prices offered under wartime ceilings fixed by the Office of Price Administration. Peeled pulpwood prices are substantially above prices paid for rough wood.

Peeling—Easier Now

Because the sap is up at this time of year, the peeling of pulpwood is easier. Peeled pulpwood is easier to load and is lighter; it saves gasoline, trucks and tires in hauling.

Quality Pays, Too

Be sure that your pulpwood is sound, free of rot. Otherwise your work may be wasted. Rigid military requirements demand that pulpwood products for the armed services be made of good wood.

Some Recollections

Last summer near the end of July, we were crossing Cheat Mountain by way of Cheat Bridge, and stopped to see our venerable friend, Harry E. Cromer. We told him we hoped to celebrate with him his 100th birthday. Said he, "Come back in fourteen years from now."

Recently, The Pocahontas Times announced the passing of this honored mountaineer at the age of 87 years. We were saddened a bit. He had spent many years on that mountain top. He had reared a large family. Taught them honor and honesty, hospitality and kindness. He had given a good account of himself in every way. We always enjoyed his letters to the Times.

Reference to the passing of this hardy mountaineer caused me to recall a number of things long gone by. More than fifty years ago, Jack Steel was running a lumber job in the neighborhood of Cheat Bridge for a Michigan concern, I believe. In those days little attention was paid to the prevention of fire, so after a fire had spread thru areas where timber had been cut, blackberry briars would come up thickly to cover the earth. In that soil and at that altitude, the briars would grow to 15 and 18 ft in length, and bend over like rainbows. Each vine would bear a good quart of fine berries big as thumbles. People from down in the valley, would form a company and with wagons and tents, fruit jars and kettles and go for the blackberries. The women would can them in the camping place. Once some of the wagons had camped just below the old Club House. Sportsmen from all over the country knew of this place. It was once an "institution" in itself. The Club had some fish vats, or pools, near by, where some fine mountain trout were kept. One of the berry pickers wishing to see the trout, bent over to observe, lost his balance and plunged headlong in among the fish.

Mr. Bruce Wallace of West Virginia, while fishing in this very spot, and one day coming in with his catch, offered a few small trout to a yearling bear, which was tied. The bear eagerly gulped the fish, reared, broke the leash, and made for Mr. Wallace. He was in peril for a minute when a Cromer son came running to the rescue, and led young bruin away. Young Cromer told Mr. Wallace never to give fish to a bear, if he wished to keep the balance of his catch for himself.

When the West Virginia Spruce Lumber Company began operations on the head of Shaver's Fork, H. E. Cromer was employed as Scout. No doubt he was the best fitted man for such a job, and granting that all accounts were true he had many an interesting experience with both man and beast in his travels through those woods.

The Greenbrier Division of the C. & O. had been completed up as far as Cass, and late in the year 1900, a standard gauge switchback road had been completed up Leath which Creek to a log place in Cheat Mountain within 200 yards of Shaver's Fork. Camp No. 2, was built late in December. This outfit went up that mountain in the afternoon of January 2, 1901, and was the last load of Spruce logs coming down that had been cut near the top. Ed Hunter was boss of Camp 2. We went to work the next day. The Railroad track was being laid across the top. Ed Hunter sent me to swamping for two days, then to rolling skidway with Henry Galford. They were skidding logs right on the top of this low place in the mountain. The men slept the first few nights in bunka built of boards from which the ice had not yet been melted. I took a severe cold from it. The first week of April 1901, there fell a soft snow on Cheat more than three feet deep.

One year later while employed at Camp 4, on a Saturday afternoon early in April, four of us started for Greenbank to see our babies and spouses. Coming down to the Greenbrier the river was swollen from rains and melting snow in the mountains. We pondered whether to go down farther and call for a boat or wade through. There was no bridge and no road up Dear Creek then. To save time we decided to wade. The old ford went angling up stream. We placed Joe Kerr, Jake Sheets, and Will Gou below us in line, then started. The current was striking our waist and swift. When about half way across, one said, "Let us stop to rest." We tried that, but we could feel our calked shoes slipping over the stones in the bed of the stream. Again he said, "Let us move on, this is no place to be idle." After further efforts we gained the opposite shore. Joe Kerr said, "Well, I'm glad we are out of there." Two of these men have gone on to a father's strand. And I do sincerely hope that when they came down to the last river, the waters were not as chilly as that old Greenbrier was on the early April day, in 1902.

THE NEWS OF THE VOTES OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY GREETINGS

I take this opportunity of writing in the behalf of my candidacy for the nomination for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County. I realize that it is unusual for a candidate for office to be outside the continental limits of the country during the entire period of the campaign; however, these are unusual times and are creating circumstances which are out of the ordinary.

It is unusual for a person to leave an office which has been bestowed upon him by the good people of a great County but when I gave up the office in June, 1942, I had hoped to return before the remaining two and a half years of my term expired and I believed then as I believe now that my place is here contributing a small part in a great cause.

I know there are many others who are doing so much more and who are making a vastly greater contribution, and you who are at home are just as patriotic and are doing your part equally as well, therefore I do not propose to solicit your support on the grounds that I am privileged to be a member of our armed forces.

I appeal to you on my record as Clerk of the Circuit Court and if you believe that record justifies my nomination and re-election I trust that you will go to the polls, on May 9th, and vote accordingly. If I am nominated and elected I shall administer the office to the best of my ability.

Your friend and servant,
CORPORAL GRADY K. MOORE.

STATE COMMITTEE

This paper is authorized to announce Dr. O. O. Eakle of Sutton, a candidate to succeed himself as a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee in the Primary Election of May 9.

Notice of Primary Election

Pursuant to law, notice is hereby given that a Primary Election will be held at the voting place in each of the voting precincts in the State of West Virginia, on for the purpose of nominating candidates for public office to be voted for at the general election to be held November 7, 1944, electing members of various political committees and selecting delegates to national conventions.

TUESDAY, MAY 9, 1944,

This the 24th day of April, 1944.

WILLIAM S. O'BRIEN,
 Secretary of State.

A GOOD MAN IN SENATE—

KEEP HIM THERE

To The Democratic Voters of Pocahontas County:

As a candidate to succeed himself as a member of the West Virginia State Senate from your district, the 13, he is asking for your vote on Primary Election day, May 9th.

He has served us honestly, fairly and squarely, for the past eight years. His record is an open book to all. As a member of the Senate he has served as chairman of the all important Committee on Taxation and Finance in the 1939 and 1943 session, and was always a member of other important committees, Agriculture, Conservation, Education.

He has always been considered the hard working man of the Senate. In his eight years, he never missed a roll call, voted first on every bill, never changed a vote and never explained his vote. He stands squarely on his own feet.

Senator Allen is farm born and farm raised. He taught school. He is a graduate of the Valparaiso University with degrees in Pharmacy. A registered pharmacist since 1920, he operates his own Drug Store in Marlinton. He has served his profession as President of the West Virginia State Pharmaceutical Association, and at present is President of the West Virginia State Board of Pharmacy.

He is a Veteran of World War One. He served in France with the Blue Ridge Division. He is an active Legionnaire, Commander of his local post in Marlinton for nine consecutive years. He is greatly interested in the welfare of the boys and girls of World War Number Two.

An ardent hunter and fisherman, he is deeply interested in Conservation; he has had much to do with the Conservation program in West Virginia, fighting for what he thought was best for the out doors of West Virginia. As first president of the West Virginia Affiliated Sportsmen's Association, most of the independent Sportsmen's Organizations were organized and made members of this Association.

In this, his home County of Pocahontas, he is chairman of the War Finance Committee, as well as the War Loan Drive. Chairman of the County Democratic Executive Committee, President of The Pocahontas County Rod & Gun Club, Secretary of the Pocahontas County Fair Ass'n. A member of the Pocahontas County Board of Trade.

He married Mary Jo Berry, of Burnsville, Braxton County. They have two children, Fred Jr. and Ann Gay.

His past record in the West Virginia Senate is his platform.

FOR STATE COMMITTEE

Always endeavoring to preserve Democratic principles and to serve the best interests of the rank and file of that party over a period of sixteen years as a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee from this Senatorial District, Frank C. Baker of Randolph county, whose name will appear on this ballot, is a candidate to succeed himself on that committee.

It is felt by his friends that his long experience on the committee places him in a position to render continued valuable service to the people of his district.

Mr. Baker was elected to the legislature three times from Randolph County, and served the public well in that capacity. He has in the past devoted many years of his life to the service of the party and the people in general of this district, and at a number of times in his career has been elected to the office of committee man and to membership of the committee, have to say their own opinions in attending meetings, and put a great deal of responsibility upon them.

Use More Eggs

Mrs. Emerson Newman, a Pocahontas County poultryman's wife of the Millpoint Community and also the Health and Nutrition Chairman of the County Farm Women's Council, reports to Mrs. Esther Lakose, County Home Demonstration Agent, that eggs are one of the best foods to serve to members of your family whose taste for winter meals has suddenly gone "bale." Mrs. Newman says that their hens are laying more eggs now than at any other time, and that while you are probably had eggs in your diet often during the winter there is no questioning the fact: eggs are in season. With eggs plentiful, low in price, and nutritious, commented Mrs. Newman, you have three good reasons for using eggs. But there is more. They can be used in a thousand different ways and there is no reason why anyone should ever grow tired of them when they are served in a variety of ways. And too, they can be prepared easily and quickly.

The USEA says that it is important that the bountiful supply of eggs that will continue for the next four to six weeks be used so that poultrymen will carry over their layers for another year and thus prevent a drop in production. The American poultrymen have done an outstanding production job, which has made it unnecessary to ration poultry and eggs, so it is up to all of us to make generous use of eggs while they are abundant, now for the next six weeks.

If every family used an extra dozen of eggs a week for the next three or four weeks the surplus could be reduced greatly. Mrs. Newman suggests that about one dozen eggs could go into an angel food cake, which doesn't require any fat and only a cup of sugar. The yolks could be added to scrambled eggs, or omelets or used in other ways.

Angel Food Cake: 1 cup of egg white, 1 cup of fine granulated sugar, 3-4 cup of cake flour (sifted 3 times before measuring) 1 teaspoonful of cream of tartar 1-4 teaspoon of salt 3-4 teaspoon of vanilla.

Add salt and beat the egg whites on large whip, "using a flat wire whip. When whites are foamy, add cream of tartar and beat with long steady strokes until the mass is stiff and will form in heaps and ridges. Sift over the sugar, folding it in, not beating. Fold in flavoring and then sift over the flour, folding it in gently. Place the batter in an ungreased tube cake pan, keeping the batter slightly higher at the rim. Bake at 310 degrees for about one hour. Invert the pan on a rack until the cake cools.

Mrs. Newman expects a new lot of baby chicks this week to provide their layers for next winter and adds that she expects to be at home the next few weeks getting them off to a good start as are many other Pocahontas county farm women at the present time.

Norfolk Navy Yard

New Recruiter for Norfolk Navy Yard, at Court House every Saturday.

Free booklets describing with effective pictures the great job being done in the U. S. Navy Yards, become available here today at the Marlinton Court House for distribution to persons interested in taking jobs at the Norfolk Navy Yard at Portsmouth, Virginia.

The booklet, replete with photographs of U. S. ships and scenes from Navy Yard activities, makes a strong appeal to workers who are in non-essential jobs to seek employment in government yards such as the Norfolk Navy Yard.

In addition, a specially photographed insert contains full information about the housing situation at Norfolk, with emphasis on the fact that several thousand housing units are now available for Navy Yard workers and their families.

This pamphlet of housing information, according to Mr. Gaskins, Navy Yard, Civil Service Labor Recruiter here, is designed to dispel the prevalent notion of housing shortages at Norfolk.

Contrary to those who say that the recruiter said in revealing that the situation was better, let is have for distribution. There is now actually a surplus of housing at Norfolk.

Anyone wishing a copy of the booklet, which is printed by the U. S. Government, may obtain one free of charge, by writing to the U. S. Navy, Department of the Navy, Washington, D. C.

How a Pulpwood Shortage Handicaps the Farmer...

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES WOULD ROT IN THE FIELDS.

MILLIONS OF EGGS WOULD NEVER REACH THE MARKET

FEED STOCK AND FERTILIZER WOULD SELL IN BULK ONLY

... WITHOUT PULPWOOD TO MAKE CONTAINERS

Pulpwood helps the farmer both in the marketing and the planting of his field crops. Food, fertilizer, seeds and other farm necessities come to the farmer in containers made of pulpwood. Fruits, vegetables, dairy products and other necessities are packed in pulpwood boxes, barrels, and paperboard boxes. Without pulpwood the farmer's life would be a nightmare. Pulpwood containers help the farmer feed his farm and market his crops.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mr. L. S. Shivers, now of Overseas, kindly sends this letter from his nephew, James Shivers.

North Island, March 27.

Dear Uncle L. S.:

I don't think I wrote you about being in London. I spent about a week there in school. Although the school took up most of my time I still got to see some of the city. For the hub of my traveling, I used the famous Piccadilly Circus. This was a magnificent street where about eight main streets meet. This was a central place and could be reached by any subway branch. Usually the place was so crowded that a person has to charge in and then flow with the crowd. This is the centre of the theatre and most of the larger stores.

The city was not planned, so the streets wind around until they lose themselves and emerge with a new name starting in the middle of a block. I remember an old nursery rhyme about the streets being narrow and how true it was.

In London itself, which is the small original city, there is a monument known as "The Monument." This tower is 303 feet high and is built in such a place, that if the tower was to fall north, the golden ball, representing a flaming ball, located at the top, would land in the spot where the great fire started which destroyed most of the city. The fire started in a laundry located next to an oil merchant.

One day while going a block back from the Piccadilly Circus, I became lost. I was looking up at the buildings and noticed some old Elizabethan era houses. They were lovely.

Another interesting building was the Law Courts. If I had come upon it in the fields or in a small town I would have said it was a castle. It was a very complicated Gothic style of architecture. It was a very large building covering about four large blocks.

I visited by 10 Downing Street and was near Buckingham Palace. I saw a detachment of Palace guards drilling and they were perfect.

I was disappointed in the London Bridge. There was very little difference between it and some of our older stone bridges at home. I was at the end of the Tower bridge but did not have time to go across it. I was outside the Tower of London, but did not have time to go inside. I walked by the Parliament buildings and used Big Ben to set my watch. The clock is silent, the bells being stored in a safer place for the duration.

I visited Saint Paul's Cathedral. It was beautiful. The building is old and scarred by shrapnel, even hit by a bomb, but still stands.

and to visit daily. The tower is covered by a dome which is 404 feet above the floor.

In the tower I saw where King Richard III was buried. They put his body there in memory of the Duke of Wellington. The tower which his body was buried in St. Paul's, was there. It weighed about 9 tons and was hand carved.

What I enjoyed most of all was Westminster Abbey. I had only about thirty minutes there, so I didn't see as much as I wanted to. I could spend a week there. I noticed the place where John and Charles Wesley were buried. When I came out I felt very much at home, as I found a statue of Abraham Lincoln before me.

One of the nights I walked down the Aldgate Street. I walked many streets which I had made an acquaintance with in Harrogate. I didn't see a small part of what I would like to see of London. Also, I would like to visit Statford on Avon.

Love, James.

The following letter is from Pfc. Oliver R. McPeters, from somewhere in Italy, to Miss Patty Curtis, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Curtis, of Marlinton.

Hello Patty:

I guess you will be surprised to get a letter from me. As I haven't any work to do tonight, I thought I would drop you a few lines. This leaves me well and I hope it finds you and the rest of the family well.

How are you getting along in school? I bet you haven't missed a day this year!

I got a letter from Kyle yesterday and two packages. One of packages had a knife in it and the other cigarettes.

What is Pearl doing? Get daddy to take yours and Pearl's pictures and send to me.

Well Patty, I think I have got mine and your share of the Germans (Jerries) or whatever they call them.

I will have to close for this time. Hoping to see you soon. Oliver.

New London, Connecticut—William F. Honaker, aged 20, Electrician Mate, son of Mrs. Carl Sheets, of Marlinton, has completed basic training at the submarine school here, for duty with our growing fleet of underwater fighters. He is now entitled to wear the twin dolphin insignia of the submarine service. Honaker graduated at the Hinton High school, class of 1933, lettering in football, basketball and swimming. After joining the Navy ten months ago, he went to Great Lakes, Illinois, for recruit instruction.

This submarine school is the only one of its kind in the Navy.

It is attended by a select group of men who must pass physical, mental and psychological tests.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bobbitt, of Millpoint, received the following letters from their son, Price, Camp Shanks, N. Y. April 4, 1944.

Dear Mom:

I received your letter this morning. Sure was glad to hear from you. Well, I got out of the hospital yesterday. I sure picked a heck of a time to get out. It sure is pouring the snow down here. There is about 6 inches of snow on the ground.

I was glad you got to go to Teda. It was a shame you walked when Harry was coming after you. Hope Dad's cough is better.

I hope there is not snow down there, like up here.

Have you heard any more about the marriage? How is aunt Eliza getting along? You asked if I got fooled the first day of April. That is the first thing that happened to me.

Well, I can't think of anything to write. So I will close for this time. Answer soon.

Lots of Love, Price.

Dear Dad:

I received your letter the other day. Sure was glad to hear from you.

We are having good weather up here now. I never saw such a heavy snow go so fast. I just got out of bed a few minutes ago and it is almost eleven o'clock. So, you see, I got a pretty good sleep. I went to school last night, which was pretty good. There were not many people there, most of them had gone to town. I took my first jeep ride yesterday. I sure hope I can get one of them after the war is over.

Is Rush still making sugar or did he get tired of the job?

I got the sugar-cake O. K. I told Mom in her letter, but some thing might happen that she wouldn't get the letter.

Well, it is about time for dinner, so I had better go. I don't want to miss any more meals today.

Well, Chow is over. We had a pretty good meal. It is raining just a little here this evening.

I got a letter from Mom today. I got a cake from Tom for Easter. Mom, said she didn't expect I would get my card until after Easter, but I got it at noon today. I want to know where to send Ted's mail to.

Well, I have run down and suppose I had better stop for this time. Answer soon.

Love, Price.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ray, of Monteville, received the following letter from their son, Elmer Ray, who is serving overseas:

Dear Mom and Dad:

Do you know what happened one year ago today? You probably wouldn't, but I remember very well. Along about six in the morning, I watched a lady who was holding a torch, slowly disappear into the water. No one around was saying a word, but standing there watching. I felt pretty low; something like a fellow looks when you take his best girl friend away. It seems like a lot longer than it really has been, and I hope this is the last trip for me.

I was sorry to hear of uncle Ed's death. It almost took me off my feet. It just doesn't seem right. Someone you know all your life. It just doesn't seem like it could happen to anyone like that. I admired him very much. I hope I can be as lucky and as good a soldier as he was.

I should write Aunt Enny a letter, but I really don't want to. A letter like that would be hard for me to write. If you will you can write her for me. You would know more about what to tell her. I would. I suppose she took it all pretty hard.

It has been cloudy and cold here for awhile. I wish it would get warm. This old damp weather or sure gets old. I haven't been shaved out but once or twice since I made here.

The news sounds good now. These Russian boys are really doing a swell job. They are really good fighters. I hope they do it tonight, so we don't have to go after them any more. In other words, I hope it is over pretty soon. I don't know how long I can stand this war, but I sure don't want to be the last one standing.

"Got your Post-war Car picked out yet?..."

- ★ "Sure, we're all short of help these days—and I may need a little extra time, but you can depend on me to do these jobs quickly!"
- Oil must be changed—old, worn-out oil drained and fresh, strong Esso Motor Oil in the summer grade correct for your car put in.
- The chassis must be lubricated from stem to stern—at every point where wear might become serious. The older your car gets, the more it needs this lubrication.
- The battery needs an examination, too. Maybe it should have a full charge for quick summer starts.
- The radiator should be drained of all sediment and fresh water put in. Couplings need tightening, or replacement.
- The tires must be checked for signs of wear or damage. Maybe switching 'em around can balance the wear, give you additional safe life now when you need it most.
- The transmission and differential are important—but can look 'em over and make sure they have the proper lubrication.

"Mister, you're probably driving it right now... and if you don't think so, think this over..."

EVERYONE who ought to know agrees there just won't be new cars for everyone until quite a while after the war. "That means the only car you're apt to have for a long time is the one you've got right now. So take care of it as you never have before!" "I can help a lot—if you'll let me. I've got the equipment and the reliable Esso products that will really save wear. Just let me go over your car regularly—especially right now, between Winter and Summer. "Look at the check list of things that need doing, and let's start getting them done. "All these things won't cost much. They won't take long. But they're important for your transportation if they get done now. "And I can't do it alone. You've got to bring the car in—let's start today—what say?"

Purple Heart Soldier Coming

In order to emphasize how important Marlinton industry is to the war effort, and how essential its products are to the boys on the battle front, arrangements have been made to bring to those who carry on at the home front, first hand information of what is needed to bring victory and success to our forces.

At 12 o'clock noon, Friday May 5th, Staff Sergeant Budd L. Hanson, of Ashford General Hospital, at White Sulphur Springs, will speak at the Marlinton Tannery of the International Shoe Company, to the employees of that plant and others who may wish to hear his message.

Staff Sergeant Hanson has been awarded the decoration, the Purple Heart, for service in the Italian campaign, and is well qualified to bring this message to us.

Forest Fires

The week end of April 29 and 30 saw the first forest fires in Pocahontas County this spring. Up until this time, rains had kept the woods damp. On Saturday a fire burned about 50 acres on Beaver Lick Mountain, east of the Burr Settlement in Burr Valley. On this fire Charlie Bond received severe burns when the fire jumped the control line and he was saved from a more serious accident by Mr. Smith pulling him from the fire. The fire was set intentionally by some misguided friend who succeeded in forcing farmers to leave their work on the farm to suppress the fire. The enemies of our country will be glad to know they have friends in the United States who are helping to hinder our farmers from producing the crops so badly needed.

On Sunday a fire started at the Cranberry Glades, as a result of campers failing to extinguish their fires. The fishermen had built their camp away from the authorized camping spot, and through carelessness, let the fire escape.

Camping is permitted on the National Forest only at designated camping areas, and then only with a written permit issued by a National Forest officer.

AMERICAN LEGION

The regular meeting of the Pocahontas Post, No. 50, of the American Legion will be held Monday night, May 8th, at the Woodmen-Odd Fellow Hall, over Grimes store. Important business will come before the Post and a good attendance is expected.

As a special feature of this meeting the Legionnaires and their guests will be entertained by the Colored Glee Club, with those old time spirituals which every one enjoys, and only the colored folks know how to sing.

Paul Duncan, E. F. Class of the Navy, has completed his course in electrical training at Wahpeton, North Dakota, and has reported at Norfolk, Virginia, for duty, after spending a leave of five days with his wife and other home folks.

Lyle Fertig of Great Lakes, Illinois, spent his furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fertig at Frost.

Bus Smith is home on leave for a few days from Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Corporal Henry Barlow returned on Monday to Camp Blanding, Florida, after a short furlough with home folks.

ALONG THE WAY

By Susan A. Price, M. D.

Whenever I hear of the ice going out of the Greenbrier I know it is about time for the water to get out of the ground and into the cellars and basements in this part of Virginia. It is six weeks or more before this seepage from the earth subsides.

"These here Rockefeller foundations with their concrete reinforcements can't keep the water back any more than the old time concrete can." So the plumber said as we stood on the brink of the furnace pit some four feet deep and viewed the sullen black water as it mounted half way over the furnace. The furnace looked like a moving picture submarine about to submerge. The automatic pump, after a hard night's work still chugged on in this Marshall Lodge basement. It kept the lodgers guessing, if we all were about to sink with the ship.

This ground drains so well, hence the early dry spells perhaps. Anyway, I notice no more water gathers in the basements until another year comes around. No matter how much rain falls in the summer.

War moves on space and the strong arm of preparedness extends the whole earth around. At Camp Peary, our nearest spectacular training quarters, we can only guess what goes on there or what for. They are not all Sea Bees now; many men have no CB on their b'uses. Three men came to my door this morning. They were all Americans and from Chicago, but one was a Chinaman. Teachers at Camp Peary for the illiterate thousands now in the camp, to be taught our language and to be able to identify their stenciled names in large print on their clothes.

We should be glad all Pocahontas county draftees can read and write, and keep up with the Pocahontas Times. Their letters home are a constant source of interest. One youngster from Williamsburg wrote home from the West Coast that his outfit had been assigned to a race horse training quarters by reason of the great pressure for living quarters. He was sleeping in the stall of "Miss Biscuit," a noted race horse. His family, knowing this boy, allowed that this would be war thrill enough for Robert.

Every Wednesday, if it does not rain, and it usually does this month, waste paper is picked up by the bundle from the houses. It is put in the waste paper container, a small building adjacent to the fire house, for safety perhaps. Chief of Police, W. H. Kelly espied in old paper in last week's collection a copy of a Richmond weekly dated October 29, 1873. It described itself as a memorial issue to the unveiling of the statue to Stonewall Jackson.

It was devoted to eulogy, wordy description of ceremony, parades, and correspondence relative to the memorial, listed as "England's gift to the Old Dominion." The world might take notice of the happening.

Chief Kelly saved the copy from a bitter end as a war measure. The clearing away of old newspapers sets not easy with our family. However, sacrifices must be made. I have looked with heavy heart several times at my collection of the Pocahontas Times, wondering if I must add these to my slim weekly package, as one way to help win the war. I am putting it off as long as possible, hoping some other way will turn up.

Washington State and Alabama, Oregon and Monterey, Virginia, are represented in the Camp Peary roster at Marshall Lodge. Seabee Frank J. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson are sojourners at present. She was formerly Miss Lillian Weeks, of Monterey. As a trained nurse she did service in Pocahontas county. Mr. Wilson is a nephew of the late Mrs. Lant McNeil, of Millpoint. He holds a medal bestowed at Camp Peary for marksmanship in gun practice. One of the Sea Bees at this Camp has been on the rifle range seven months, showing them how it is done.

Tourists, who have never quite failed us, boosted our way of living the past few weeks. Professor Carl Hughes, of Columbia University, New York, and Mrs. Hughes spent Easter week end with me. They missed last year, but they were able to run the blockade this year and come. As they entered Professor Hughes said, "We have our same old clothes on, you see." I replied: "Same with me." Others from Duke University have been heard from that they expected to be on the way soon. So the United States adjusts itself in our usual way to all emergencies.

Perished from earth by suffocation in a recent fire which damaged the Jefferson Hotel in Richmond, Mrs. Lillian Martin Price, widow of ex-Governor James Hubert Price, who died last November. A friend asked Mrs. Price after her husband had been elected Governor of Virginia, when she was going to move to the Governor's Mansion. She said, "I don't know; Jim has not told me yet." For State Senate Paid Political Adv.

Henry J. McKinley, mortician and business man of Elkins, Randolph County, announces his candidacy for State Senate from the Twelfth Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Braxton, Nicholas, Pendleton, Pocahontas, Randolph and Webster.

Mr. McKinley was a candidate for this office two years ago, and was defeated by Senator G. C. Belknap of Sutton, by slightly over 100 votes in a four way race. He has been asked and encouraged by Democrat voters from every county in the district to make the race again. This he has agreed to do, and he earnestly solicits the support of every loyal Democrat who is interested in economical and efficient government, party unity, and equality for all. He is not affiliated with any supposed factional group, nor does he owe allegiance thereto. He is asking for the office on his own merits and qualifications, and on his belief in a true Democracy by all the people and for all the people.

Mr. McKinley's experience in dealing with the public through the practice of his profession, and his administration of help to be-reaved and needy families in Randolph county, has caused him to realize that the aged must be helped by revised pension laws enacted by our government. He believes that the boys of our country who are fighting the battles in order that our Democracy be saved and that their children and grandchildren may have a free country in which to live, and in order that all may enjoy freedom of religion, and pursuit of happiness, and the boys who are suffering torture at the hands of the enemy as great as our Saviour suffered at the time of His crucifixion, must have just recognition, help to re-establish themselves in society, and the opportunity to become the leaders in rehabilitating this country after the war, when they return we must insure them employment and activity from want and fear.

Mr. McKinley served his country during World War I, by enlisting in the army. He is past Post Commander of H. W. Dan-ah Post No. 29, American Legion of Elkins, and has held prominent positions in the Post. His zealous efforts in behalf of needy comrades and their families has proven his desire to help humanity. If we are to safeguard the things for which we have fought, and are at present fighting, the things we prize so highly, let us elect men to office who will protect and represent all the people, and not certain groups, men who have the backbone to stand for what they think is right, men who will protect the people who earn their living by the sweat of their brow, and who will guard against unemployment and dissatisfaction. If the people of West Virginia want fair representation, elect Henry J. McKinley, of Elkins, to the State Senate. He will devote his time and energy to the enactment of progressive legislation for the benefit of all citizens.

WE SPEAK UP

For Our Boys, Wounded and Dead . . .

We parents have a strike in this war—paid with the blood and lives of our sons. We have a right to speak—and a duty to do so. If our boys were here, they would cry out to the conscience of the people of West Virginia.

Our sons fought—and many died—that Democracy might live. When Tojo attacked Pearl Harbor, and Hitler and Mussolini joined in the war upon us, we determined to destroy this unholy alliance and its menace to the peace of the world. That's why American boys are fighting . . . and dying.

When war came upon us, our nation was tragically unprepared. Why? Because some so-called "Statesmen" in Congress and Senate bitterly fought every effort to arm and prepare ourselves! How?

These men told us we would never be attacked
These men tried to block every reasonable defense measure
These men smeared and denounced our potential allies
These men created disunity at home.

These men—living in a fool's paradise, short-sighted, failing to understand the forces that sought to destroy our country—these men played directly into the hands of the Axis.

And to our everlasting shame, there were even those among them who cooperated actively—if unwittingly—with the Nazi propaganda machine in this country. AMONG THESE WAS RUSH HOLT OF WEST VIRGINIA!

HERE ARE THE FACTS

George Sylvester Viereck (alias James Burr Hamilton) was convicted for failing to register legally as a Nazi agent and sent to prison. The evidence proved that he was a ringleader in spreading Nazi propaganda in America, and at the trial, RUSH HOLT WAS LINKED DIRECTLY WITH VIERECK AND HIS PROPAGANDA NETWORK!

This is what happened—

Sigfried Hauck published pro-Nazi books in New Jersey. His publishing firm was named in a Federal indictment as a tool of the thirty persons now charged with engaging in a plot to destroy Democracy in this country and throughout the world. Hauck testified that his firm received about $30,000 from Viereck, the Nazi pay-off man. HAUCK ALSO TESTIFIED THAT HIS FIRM ARRANGED FOR THE PUBLICATION OF TWO BOOKS BY RUSH HOLT.

Now, get this. Hauck also testified that he and Viereck went to Rush Holt's home in Washington to discuss Holt's book and how to promote its sale; that Holt agreed to buy about $1,000 worth of advance copies out of his own funds; and that Holt offered to cooperate in promoting the book by using certain of Holt's mailing lists.

Read the record yourselves. It's in Criminal Cases Number 68643—United States of America versus George Sylvester Viereck in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

(Sigfried Hauck is on the witness stand being questioned by the Federal Prosecutor)—

Page 381 From Transcript of Proceedings

Q Tell us briefly what happened. You had dinner with the defendant (Viereck) and then where did you go?

A Yes, and then afterward we went to Mr. Holt's home, or at least where he was staying at the time.

Q Were you accompanied by the defendant? (Viereck)
A Yes.

Q Tell us what took place at this conference between you and Senator Holt, and the defendant Viereck? What took place?
A We discussed Mr. Holt's manuscript. They now numbered two. We were planning to publish both of them eventually. We discussed their promotion and sale.

PAGES 384-385

Q Was there anything said about any financial assistance from any person?

A Yes.

Q What was that?

A Well, I explained to Mr. Holt that we were no rich and prosperous publishing house, that we would require some help, preferable in the form of advance sales of the book, and he agreed to buy out of his own funds a certain number of copies in advance.

Q Do you remember how many it was?

A Well, it was going to be $1,000 worth at a certain regular discount, I believe. In other words, he would get more than $1,000 worth.

Q Was anything said about any mailing list of any person at that time?

A I think Mr. Holt mentioned he had—he would cooperate with us in promoting the books, if they were published, and I think he said he had some mailing lists that he might use himself in connection with publishing the book.

Q What was done with the galley proofs?

A Well we struck off several proofs, and sent one or two sets to the author, and I believe a set to Mr. Viereck, and kept a couple of sets.

Q Now, during the time when your firm, Flanders Hall, was publishing all these books that have gone in evidence, can you tell the Court and Jury how much money that your firm received from George Sylvester Viereck during that period of time?

A I think I would have to have the books to make a definite statement on that.

Q Can you tell us approximately?

A Twenty thousand dollars.

The above is the sworn statement. The testimony further showed that the draft of Rush Holt's book HAD BEEN SENT TO GERMANY TO BE EXAMINED BY THE NAZI AUTHORITIES! The British censorship officials had intercepted it at Bermuda.

READ THE FOLLOWING TESTIMONY.

Q Now, I show you Government's Exhibit 65 (identified as material for Holt's book) in evidence, which is a batch of papers, some chapters of clippings from the Congressional Record. Will you tell us if you have ever seen that document before, and if so, when and where?

A Yes, I saw this; it was contained in a letter, which came to me for examination and which I opened.

Q Which you opened in the course of your official duties as a member of the British Censorship at Bermuda?

A I did.

Miss Gardner then identified the envelope which contained the material for Holt's book and an inner envelope.

PAGE 1049

Q I call your attention to the fact that the inner envelope is addressed to Dr. Hans Dreckhoff, Berlin, Germany. Do you know who he was?

A He was German Ambassador to the United States and is now in the German Foreign Office.

Q The outside address is Senhor Honyngero Hueneros. Do you know who he is, addressed in Lisbon?

A That is an alias used by the German Embassy at Lisbon, Portugal.

Voters of West Virginia, there is the Holt record. Yet this man wants you to grant him the highest honor in West Virginia, the Governorship. Yes, he wants to be honored for his short-sightedness, for his dealings with pro-Nazis, and for his failure to help prepare our Nation for the greatest crisis in its history.

HOLT AGAINST PREPAREDNESS

The following is the record of Holt's votes on preparedness measures during 1939 and 1940, the crucial years:

1939

Strategic War Materials Bill Vote Not Recorded
Planes For The Army NO Appropriation For The Navy NO

1940

Permit Sending Arms To The Allies NO
Surplus War Stocks For Allies NO
Military Training for OCC Vote Not Recorded
One Year Training In Army NO

WHO APPLAUDED THIS "STATESMAN"?

With a record like that, it is clear why William Dudley Pelley, now in jail and again indicted for alleged sedition, reprinted speeches made by Rush Holt. ("Liberation"—issue November 7, 1940.)

With a record like this, it is clear why Edward James Smythe, also indicted for alleged sedition, described Holt as "the greatest American in the halls of Congress." And who published Smythe's statement? Court Asher, also under indictment for alleged sedition, in his magazine, "Publicity" (issue December 26, 1940.)

The sacrifices made by your boys, and ours, must not be in vain. The cause for which they fought—and still fight must be won! It must be won on the battlefields and it must be won at home. America's finest now man the guns. And only the finest should lead us in the halls of Government. We owe it to our boys, ourselves, and to the future of our State and Nation.

Vote for men of vision—real Americans who understand the fight for Democracy. Vote for any of the fine Americans who are Candidates on both Republican and Democratic Ballots—but DO NOT Vote for Rush Holt!

VOL. 42 NO. 41

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 4, 1944

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

SENATOR FRED C. ALLEN

A FAITHFUL PUBLIC SERVANT

By whatever standard he may be measured, we know, by first-hand information, of no man in legislative life who has been a more faithful public servant, than Fred C. Allen, who represents this Senatorial district in the West Virginia Senate, nor of any man who in thought and act has felt and shown himself to be more amenable and answerable to the people of his own district and not to any outside influences of whatever character or nature.

In pursuing such an unselfish course, he has undoubtedly been governed by Section 2, of the Bill of Rights of the West Virginia Constitution, which says that "The magistrates are the servants and trustees of the people, and as such amenable to them." He has lived up to that admonition and command throughout his eight years in the State Senate. He has done much to uphold human rights, equal rights and the rights of the people of his district and of the state, and therefore has helped to make the Bill of Rights a living, breathing thing—a reality—and he has upheld that bill of rights.

In doing so he has consistently opposed and resisted centralization of power at Charleston or anywhere else, believing the power of government was vested in the people.

Senator Allen had the best interests of the people of his own district at heart, when he voted and worked for, as Chairman of the Finance Committee, the repeal of the state income tax at the 1943 session of the legislature. The revenue was not needed. The state could and is getting along well without it, and it would have made a burden more than the average citizen could bear to have had to pay a constantly increasing federal income tax and a personal net income tax on top of that. It was a real relief.

In short Senator Allen believes that government begins at the bottom and not at the top and in his acts as a member of the Senate has sought to be a real representative in the broadest sense of the word. How well he has succeeded is generally known throughout his district.

Fred Allen is entirely too modest and unassuming to make any claims for himself but his record of faithful, conscientious and distinguished public service speaks eloquently for him, and on the strength of such a record, the people of the district have the assurance of what to expect if they return him to the Senate where he can be of such service to them as he has been in the past.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. J. O. Wilfong of Clover Leaf sends in this letter, from her brother, Pvt. Kyle C. Dille: In Ireland.

Dearest Anna Lee & All: I will try and drop you a few lines this time. I am well, how are you by now?

I got two letters from you today. They were mailed March 15 & 23. I was so glad to get them over here. I got three letters from Doris this week, they were well.

I will be glad when the war gets over, so we can come home.

I got those pictures Doris sent me. They were good of Clark. I mailed Doris some pictures I had taken over here. I hope she gets them.

The days are long over here. It gets dark at 9:30 or 10:00 o'clock at night. The days will be long this summer.

Well, I don't have any more news to write for now. I will close for this time. With Love, Kyle.

Miss Eva Wilfong, of Marlinton, received this letter, from her brother, Harry R. Wilfong:

Will answer your letter which I received today and sure was glad to hear from you. This leaves me well, and getting along fine. I have been putting on weight lately. I weigh about 180 lbs. now. I hope I don't put on much more. How is your boy getting along, and how old is he any way?

You said in your last letter, you were going to town. I wish I could be there to go with you. I wish I could come home for a while. I don't know how long I would stay. I want to go to North Carolina, as soon as I get back. It will soon be three years since I have been home and that is a long time. I am about 10,000 miles from home now. I can't tell you where I am, although I wish I could. Maybe I'll get to tell you all about it as soon as I get home, which may be at least another year, before I see Marlinton again.

I haven't seen a girl in three months, and not even a town. I am in the most screwed up island in the Pacific. There isn't anything here. I hope I move before long. They keep us at sea most of the time. I must close now, answer real soon. Your brother, Harry.

Don Anastasio, somewhere in England, writes to his sister, Kathleen, of Cloverlick, as follows:

Dear Kathleen: Tonight, I guess I'll try and write my sweet little sister a few lines, and find out if she still loves me. I'm awful sorry I haven't answered sooner, but you know me. I spend most of my time off working, as usual. The weather here is much better now, than when I first arrived.

Thompson, Harrell McCarty, Lydia J. McComb, Mrs. Sylvester Harris, Jacobs Carpenter, Miss Maggie Ruckman, Joe Gaylor here. I still have a cold to contend with.

Kathleen, what ever happened to "Eddy"? I haven't heard from her for over a month. I got a letter from Kathryn today, yesterday. I think she is a sweet kid. I hope Jimmy doesn't mind.

Well, I'll tell you about England, it isn't so bad. In fact, a lot of the boys, think the great, seeing the old buildings which were erected centuries ago. But just let me whisper a word to you that I'll take the good old U. S. A. any time and live up to, date.

I received a letter from Joe and he says he is so glad to be back at his old trade. I don't blame him to do so.

Well Kathleen, you're so sweet I could sit here and write to you all night, but you know how it is

CLARENCE MEADOWS

The Democratic Candidate For Governor

His Program For State Government

1. I shall first of all dedicate the full might of our state government to the winning of this war—and the peace to follow.

2. I shall demand efficiency and honesty of every state officer and employee. No place in my official family can be obtained upon any other basis.

3. I shall create a sound and constructive post-war program to meet the problem of unemployment—to meet our full obligation to the returned veterans.

4. I hold that a just and equal assessment and distribution of the tax burden is essential. The cost of war demands that any adjustment of the state's tax structure be downward.

5. I shall propose laws and policies for the benefit of all people. Organized labor shall receive just and fair treatment. The ranks of the unemployed, the farmer, the school teacher, the businessman and individual are entitled to equal consideration.

6. I shall advocate full cooperation by the state with capital and labor to bring new industries to our borders. Such can take full advantage of our natural resources and thus greater wealth and a more stable employment for our people.

7. I shall not be satisfied until our roads, schools and public institutions are brought up to the highest standards. West Virginians deserve the best.

8. I shall devote my closest attention to the proper spending of the taxpayer's dollar. Efficiency in government means economy to government.

His Program For Party Progress

1. I condemn totalitarianism. I shall strive with every power at my command to unite our party.

2. I shall never permit one man or one group to control our party or its policies. Open to the party of all Democrats.

3. I believe party policy and programs should be governed by the wishes of the Democratic constituency in the counties, wards, and the executive committee and their chairman.

4. I shall stand upon that great democratic principle: equal opportunity to all—equal privileges to none.

TO THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY, CLERK:
I take this opportunity of writing in the name of the Democratic Party of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, to express our appreciation for the service of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County. I realize that it is unusual for a candidate for office to be outside the continental limits of the country during the entire period of the campaign; however, there are unusual times and special circumstances which are out of the ordinary.

It is unusual for a person to leave an office which has been bestowed upon him by the good people of a great County but when I gave up the office in June, 1942, I had hoped to return before the remaining two and a half years of my term expired and I believed then as I believe now that my place is here contributing a small part in a great cause.

I know there are many others who are doing so much more and who are making a vastly greater contribution, and you who are at home are just as patriotic and are doing your part equally as well, therefore, I do not propose to solicit your support on the grounds that I am privileged to be a member of our armed forces.

I appeal to you on my record as Clerk of the Circuit Court and if you believe that record justifies my nomination and re-election I trust that you will go to the polls on May 9th, and vote accordingly. If I am nominated and elected I shall administer the office to the best of my ability.

Your friend and servant,
CORPORAL GRADY K. MOORE,
A. P. O. 845.

VOL. 61 NO. 41

MARLINTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 11, 1944

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Army Air Base, Dahart, Texas—Sgt. Jerry R. O'Connell, of Cass, W. Va., will soon complete his training in the Second Air Force and in the near future he will go overseas in a combat area to do his part in defeating the enemy. He is stationed at the Army Air Base, Dahart, Texas, at the present time receiving a very important part of his final training as a Tail Gunner. Sgt. O'Connell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cassell, Cass, West Virginia.

Great Lakes, Illinois—Recent graduation ceremonies at the Naval Training School (Electrical), North Dakota State School of Science, Wahpeton, N. D., saw Bluejacket-Austin Paul Duncan, 27, husband of Mrs. Lydia Jane Duncan, of Buckeye, West Virginia, receive recognition as eligible to qualify for the petty officer rate of electrician's mate third class.

Selected for this special training on the basis of his recruit training aptitude tests the Blue jacket completed a course of study that included the use, function and maintenance of all electric tools used by the Navy. A theoretical phase included electricity and the radio elements of electricity.

The graduate is now awaiting active duty orders to sea or to some shore station.

Headquarters, European Theatre of Operations—When word was passed officially that airborne troops were in the theatre in strength, West Virginia had more than a passing interest, for hundreds of her sons were among the parachute and glider men ready for the assault on Hitler's roofless Europe. A leader of one of the rugged parachute infantry battalions is Col. Robert L. Wolterton, of Elkins. All American airborne troops—ground forces, who use gliders and troop carrier planes—have been stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia, or at MacCall, North Carolina. They maneuvered in Tennessee.

Colonel Wolterton's outfit set a record by marching 110 miles in three days after 13 weeks basic training. Pocahontas County soldiers in the airborne troops ready for the invasion are:

Pfc. Gerald R. McNeill, Route 1, Marlinton, radio operator;

Pfc. Howard E. Bowers, Huntersville, ammunition bearer;

Pfc. Carl C. VanKeenan, Marlinton, mortar gunner;

Pfc. Daniel G. Stone, Bartow, gunner;

Corp. Jay B. Graham, Buckeye, fireman and cook.

May Seabolt received the following letter from her brother, Robert Hinkle, from somewhere in India:

April 15, 1944.

Dear Sister:
I will answer your letter, I just received. It was the first letter

I had got from you for quite a while. I had just about begun to think you had forgot to write. This leaves me well and O. K. I sure hope it finds you and all of the family well and enjoying life. As usual there isn't much to write. We sure are having some hot weather—the hottest I ever did see. Do you remember one year ago today? I was home, just starting back to camp. There was a snow, and boy it was cold. I just about froze before I got across the Mt. It was about that cold when I was home last fall. You asked if my buddies were here. Will you send me Elmer's address I would like to write him a line. I wonder how he likes the army? I send a lot of my letters in air mail envelopes, but I don't guess they get there any faster than ordinary mail. I haven't heard from Roy or Walter for a while. You said Walter was having his teeth extracted. That sure will be some pain. I had another tooth filled a few days ago. I got a letter from you a few days ago, that was mailed before Christmas. Took it a long time to catch up with me, didn't it?

Well I guess I had better close for this time. Tell all of the folks I said hello. Answer real soon, with a long letter.

Your brother, Robert.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Nottingham, of Durbin, received the following letter from their son, Gerald:

Dearest Mother:

I thought I would write and let you know that I got back here, from my leave in plenty of time.

It was really nice to get back home again, and take life easy, just like old times. A fellow really enjoys himself when he can get some home cooking too.

Lucille and I went to Baltimore to see Clara. We saw her but didn't get to stay very long, for I had to take the bus at nine o'clock in order to get back on time.

I am sending you the pictures I had made. You can imagine by looking at the pictures what the place was like, where I was.

Tell everyone hello for me. It was nice to see every body again, although I didn't get to stay long enough.

I suppose that will be all for this time, so I will close hoping to hear from you soon.

Your son, Gerald.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Opal Ervin, of Marlinton, from W. B. Lester.

Dear Sis:

I will drop you a few lines to let you hear from me. This leaves me O. K., and hope these few lines find you the same. I had a letter from mother a few days ago. They were all well. What is John doing now? Tell him I said hello, and tell the children I said hello. I can't think of their names. Sis, tell Eva to write to me. I don't know her address. Write and tell me all the news back there.

I don't know when I will be home Sis, I am somewhere in the South Pacific. I had a letter from Polly and Eva, and I had a letter from Earl. Well Sis, I can't think of much to write, so I'll ring off.

Your brother,

Pfc. W. B. Lester.

Private Kyle C. Dilley, has been promoted to Private First Class. He is now somewhere in northern Ireland. His wife will be glad to give his address to any one who wishes to write to him. Mail is an important thing to our boys who are in Service. It does not take long to write a few lines to a lonely soldier who is a long way from home and the ones he loves. Friends do not forget to pray for our boys.

Harold Gustafson has completed his "boot" training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and is spending a ten-day leave with his mother, Mrs. Lillian Johnson, at Boyer.

Pfc. Loran S. Jordon, of Greenbank, has arrived at a port "somewhere in India." He is one of a contingent of veterans from the North Africa and Italian fighting. A picture for the daily papers show Mr. Jordon and other members of this contingent being shown the country by an American Red Cross Staff Assistant.

Staff Sergeant Oran L. McLaughlin has been cited for a good conduct medal. He is the son of Mrs. Mary J. McLaughlin of Dunmore.

THE ELECTION

The few and scattered election returns which are in this paper is printed Wednesday morning would indicate that Judge Meadows has overwhelmed Rush Holt for the democratic nomination for governor, and that it is a horse race between Mayor Dawson and R. J. Funkhouser for the republican nomination with odds favoring Dawson.

Judge Meadows carried Pocahontas County, with figures close between Dawson and Funkhouser.

In the only County contest, the race between Grady Moore and J. E. Hamrick for Circuit Clerk, the meagre returns favor Mr. Moore.

Senator Allen was taking about all the votes there was, but no word has come from other counties of the district.

The day was good for farming and the vote was light.

Sgt. Harry Smith, stationed at Gulfport, La., is home on furlough.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ashford, of Greenbank, have received word that their youngest son, Wm. F., has been promoted from Corporal to Sergeant. He is somewhere in England.

Miss Peggy Smith, who is in training for a Red Cross worker, foreign service, is home from Washington, D. C., for a few days, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zed S. Smith, Jr. Her brother, Major Z. S. Smith III, is expected home from the South Pacific next Monday.

Robert Mann has returned to Richmond after spending a few days here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Mann.

While some have caught nice trout and enough of them, the bigger and better trout waters have been in poor shape for fishing. It has been raining too much and too often. I got mine alright by fishing a small stream, well stocked with hand raised trout. However, it is only right to confess that in teaching grandson, Basil Price Sharp, aged eight, going on nine, how to fly fish, he beat my time, about two to one.

Speaking about foxes: over in Bath County, last week an owner of a summer camp washhouse from the army had went to look to see how things were faring about the camp since he left it last hunting season. He saw a red fox kit sun

People are reporting in that their cats are dying off worse than usual this spring. It might be distemper; it might be a kind of plague; it might be internal parasites. Cats used to live until they died of old age at from ten to twelve years. Now young cats die by whole sale, and for one to live as much as two or three years, is the exception.

Looking into the matter for the deep consideration, it deserves an old timer tells me that modern day cats know so little about what is good for them that they eat the tails of rats and mice.

The tails of rats and mice is poison sure and swift for cats. People and cats of former days knew it too. The guardians of our graineries, barns and homes would invariably leave untouched the tails of rats and mice they caught and consumed. Such cats lived to ripe old ages too.

Just now I am not prepared to say exactly what it is in rat tails to kill cats; whether a subtle, toxic poison, or the small, sharp, four-sided, joint bones which cut the inwards of cats.

On April 4, which was a cold, snowy day, D. D. Gladwell, while working on a fence row down on the Dock Cutlip farm on Louest Creek. The snake had evidently wintered in an old post hole; possibly a foot underground.

No flower in the spring woods than is the trillium. One plant, one flower is the rule. However, R. B. Slaven went to the woods and got a few plants, which he set out in shady places around his house on Lower Camden. This year one of the plants had fifty-four blossoms on it.

J. O. Kellison was up from Jackson one day last week. He reported his season's fox catch at twenty-six head; mostly grays. He also got a couple of wild cats.

For several years past, the foxes have cost Mrs. Dan Beverage rather dearly in poultry at her farm home on Bucks Mountain. Last winter there was plenty of fox sign around the place, so she began to bait up places and set traps. The result of her trapping was eight head of foxes—three reds and five grays. Some foxes pulled out of her steel traps too. The money result in bounties and returns for fur was nearly fifty dollars.

I can report the unusual—a jay bird's nest in a pine tree in the back yard. So far, the jay bird is the least obtrusive, quietest and best behaved bird on the place.

While some have caught nice trout and enough of them, the bigger and better trout waters have been in poor shape for fishing. It has been raining too much and too often. I got mine alright by fishing a small stream, well stocked with hand raised trout. However, it is only right to confess that in teaching grandson, Basil Price Sharp, aged eight, going on nine, how to fly fish, he beat my time, about two to one.

ning himself on a rock a long shot away. He laid the little fellow low. Then out of the shadows came the mother fox, and she got hers. Going up, the man found five other small foxes, about large enough to fend for themselves. He put three out of the way, and left a couple to grow up. At the den, there was rabbit, squirrel and possum fur game and poultry feathers. That old fox and her family had proved rather expensive to keep.

Benton Smith reports the unusual—he and his partner caught a trout. The men were fishing a pool in Gladly Fork of Cranberry Creek. The snake had evidently wintered in an old post hole; possibly a foot underground.

No flower in the spring woods than is the trillium. One plant, one flower is the rule. However, R. B. Slaven went to the woods and got a few plants, which he set out in shady places around his house on Lower Camden. This year one of the plants had fifty-four blossoms on it.

J. O. Kellison was up from Jackson one day last week. He reported his season's fox catch at twenty-six head; mostly grays. He also got a couple of wild cats.

For several years past, the foxes have cost Mrs. Dan Beverage rather dearly in poultry at her farm home on Bucks Mountain. Last winter there was plenty of fox sign around the place, so she began to bait up places and set traps. The result of her trapping was eight head of foxes—three reds and five grays. Some foxes pulled out of her steel traps too. The money result in bounties and returns for fur was nearly fifty dollars.

I can report the unusual—a jay bird's nest in a pine tree in the back yard. So far, the jay bird is the least obtrusive, quietest and best behaved bird on the place.

While some have caught nice trout and enough of them, the bigger and better trout waters have been in poor shape for fishing. It has been raining too much and too often. I got mine alright by fishing a small stream, well stocked with hand raised trout. However, it is only right to confess that in teaching grandson, Basil Price Sharp, aged eight, going on nine, how to fly fish, he beat my time, about two to one.

COMES SPRING

By O. H. Adkison

As this is written, April 5th, farmers are coming out of their winter lethargy.

The sun has slipped well over the line; and the hours of daylight equal the hours of darkness.

Wild geese, in gray commandos are swarming. The robins have come out of the marshes and up from the South to bobnob with the Kentucky cardinals. Wrens are beginning to drop in at the feed troughs for a free meal or two, and pretty soon the red-winged blackbirds will be on the lowlands making streaks of scarlet in the air.

In spite of freakish weather, pussy willows are bursting forth, and expand quickly when taken indoors.

Diligent last year's gardeners are digging perennials which taste as though preserved in sugar.

Crocuses are in flower, and the service tree and Easter lily are ready to arrive in hues of silver and gold.

The first sign of spring is with us, and plenty of moisture underground leaves to rest dependent on how the sun does his stuff.

CHICAGO.—Chairman Robert D. Hannegan of the Democratic national committee said today, people he had met in his travels about the country assumed that President Roosevelt would seek a fourth term.

"I don't know whether he will or not," Hannegan stated at a press conference. "I hope he will. If he does, he will be reelected."

Asked about Republican chances of winning control of Congress in the November election, he commented:

"Whenever Roosevelt has been a candidate the Democrats have won a majority in the Senate and House. I think Democratic seats in the House and Senate will be increased."

Hannegan said he had been in 20 states since January and added that "it was encouraging to find the number of people who tell me they were formerly Republicans and now propose to vote for Roosevelt."

He reported some of them based their attitudes on the president's standing among world leaders and the desire to retain him as a war leader.

The chairman said the "best information" he had was that the president was in splendid health.

He told newsmen the names mentioned most frequently as Democratic vice presidential possibilities were those of speaker Rayburn, Vice President Wallace, and Senators Truman and Barkley.

Hannegan said the Democratic national convention, opening here Wednesday, July 13, would end on the following Saturday, if it conformed to the average convention time.

Durbin.—The road gates on the Greenbrier Ranger District of the Monongahela National Forest are open this spring. This announcement is made by the District Headquarters at Bartow. Since the gates have been closed for the past seven years, it is felt that the sportsmen are due an explanation.

The primary purpose of the gates is to protect the Forest Service constructed dirt roads. In addition, the gates decrease use in high fire hazard areas such as plantations. The gates have been opened this spring due to the unusually good condition of the roads. Further, the fire weather has been less severe than usual. The decision to leave the roads open was reached largely on the basis that there would be fewer fishermen than normally and these fishermen would not have as much time to fish as usual. With the roads opened, more time can be spent actually fishing.

Sportsmen are urged to be exceedingly careful with fire this spring. Any fires within areas previously rendered less accessible by locked gates will be justification for an immediate reversion to the policy of closing the roads. Camp or warming fires are authorized only in the places definitely described in camp fire permits.

P. J. Hanlon, acting Ranger on the Greenbrier district asks all sportsmen to cooperate in the fire prevention and suppression job. Every sportsman has a personal interest at stake in the forest fire problem. He should safeguard his interest by doing all he can towards preventing fires. This includes cautioning the careless fellow fishermen. It means putting out abandoned camp fires, smoking in law enforcement work and so on. Also, if a fire does occur, fishermen in the vicinity should take immediate action toward putting it out. Fire men there in the mountains can usually do more than twenty men on lower land.

Canning Sugar

Sugar for home canning is now available to the consumers at the same rate as last year, the office of Price Administration announced this week.

As announced earlier, five pounds of sugar for home canning may be bought with Sugar Stamp No. 40 in War Ration Book 4. The remainder—a maximum of 20 pounds of sugar per person—will be granted upon application to the local War Price and Rationing Board.

Procedure for getting extra sugar for home canning (in addition to the five pounds that can be bought with sugar stamp 40) was explained as follows:

Application is made to the board on a new and simple form (OPA R323) and the entire transaction may be handled by mail. A single application may be filed for all persons who live at the same address. The application must supply the names of all persons for whom sugar is requested, including the name of the person who is making the application, and the number of pounds of sugar (in units of five pounds) the family needs for canning and for making fruit spreads.

In order to make it unnecessary to send ration books through the mails, SPARE stamp No. 37 from War Ration Book 4 is used for purposes of identification. This stamp must be attached to the application for each person applying for sugar.

Consumers are urged to be sure to attach the Spare stamp 37 (Not Sugar Stamp 37) for each member of the family for whom application is made.

Upon receipt of the application the board will mail sugar purchase certificates to the applicant. If a family fails to apply for enough sugar to complete its home canning, a second application may be made later, but in no case will more than 25 pounds per person, which total includes the five pounds available on Sugar stamp 40, be issued.

No restrictions are put on the amount of sugar that may be used for each quart of finished fruit and no limit is placed on the amount of sugar (of the total 25 pounds allowed) that may be used for making fruit spreads.

Our Army and Navy Boys

The following letter is from
Pvt. J. H. Keen, Camp Stewart, Ga.

Camp Stewart, Ga.

Dear Mr. Price:

This is a list of men, of which I was in charge, from the local Draft Board at Marlinton, to Fort Thomas, Kentucky, March 30. I also carried the X-ray proofs, transportation, request and mail tickets. I had no trouble in any way. These men should make good in the service, for they were a sober and decent type of men who can be trusted. There were no quarrels or any disorder.

I turned them loose on their own in Clarksburg for thirty minutes, and all were back on time. I only requested that they stay sober enough to walk, that I could not carry them and my load too, but I found that none had gone for the purpose of drinking.

So if I ever need a crew of men that can really be trusted, I'd say give me Pocahontas county men. The five men I have checked were sent to Camp Stewart, the others were left at Fort Thomas, Ky., or sent some where else; some I know are in Texas.

Johnnie Hayes Keen, Harold Leand Reed, John Valentine Mitchell, Ernest Lee Baxter, Calvin Coolidge Underwood.

Yours truly,

Pvt. Johnnie H. Keen.

This letter was received by Miss Nancy Phillips, of Hillsboro, from her brother, James Phillips, who is serving somewhere in Alaska:

My Dearest Sis:
I received one of your letters last Thursday, and was very glad to hear from you, and hope this letter finds you fine. I've got my secretary typing for me today, pretty nice this way too. I am getting along fine; haven't been Well how is Buddy making out in school? I know he is a boy that can learn, and he will, I hope. Tell him, I said to be a good boy and I will bring something from over here, when I come home. Tell Granny Scott and Uncle Burke and all the kiddies, I said hello, and to write me sometime. Has Uncle Burke got married yet? Well Aunt Macel, I will close for this time. I want you to write and let me know how everything is going. Love, Chub.

Mrs. Glen Wilfong, sends in the following letter, which she received from her uncle, R. P. Hannah:

Dear Mary Ruth:

Your letter of March 30th, came yesterday. As you will note I'm now basking in sunny, southern California. Left Great Lake March 19th, and arrived here Wednesday, 15. We had a special train, which included nine Pullman coaches, loaded with patients, 3 box cars with our Sea bags, two Doctors and three nurses, also 24 corporals.

We had a very nice trip, especially across the "Rockies" where we ran into some real snowstorms. Part of the time, we had two engines and a snow plow. I have not yet seen an Indian, buffalo or cowboy.

It has been very warm ever since we came here, and just sprinkled rain once. The fog in the early morning moistens the grass enough to keep it from turning brown.

Oranges are plentiful, and we get plenty of them. The flower and trees are very beautiful.

Any clear day, I can look back eastward and see mountains covered with snow. I've been told that the snow stays on the tops the year around.

We are about 50 miles east of Los Angeles. There is an air field nearby, as lots of planes fly over here every day.

Your Aunt Mae was in Cleveland for some treatment for her eyes. She is back in Oak Hill now, went back about the first of the month.

Beulah is getting along O. K., maybe better than when I was there. Really she is doing a wonderful thing, by keeping the store going, and sometimes buying a small War Bond.

You said you hardly hear any war news. Well, the war is still on, and we are doing very well in the Pacific, and will invade Japan territory soon. Also the European front will be invaded any time now. The Russians are raising H— with Germany.

Speaking of Beer, I have not tasted Beer, since Dec. 5th, maybe that is what I need.

I would rather be restored to health than get a discharge. So, if they cure me, I'm ready for duty again.

I'm getting along very good. Eat and sleep is all they will let me do. I may be out for duty in three or four months. I'm only allowed up 4 hrs. a day.

Mary Ruth, I've taken over seven thousand Salicylate pills and about half that amount of Bi Corb.

Has Glen gone yet to the Army? Maybe this new age limit and essential war work will let him stay out.

If you go to the Lane Church and Fred Gammie is the preacher tell him I am your uncle. He and I are very good friends.

All for now.

R. P. Hannah
Corona, Calif.

This letter was received by Mrs. Oda Gay, of Hantsville, from her son, Dale Gay, of San Diego, California:

Sunday April 9th, 1944.

Dear Mother:

Who said you couldn't sleep in the Army? I just waked up, it is 12:00 noon. We got up at 5:30 this morning, and as soon as we got the beds made up, rifles cleaned, etc., we could go back to sleep, and I did.

It is real pretty and warm here today, but yesterday was awful cold. We had to wear overcoats last night.

About dark they came around and made us go swimming, but the water was heated and it was not bad. We went to boxing matches, and afterwards to a show, "The Duke of West Point".

They treat us nice, if we obey orders and do what we are assigned. I sure try to do that too. They have a funny way of punishing you, for instance, if you talk to anyone in the chow line, they make you stand with your nose against a post, or if you are caught with hands in pockets, they fill your pockets with sand for 24 hours.

We wanted to go to church today, but they wouldn't let us, because we took our dress pants to the tailor and didn't get them back.

If you send anything like a package, they have to open it; before I can get it. They don't allow you to get hardly anything, so if you haven't already sent me a package, I would just as soon wait, until after boot camp.

I got a card from Frost this morning.

I just got back from dinner. We had turkey, dressing, potatoes, peas, tomatoes, apple butter, olives, cranberry sauce and ice cream.

I don't know what we are going to do this evening, but I had better close. Always,

Dale.

MY SON

My boy has gone over the ocean. My boy has gone over the sea. He's fighting for home and for freedom.

He's fighting for you and for me. Last night as I lay on my pillow, And watched the bright stars from above,

I knew God was watching my soldier And keeping him safe by His love.

My boy is so brave and so noble, I know he'll be faithful and true. As he gives all his best for his country.

Altho' he gets lonesome and blue. So let us pray on, dearest mothers, Let's pray for our boys day and night.

And may our dear Heavenly Father Help them to do what is just, true and right!

PRAYER ON INVASION DAY

Both the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches of Hillsboro, invite and urge you to join with us in earnest prayer on the day when the Allied Forces shall begin the invasion of Western Europe. The call to prayer, will be made by the tolling of the Church bells.

The church doors will be open all day, so that you can enter the Sanctuary for silent prayer. On every hour during the day, the bells will ring, and that will be the signal for those who will, to pause where they are, and offer a prayer. At 8:00 P. M., the congregations will assemble in their respective churches for a period of public prayer.

In our private and public observance of these arrangements, let us humbly confess our sins and those of our nation before God, interceding for the men who would face agony and death in the great invasion, praying not only that our forces might be victorious, "but even more earnestly that we might be a people whom a righteous God can trust with victory and power!"

Dr. Henry Wade DuBose has said, "For people merely to gather in their Churches, giving God permission to sit on the back pew and hear their petitions, would be worse than uselessness. But for the people of America to bow themselves before God in shame and sorrow, in confession of personal and national sins, and in fervent prayer for mercy upon our nation and all the suffering peoples of the earth, would mark an epoch in American history!" "If My people, which are called by My name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land!" 11 Chron. 7:14.

(SWELL INFO.)

...or how friends are made in the R.A.F.

How a "Coke" is a friendly greeting among R. A. F. flyers back at early dawn from a night mission. It's like a salute among comrades in arms that seals the bonds of friendship in Plymouth, England, as in Plymouth, Mass. It's an offer as welcome on an English airfield as it is in your own living room. "I Can Take a Hint"

"You don't have to knock me down and cram it down my throat. I know there's nothing like a stitch in time. If I'm to have the use of any electrical appliances from now until months after the war ends I know they must be the ones I now own. I check mine regularly, before defects appear. This is a profitable policy, the thrifty thing to do. There is no alternative except to go back to back-breaking drudgery and I certainly don't want that!"

With Uncle Sam needing all metals and production facilities there are simply no new appliances and only a limited number of replacement parts. To keep the present ones serving you our service department is taking responsibility in making repairs and sometimes making parts. Thus far we've been able to take care of all the appliances which we have sold, such as Frigidaire, May Washers and Ironers, Hotpoint Ranges, Westinghouse-Corliss and Crosley Radios, and Eureka Sewing Machines. We do service other makes, as needed supplies are available. Despite unavoidable delays most of our customers have been most understanding. This cooperation has been and is appreciated.

Local Fall Day

An amount of great interest to 4-H boys and girls of Pocahontas County was the Field Day held at Greenbank High School, Saturday May 6. Although pouring rain prevented the attendance of several clubs, the approximately one hundred boys, girls and leaders who were present regarded this the most successful field day in some time. The four-H Clubs from Marlinton, Greenbank and Cass were represented.

The first event of the morning program was a parade by all the club members present, followed by a club song and yell by each club attending.

This was followed by a track meet with different aged groups participating in various events. After this a series of novelty races were held with Mr. Max Foscovey, Principal of Durbin Graded School and Assistant Leader of the Durbin Pocahontas Trail Blazers 4-H Club, as a starter of the events.

During intermission a picnic lunch was served with soft drinks, lemonade and hot dogs available through auspices of Greenbank Merry Wiggles 4-H Club.

The afternoon was devoted to folk games and group singing. The results of the morning contests were made known by Mr. Ben Morgan, County Agricultural Agent.

The Club with the highest total score was the Marlinton "Jolly Pioneers," who were awarded a lovely scrap book. This was received for the club by Miss Sue Brooks, president.

Second place was awarded to the Greenbank Merry Wiggles who received a framed picture, embroidered with the words of the 4-H four-fold development, head, heart, hands and health. This was received for the club by Joel Hannah.

Third place went to Cass Handy Andy 4-H Club. They received $1.00 in war-saving stamps.

The relay weather necessitated the field day being held in doors. Nevertheless, the boys and girls spirits were not dampened, and everyone acclaimed the event a huge success.

Rebekah District Meeting

The annual meeting of the Rebekahs of District 18, composed of Lohelia, Greenbank and Marlinton Lodges, was held at Lohelia May 9, 1944. A large crowd enjoyed the delicious supper and a splendid meeting was held that night. Distinguished guests were Mrs. Jessie Beavers, president, and Mrs. Eva Hiner vice-president of the Rebekah Assembly of West Virginia, Mrs. Nettie Kennison, District Deputy; Mr. D. A. Tharp, District Deputy Grand Master and Mr. D. Y. Beavers. The open meeting was opened by singing of "God Bless America" and was followed with prayer by Mrs. Daisy Sizemore.

After the presentation of the Flag, the address of welcome was made by Mrs. Virginia Anderson, of Lohelia, and the response was given by Mrs. Mabel McNeel of Ruth Rebekah Lodge No. 68, Marlinton. A beautiful and impressive Memorial Drill was presented by the Lohelia Lodge. Mrs. Beavers was presented with a gift from the District, and Mrs. Kennison, our District deputy, received gifts from both the Lohelia and Marlinton Lodges. The prize for the best report for the year went to Ruth Rebekah Lodge No. 68. Mrs. Virginia Anderson was elected treasurer for next year and Mrs. Mabel McNeel was elected secretary.

This was not only an enjoyable meeting but an inspirational one as well.

"We are so rich today in all the things that count in Friendship and Love, in Faith that knows no doubt, in prayer, God gives us strength to share, to sing, to smile to serve."

DEATHS

Augusta Marie Curry

Margaret Elsie Hoover Curry was born December 22, 1888 and departed this life April 6, 1944. She was the daughter of William and Amanda Collins Hoover. One brother, Kennedy, of Alabama survives her.

She was united in marriage to Frank Curry April 14, 1900. To this union eight children were born. She is survived by her husband, six children, 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Two daughters preceded her to the grave—one in infancy, and Mrs. Burr Houchin, two years ago. Those surviving are: Harry E. and Carl A., of Durbin; James B., in service in Iran; Anderson N., in service in England and William E., in service at Mitchell Field, N. Y.; one daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Shifflet of Durbin.

She joined the church at an early age, uniting with the Methodist Church, and lived a consistent christian life; and was a regular attendant at Church as long as her health permitted. She was a kind and faithful wife, and mother and a friend to all. She was an invalid for almost six years, but was always cheerful.

Her funeral was conducted at the Bethel Church by Rev. M. N. DeHaven, assisted by Rev. J. William Pugh. She was laid to rest in the Church cemetery, in view of her earthly home.

She was tenderly cared for during her illness, by her son, Carl.

She is gone but not forgotten. God said come and she was ready to answer the call. She often expressed her readiness and willingness to go.

She opened her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness.

She looked well to the ways of her household; and eateth not the bread of idleness.

Her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and praiseth her.

"I Can Take a Hint"

"You don't have to knock me down and cram it down my throat. I know there's nothing like a stitch in time. If I'm to have the use of any electrical appliances from now until months after the war ends I know they must be the ones I now own. I check mine regularly, before defects appear. This is a profitable policy, the thrifty thing to do. There is no alternative except to go back to back-breaking drudgery and I certainly don't want that!"

With Uncle Sam needing all metals and production facilities there are simply no new appliances and only a limited number of replacement parts. To keep the present ones serving you our service department is using ingenuity in making repairs and sometimes making parts. Thus far we've been able to take care of all the appliances which we have sold, such as Frigidaire, May Washers and Ironers, Hotpoint Ranges, Sylvania-Carlson and Crosley Radios, and Eureka Sewing Machines. We do service other makes, as needed supplies are available. Despite unavoidable delays most of our customers have been most understanding. This appreciation has been and is appreciated.

An annual great interest in the 4-H boys and girls of Pocahontas County was the Field Day held at Greenbank High School, Saturday May 13. Although pouring rain prevented the attendance of several clubs, the approximately one hundred boys, girls and leaders who came regarded this the most successful field day in some time. The four-H Clubs from Marlinton, Greenbank and Cass were represented.

The first event of the morning program was a parade by all the club members present, followed by a club song and yell by each club attending.

This was followed by a track meet with different aged groups participating in various events. After this a series of novelty races were held with Mr. Max Poncovey, Principal of Durbin Graded School and Assistant Leader of the Durbin Powhatan Trail Blazers 4-H Club, as a starter of the events.

During intermission a picnic lunch was served with soft drinks, ice cream and hot dogs available through auspices of Greenbank Merry Wiggles 4-H Club.

The afternoon was devoted to folk games and group singing. The results of the morning contests were made known by Mr. Ben Morgan, County Agricultural Agent.

The Club with the highest total score was the Marlinton "Jolly Pioneers," who were awarded a lovely scrap book. This was received for the club by Miss Sue Brooks, president.

Second place was awarded to the Greenbank Merry Wiggles who received a framed picture, embroidered with the words of the 4-H four-fold development, head, heart, hands and health. This was received for the club by Joel Hannah.

Third place went to Cass Handy Andy 4-H Club. They received $1.00 in war saving stamps.

The rainy weather necessitated the field day being held in doors. Nevertheless, the boys and girls spirits were not dampened, and everyone acclaimed the event a huge success.

Rebekah District Meeting

The annual meeting of the Rebekahs of District 18, composed of Lohelia, Greenbank and Marlinton Lodges, was held at Lohelia May 9, 1944. A large crowd enjoyed the delicious supper and a splendid meeting was held that night. Distinguished guests were Mrs. Jessie Beavers, president, and Mrs. Eva Hiner vice-president of the Rebekah Assembly of West Virginia. Mrs. Nettie Kennison, District Deputy; Mr. D. A. Tharp, District Deputy to Grand Master and Mr. D. Y. Beavers. The open meeting was opened by singing of "God Bless America" and was followed with prayer by Mrs. Daisy Sizemore.

After the presentation of the Flag, the address of welcome was made by Mrs. Virginia Anderson, of Lohelia, and the responses were given by Mrs. Mabel McNeel of Ruth Rebekah Lodge No. 68, Marlinton.

A beautiful and impressive Memorial Drill was presented by the Lohelia Lodge.

Mrs. Beavers was presented with a gift from the District, and Mrs. Kennison, our District deputy, received gifts from both the Lohelia and Marlinton Lodges. The prize for the best report for the year went to Ruth Rebekah Lodge No. 68. Mrs. Virginia Anderson was elected treasurer for next year and Mrs. Mabel McNeel was elected secretary.

This was not only an enjoyable meeting but an inspirational one as well.

"We are so rich today in all the things that count. In Friendships and Loves, In Faith that knows no doubt, I pray, God give us strength to share, to sing, to smile to serve."

DEATHS

Margaret Elsie Hoover Curry was born December 23, 1883, and departed this life April 6, 1944. She was the daughter of William and Amanda Collins Hoover. One brother, Kennedy, of Alabama survives her.

She was united in marriage to Frank Curry April 14, 1900. To this union eight children were born. She is survived by her husband, six children, 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Two daughters preceded her to the grave—one in infancy, and Mrs. Burr Houchin, two years ago. Those surviving are: Harry E. and Carl A., of Durbin; James B., in service in Iran; Anderson N., in service in England and William E., in service at Mitchell Field, N. Y.; one daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Shiffert of Durbin.

She joined the church at an early age, uniting with the Methodist Church, and lived a consistent christian life; and was a regular attendant at Church as long as her health permitted. She was a kind and faithful wife, and mother and a friend to all. She was an invalid for almost six years, but was always cheerful.

Her funeral was conducted at the Bethel Church by Rev. M. N. DeHaven, and Rev. J. William Pugh. She was laid to rest in the Church cemetery, in view of her earthly home.

She was tenderly cared for during her illness, by her son, Carl. She is gone but not forgotten. God said come and she was ready to answer the call. She often expressed her readiness and willingness to go.

She opened her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue was the law of kindness. She looketh well to the ways of her household; and eateth not the bread of idleness. Her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and praiseth her.

OPA Information

Housewives were refunded by the Office of Price Administration that red ration stamps R-8, S-8, and T-8, which became good Sunday-May 7, for buying meats, fats and dairy products must last four weeks, instead of the customary two.
The only items now requiring red points are beef steaks (except flank) and roasts; butter, margarine, cheese and cheese products and evaporated milk.
Tuesday, May 4, OPA made point free all cuts of pork, veal, lamb and mutton, all cuts of beef except steaks and roasts, and all variety meats, sausage, ready-to-eat meats and canned meats and fish.
Because of the wide selection of meats now available without the expenditure of red points—57 percent of all items previously requiring red points were made ration free—it was decided that hereafter blocks of three red stamps with a total value of 30 points will be valid only every four weeks instead of every two weeks.
Accordingly, red stamps U.S. V-8 and W-8 will become valid for use on Sunday June 4, 1944, instead of May 21, 1944, as previously announced.

FIELD NOTE

Talking about the trout season, as usual it is in line to note the fact that the game protectors caught about the usual number of weeks. These were birds with short fish, too many fish, and those who would slip in on closed streams.

THAT ELECTION

It is a source of no small personal satisfaction and county pride that Senator Fred Allen of Pocahontas County was re-elected to the State Senate from our District, the Twelfth. That re-elected word is right, for the democratic nomination means election in this district of six democratic counties, where it is not likely the republican party will go to the trouble to name a candidate in opposition to Senator Allen.

It is also a matter of satisfaction and pride that the Senator carried the counties of Nicholas, Braxton, Webster, Pocahontas and Randolph, the home of the opposing candidate.

Another matter of satisfaction and pride is that Judge Summers H. Sharp made such a fine showing in his race for delegate, at large in the republican national convention. As this is written he is one of the number elected. There are still many precincts to be heard from and the vote so far reported is close.

In this connection, I have not heard how Dr. G. F. Hull made out in his race for delegate to the republican convention from the Second District. Here is hoping he won.

The old rule is that if a man is to be defeated for office, beat him good and plenty for his own well being and that of the party. So, another matter of satisfaction is that the vote was so decisive for the nominee for governor in both parties. The majority for Mayor Boone Dawson over R. J. Funkhouser is around 25,000 for the republican nomination. Judge Clarence Meadows has a majority of about 70,000 over Rush Holt. Meadows beat Holt by about two and a half votes to one and Holt was ahead of Blackburn Watts by about two and a half votes to one.

I have always contended that the best conditioning for running for governor or other state office was service in the Legislature, all other things being equal. Any way it makes or breaks him. The lower house has 96 members and the upper house 32. These legislators are from both parties and from every county in the State.

If a man has the confidence of his fellow members and impresses them with his honesty of purpose, level headedness, flat footedness and ability in general, when he offers for a state office he has influential back logs in every county, who will vouch for him if he is fitting. Party affiliation makes no difference, for friendship happily is not barred by such lines. So, I know I am right when I say the fellow members of a candidate for State office make or break him back home where the candidate himself cannot be intimately known.

A case in point is Judge Clarence Meadows in last week's election. He served in the legislature in the early thirties. He made good and eight years ago he was elected to the important office of Attorney General. His record in this office was such that his reelection was a matter of course. Two years ago, the important office of Circuit Judge came down in his own county of Raleigh became vacant. The place was offered to him and why he took it, some say one thing and some say another; I do not know, even if I do have my ideas. Any way, he made good as a just and learned judge, and the call came to him to offer for governor, as a candidate around whom we democrats, who are sick and tired of fussing, fighting prima donna, big I-ed, bug-eyed partisans, could rally and unite. [And, boys, did not we do just that with a refreshing looseness. And, for that matter, our republican friends, like their hopes, followed suit likewise for Mayor Dawson to head their ticket.

Anything new in this election? Not that anybody could notice, other than they did not fall so hard for the time disheveled slogan to lower taxes and raise salaries.

SAWDUST ALCOHOL

Dr. J. Alfred Hall, chemist of the U. S. Forest Service, is interested about the vast quantities of sawdust and wood shavings in the waste piles of the timbering industry. He has a process which shows that from the sawdust, he can produce 100,000,000 gallons of alcohol a year.

All that wood waste around sawmills, he maintains, could be used in this way, releasing about 40,000,000 gallons of grain. Such a by-product cannot be utilized for grain alcohol or beverages, being very poisonous, but indirectly it would make more grain alcohol available.

Suggestions of this sort should not be accepted without further knowledge. The question arises whether the conversion of this waste to alcohol would be commercially feasible. Industrialists surely know all about the possibilities long ago. If alcohol could have been obtained profitably from this source there is every likelihood that it would have been done long ago.

For shame, the above pronouncement is the leading editorial of a leading daily paper of West Virginia. In fact the Charleston Gazette.

Progress all down the ages has been hampered by such know-it-alls, who smugly rested on what appeared in their vagaries to be basis of fact—if it could have been done, in every likelihood it would have been done long ago.

Printing, gunpowder, flying, electricity, telephone, telegraph, wireless, steam engine—the wonders of science in general—came through inspiration to earnest souls who toiled upward through the night.

Be it remembered, for instance, that no important improvement in my own craft, printing, was ever brought about by a printer. No dumber than the rest of humanity in general, the attitude of my fellow craftsmen toward revolutionary, progressive change was the old line—if it could be done in all likelihood it would have been done long ago. Merckthaller, who made the type-setting machine was no printer. He was a jeweler.

Westinghouse was no railroad engineer. The top flight railroad engineer of his time was not seeing fools the day young scientist sought interview to explain his air brake. A little while later Mr. Westinghouse had no time to see fools when the top flight railroad engineer came to call for to learn about air brakes.

I could write at length on the dead pan attitude which has in every progressive generation taken position on the dead level plane that if progress could have been made in any line of endeavor, in all likelihood it would have been made long ago. However, I am a bit closer to the lumber and leather industries than any outside of my own craft. The lumber as called, industry has been so notoriously short sighted for anything but, attempts at short, quick returns that it has been more of a racket than an industry. So little thought was taken for the future, to make it a continuing industry from generation to generation, like any other crop, that the usual condition of a logged over country was that of a desert.

The history of oil and gas exploitation was just as bad. The gas of the Indiana oil fields should have lasted for seventy-five years. It was wasted in fifteen.

The tanners took the ancient English saying of "Nothing like leather" out of its setting, for to change it into the slogan, "nothing takes the place of leather." Then they smugly sat back and let nature take its course. It did. The rubber industry invested money in scientists. Things now do take the place of leather.

The complacent attitude on the part of a coal digger that if there were three thousand valuable by products in coal in all likelihood these would have been brought out and refined long, long ago, never produced a yard of nylon nor any of the other wonders the chemists have wrought from coal, air and water.

Shades of Columbus, Watts, Newton—here is a bird who pecks down with a writing machine the dead pan blind vaporing; out of date, five hundred years ago, if ever in date, to be spread by means of wonder printing appliances and marvels of transportation.

Hear the words of the great scientist and seer—a father of progressive thought—that he was like a child with his little bucket playing on the shore, while the great ocean of truth lay uncomprehended before him.

Then in the light of the centuries of progressive years, to have scientific investigation of a certain phases of industry dismissed with borish smugness that if there was anything to the matter in all likelihood it would have been attended to already. I am still voting for a press free from dead pan, dumbness, but at times hope sickers.

Social Security Board cited the case of a man 67 years old, who transferred 170 years ago from a job with a business concern to a job with the Government. Although he worked long enough and earned sufficient wages to justify payments of retirement benefits, and had reached the age of 65, he did not apply for his Social Security benefits. Therefore he failed to receive 24 monthly payments which he could have claimed. For payments can not begin until the claim is filed.

In order to qualify for monthly payment of benefits a worker must:

1. Have reached the age of 65 years or more.
2. Have worked on a job or jobs in a factory, shop, mine, mill, store, office of other place of business or industry.
3. Have been on paid jobs, covered by the law, at least $50 in each of a certain number of calendar quarters.
4. No longer employed on a job covered by the law.
5. File a claim for benefits with the Social Security Board.

Jobs not covered by the law are in Federal, state or local Government service; in agriculture, stock raising, fishing, or other non-commercial occupations; in domestic service; or in other non-commercial occupations.

Mr. Harbert stated that the Social Security Board is ready and willing to pay benefits to every person who is qualified to receive them. He expressed the hope that residents of the Charleston area who have reason to believe that they are entitled to benefits, would come to his office immediately and talk the matter over with him or one of his assistants. He says that if requested, assistance in filling out papers, and in securing necessary proofs will be given without charge.

The Social Security Board office is located at 324-36 Hewer Ave., Exponent-Telegram Building, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Our Army and Navy Boys

The following poetry was sent in by Private James L. Carpenter who is serving with the United States Army somewhere in the South Pacific. He has been in the army nineteen months and has been overseas since July 1943.

Draft Dodgers

Hey, there Mister—Yes, I mean you,
And any other fellows like you too
There's just a few words I'd like to say;
Then I'll leave and be on my way.
To you I am just another soldier boy

I am sorry if my presence seems to annoy,
But I am wondering if all the things are true,
That all the folks are saying 'a-bout you.

They say you are sound in body and mind,
With not a thing wrong that they can find,
But still in civilian clothes you are dressed,
And I am wondering why, like all the rest.

If you are in defense work, that's O. K.
Because you're doing your part that way,
And if you are in A. F. you are not to blame

For all men certainly are not the same.
But folks are saying the work you do,
Is not important and needless too

That when your number was called you cried,
And from your draft board tried to hide.

Maybe you think you'll stay at home,
And let the rest go across the foam
You'll lie and cheat, beg and cry,
To get your draft board to let you by.

But what if we all were like you,
What would our army and navy do
Who then would our land defend,
Who would there be this war to win?

So while you're sitting at home with ease,
Doing just anything you please
Think of the boys who have given their lives

Who have fallen beneath Japanese knives.
They have given their all for men like you,
And you're scared your part to do

You don't have the guts with which to fight,
While other men are fighting with all their might.

I am speaking of you my draft-jodger friend,
And now I am bringing this to an end,
I wanted to make sure that you would know

That boys like me think you are rather low.

Dora Ann Barlow received this letter, from Pvt. Harry Ryder, who is in Italy:

Dear Dora:

Will answer your letter I just received. Sure was glad to hear from you. I'm O. K., and hope everyone there is the same. I received a letter from Dottie and she said Mother was getting along fine. Gee, I bet Bob and Lawrence did have some time. Just with I could have been there with them. Well, anyway, this damn war will be over one of these days and I hope how soon, for believe me, it is no fun here on the front line, living in a fox hole, that is to small to breathe the air in, until the darn Jerry's get to shelling us and then it seems that they are as big as all out doors. Well Dora, believe me they don't throw all the lead, for we let them know we have some hot lead to throw back, and Dora we make it really hot for them.

You said you heard from Roscoe Reynolds, be sure and send me his address, for I may be able to find him here. Say, Dora, the writing paper situation is really serious over here. I wrote Roundy. Well I guess this is one Birth day, I will not get drunk, although there is plenty of vino and cognac here in Italy, there is none on the front line; so I just have to stay sober for once. Well just for that, when I get these darn Jerry's lined up just right, and get this machine gun turned loose, I will mow them down to-day and shock tomorrow.

Well, the rainy weather is over now, or just about, and I am sure glad; for when it rains these fox holes, oh, are awful muddy. I thought at first, I would freeze to death in this fox hole. The weather is getting warm, and how glad I am!

Well, Dora, there just isn't any more news to write about. Do write real often, for you have no idea how I and all the boys appreciate letters here, and I will write you every chance I get. So answer soon. As ever,

Harry

This poem was sent in by Cpl. Ralph Noonan, some where in England, to his mother, for May 14th.

Dearest Mother:

On this happy day, I want to thank you sincerely for all you have done for me. I feel helpless to repay you. You labored and toiled for me night and day. You worked hard to make my life happy. Everything that is best in life I owe to you. I shall never forget everything you did for me.

MOTHER OF MINE

God's fingers painted the drawing and traced all the silver there,
But dearest to me, is the silver,
He laid on my Mother's hair.

How sweet is the light on the waters
And blue are the summer skies;
But sweeter and deeper the love-light

That shines in my mother's eyes.
The sun sparkles bright on the dew drops,
That lies in the rose's vase;

But Heaven's own beauty awakens in the smile on my mother's face.
Oh, God! the works of thy finger are wondrous and so divine;
But this is the earth's rarest beauty.

That wonderful Mother of Mine.
Love, your son,
Ralph.

Leona Burner sends in the following letter from her brother, Pvt. LeRoy Burner:

Dear Leona:

I will try and answer some of your letters I received a few days ago. How are you all getting along? I guess you all had a nice Easter! Where is Henry? I am some where in Italy. I have seen a little action since I have been here. Boy, you get a little shaky when shells begin dropping around you.

I can't think of much to write, so I will close, hoping to hear from you soon.

With love, your brother,
LeRoy Burner.

This poem was sent to Mrs. G. C. Beale, by her son, Clyde, who is in the U. S. Army:

TO MY MOTHER

I miss you terribly mother,
For to me you're very dear.
Don't know when I will see you
Doubt if I can this year.

You write many letters
You say that you are fine
But in your heart there's a longing,
Just as there is in mine.

I can't express this longing,
In just so many words
To do so would take ages
And where would I get the words!

I know it isn't happiness
To sit at home and wait;
Wondering if I'm O. K.
Or if I'm gaining weight.

The days are long and lonesome,
And often you feel blue,
But it won't be long mother,
Until this war is through.

We're very busy at present
We've each a job to do,
But never does a day pass,
That I don't think of you.

Many nights while sleeping
I dream I am at home with you,
Some day soon I'm hoping,
These dreams will come true.

We know why we're fighting,
And we'll fight till its through
We're fighting first of all,
For Mothers just like you.

When its all over Mother dear
I'm coming home to you
I'll be back as fast as I can
And brother Ellis will too.

Miss Gatha Fertig of Clover Lick, sends in this letter from her brother Neal, who is "some where in England."

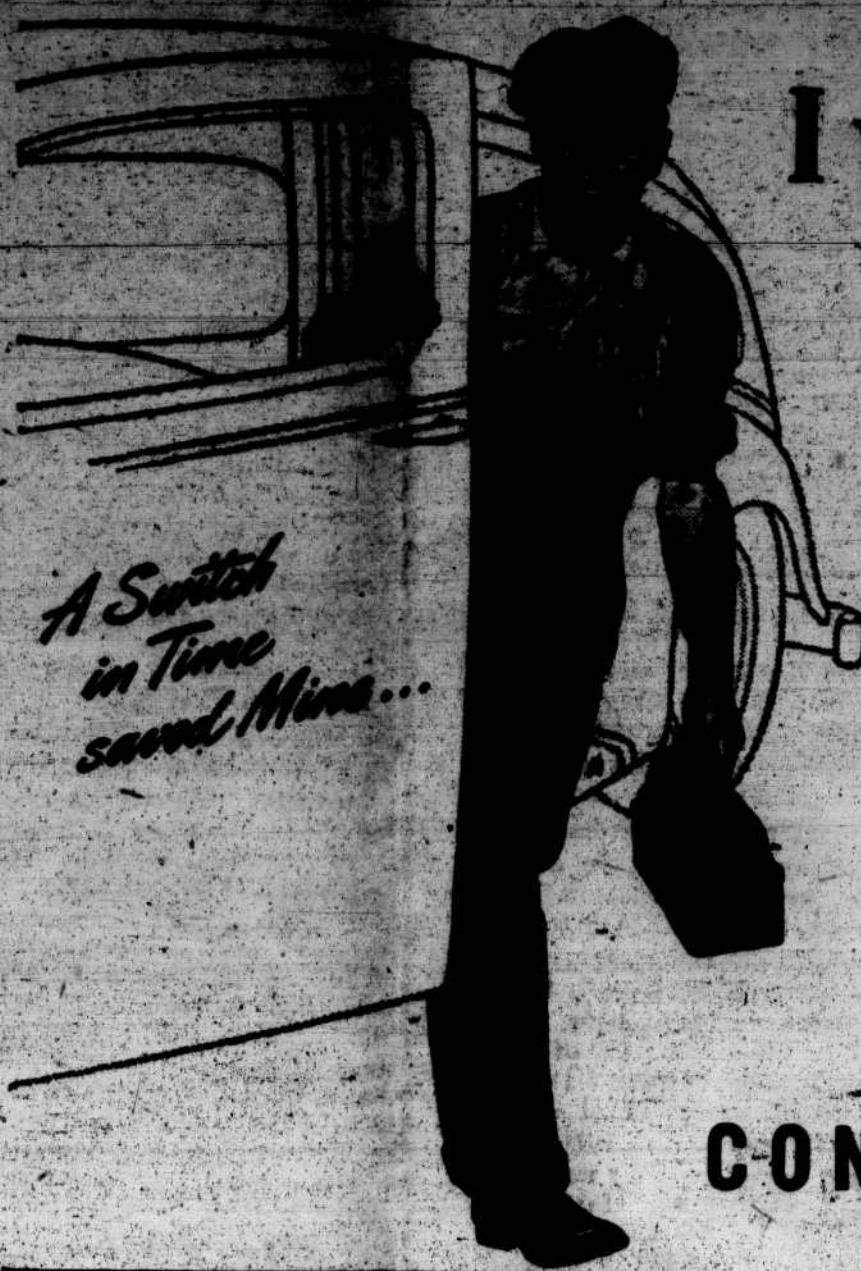

Dearest Sister:

I've just received another letter from you today. Hope you all are well. I'm all O. K. I also received the picture of Mother and Dad you sent me. Its the only one I have of her and I sure got homesick when I opened the letter and saw whose picture it was.

Thanks a million for it. Helen, I would like to send you one of me, but I do not have any over here, at present. Sister, I have met up with Jake already and he sure is looking good. He is only two miles from me. I went to see him last Sunday and brought him back to my camp; and we surely enjoyed ourselves. But we didn't hard to know each other when we met.

Helen, I certainly do appreciate you sending me something, thanks a lot. Sis, could you send me some shaving cream? I tell you, all we get is from the good old States. Write soon again, with all my love, your brother, Neal.

From Wade Gillespie, to his mother, Mrs. Howard Underwood

I was some pest.

I bothered the life out of auto service men after the curtain went down on new cars. I know I'd be in some pickle if this car wouldn't last, so I kept quizzing the fellows. Every man-jack of them had a good motor oil or some other life-saver, if I could judge. By good luck I paid real attention to one chap who had his reasons why to OIL-PLATE this engine with Conoco Nth oil. He said every explosion in your engine makes acids, which corrode bare metal. Sounds straight, eh? But with something synthetic in Conoco Nth oil keeping the metal OIL-PLATED, you'd say the fine finish receives special protection to fight the acids off. When you see you're not needing a trade-in nearly as soon as usual, you can give real credit to OIL-PLATING. New cars will be going some if they're half as far ahead as you can be right now by switching to Conoco Nth oil.

DEATHS

Nathan Rexrode

Nathan Rexrode of Mill Creek, was born March 24, 1870 and died May 1, 1944 at the home of his son, Morgan Rexrode of Durbin, after a short illness, at the age of 74 yrs. 1 month and 6 days. On Thursday afternoon his body was laid to rest in the Gum cemetery on Back Alley. The funeral was conducted at the Bethel Church, by Rev. M. N. DeHaven.

In 1894 he was united in marriage to Mahala Elizabeth Rader, of Pendleton County, who preceded him to the grave 15 years ago. To this union, were born eight children, five of whom survive: Mrs. Alma Godner, of Youngstown, Ohio; Morgan Rexrode of Durbin; Walter of Keyser; Pearl of Youngstown, O.; and Claude of the U. S. Army, stationed in Alabama.

He is also survived by one brother, George Rexrode, of Benick; one sister Mrs. Emma Frontino, of Woodland, Pa.; thirty-one grand-children; eighteen great-grand-children and a host of relatives and friends. All of his children and brother were present at the funeral.

He was a kind, good man, ever ready to help those in need. He spent the greater part of his life in Randolph and Mineral Counties. His death came as a shock to a wide circle of friends.

THOUGHTS OF HOME

This poem was sent to Miss Dorothy Shinnaberry of Huntersville, by her soldier friend, some where in England:

I think of home, so far away
Across the ocean wide
I want to live to see that day
When I'm on that beautiful side

And there's a girl I love her so
I think of her each day
I write to her so she will know
I love her along the way.

But there are times when all is blue
And life seems like a dream
So remember that your heart is true
Things happen as they seem.

And there's mama, old and gray
In her rocking chair each day
How I wish I were near
A prayer for me I'd hear.

So that home, my thoughts are there
My body and self is here
But, I'll keep my trust and never fear
For some day I'll be there.

Mrs. Joe Anastasio of Clover Lick sends in the two following letters from her brothers who are overseas:

Dear Sis:

Well, I'm fooled, I'm going to answer your letter. How are you and the family getting a long? Fine, I hope, I heard you were in the hospital. I hope you are O. K. now. How are the twins doing? I sure would like to see you. I bet Patay is as mean as ever. Is Joe still working at Charleston? What ever made him stop working with Dad? I saw Tony over here. I didn't even know him. We sure showed him a good time. I had your brother-in-law address and lost it. He wrote me once since he has been in England. Well, guess I'll sign off, for this time. Tell all hello for me and lots of luck. Tell Edith and her Dad and mother hello.

Your brother, Vince.

Dearest Sis:

After a long time, I will write you a few lines. I hope that everyone is well. I am well and getting along fine.

I guess you wouldn't ever write if I could. It seems like none of you write much, but just so I hear from you in a while, I don't care. I have a lot of writing to do.

How are the kids doing? (Cathy has been talking me how funny they are. I sure would like to see them. The twins will probably be talking before I get back. I wrote a letter to Joe, and I will write a letter to Conrad, just

Have a Coca-Cola = As you were

... a way to relax on a battleship

Wherever a U. S. battleship may be, the American way of life goes along... in sports, games, customs and refreshment. So, naturally, Coca-Cola is there, too, and with frequency. Here a "Coke" is a phrase as common as a battle-cries as it is a salute. It's a signal that spells out "We're just from Adams to the Seven Seas, Coca-Cola is spreading the custom of the pause that refreshes—has become a symbol of happy comradeship in many lands.

Two military policemen suffered severe injuries at 7:45 o'clock this morning when motorcycles they were riding abreast were struck by an automobile driven by Peter Marshall, 55, 905 N. Albany Avenue, at Cass Street and Highland Avenue, Traffic Policeman Gardner reported.

Marshall, held in City Jail, pending the outcome of the soldiers' injuries, said he was proceeding east on Cass and that the sun in his eyes prevented his seeing the motorcycles as he attempted to make a left turn into Highland.

The soldiers, identified by police as Sergeant Hefflin and Private McKenney, of Plant Field Military Police Detachment, were taken to Drew Field Hospital. Hefflin was said to have suffered severe cuts, burns and bruises, while McKenney was believed to have suffered a fractured left knee and deep cuts about the thigh and possibly other injuries.

Under date of May 24, Mrs. W. C. Pope, of Tampa, writes Mrs. McKenney that she had been to the hospital to see Cameron, and that he was resting well.

O. S. S. Zeilin
Some where in Pacific
May 11, 1944.

Hello Cal:

Perhaps you haven't expected to hear from me, but my branch of service is more or less on the move all the time. So with changing events of importance and some of less importance brings about thoughts of friends, both old and new. And by the way you have heard it said that old friends are the best friends. Well maybe in some cases but certainly not true in my Naval career thus far. For in this great world which I offer to my humble friends, I have met with hundreds of ship mates, which could never be forgotten.

In fact, the Naval career as a whole, is not only exciting but very educational from many points of view, a bit like the radio which brings one in touch with world news, but the movements of vast convoys and attacks upon the enemy which leaves things that will never be forgotten. Thus world news and places of events become a reality. Oh, yes, we guys at sea, think of home frequently, and invariably some ship mate suddenly slaps you gently on the shoulder and remarks "Well, Mac" (which is a common given name to every sailor). "What is showing at the movies this evening?" And suddenly the train of thought has changed because the last news from home was good, as all were well. We are proud of our ship, because it is our home, in fact our world; since we are thousands of miles from land, and innumerable fathoms of salt water under us, she naturally becomes something sacred to us, and all the convenience that she affords, such as laundry, dry goods, tobacco store, with necessities etc., Barber shop, Dental office, pharmacy and cold drink stand. Well, it is like being in the small town except more convenient. Oh, yes, we have a big too, "but keep me out of that place." Those above mentioned friends are nice to have in exchanging favors which proves to me that to man can live alone in any walk of life. My opportunity for attending Divine services are equal to those of civilian life since there is some form of service held every day of the week, and especially so on Sunday. So, its evident that Uncle Sam does not only intend to take care of our home land, but to care for us at the same time, even with the same medical technique that could be expected anywhere. You may have the idea that I am exaggerating a bit. Well you should see this tremendous piece of steel that floats so peacefully through a weird tossed sea, "she is the largest ship of her kind" that the Navy has, and we say with pride in comparison to other duties of our buddies in other ports, she is a good home for us until that welcome word is announced to ears of anxiety—Victory.

Cal, it is impossible for me to express my appreciation for your kindness in printing those interesting letters of correspondence from all parts of the world, your job too, is one of importance in our war effort via moral, and may I say in closing to all concerned, "May He who rules the Universe in due time deliver us all from a world of chaos to a world of Peace."

Remaining yours gratefully,
George H. Vaughan.

SOMEWHERE IN GUINEA

Somewhere in New Guinea, where the rain is like a curse,
Each day is followed by another slightly worse
Your tent is always moldy and your clothes are always damp
Where shaving is a torture and a man feels like a tramp

Somewhere in New Guinea where a white woman is never seen;
The skies are always cloudy and the grass is wet and green
Where something besides mosquitoes robs a man of blessed sleep
There isn't any whiskey, the guineas very cheap

Somewhere in New Guinea, where the skies are not made of love
The clouds are filled with death
Lights
Spotting out Tojo from the sky each night
Where the flashes from the light shows the ack-ack aim is right
The zeros whining downward one less for tomorrow night

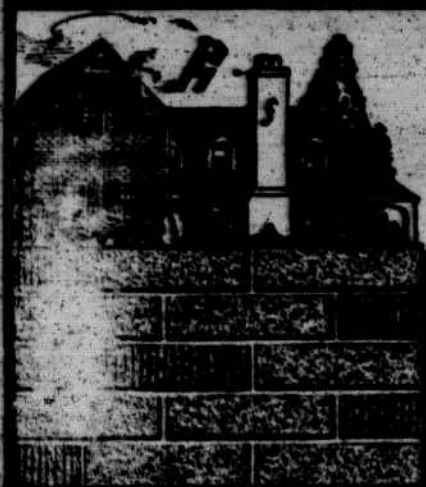

In New Guinea where the mail is always late, a Xmas card in April is considered up to date

Where we never have a pay-day, But we never miss the money for we never get it spent Somewhere in New Guinea, where the guinea ants do play,
A hundred fresh mosquitoes replace the ones you slay
So take me back to West Virginia Let me hear the whistle of a train
For this God forsaken place is a substitute of H—

In the year 1943, the people of Pocahontas County bought more than a half million dollars worth of government bonds, yet the year showed an increase of half million dollars in local bank deposits.

ALONG THE WAY

By Susan A. Price, M. D.

Not yet a hundred years ago but it could just as well be just a little late in the summer my father, then in his prime, hale and hearty, eased our family beast of burden, Jack, out of his stall. He went over him carefully with the curry comb and brush to remove as far as a horse is concerned what is now advertised in shaving circles as the five o'clock shadow. After this brushing down, he hitched him to our high wheeled sulkey. After giving the sulkey seat a good dusting, he climbed into this family carryall. "It could hold all at that time. My father, my two older brothers and me. I was on the floor, holding to the dash board."

He drove up the road. He was on his way to Rawley Springs; at that time the fashionable popular and crowded summer resort of Virginia. One only had to see the crowded stage coach, as it thundered along the Pike after a train had come in at Harrisonburg, to realize its importance and prestige.

My father had made a momentous decision: to go to Rawley to see, or rather, call upon the man who was at that time the most renowned minister in the world; whose picture was on the cover of the illustrated magazine and as familiar to us as one of the family—the Rev. T. Dewitt Talmadge, D. D. I think my mother had encouraged my father to visit his fellow minister, as it was quite a trip and perhaps an ordeal. Anyway, he did not meet the famous man, for he sent word he "had turned out to grass" and was on his vacation. I do not think my father ever quite got over that rebuff, as I heard him speak of it in after life and my mother was disappointed too.

Rawley Springs is now one with Ninevah and Tyre, but once was as famed. Ask anyone of a few older people still living along the "Pike," on their frying-pan farms, who once lived on and by the Springs trade, and note the incredulous looks of their grand children. These only know Rawley Springs as a wooded wilderness, with a little boxed up spring from which flows a tiny trickle of the once famed mineral water, across a rutted mountain trail, to disappear in underbrush. I looked it over cautiously not so many years ago, in the ruins of an old bowling alley, which was once a scene of much hilarity, as a game of ten pins thundered along the echoing sides of the great North Mountain.

There died in Richmond last week a daughter of the late Doctor and Mrs. T. Dewitt Talmadge. One of her sons married a daughter of the late Major Norman Randolph, Confederate States Army, a kinsman of my mother.

In today already walks tomorrow.

THEY NEED YOU

(From An Editorial by Paul Gallico)

Have you done your bit for the Gasoline Black Market today? Then hurry! Hurry down to the nearest filling station or unscrupulous filling station and get your extra five or ten gallon quota. Behind that extra five gallons slipped into your tank, behind that page of coupons bought from the friendly stranger, who had "more than he could use," stand the thief, the racketeer, the Big Fellow, the murderer. They need you. They're organized and waiting. There hasn't been as sweet racket as this since the days of prohibition. They depend upon you. With out your help and connivance the entire criminal structure would collapse overnight.

What about the brave thief who burgled the ration board premises of coupons? Are you going to permit his labors to go for nothing by refusing to ask for an extra five gallons? What of the counterfeiter laboring over his dies and presses? Art for art's sake? He's got to eat, hasn't he?

And what of the yet unmurdered enforcement officers and racketeers? Do you want them to live forever? The first have already died for the Black Market coupons but in the shadows waits impatiently an army of cold killers eager to pick up the killing where they left off when prohibition was repealed. What are you going to do, not in remembrance of truth?

Hurry up, purchase the Black Market and give the racketeers a break. — From Island Road.

Edward Robert, to His Boy's Scout Camp

Twenty-five hundred feet above sea level, in the heart of the Monongahela national forest, with its trails, forest lore and wildlife, a famous spring which flows more than a million and a half gallons of water a day, two mountain streams—such is the setting for a summer camp for boys. Camp Minnehaha, located at Minnehaha Springs, 30 miles from Hot Springs, Virginia, and a few miles from Marlinton.

Camp Minnehaha will be an ideal boys' camp. The one famous inn will be the lodge. Here the boys will eat in what was once a fashionable dining hall. A sunny upstairs room has been made into a dispensary where a registered nurse will reside.

Activities for Camp Minnehaha youths will begin at 7:30 in the morning. Education and recreation will be well balanced. In addition to swimming, there will be horseback riding, riflery, archery, softball tennis, handicraft, hiking and nature study.

The camp staff includes some well known personalities as Edgell Dean, who holds degrees from Denison and Chicago universities, and has for two years worked with boys. Toby Chandler, physical education instructor and director of athletics at Charleston's Woodrow Wilson junior high, is the counselor from Charleston. Others include Everett Brinkman, Wheeling high's dean of boys, Ed Buck, Richwood high coach, and widely known out-doorman, and others of similar reputation.

"This is the year to send boys to camp," Toby Chandler, the Charleston representative said. "Several weeks in the heart of the Monongahela forest, participating in normal boyhood activities will do much for any youth. Boys can get away from the pressure of wartime living."

Complete information about Camp Minnehaha can be obtained by writing Edgell Dean at Richwood, W. Va.

English.
P. M. May 1, 1944.

Dear Mother:

Here I am all O. K., sitting on the ground, trying to answer your letter received yesterday. I had not had any mail for over a week; I think I got 15 letters yesterday—three of them were from you, dated April 6, 9 and 17th. Sure was glad to hear from you and to hear that dad was feeling better and that the rest were all well. I am all O. K. except for feeling slightly tired.

I have been rather busy for over a week and haven't had time to write to anybody. Hope you have not been worried because you had not heard from me. I have told you before when at times you didn't hear from me for some time, not to worry. There are times when we are unable to write for a few days.

I had a couple letters from the girls; Helen said she was getting along fine and was going to work at Owens. Hope she will be strong enough and that she will get along fine there. I also had five letters from Mildred; she said she was getting along very well. I ran into her brother Robbie's unit a couple days ago, but he was away when I got there—had been gone about 15 minutes.

We were near each other all day and when I found it out he had gone. I talked to several of his buddies. They said he was getting along fine. I doubt if I have the same opportunity again that I had that day.

Yes, Mom, I am detach service, away from my headquarters; am in a field unit and like it fine, am in a Medical Battalion. Gordon is in the same kind of an outfit I was in the last I was on D. S. He is a cook and I am a surgical technician. I work in the operating room; have to scrub up and wear sterile gloves and assist with operations, just like a nurse. We are a surgical team of four Drs. and four Techs. I like the work fine; have told you all this before, thought I would tell you again.

I sure would like to see some of the boys you say are over here maybe I will run into some of them sometime.

So Ralph is on a troop carrier. That is a very good job, but I wish he could have come over here. Am sorry you have been having such bad weather, hope it is better and that Dad can get his work done before so late.

People are plowing, planting, etc., here, now. Their farming is similar to ours. Some of them have tractors to do their farming and other do it with horses. Their horses sure look funny. Most of them have bob-tails and their legs are covered with long hair clear down over their hoofs. They are odd looking.

The fields are pretty and green now; most of the fences here are built of stone. A lot of them are covered with dirt and it has soddled over and is nice and green. In other words, they have hedge for fences. The apple trees are in bloom now; also the hollyhocks are out in bloom; suppose it is some earlier here than there.

You asked if I ever get any eggs? The only kind we ever get are powdered omelets and they are scrambled ones. I sure could go for some good fresh ones now. I saw a farmer selling some to some of the boys today. He was getting one shilling for two or equal to ten cents apiece for them. I wish I had yours here; would get a good price for them.

We get very good eats, have fresh pork or beef once and sometimes twice every day and have chicken most every Sunday. These things are all sent from the States.

Well Mom, I am sort of tired, and will quit for now and will write again soon. Take care of yourselves and don't worry about me. Love to all.

French.

An Advanced Pacific Base—

The Purple Heart has been awarded to Marine Sergeant Harry G. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Smith, Cass, W. Va., for injuries received in action against the enemy during the fighting for Nanur Island, Kwajalein, Atoll, Marshall Islands.

The presentation was made in a brief but impressive ceremony by Major General Harry Schmidt commanding the Fourth Marine Division, which struck the northern end of Kwajalein Atoll. In making the award, General Schmidt said—

"This medal is not offered in compensation for the wounds you have suffered. No material reward can possibly compensate for the grievous hurts which many of you have suffered.

"But the Purple Heart is a symbol. It betokens a nation's respect for the sacrifices you have made. It commands you for the willingness to make that sacrifice when the need arose to defend your country with your own blood. It conveys the heartfelt gratitude of your Government for the victories which your courage and determination have made possible."

The following letter was received by Mrs. R. W. McMahon.

When you will get this to me, Mom, you will find it to be true.

You said don't worry, I'll be back. But no one can tell what will happen.

When you are on the enemy's track.

I have trusted you in God's care. That He will guide you through. And that you will be ready when our blessed Saviour calls.

I told you I would wait and pray. And wait for your returning. Just like the rest of mothers. We will keep the home fires burning.

The blue star in my service flag. I pray God will never turn to gold. And I will be waiting and praying.

But I know each year will grow old. We miss your footsteps in the home. Since you have gone away. But the memory of you is fresh in mind.

So God take care of this precious boy. And care for others too. While they are fighting for loved ones here. And protecting the red, white and blue.

Pfc. W. L. Smith writes as follows from Corsica:

Dear Mr. Price:

I have been getting The Times quite regular. It sure is good to receive a paper from home, telling all the news. I see that a lot of the boys from around home are in the Army or Navy. I have been in the Service over two years. A lot of the home town boys are in Italy, but I didn't meet any of them while I was there.

Mr. Price, you should have been in Italy some time ago. You could have gotten a swell picture of Mt. Vesuvius. It sure was something to see. I suppose it will take several years to put Italy back in shape. The cities and towns are pretty badly bombed and shelled. Will sign off for now. Keep the paper coming for I sure enjoy reading it. Good Luck to you and all at home.

Sincerely,
Walter Smith.

Mrs. Grady Doyle, of Maeo, received the following letter from her son, Randall:

Dear Mother & All:

Well, here I go again trying to drop you another line. It has only been two days since I wrote, but guess one every day would suit you. Well here is the best news of them all. I finally got to an outfit, which make two times I have moved since I came over. Boys, this place is O. K. I really like it. Everyone is so nice to you, trying to help you all the time. The Officers are the best I have found yet. They seem awfully nice so far. In an outfit you learn to know the boys and they are always with you.

Gee, money is no good to you here. You don't have to buy anything. When you need cigarettes you go to the supply room. They give you all the writing paper you need.

"Just for my part of the army I will take it over as anytime. We got in here yesterday eve. They took two trucks and took us to the movies. We didn't get back until one o'clock. The machine wasn't working right, and it took that long to run the picture. Talk about liking it here, since I started, they have been around six times passing out stuff such as candles, iodine, first aid bandages, water, corn oil, foot powder and writing paper.

Hope you get the souvenir I sent. It wasn't much.

Well I think this is about all for this time. Will leave room for my new address. I am doing O. K. With love, Randall.

Mrs. Lonnie McLaughlin of Minnehaha, received this letter from her brother, Cpl. Glen Kelley, who has been in England, since January, and has been in the Service twenty-six months:

Dearest Sister:

Well Sis, here's hello to you and everyone. Hoping you are still O. K., and perking yet. Guess I am doing O. K. myself. On duty tonight, so thought I would answer your V-mail. I received today. I'm trying to type it, not going so fast, but have all night, so doesn't matter much. So Ward is still at home? Guess he doesn't feel so good about not passing his examination. Say Sis did Okey Mollens ever go to the army? No one ever told me whether he did or not.

You asked me to send you a picture. Now, that you are planting garden would be a good time to have one of me. But I will tell you the truth, everything here is so hard to get, I just hate to feel or seem with them.

You said Guy was O. K., and home, I'll bet he is too, and that he isn't by himself. I don't hear from him very often.

Did I tell you I finally heard from Bob? Well I did, and I am sure he doesn't get to stay with her much.

When you will get this to me, Mom, you will find it to be true.

You said don't worry, I'll be back. But no one can tell what will happen.

Talking about snakes, I have always heard that if you did not cross a rattler up in the spruce woods he would be a big one. Coming across Chest Mountain at the Kerr Top one day last week, Albert Curry did come across a rattlesnake, and it sure was a big one. This snake was not much over four feet long, but it was big, around. This was a black one, totally without the usual markings, and peeled off like an onion.

A. T. White reports a white robin at his place on Dougherty Creek, near Minnehaha Springs. The bird has a white back, and its breast is a pale white—a little dark but not red. She has a nest and is now busy feeding her young. Mr. White has not located the nest to see what color the young robins are.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Moore harvested their lemon crop one day last week. It consisted of one twelve ounce fruit, really and truly ripe. In made a full gallon of lemonade, plenty strong, and of a peculiar, pleasant flavor. Another blossom had just set fruit and it looked like the yellow fruit ought to be ripe, and so it was.

Three years ago Mr. Moore bought a little three leaved lemon seedling. Last year about this time there came one bloom, and a year later the fruit looked to be ripe. The growth is slow, almost six inches a year.

Durbin—Conservation agencies have long placed emphasis on the complete extinguishment of camp fires. There can be an unselfish side to this stand. This was proved the first day of trout season when a fisherman abandoned a camp fire near Wildcat on the West Fork of Greenbrier River. The partially extinguished fire broke out at 9:00 p. m. and burned over about three-fourths acre of ground. Despite the efforts of several fishermen headed by Ted Baines of Wildcat, the fire completely destroyed the fisherman's car and considerable camping equipment which had been locked inside.

Raymond Bowers was sweeping in a public building in this town some weeks ago. He came upon a double jointed, high geared, spider, plenty quick on its numerous feet. He scooped up the little dickens in a wide mouth bottle, and delivered him to this office. His picture is in the book—a centipede. The bite of all centipedes is poisonous, and the large species is dangerous. The common kind found this far north lives in houses and feeds on flies, roaches and other insects. The book name is scutigera forscops. One scientific writer says its presence in a house should be welcomed, since it can do no harm other than a somewhat poisonous bite. Another equally high authority says he steps on every centipede, he finds in his house.

The meeting was called to order by the president, and Mrs. Elmer Barker led devotionals. The lesson, "Keeping well in War time" was discussed by Mrs. Sharp. A demonstration was given on how to patch screen doors. Our recreation leader gave us a memory test, with Mrs. Ward Barlow winning. Refreshments were served. The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Arnold McNeil on June 15.

Rev. J. H. Haley
Rev. James H. Haley died in a Washington Hospital on Wednesday, May 17, 1944. He was pastor of the Methodist Church at Gathersburg, Md. His body was laid to rest in Charles Town, Jefferson County.

For forty years Mr. Haley had been a minister of the Methodist Church. For two years 1939-41 he was pastor at Marlinton. He is survived by Mrs. Haley and their seven children, Miss Martha Haley, Mrs. Nancy Burger, Mrs. Lucy Marshall, Rev. Carl Haley, James, Burrell and Gail Haley.

Harlan Elsworth Dean
Harlan Elsworth Dean was born November 16, 1901 and died on March 3, 1944, aged 42 years, 3 months and 16 days.

He was a soldier in the United States army. He left for service November 8, 1942 and was only in the army a short time when he was sent to overseas duty. He went to North Africa, from there to Sicily and then to Italy where he was killed in action.

Harlan professed his faith in at Beulah Church a short time before he left for service and has written many good letters back home saying not to worry about him for God would take care of him, and to keep the cottage prayer services going on. The 27th Psalm was one of his favorite chapters in the Bible.

Harlan is survived by his parents, five sisters and one brother; Mrs. Edger Walton, of Hillsboro; Mrs. Sidney Boyce, Lena, Verlie, Naomi and Lee, at home, and a host of other relatives and friends.

A funeral service was conducted at the Beulah Church on May 14th by his home pastor, Rev. A. L. Tenny.

The golden gates were opened. A gentle voice said "Come," And from a land of toil and care, Our darling entered home.

Harlan, dear, oh how we missed you, And longed for your return But God needed another jewel So He took our precious one.

To be with him in Heaven Where all is bright and fair, And we can meet you Harlan And live forever there.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dean and Family.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean received the following letter from Harlan's chaplain:

"As Division Chaplain of the Third Infantry Division to which Private Harlan E. Dean was assigned at the time of his death I am writing to you to offer my deepest sympathy.

Private Dean paid a great price that we as a free people might enjoy all those things that make life worth living. By that he showed his intense love for us. For greater love than this no man hath, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Not only our Nation, but also our very civilization is deeply indebted to him, a debt we can never repay. Surely God in His infinite mercy has given him the reward he so well deserved.

Harlan was laid to rest in a beautifully located cemetery that is kept spot and span. Full military honors and religious services, conducted by myself, were rendered at his graveside. I am not allowed to divulge any information other than this to you.

I assure you that I shall remain your loved one in all my prayer on your dying day. As for yourself, may God grant that your courage in bearing your burden be as great as that of Harlan in the performance of his duty.

Sincerely yours,
Ralph J. Smith.

Private Lawson S. Cutlip, stationed at Camp Bowie, Texas, is at home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Romie J. Cutlip, of Marlinton.

Two Pocahontas County, West Virginia, men are receiving their initial naval indoctrination at the United States Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois. Their recruit training completed these men will spend a period of leave at home. They are: Shad R. McLaughlin, 19, son of Elmer D. McLaughlin, of Huntersville, and James Marvin Wimer, 31, husband of Merle R. Wimer, of Marlinton.

Paine Field, Washington—Corporal Norman Dilley, member of the Air Base unit here, has been awarded a Good Conduct Medal on orders from the Commanding Officer, Paine Field, Everett, Washington. To win this medal the soldier must have shown exemplary behavior, efficiency and fidelity. The ribbon of the medal is scarlet with three white vertical stripes at each side.

Gilmer Sharp was home from the Army a few days this week. He is the son of Cliff C. Sharp, and is one of four brothers in the service. He is stationed in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Loy Sharp has received word that her husband, Loy Sharp, of the United States Navy, has landed safely in New Guinea. He is the son of Elmer Sharp, of Jerico Road.

Corporal Ray W. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mary Hall, of Hillsboro, is home from Italy, recovering from injuries.

Miss "Bunny" Turner, of Marlinton, received the following letter from her father, Elmo Reed Turner, who is stationed with the Army Air Forces overseas:

Somewhere in China, April 30, 1944.

Dear Bunny:

I sure was glad to get two letters from you yesterday, also eleven from mother and one from Grandma Turner. The mail man really brought a pile of them, at last. Yes there are lots of Chinese people around here. Sometimes I see a little Chinese baby and they are cute but are not the same color as the babies at home.

I think you are getting along real good in school. You sure surprised me in your writing as you can write most anything you want too. Oh, yes, I got the pictures of you and mother today and I think your hair is real pretty.

Be a good girl and some of these days I will be home. Write to me when you can.

As ever, Dad.

Private Frank Borris writes as follows to his mother, Mrs. Mable Borris, of Cass:

England, May 14, 1944.

Dear Mother:

As this is Mother's Day I will write as I can not send you anything as I am here in England.

How are you feeling? Fine, I hope. I have received only one letter from you since I came here. Mother, I don't want you to worry about me, because I am getting along fine just like over there. I went to the church services this morning. I try to go every Sunday. If it is not asking too much I wish you would go also. Every time I wonder if the folks back home are at church. The sooner we all realize that sin is the cause of wars the better things will be. The people do not have enough faith in Christ.

Well, mother, I am at another camp then when I last wrote to you. This is a much better place. One reason that I like it better here is that the Commanding Officer is sure one nice fellow.

Mom, if you can, I wish you would get some of the boys' addresses from around there and send them to me with their APO number and if they are here maybe I can find them. I have met only two boys that I knew over here. It sure makes anyone feel good to find someone they know when so far away.

Well as I have run out of anything more to write I will close. Answer soon.

Love, Your son, Frank.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest D. Malcomb received the following letter from their son, Paul D. Malcomb, of the United States Navy:

May 23, 1944.
South Pacific.
Dear Mother and Dad:
Sorry I haven't written for so long but have been on the move and couldn't get to it.
Have seen a little more of the world than my last letter. Am on an island now that was in Jap is a nice and peaceful place. I have seen any other base I have been to. Have movies every night. Much else to do but time is time very well. I decided I got to see the natives: funny looking. They all smoke pipes. They make a mattress. There are lots of coconuts here. If we did not have anything else to eat we could live for a long time on them. But fortunately we do not have to depend on that for the choice is very good.

Have a good bit of rain here and it is nice and muggy. That isn't so bad for have a dry place to sleep and most of the day I stay around the sick bay. We have no one sick though. My work does not amount to much.

Nothing much to write about this time. Would like to let you know where I am but of course I can't. It is kinda hot here, what time it does not rain, but it is not any worse than summer at home.

Have been seeing some good movies. They are often open air ones and some nights get a little damp but it is worth it. It is time for show now so will quit for this time. Bye for now and keep well and take care of yourselves.

Love, Paul.
Paul D. Malcomb, PhM 1-c

Mrs. Mary Long, of Cass, sends in this letter from her son, Private Arlie Long:

England, April 21, 1944.

Dear Mother:

Just a few words to let you know I am still getting along (O. K.) and hope this finds you all the same.

Mother, I received your package a short time ago. Have you received any of the checks from the allotment yet?

I had a letter from Evelyn and she said Jack Bragg was home. He is discharged and is on a furlough. He is Daddy getting along with his work. Has Virgil or Leonard gone to the Army yet? I hope they were going soon. I wish Hunter but have not heard from him yet.

Well, mother I will say so long as I am in a hurry and do not have much time to write so answer real soon and tell me all the news at home. Tell everybody I said hello and best regards to you all.

Your son, Arlie.

The following letter is from Pvt. Minter C. Moore, who is stationed at Fort Warren, Wyo.

Dear Cal:

These few lines find me in the West. It is the first time I have been in Wyoming, and for my part, they can give it back to the Indians. The Camp here sure is nice but the climate and weather are not. Maybe it is because I am so far from home, but it rains every day.

I am in the cadre here. They took my Tee. Rating and are going to give me a different one. I have four classes to teach each day, besides the drilling and Basic training. All of the instructors and teachers here have been in foreign service and can teach from personal experience.

How is everything around Marlinton these days? The same as usual, I suppose.

I suppose you have been getting all the big news located, so you can pull them in the first day of the season.

Well, I guess I had better close as there is nothing much to write.

An old friend, Minter.

FIELD NOTES

Life is becoming wilder in the wilds tributary to the Churchville District and threaten to overflow into the realms of pure science, pure reason, or pure cussedness.

In fact, the theocracy of deer life, of deer life, has become so threatening that some of the old timers are getting ready to hunt Indians again.

Farmers no longer know whether they are working for the wild life or themselves, or the game warden, or the judiciary, or for whom.

Not long ago a bear killed a sheep near one farmstead fold, and came back the next night for a second helping. That was bad, for a trap closed on the bear and he was subsequently trailed and dispatched.

The real problem arose in another case, however, when a farmer killed a bear that had killed a sheep, and ate some of the bear. A game warden is reported to have tried to arrest the farmer, who insisted that he was merely eating his own property, the sheep the bear had eaten. The game warden insisted the farmer didn't have a permit to kill the bear, and the farmer replied that neither did the bear. With that one, the warden withdrew, to consult the curator of something in some zoo which presumably is involved in getting an expert statement from a trained Washington bear accustomed to a college atmosphere and an economy of plenty.

What, however, has thrown the best minds in the Churchville district into further consternation is the matter of the gregarious deer. Deer almost any morn may be seen floating across the fields or landscape and over a six-foot fence with all the elan of the gentlemen on the flying trapeze.

What is more to the point, however, is that a deer dots on garden truck—particularly the garden the farmer and the farmer's wife have labored days to bring to a luscious fruition. Three or four deer in an acre of garden patch can just about clean it of everything except the top soil.

Another warden who is conscientious enough to know can arrest a farmer for killing a deer that has depopulated his garden—has, in fact, practically moved into the farmer's family and is eating at the first table, dogs or no dogs. About the only way the farmer can get his money back is to eat the deer, and maybe, there is something about that in the Atlantic Charter.

Judge W. Terrell Sheehan of trial court says, of the record, it's all a matter of values, and if you can hold a calory or vitamin for misfeasance, then you're a better judge than he is.

Staunton News Leader.

Bartow, W. Va.—The Forest Service has begun construction of six miles of road on Cheat Mountain. This road will extend down Whittemore Run to Shaver's Fork of Cheat River and go down stream to Crouch Run and will tap Crouch Run from either the mouth or by a separate road from the existing truck trail on top of Cheat.

This road construction project will make some 12 million feet of hardwood timber available for marketing.

About a mile of road was extended down Whittemore Run a year ago. The logging of 4,430,000 feet of timber over this road has been practically completed. About 94 percent of this timber has gone into direct war production.

MULLENAX - BEARD

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Beard, of Arbovale, announce the marriage of their daughter, Nell Loraine, to Sergeant Brooks B. Mullenax, of Bartow. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. William H. Hobbs on June 5, 1944, at Phoenix, Arizona, in the Central Methodist Church, this being the 32nd wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

For the occasion the bride chose an ingenue, white-street length dress of all-over embroidery with a lace trim around the low V neckline. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She wore a small, white hat with a veil, white accessories, and a shoulder bouquet of orchids completed her costume.

Mrs. Mullenax is a graduate of the Greenbank High School and attended Glenville State Teachers College. For the past four years she has been a teacher in Pocahontas County schools, the last two being at the Greenbank Graded.

The groom is also a graduate of Greenbank High School and attended West Virginia Business College at Fairmont, prior to his enlistment in the Air Force in February 1941. He received his training in Texas and Arizona and is now stationed at Mesa, Arizona.

The young couple are residing at Mesa, Arizona.

The following letter is from Loren S. Jordan, who is serving with the U. S. Forces in India:

Dear Mr. Editor:

I have been wondering why The Pocatontos Times has not been coming to my white overcoat. I want the paper a lot, for it is a great comfort to any one that is far away from home. I hope you can get it started coming regular. I wish you would be kind enough to see if it has been coming to me, for I am not receiving it at all.

I have a wife and three children that I had to leave at our home in Greentank. As everyone realizes the one great hope that has served over seas is to get this thing over with as soon as possible, and return to our families in peace. Talking about home, then good old West Virginia hills sure would be heaven for me this long, lonesome evening.

I have enclosed a poem for your criticism. Everyone seems to think it is good. What is your opinion, good or bad?

Tell all my friends back there in Pocatontos hello for me, and that I hope that I can be with them all soon.

Trusting that you will send The Times to my address enclosed in this letter.

Very truly yours,
Loren S. Jordan.

FOOTBALL IN THE PACIFIC

The ball was our ten yard line, right after Tojo kicked. We fumbled at Pearl Harbor when our coaching staff was tricked. Our starting line was crippled by the fast and brutal blow. For Rising Sun had gained first down, and it was "Goal to go."

Our backs were up against the wall, when play was thus resumed. And all the Nippon section felt assured that we were doomed. In fact our hopes were not too good as we took up the fray. For half our starting line-up had been injured on that play.

By using fairer tactics now the Nippons tried to score. And gained a half dozen yards in taking Singapore. The ball was quickly put in play, again by legal means. And Tojo's man went through two yards to gain the Philippines.

The yellow jerseyed men had left two plays to gain two yards. And so their cheering section thought, the game was "In the Cards."

But they forgot that Yanks don't quit, that when in any test they find the odds against them, it is then they do their best.

The world was all agither on their next to final try. For everybody knew that they were out to "do or die". The air was charged with tension and excitement filled each soul. For here they reached the Solomons, twelve inches from the goal.

But now we threw in players we'd been keeping under wraps. With absolute instructions that they had to hold the Japs. And on fourth down there rose a shout, that reached most distant towns.

Dear Helen:

I will take the pleasure in dropping you a few lines tonight. Sure was glad to hear from you all. Well this finds me O. K. but lonesome. For the time has come for us to depart very soon from what they tell us, that we are shoving off soon somewhere.

Well, I only hope these few lines find you all well and enjoying life with the greatest pleasure in the world.

The boys are just about to tear the barracks down tonight. They are trying themselves and enjoying life.

We have close check tomorrow and on everything that belongs to us here in the Service.

Well, I wish you all a very happy life from now on, and don't worry about me, I will drop you a few lines when the time comes for me to "shove off," so take good care of your self and the children, until I get back to it with you all.

I will see about the pictures. They were supposed to mail them to you within one week, from the time I had them taken.

Well I suppose you have a lot of garden planted and up by this time.

Well, as it is getting late, I will close for this time, hoping to hear from you soon.

Love, Oral.

Mrs. Orval Vannoy, of Greentank, received the following letter from her husband's brother, who has been serving in England for about two years, and is in the Air Corps. There are four of the Vannoy brothers in the service: Pvt. Orval Vannoy, Pfc. Delbert Vannoy, Sgt. Paul Vannoy and Pvt. Emanuel Vannoy.

Dear Sis:

This lonesome evening finds me trying to answer your letter, which I received yesterday. Sure was glad to hear from you and know that you are well. This leaves me O. K. and getting along fine. Helen, I want to thank you for those pictures. I think they are good. Helen, is that the baby standing beside Thelma? Sis, I knew Pauline was sick. I hear from Ruth often, but I don't hardly ever hear from mother. I got a letter from Orval last week. Sis, I suppose you are growing you a garden. Well, I can't think of much to write tonight. Hoping to hear from you soon.

Love, Delbert.

Dear Mother:

I will try and answer your nice letter, which I received, and was sure glad to hear that every body was getting along good and keeping well. I hope you stay well this summer and don't work too hard. Try and take of your self, because I want a mother when I get back. Well, I am feeling fine and getting along good and getting to be a big boy. I was weighed the other day and tipped the scales at 138 lbs. When I came in the army my weight was 160. Now, you know that I am finally getting along good, so there is nothing to worry about me, because I will get along, where ever I go. What is Dad doing these days? Tell him not to make too much money while there is a war on.

Well how is the weather there? It is trying to rain here today and I believe it will start soon, I sure hope so, because it sure has been hot for a few days; maybe this will cool the weather some.

Where did Arnold move? Tell him I said I hoped to see them some of these days. I wrote to Marguerite today. She sent me some pictures, which were nice. When I can get some pictures made, I will send you all one. I haven't had a picture made since I have been in the Army.

Well I will close, answer soon and take care of your self.

From your son, Alfred.

The following poem was sent in by Mrs. Samuel Sheets.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

(By Malcomb W. Raine)

When you're lying on your bed With the blankets tucked about you

A soft pillow to your head, Of the fellows way off yonder, North, south, east and west, Some wounded, others dying, All doing of their best!

Do you ever stop to think When food is hard to get, Of the boy in some dark fox hole So thirsty and all wet Whose belt is drawn in tighter All through a blistering sun, A shooting while he's longing For the grub that doesn't come?

Do you ever stop to think When you can't get gas and oil, And you walk and walk and walk, Till your blood begins to boil, And your pleasure driving stop ped

And you hang around the town, Of the lads who downed in oil, When flaming tanks went down?

Do you ever stop to think When pay day rolls around And your wallets bulging outward With a pay that's good and sound, Of the fellows in the air force, The army, navy too; In many far off, lonely spots, Who'd exchange their pay with you?

Do you ever stop to think Just how you're going to be, When battered up and broken After coming over the sea? With contempt within his eyes While he's thinking of his buddies And the day he saw them die!

Do you ever stop to think That when this war is won, With suffering blood and toll While you were having fun— When you tell him how you suffered In this your native land As you welcome him back home again How will your conscience stand?

Private Dennis K. Small has completed his basic training at Fort Eustis, Virginia, and has been transferred to Camp Joseph T. Robinson.

While there he was presented the expert rifle medal, being one of the highest scorers in his battery. The score which he tied was one hundred ninety-two points out of a possible one hundred ninety-five; this being made on the two hundred yard range.

He also was awarded a first class gunners medal, this being given on the knowledge and training on the 90 m. m. guns. It was determined by an examination and a test which was given the whole battery. His score which was 95 per cent, ten per cent above the passing grade, was due to the excellent training and attention paid to the officers of the sixth battalion.

He sends in the following poem:

A FATHER'S FEELINGS

We saw you grow from infancy To a man of twenty-one years, Tho' it hurts somehow, here is our vow, We will hold back the flow of tears; And when there's peace on earth again, And every battle has been won, Thru a silvery cloud we'll sing aloud, The praise of a worthy son.

The twinkle of those brownish eyes, From mem'ry will ne'er disappear, They hold the supreme within our dreams, To raise our hopes above all fear, When drums of fear come beating down, The flag draped sidewalk and the street, Marching then erect, with man's respect, A noble heart for folks to meet, Fate dealt the cards and you were found Among the loyal and the true, The spirit of youth carries but the truth For one flag, the red, white and blue; And for freedom of your homeland, You'll be off for the battle zone, Your spirit of fire we will admire And not forget you, while you're gone.

No better boy upon this land Could a father claim for his own, But next to my heart, such love must smart, For a child that's just become grown; But there'll be others in the fray As dear to some graying old Dad That will fight as hard 'cross the greenish award, While faith and hope make mothers glad.

When you put on that uniform Never mar its color with sin, For a coward shirks and hides and lurks, While others are trying to win. Yet, I know your color by now, After years together we've been, There's only one sky, one land to die, For, and that's the land we live in.

But that I will for sure I cannot say, Your loving son, Loren.

Mr. and Mrs. James McClure, of Monteville, send in this poem received from their son, Stanford McClure, A-S, who is training at Great Lakes Naval Training Center Company 905, Great Lakes, Illinois:

I WANT TO COME HOME

The coffee in the Navy they say is very fine, It's good for cuts and bruises and tastes like iodine, Now I want no more Navy, Oh, Gee, Dad, I want to come home.

The bunks in the Navy they say are very fine, But how in the hell do they know they never slept in mine, Now I don't want any more Navy, Oh, Gee, Dad, I want to come home.

The haircuts in the Navy they say are very fine, And if you don't believe it just take a look at mine, Now I don't want any more Navy, Oh, Gee, Dad, I want to come home.

The shoes in the Navy they say are very fine, You ask for number seven and they give you number nine, I don't want any more Navy, Oh, Gee, Dad, I want to come home.

The chickens in the Navy they say are very fine, One jumped off the table and started making time, Now I don't want any more Navy, Oh, Gee, Dad, I want to come home.

The pancakes in the Navy they say are very fine, I threw one out the window and killed a pal of mine, Now I don't want any more Navy, Oh, Gee, Dad, I want to come home.

Who got it straight from a circus clown That a man in Klondike heard a Turk Tell a fellow going to work About a man in Borneo Who knew a man who claimed to know A New York man named Jake, Whose mother-in-law would undertake To prove that her seventh husband's sister's niece Had stated in a written piece That she had a son who had a friend Who knows when the war is going to end! I hope that this will give you a better idea when it will end. I am some place in Australia.

Made in Factories

Use of music in factories to increase output is one of this war's outstanding developments on the production front and apparently a permanent advance. General opinions of those working under the influence of music have been that it lessens fatigue, boredom, tension and strain, but there have been few scientific studies of the subject available to the industrial manager, despite the confusion of written matter on it, even stories of Mchetschmitt produced to the "Ride of the Valkyries."

Barter in Ecuador

To assist some of its small-scale farmers, who see little cash from one end of the year to the other, the Ecuadorian government is trying out a system of "barter" loans. In El Oro province today, hundreds of farmers are borrowing, not cash, but tools, brood hens, cows, hoes, spades and seedlings. Later in the year they will be paying off, again not in cash, but in sucklings, eggs, calves, vegetables and seed. In each case, the animals or materials are entered on the books at the prevailing market price.

I remember from school.

I once had to do a composition about the world's greatest invention being wheels. Just think of gear wheels, water wheels, and especially all the wheels for transportation! But right now the greatest thing of all, I'd say, is to keep wheels going; keeping your car in service, for instance. There's this and that to help you. There's one motor oil and another. Now from what I know, the explosives in any engine must produce acids, which brings up the bright idea of safely OIL-PLATING your engine's insides with Conoco Nth motor oil. You want to prevent damage from acids... internal corrosion! Some things are especially good at fighting corrosion, and OIL-PLATING comes in that class. Even chromium-plating, just for comparison, couldn't stay closer to working parts than this protective OIL-PLATING. It battles corrosion, so as to help you preserve your transportation as soon as you switch to Conoco Nth oil.

Have a Coca-Cola = Come on over

...or keeping youth bappy at home

Keeping young folks happy at home is mostly a matter of having a home in which they and their friends feel welcome. So don't forget Coca-Cola... it's always a big attraction for the young crowd. It says home than words. Come on over to our home... we're glad to see you. Be sure there's "Coke" in your kitchen. There's no more cordial invitation, nor one more refreshing, than the three simple words... Have a "Coke".

Be sure the popular name to signify friendly invitation. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

The following poem was sent in by Mrs. J. C. Wilfong, of Clover Lick:

THERE'LL ALWAYS BE GOD

They cannot shell His temple Nor dynamite His throne, They cannot bomb His city Nor rob Him of His own!

They cannot take Him captive, Nor strike Him blind or deaf, They cannot starve Him to surrender Nor make Him change His mind!

They cannot cause Him panic Nor cut off His supplies, They cannot take His Kingdom And hurt Him with their lies!

Though all the world be shattered, His truth remains the same; His righteous law still potent, And Father still His name!

Though we face war and struggle And feel the road and rod, We know above confusion There'll always be a God!

Let us pray that this war will soon come to a close!

Mrs. Eugene Kelly, of Clover Lick, sends in the following Mother's Day letter from her son, Loren Kelly, of the Navy:

Dearest Mother:

Here I am, your son! I am thinking of you, dear, It will soon be Mother's Day, Although I am far away, I will always honor your Day. Mother, things have changed since I saw you last, My love for you may seem in the past, But don't let it worry you for I am yours to the last. This is the year of '44 Mother's Day has come and gone before, I can remember when I was small You cheered my troubles and did not mind at all, I hope to be with you on next Mother's Day.

The U. S. Treasury recently issued a statement to the press praising the work of the banks in the war effort. It was pointed out that 13 1/2 billion dollars—over 80% of all bonds sold in the 4th War Loan—cleared through banks. Banks did this job at their own expense. They received no remuneration. They paid out large sums for salaries, overhead and advertising. We appreciate this recognition, but seek no special praise. We welcome the opportunity to help win the war.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of Guy McKenney, who departed this life June 6, 1944.

We cannot wish him back today, Dear Guy who went away; He closed his eyes to earthly care And breathed a silent morning prayer.

And entered into Paradise. It seemed so hard to see him go, But why to keep him here below? He labored hard and earned a rest, He's now with those he loved the best.

In Paradise. So we must live here, you and I, With his life our beacon high, So when we are called to the land above We will be with him and ones we love.

In Paradise. —A Friend.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of Guy McKenney, who departed this life June 6, 1944.

We cannot wish him back today, Dear Guy who went away; He closed his eyes to earthly care And breathed a silent morning prayer.

And entered into Paradise. It seemed so hard to see him go, But why to keep him here below? He labored hard and earned a rest, He's now with those he loved the best.

In Paradise. So we must live here, you and I, With his life our beacon high, So when we are called to the land above We will be with him and ones we love.

In Paradise. —A Friend.

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

Dear Jim:

Long the letter is late, but I'm up to my ears in the 5th War Loan Drive.

As head of the town committee, I'm busy almost every working moment selling bonds. This is, by all odds, the most critical period of the war. Everything is at stake—everything. (As if I need to tell you that.) Our quota calls for two million dollars more in this town than the last—everyone's got to buy two or three times more than he's ever bought before—if things are to go as we solemnly pray they should.

Thank God most of the people I talk to seem to realize the critical need. They do without things they actually need in order to plunk down another hundred or two. I guess they feel as I do. With a man you live over there, the least you can do is your utmost.

I want you to know, Jim, that the folks here at home are with you—and there's money in fighting with you—every last dollar they can scrape up. Mother and I hand life.

Our Army and Navy Boys

FIFTEENTH Army Air Force—Pvt. Louis Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Collins, of Frank, a mail orderly in a 15th AAF heavy bombardment unit in Italy, has been promoted to the grade of Private First Class.

Pfc. Collins is a graduate of Greenbank High School. He entered the AAF in November, 1942, he was employed by the Frank Tannery.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Major John O. McNeil, Registrar husband of Mrs. Rose W. McNeil, 3 Oakhurst Circle, Charlottesville, Va., and son of John L. McNeil, Millpoint, W. Va., is serving with an Evacuation Hospital that has made an outstanding record while serving close behind the front lines during the Italian Campaign. In January this hospital, which was organized by the University of Virginia Medical School, became the first medical unit in the Fifth Army to receive Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark's plaque for meritorious service by non-combat units.

A complete tent city, this hospital carries with it all of the facilities necessary to care for 750 seriously wounded patients. During periods of heavy fighting during the Italian Campaign, however, it has cared for as many as 1,200 casualties.

Several times during the campaign the hospital has demonstrated the speed with which it can go into operation. The transformation from a completely mobile unit loaded on trucks to a modern hospital ready to receive all types of patients was accomplished in just over four hours when this unit moved up to the Garigliano Front.

Of more than 2,000 battle casualties treated by this hospital since it landed in Africa, in November 1942, almost all of them required surgical operations that have been a mortality rate of only 1.4 percent.

HERE'S TO HITLER

Here's to Hitler on his last long run. We'll see him now the son of a gun.

We will walk in his palace. And rip up the town. Do away with his country. For miles around.

We think a lot of The Red, White and Blue. And the boys who have gone to fight for me and you.

We will shorten his honor. And also his joy. Show him the Spirit of Every American boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnot McNeill received word that their son, Private Manuel L. McNeill, had landed safely in England. They also have learned that their other son, P.F.C. Gerald R. McNeill, had been promoted to Technician Fifth Grade. He has been in service for 27 months and has been overseas for 13 months.

Granville Moore, of the Navy, was home on leave last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Moore.

Paul Duncan, F 1-c (A.E.M.) of the Naval Air Station, at Norfolk, Virginia, spent the week-end at Buckeye with his wife and parents.

Announcement has been made of the arrival of a daughter, Doris Jean, to Sergeant and Mrs. Herbert McClung. Mrs. McClung is the former Henrietta Oberstadt, of New Haven, Connecticut.

Private and Mrs. B. B. Fox, Jr., recently married, spent the week-end days at home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fox, at Buckeye. Mr. Fox is a member of the local American Legion, and is a member of the local Post 100.

Mr. Rhodes, Gunners Mate, came on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes. He is just back from England. He has been in two and a half years and has sailed 14 oceans. On his return he will go to Little Creek, Virginia, for gunnery training.

Registered at the Netherland Hotel, at Cincinnati, Ohio, for the weekend were Aubrey Ferguson, PhM 3-c and Mrs. Ferguson. Mr. Ferguson, of the Marlinton Journal, who is stationed at United States Naval Hospital, Great Lakes, Illinois, had a short leave and was met in Cincinnati by Mrs. Ferguson.

It is now Lieutenant (junior grade) Opie C. Lowe, United States Navy. For five weeks he was up to Princeton University, and lost about ten pounds in the battle. Then he and six others were sent to Newport, Rhode Island, for two weeks instruction in the use of the Springfield rifle. These men will be assigned to navy bases as navy instructors. This is just along Lieutenant Opie's line, as he was a considerable gun expert and enthusiast in civil life.

Mrs. Mary Rice, of Hinton, was advised by telegram Saturday evening that her nephew, Private Walter R. Haptonstall, had been reported missing in action since May 19, in Italy.

Private Haptonstall, 24, had made his home with Mrs. Rice before entering the service in July, 1942. He participated in the Russian campaign and was assigned from there to the Italian campaign. He is the son of Fred J. Haptonstall, of Cass, and Mrs. Kyle Slavin, of Anjean, and a grandson of Mrs. Emma Haptonstall, of Hinton, West Virginia News.

George E. Heffner, S-2-c, of the United States Coast Guard, has returned to his base in Texas, after spending a nine day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lanty Heffner, at Millpoint.

Major Paul H. Price writing from somewhere in England. He is assigned to the British Forces as a mineral resource searcher. In his hut are seven other majors—all considerably older than he. One is a Scotchman in kilts, one Canadian, two British and three Americans. On some of their bikes they are escorted in with a baggage. Major Price says he has become quite good on a motorcycle, and has learned to shoot many types of firearms. He may even have a special deer gun for his next deer hunting trip with us here in Pocahontas county.

Max G. Peterson, of Crate Peterson of Marlinton, is now in the American, highballing supplies up the Assam-Bengal railroad, and according to Time Magazine of June 12. Max and an army buddy, Charles L. Harrel, of Yuma, Arizona, while on a three day leave volunteered for service and insisted that they wanted to spend their holiday killing Japanese and were accepted and put at a machine gun on a General Grant tank headed for the front and were engaged in a fierce battle with the Japs for thirteen hours but came out unscathed and remarked when coming out of the tank that it was pretty exciting. Max was a former riggerman on a steam skidder in the woods on Cheat Mountain for Mower Lumber Company.

Damage Suits End

Settling a legal point on stream pollution, the supreme court decided on Tuesday that a lone individual cannot seek pollution damage unless his loss is different from that which would be suffered by the public in general.

The decision in effect told C. A. Byus of Beckley that he had no lawful grounds for a suit involving tannery waste in the Greenbrier river.

Byus, member of the Raleigh County Rod and Gun Club which has been protesting alleged pollution of the southern West Virginia stream, had won a $38 verdict in magistrate's court at Hinton. Byus argued that a camp he owns in Summers county had been damaged by tannery waste.

The court in its order prohibited Byus and Magistrate Kirk Heatwole of Hinton from going any further in the action against the International Shoe Company which operates a tannery at Marlinton, Pocahontas county.

President Judge H. H. Rose said in the opinion:

"A private individual has no right of action for a public nuisance or wrong unless he has suffered some special and peculiar injury, differing not simply in degree, but in character, from that affecting the general public."

In elaborating on that position Judge Rose posed the question of "what special right possessed by the respondent and not by the public has been violated? Was it the right to enjoy the river in its original beauty?"

He answered with the observation that a riparian owner has no proprietary right in a beautiful scene presented by a river any more than any other owner of land could claim to a beautiful landscape.

Neither, added the judge, has a riparian owner any all-inclusive rights in fishing and bathing privileges.

"The stream was discolored but was not poisoned or made odorous," the decision asserted.

"True, it is said it was rendered unfit for human consumption but it is nowhere charged that such use had been, or even would be, made of the water, and such use would have been extraordinary."

The court also noted that because of its position it needed not decide a jurisdictional matter of whether any alleged wrong occurred in Pocahontas county, location of the tannery, or Summers county, location of Byus' camp.—Charleston Gazette.

On May 26, 1924, Raymond and Steel Shinnberry of Knapps Creek lost a purebred three year old hereford cow during a severe thunder storm, in their pasture on Browns Mountain. The Shinnberry brothers were fortunate in carrying livestock insurance against lightning, for they received a check for $150 from T. S. McNeil, the agent who wrote the policy.

Pfc. Ernest White, stationed in Mississippi was called home last week by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. B. F. White, of Minnehaha. He was accompanied by his wife, who maintains the home at Ethel, Logan county, while Mr. White is serving his country in the armed forces.

L. W. Hultz, of the Navy, is home on a thirty day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hultz. He wears ribbons for Atlantic and African service and good conduct.

Since entering the Army he has attended the Auto Mechanic School at Kansas City, Missouri. He is now on B-17 Flying Fortress.

The following poems were sent in by P.F.C. John Taylor Townsend, who is now serving with the United States Army, somewhere in England. He is the son of Mr. Anna Townsend.

"THE VILLAGE PUB"

When out on paw our boys do go Their destination, we all well know

It's into town straightway they march

The civilians all stand aside and watch

As down the street they go

It's "hut," "two," "three" and a "four"

Their heels hit hard on the pavement floor

Then all at once a "halt" is heard

They all stop short without a word

It's to the "pub" they go

When all have entered, they close the door

Then someone yells, with a big course snore

"Give us ten beers," and Guinness too

And whiskey and scotch; Guess that'll do

As to the "pub" they go

They drink their beer with lots of laugh

Each one is trying to get him a "waft"

But some guys want to spend On their dear widows, that they have found

In the village "pub."

Then some take off down the street

It's "hello honey" to the girls they meet

They beg them to "Come and go along"

And on the way they sing a song As into the "pub" they go

When hours have passed, some three or four

And they cannot buy beer any more

They take each other by the hand For none of them can hardly stand

They start out through the door

When once again out on the street You hear the beat of staggering feet

Each one is trying to tell his "love"

That she is his own; his own from above

As down the street they go

When "Good Night" is said to the ones they love

And all into the trucks are shoved With tongues wagging and heads down low

It's back to Camp these G. I. go, For they were in the "pub."

Next morning when the bugle sounds

And Roll Call rosters are unspooled

It's every man, as usual night And even some may have had a fight

In the village "pub."

Such tales we hear with open ear

About their guinies and their beer I don't see how they could stand so much

But drinking is their mortal touch

In the village "pub."

"Now I went down to drink some beer,"

Says one with an angry sneer,

But as my luck was, I met a dame And I love her always just the same

She's in the "pub."

"And I went there to drink some wine"

Says one with a lonely whine,

"I'll let you have that twelve year old"

For it is wrong so I've been told To take them in the "pub."

Then gives them all "at rest,"

"My widow was there and she's the best"

"I'll save my pounds to buy her beer"

When our wedding day is almost near

We'll marry in the "pub."

Now does not know what to say,

He was caught with his widow yesterday

So he tells us how he has to give Ten pounds a month, so she can live

In the village "pub."

Next sounds off, loud and clear,

His volume's on loud, so we can hear,

"There are no women on my mind"

But some day one I hope to find In a village pub."

Then comes in now,

He gives a salute, and then a bow "Boys," says he, "I went to town And the sweetest little thing I ever found

Was drinking in the pub."

Now from and a little is heard

Their passes cancelled, without a word

But they have a gal in some little town,

And soon they hope to get around To go them in the pub."

And as for Townsend, I'm far behind,

For no sweet gal do I want to find,

I'll just write this ode to the boys

I know,

And hope them luck each time they go

To the village "pub."

And to the Sergeants and all the rest

I hope they find the very best

And when they go to drink their beer,

I hope this poem, they will hear In the village "pub."

Please! when you read this don't be mad,

For to write these lines, I am only too glad

No hard feelings at what I've said For harsher words, I have read On the walls of the village "pub"

Note: The blanks are where the censor cut holes in the paper, eliminating names, mostly.

OUR SERGEANT

Now there's a Sergeant who bunks with us

I'm sure he's known by all, You will always find him true and just

For he's very long and tall,

And in the morning, at the hour of six,

When slumber is in reign, His voice explodes like cannons mixed

It's Sergeant Thomas again.

The echo rings, the plaster falls Each bed begins to show

"Come on," "Get up and on the ball"

"Roll call," "Let's go."

Then Sergeants Manning and Martin,

Join in hand To help him in the chorus

It sounds more like a howling band Of lions in the forest.

They take each Private, in his turn And shake him out of bed,

They start the day, as we have learned

With "details" in their head, I cannot say what I would do

If I were one of them

My head would probably meet a shoe

But I do not want such fame.

A Sergeant's life is hard to beat So listen one up and all

You'd better get up and on your feet

And out to stand roll call

Now I just wonder what St. Peter will do

When he hears their lonesome call,

I know he'll say that they were true,

For they kept us on the ball.

An Air Service Command Station, Somewhere in England—Sgt. Jerry Cassell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cassell, of Cass, is now overseas and has participated in a course designed to bridge the gap between training in the states and soldiering in an active theatre of war. At one of the Air Service Command Stations known as Control Depots, Sgt. Cassell was carefully processed by classification experts who make certain that he was well fitted for the job assigned to him.

Security training, personal hygiene, a talk by a Special Service officer informing him of facilities for healthful recreation and a lecture by the Chaplain are all in turn a part of the soldier's preparation for duties overseas.

His next station will be a front from which America's fighting planes take off to smash the Nazi war machine.

The following notice is from Frank Hayes:

I am writing you at this time to notify you of a new change of address. I hope to notify you as soon as possible in each change of address. I enjoy your paper immensely. It is one of my main sources of local news. I receive it as regular as the mail service permits.

Best of luck to you on the front.

Yours truly,
Frank Hayes.

E. V. Alderman, of Minnehaha Springs received the following letter from his son, Chad:

Dear Dad:

A few lines to let you know the army and me is still together.

I hope this finds you well from the wreck you were in; guess that will throw you in a tough spot about the farm and things or are you getting someone to farm for you. Dad, I reckon this war will never end until the last wolf of them is killed. Well it seems like they are getting jarred up a bit now, and will move each day.

I can't get used to the climate. It gets cold for a few days and suddenly turns warm. I have a cold most of the time.

Well I will sign off for this time; will see you later.

Your son, Chad.

Mrs. Paul Dean sends in the following letter from her son, Cpl. James Turner, somewhere in Italy:

Dear Paul & Sis:

I received your nice letter today. I sure was glad to hear from you, and to know you are all well. I am getting along just fine. Sis, you needn't send me anything to eat, as I get enough here. I can do without good things until I get back home.

I got to visit Mt. Vesuvius and the ruins of Pompeii, thanks to the army. Well I must close and go on duty. Tell everyone hello for me. With lots of love.

Jim.

Mrs. Carrie Degler, of Chest Bridge, received the following letter from her son, Edward T. Degler:

Dear Mother:

How is my sweetie face? I'm fine. Well and getting a long splendid. I am in a swell rest camp, somewhere in Australia. Here, I have the finest comforts, that I have had in two years. An individual room, bed, soft mattress, writing desk and drawers. Also, Venetian blinds, and everything one would want. We may play golf, horseback riding, swimming and all sorts of recreation.

Boyd and I play on a basketball team. And mother, I'm getting the finest food and cooking since I left home. Your cooking will never be surpassed for goodness and flavor.

Mother, when I first came over here, I landed in New Calidole, I spent seven months there, I did my hardest work there; then I was in Australia, for about a month and then we went to Wood Lark Island. I was there over nine months in dense jungle. I had lots of hard, disagreeable work there. The remainder of my time over here, I have been on the high seas.

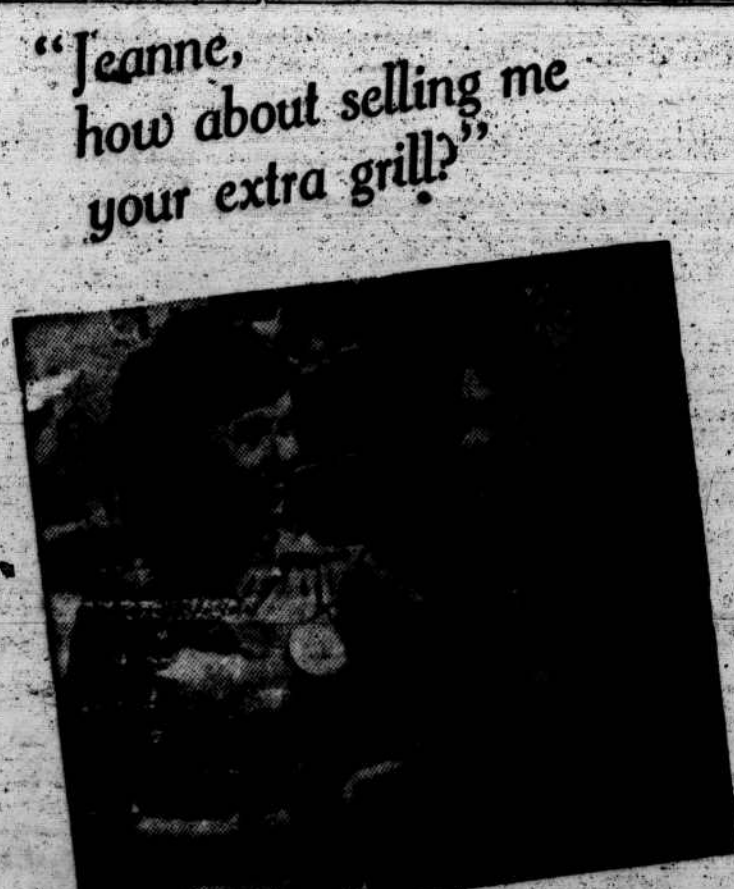

Coming to Australia and this rest camp is like Heaven. Boy, I'm enjoying it. Out at the back is a swell sunny beach. Last night I thought quite a few marvelous things for you. If I didn't need them, I will bring them over, maybe, keep your fingers crossed for me dear.

I shall write again tomorrow.

So Charlie, Queen of Love.

Your son, Ed.

Mrs. Ledy Mother of 1922

"Jeanne, how about selling me your extra grill?"

"OK, but I'd rather trade it for that IES lamp you're not using!"

With no new electric appliances in the stores, neighbors are getting together to solve the problem. Here they trade, and there they sell. In some communities it's working out very well. Why not join the movement? You'll help yourself by helping others, and it's a lot of fun. Just before the war we made a check and found that nearly every home had one or more good appliances they were not using. Now's the time to cash in on them.

Minor repairs and good care will keep appliances serving you for years. Don't waste yours by neglect. For it will be months before any one will become available.

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

The following letter is from Lee J. Symes, who is serving overseas.

Dear Mr. Price:

I receive your paper and enjoy it a lot, as it gives me all the local news and an idea of what is happening back in my old home county. I haven't been fortunate enough to meet any of the boys from there since I have been over here. I would like to meet them but not as a patient in a hospital which is my only chance unless by accident.

Please note my new address* is as follows:

Thanking you in advance, and regrets for causing you this trouble. I remain sincerely yours,

Lee J. Symes.

The following letters were received by Mr. & Mrs. Dock Gibson, of Marlinton, R. F. D., from their sons, Pvt. Parker, in the Marines in North Carolina, and Seaman, 1st Class, Julian Gibson, somewhere in the Middle East.

Dear Mother and Father:

I was so glad to hear from you all. I feel very well, have a little cold, but it will not hurt me as I am really getting tough, and can stand a lot.

Well you said Virginia Bell and Genevieve had started out for work. I guess it is all right, as everyone should work, but it sure goes hard with us kids to be away from home. I know they will get homesick, but that won't kill any body, for I have tried it out.

Well, I feel bad about father going back to work. I am afraid he is not able to work. I sure hope you all stay well. I don't want you all to worry about me, for I am getting along good. I get all I want to eat, just anything I want, and we get all the candy and chewing gum here. We want. So, we are gaining in weight. You won't know me when I get home.

Yes, Mother I got the $25. you wired me, the 26th, it was nice of you to send it, but I felt bad over it, after I did not get the furlough. But I will hold on to the money, so if I do get a leave I will have enough to get a round trip ticket. So I will be right at the kitchen door one of these days and you will be surprised to look up and see me. Boys, I hope you soon. Mother, I am sending you $2. to get all the kids picture made and send me, for I sure get homesick to see them all. Tell Bettie her picture was good. How is Teddy? I sure would like to see him. Is he taking care of a girl while I am gone? I wrote to Charles, but I haven't heard from him, guess he is busy farming. I wrote uncle Bob and aunt Ella, and haven't heard from them. I know everybody is busy now.

Are you all having much rain up there. It sure knows how to pour it out here. I was sorry to hear about Mrs. Hoover. How is aunt Hattie? I never have heard from them, only what you told me. Did you ever get Buck Spahr's address? Is Garland still working at the Tannery? Guess Jimmie Harlan is the only boy around any more, since Kent is gone. He and Darl will get to talk to all those pretty girls, ha!

Are you looking for Gilda Gray in the 4th? I would like to get in the 4th, but I don't expect I will make it. Am you going to get a watermelon? If you do, eat a big piece for me, for I sure like them. Well, I will close as I have already asked a thousand questions. You will get tired answering them. You and father write often, for I like to hear from home. I will close with lots of love, your son, Parker.

Dear Mother:

I am dropping you a few lines to let you know I am still about and am getting along okay. How is father getting along? Good, I hope. I just received the mail from you all that was written in March.

Hope Parker is getting along good. Write me just what he is doing. We might be lucky enough to meet up some time and some where. I wish we could be in the same outfit. I got a letter from Madeline telling me what good times a bunch had there at home, and boys it made me homesick, for I would like to have been there. I hope hope how soon this war will be over and we can be back home, but don't you all worry about me, I am coming along just fine. Boy, I sure have a sun tan. You would say I look like Buck. Well you all write me often, so I can hear from you.

I will write every chance I have but you all can write often and then it is a long time catching up with me, so that why I want you to write often, I will stop for this time.

With all my love to all at home

Your son, Julian.

Mrs. Clyde E. Byrd, of Cass, received the following letter from her son, Ensign Harold E. Byrd, from Somewhere in the Pacific:

Dearest Mother:

Just a note to reassure you, I am Okay and hoping this note finds you and the family the same. I haven't heard from you in a week; got a letter from Nadine today, every one is okay out their way.

This will probably be the last letter for quite sometime—however, it is nothing to worry about. It's my chance to do something, and I'm thankful for the opportunity. I'm not afraid, and I don't want you to be afraid for me. Promise me you won't. I'm confident, I'll be back with you soon. God will see to that.

Haven't told you the name of my plane—it's "The Mountaineer"—printed in big red letters on each side of the engine. It will see me through any crisis.

That's about all—tell everyone I'm happy and well, and for them not to worry—will be back among you soon.

The best of luck to you all. Write often and have others do the same.

So long and please don't worry I'll be okay.

To the sweetest mother in the world, all the love and best wishes I'm capable of extending.

Your son, "John"

Mrs. Pearl Shinnberry of Cass, received this letter from her son, Pvt. Marshall G. Shinnberry, who is stationed somewhere in England:

Somewhere in England

Dearest Mother:

Today, as you will know, is a day of days—Mother's Day—and to be sure, to me, it is magnificent; first in gratitude, second in that it is a day set aside, especially to pay tribute to you, my mother, and third, to show my love for you. Due to my isolation from such a place, in which I might obtain a card for you, mother, which someone else more beautifully and inspiringly put ones thoughts of mother into a verse. I, in my small way, will attempt to express my thoughts to you myself.

First of all, I am thankful from the depths of my heart to have a mother living, to appreciate and reverence. It is a sad thought, knowing and being away from your presence for the first (may it be the last) time on Mother's Day. On the other hand it gives me the greatest of pleasure to know I have you, back home praying for me, and thinking of me. To me, these two traits of a mother are the greatest of all earthly treasures. This has been an appreciative day to me because I have thoughts of our happy times and of the things you have done in the past and will do for me in the future.

Mother, may these few words make you very joyful and may you know with assurance, my affection from you, has made me so much more realize what you mean to me.

With the greatest confidence, I shall close, knowing you have my love and your mother's love. I, your loving son, all give that I can pay reverence to you, even in such a way as I have.

Joyful Salutes, Love,

Marshall.

FARMERS are playing a vital role in the victory drama. Most farmers are doing their utmost to insure that our armed forces and our civilian workers are getting the supplies of the right kind of food for continued maximum efficiency. All of this is being accomplished under unusual circumstances such as labor shortages, scarcity of essential needs, fertilizer, gasoline, spray materials, and limited machinery repairs and replacements.

On the other hand, we must admit that our extra effort is being more adequately rewarded than previously and that along with such sacrifices and hardships as are encountered, there is some gain; and justly so. The farmer deserves every bit of credit and money he gets for his part in this knowledge, however, lies in real danger. Are we apt to become complacent and feel we are doing our part? CAN we do more?

SELFISHNESS OR SELFLESSNESS? War is selfish business. No war ever began from purely philanthropic motives. To the aggressor, the war is always outweighs the sacrifice. To the defender, the violation of human rights and liberties forms the common meeting ground of joint agreement and effort. However, victories are not won by selfishness. They depend on selflessness—a willingness and desire to sacrifice individual good for the good of all. That is why both sides always must try valiantly to establish in the minds and hearts of their peoples the justice of their cause. That is the will that wins.

Andrew E. Hefner Killed in Invasion
As we go to press the sad news is received by his parents that Andrew E. Hefner, of Edray, was killed in the first days of the invasion. He was rated as machine gunner in the 101 Airborne Division. His father is George H. Hefner and his mother is the daughter of Willard Overholt, late of Millpoint, now of Farmington, Washington. His two brothers, Henry and Robert, are in the armed service. He is also survived by his sister, Mrs. W. S. Yanger, of Terra Alta, and by two other brothers, Glen and Fred, both of Marlinton.

Andrew was born August 21, 1918. He was known by all who knew him as an honest and likable boy who made friends wherever he went. We have no doubt that he died doing his duty and it must be a consolation to his parents and friends that since he must die, he died in order that it might be possible for others to live happily in a free country.

Pvt. Jamie McComb Dies in France
Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. McComb, of Chestnut Street, received a telegram from the War Department yesterday, stating that their son, Private Jamie Edgar McComb had died June 6, in France as result of wounds received in action on the same day, the first day of the invasion.

Private McComb was born in Huntersville, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, and was 19 years of age on October 10, 1943. He had moved with his parents to Covington two years ago. He had attended school at Marlinton, West Virginia. He entered the Army on April 21, 1943. He received his basic training at Camp Hood, Texas, and also trained for a short time at Fort Meade, Maryland, and Camp Miles Standish, Massachusetts. He had one short furlough at home in August, 1943 and went overseas in December, 1943. He was attached to an amphibious truck company.

Surviving besides his parents, are three brothers, all at home, Gray Herbert, Danny, and Tiny Moore.—Covington Virginian.

along the beach, over the ocean, it comes to me, it is as if I were saying "it's great" and it sure is.

The way I look at it, I am enjoying the more mysteries and anything else in the world.

I am enjoying my papers right now. I sometimes two at a time. I enjoy them, for it is something to pass the time away and to learn what other people in the world are doing.

Well, so much for now, by the time I get back to the area it will be time to feed the boy.

Wishing you the best of luck.

Hello Cal:

This beautiful day finds me trying to write you once more. I'm well and having a good time, but I would rather be back in good old West Va. where the mountains are steep and rough. I'm getting to be more of the world now and so far I have found traveling enjoyable. We are still at sea, and it's not bad at all. Although I did get sick the first day we were out, but I'm used to it now, and it's okay.

Well, Cal, I don't know whether you have ever seen any flying fish or not, but I have seen plenty of them and they are really something to see. They are flying above the water. They can fly in the air for some time and move quite fast. They are of different colors too.

I guess you folks are having nice weather now. Boy! what I wouldn't give to be back there, but it will be some time before I do get to come back.

Well as that is about all I can think of to write I'll close.

Sincerely yours,
Pia C. J. Galford.

The following letter is to Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Van Derander, from their son, Pfc. Ivan, who is in England.

Dear Mom & Dad:

As I have just come back from London, I am a little sleepy today, but maybe I can stay awake long enough to write you a few lines. I had a rather nice time in London, but I'll take any town in the states and much better get a pass home, but I am a little too far from home to think about that. I saw the effect of 1940 bombing and it sure must have been bad. I saw all the Cathedrals and other historic spots that was pretty interesting.

Well this is Mother's Day, and how I wish I could spend the day with you mother. I miss you more than anything in this world and more so today—a day dedicated to mother. It couldn't be dedicated to anyone more precious than mother. I know while I was at home I didn't think as much as I should have about it, but now that I am several hundred miles from home, it sure makes a guy think how wonderful and precious his mother really is. I know now that there is no other who can take her place.

I hope you are spending one of the best days possible, and I know you are praying for me, that we may be reunited this time next year, I sure am.

Best of Luck, always,
Your son, Ivan.

Mrs. A. H. Wade, of Minnehaha, sends the following letter from her son, Elton, who is some where in England.

Dear Mom:

Will write you a few lines this Sunday, as I am always thinking of you all. This is your birthday and I am thinking of that big dinner you all will have. Hope you have nice day and Lonnie and Lollie come to spend the day. Before you have another birthday I hope to be with you.

I always think more of home on Sunday somehow. I go to church often, it is about all the place I do go. I still get lots of letters from you, and lots of others back there. It is sure nice of them to write.

I got your picture, you look so much older, but it is good of you any way. This picture folder you sent me is just the thing I wanted. I have it full of pictures now, and I can carry them with me.

I am glad you got Mr. Sampson to clip the clippings, will save a lot of work. I still get The Times now and then. I sure enjoy reading them. I'll be back I will write to you soon. I know that you are a daddy. Sure would like to see him.

Yr. and Dad want to take it easy this summer. Don't work too hard. I hope you worry so

I can't get you folks to tell me everything, so we have got to do something. The girls are going well with me—don't be worrying too much, if you don't hear from me very regular. I heard from Alfred the last mail; all he was well and getting along fine. This month makes him 18 months overseas duty, so he may get to come home. Well this time next year I will have my time in, so if the war isn't over, it won't be so much longer. I believe it will be over before we close for this time. Tell Dad hello, and answer real soon.

Lots of Love, Edgar.

There is a universal language. When German soldiers captured the American soldier, they found the "Lilli Marlene" song. It was the only thing that they could understand. It was the only thing that they could love. It was the only thing that they could sing.

This song, which gained immortal fame during the years of war in the Western Desert, dates back to the early days of the war. German's famed Afrika Korps carried it from Tobruk to Tunis and sang it during the long desert marches through dust and mud until the Korps itself disappeared in the debacle of Cape Bon.

In Italy, too, "Lilli Marlene" was no stranger. Lovers of music, the Italians early fell under the spell of its haunting strains. Strains more pleasing to the sensitive Italian ear than the dulcet war chants dropped out by their tottering Duce. Many a sextet of Italian soldiers has whistled away the soft Sicilian night by singing its sweet words.

In war, as in politics, to the victors belong the spoils. By the rules of civilized warfare, "Lilli Marlene" fell captive to the British 8th Army at Cap Bon together with tens of thousands of lesser fry. Thus, translated into English, the song once more went on the march. Carried by both Americans and British through Sicily, it crossed the Straits of Messina and traveled up the boot of Italy into the Eternal City of Rome.

"Lilli Marlene" is a simple song with a simple melody—all great songs are. But it manages to do something that all Tin Pan Alley, with moronic "Lilli Marlene" war songs, has failed to do. It's nothing but the old, old story of a soldier boy and his waiting sweetheart put down to music. Music that is good for marching or softly humming to one's self as he patches the shell holes in his big Liberator by the light of the stars.

It is hoped that someday soon the German composer will have the extreme pleasure of hearing the Yanks singing his classic as they proudly march down the streets of bomb-blasted Berlin.

LILLI MARLENE

Underneath the lantern, by the barracks gate,
Darling I remember the way you used to wait;
'Twas there that you whispered tenderly,
That you loved me, you'd always be my Lilli of the lamp-light,
My own Lilli Marlene.
Time would come for roll call, time for us to part,
Darling I'd careen you and press you to my heart;
And there 'neath that far off lantern light,
I'd hold you tight, we'd kiss 'till good-night.
My Lilli of the lamp-light, My own Lilli Marlene.
Orders came for sailing some-where over there,
All confined to barracks was more than I could bear;
I knew you were waiting in the street,
I heard your feet, but could not meet.
My Lilli of the lamp-light, My own Lilli Marlene.
Resting in a billet just behind the line,
Even tho' we parted your lips are close to mine;
You wait where that lantern softly gleams,
Your sweet face seems to haunt my dreams,
My Lilli of the lamp-light, My own Lilli Marlene.

WEST VIRGINIA

By Stuart P. Armstrong in Jackson County Herald

West Virginia: Another birthday for the State of West Virginia. Once more brings honor and recognition where they belong. A few years ago, General Motors Corporation broadcast a series of tributes to the state. Following is the one written by Bruce Barton, famous author for West Virginia.

From the east you see a mountain wall. From the west you look toward the headwaters of hurrying streams. There among the tops in West Virginia, the mountains rise.

There are rolling down with the power of a million horses, to flow in some narrow fields and valleys and through the valleys, the mountains rise.

West Virginia raised the barrier of her mountains against early comers from the east but here were blanks in the barrier and men passed through the empire. At the fall of the Great Kanawha a royal governor staked the claim that won the West from France. George Washington came this way a measuring the land while he was a young surveyor. The Oak tree from which whole states were mapped, the earliest corner tree in all the Mississippi Valley, is standing yet at Marlinton.

Trees, Trees, always Trees—West Virginia dwells in their shade. Here is the botanist's paradise, the native home of more than sixteen hundred flowering plants. Here one may pay tribute to the mother—trees of Grimes' Golden Apple and the Golden Delicious. National forests lure you, and two that the state preserves.

Your wanderings will bring you to strange rivers that dive under mountains and flow mysteriously for miles before they return to the light. You will find a spot where ice is forever forming, no matter how hot the sun. You will stand where your gaze can sweep across a score of mountains. You will look on Harper's Ferry, with its memory of John Brown, and on other fields of battle. You will taste the water and the welcome of White Sulphur and other Springs, famous since colonial days as spots of loveliness and rest.

This is the state where the son of Lincoln was born. Stonewall Jackson was a native son. James Bridger, scout of the Oregon Trail, learned his craft in these woods. True mountaineers were these sons of West Virginia, and truly did they live her motto that "Mountaineers are always free." In our time the Mountain State has given Dwight Morrow, John W. Davis and Newton D. Baker to the nation.

West Virginia, we honor you as the Old Dominion's daughter; we distinguish you as the youngest state east of the Mississippi. You have the culture of the old South, the enterprise of the industrial North, the rugged spirit of that West whose gates you opened, through the blue air that tops your mountains, we salute you, West Virginia, hail!

HOUND DOGS

One wouldn't think it to judge by the small number of hunters and hounds in these mountains but there is 25,000 fox hunters in West Virginia, who own 100,000 fox hounds including all strains and breeds. These hounds represent an investment of $1,500,000. The feed bill for these hounds is $3,250,000; figuring it at two pounds of dry food per day, a hound at $4.50 per cwt. The tax bill is $900,000, figuring it at $2.00 per head on both sexes, including corporation and rural.

One can see the hound business is no dollar-a-year business in our state. I take these figures from a booklet published by the West Virginia State Fox Hunters Association and sent me by my good friend Reed Shipman, Tallmansville stock dealer and gentleman farmer of Upshur county. They were enlightening to me, and I am passing them on in hopes they will be so to others as well. Hounds too are not bought for a "song" as they once were. $900 and $300 hounds are common today. During the past season the nationally famous stud hound, Hi Doctor, was sold for the price of $1200; a former owner offering $1500 for him back. This hound was once owned by a famous hunter in W. Va.

My good friend, C. E. Brannan of South Charleston got a litter of pups by one of his pure-bred gyps last season. Another hunter the past season sold a very famous gyp in another state for $500 after selling $900 worth of pups from her the season before.

With hounds being so valuable it is unbelievable that any state would have such a law as our present deer one on the law books. It is a law that a hound just for chasing a deer regardless of his value to the hunter and the county in getting rid of the gray fox.

I think I can notice some change in sentiment towards the hound and hunter, but I am not sure. I think there is in our county, where the gray fox has over run it. I don't see as many of those hound-killing-deer stories in the papers as I used to. Instead Mr. Price ran story of the three hounds running a red fox such a long chase up on Knappa Creek last winter, and the game warden who returned the hounds to their owners caught chasing deer. He is one warden I would love to shake the hand of, and am proud to be in our county. In contrast to his wise deed the warden in another county who was quoted in the public place a few weeks ago, as taking a deer's skin board as much as a Jap or a German. There is a man that has a deer's skin board as much as a Jap or a German. There is a warden as I have of sitting in the President's seat.

Wardens should understand before they are appointed that they represent all of the sportsmen of the state, which few of them seem to realize now. The hound owners represent the largest bunch of true sportsmen in the state and it is high time they were getting some consideration as such. I had the occasion to contact quite a number of fox hunters in this as well as other states by letter the past winter and find them the finest bunch of sportsmen and women I have ever met. As a matter of fact, I consider them the only sportsmen there are, as they never take a gun in the woods to kill with. They just let their hounds match wits with foxes.

Of course in these mountains we have to hunt the grays to kill them every now and then to keep them down to where we can live here too. But I repeat what I have said often before, we are never going to kill them and keep them killed off as long as this deer law is as it is.

I am not against bounty on foxes, but consider the $15,000 put in it last season by the Commission wasted. They are not able to do this every year, it is a pinch; so what is the use of throwing good money after bad. Leave the red fox out of it and put the hounds back in the hands of the farmers and their boys and they will kill them off and keep them killed off. Such money would have been better put in well bred hounds to give to the farmers to get started with in helping to restore all the wardens have destroyed. It wouldn't hurt either to give the wardens a few to hunt with during their spare time when they are not out catching poachers. I see by the Hound Journal that Pennsylvania has such plan in mind.

John F. Scott, Watoga, W. Va.

P. S. Brannan's pups came from the hi-price dog; I left that out.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Arbogast, of Dunmore, received the two following letters from their sons, Pershing and Golden:

Central Pacific, 86th Combat Mopping Sq. June 11, 1944.

Dear Dad & All:

It's Sunday, and I'll write you a few lines to let you know that everything is all right here, and that I'm well.

I suppose you're very anxious to hear from Golden now and I hope that he's getting along fine. I know you've been worried about him and I am too. He's a darned swell brother and pretty much of a man. I've never heard him complain about a thing in a letter to me, except that he feels pretty blue and anyone is sure to feel that way.

Did you ever see the way his writing has improved, since he's been in the Army? He got a slow start, due to his nose, but I think he must have outgrown it by now. Anyway he's got a pretty keen mind and one of these days he's going to be a shrewd bargainer.

If he does get into it, he'll be

There's a lot of war—19 mo. over seas and most of it in the combat area. The eight months I was re-assigned back to the U. S., seen a lot to have been. I know the character of the enemy and the character of our own troops. I'm not afraid of the final outcome, but I do not want to see a compromise peace so that the whole thing will have to be done over again in another twenty years. If we have to stand over the ashes with a club, it will be cheaper in the long run, and save many lives. I'm not an isolationist, I'm an internationalist and the quicker everyone understands that the surer we are of a peace that will last. We can't build a wall around us and say "come and get us." We'll just have to get them before they can muster strength for an attempt.

I haven't heard from you since Tuesday, but that hasn't been much length of time. I will write often when possible, but if I don't for some reason, please don't worry. Tell Mother I love her and give everyone my regards.

Love to all, Pershing.

England.

Dear Dad:

I received a letter from you today, and one yesterday and I sure was glad to hear from you. I hope these lines find you all happy and feeling fine. I am getting along swell myself and feeling fine. I sure was glad to hear mother is feeling better, and I hope she will be able to walk around soon. She sure is a wonderful mother and I think all the world of her.

Boy, it sure has been hot here today and that old sun was really hot. Some of the boys sun burned their backs until they are red as beet pickle, and I imagine their backs are plenty sore.

I sure hated to hear about Robert going to the navy, I sure hope he likes it, but I don't think I would. Hope Corbett and Charles don't have to go for a while.

Well Dad it is getting so dark, I can hardly see to write, so guess I will have to close. Give them all my love and tell them I said hello.

Love to all, Golden.

Bow Your Heads

THIS is Invasion! Now in the hearts, brains and muscles of our American Youth lies the future of our country.

Bow your heads. Pray with millions of mothers the country over, as their hearts reach out over the seas, each one seeking out her boy, to protect him with the shield of her love.

Believe that in this world there is definite strength in decency and honor. Believe that in our devotion there is moral force. Believe that our will to victory will aid that victory.

Seek and ye shall find!

Let us seek added strength and fortitude for our men in our own sacrifice and devotion.

Let us focus every thought, every action, and every prayer on the boys fighting for us.

And, while each one bends to his task with ever-growing fervor and energy, let us adopt a common symbol as our faith in Victory.

Let that Symbol be War Bonds. Let us pour our money in a gigantic flood of goodwill toward our sons and brothers, as a spiritual shield for them.

This is the Invasion. The lives of our boys are at stake. Let them see that the Soul of America is with them.

Let it not be too late...not next month, next week, or tomorrow, but today...now.

Dear Father:
Well there is a whole lot to tell you about my trip. I expect you got a couple of notes that I wrote by that you could tell that we were on our way. When we got to the ship, I told you we could take. There were nine of us took a ship last Thursday night and started out. I was almost one o'clock, before we got started on a direct route to Denver, Colorado. We could not see much as it was pretty dark and it was just about all we could do to navigate. We had plenty of gas when we got to Denver and so didn't land, but flew the airways across the Mountains to Ogden, Utah. You know the mountains are pretty high, so we had to fly at 12,000 ft., at that altitude we had to use oxygen. It came day break just before we reached Ogden, and all around us you could see the tall peaks sticking up and snow capped. We landed at Ogden, gassed up and got breakfast. We had planned our next stop to be Los Angeles, Cal., but the weather man said there were storms out that way so we took off for Las Vegas, Nev. On our way, we flew over Salt Lake and Salt Lake City, Utah. We could see the deserts, and just beyond, the snow capped Mts. There is little or no vegetation, just salt sand and rocks. It is a beautiful country but no worth a nickel. We got a late start at Ogden, and didn't get into Las Vegas, until about 8:00 o'clock Friday afternoon, so we decided to stay over night, and got a cab at the air base and drove to town, about 10 miles away.

You have, no doubt heard a lot about Las Vegas, Nev., the most open town in the United States. I don't care what you have heard, it is all true. All the town is, is just one big gambling den. I didn't know there were so many slot machines in the world. We saw a dozen places that had just hundreds of them, and I am not just shooting the breeze it is the truth. Another thing I never dreamed, there were so many silver dollars. That is what they used to play with. I got a big kick out of just watching one of those gambling tables. Some old boy would come in, to look at him, you would think he was a tramp, walk up to a table and dig out a stack of silver dollars and start playing. I saw one woman lose $150.00 in less than five minutes. She didn't seem to think much of it, but just kept on playing.

The next morning we cranked up and headed for Denver again. The weather was perfect so we flew to Boulder Dam and headed up the Colorado river to see the grand canyon. It is a big thing and as we went along it got bigger, and also deeper. We started letting down to get a better look and before we knew it, we were right down inside that big ditch. We could look up on both sides of us and see the edge higher than we were, then look down and see the river a thousand feet below.

I don't want you to think we took a B-24 down in there, if it were a tight fit. No sir, there was plenty of room to make a 180 ft. turn if need be. There wasn't any trees or grass, just rocks and cliffs that run straight up for hundreds of ft. Most of the rock was a real dark red color and with the morning sun shining on it, it was really something to see. For an hour and half, we flew up the river and not once did it get close enough that we had to come up. We were making better than 170 miles per hour. That will give you an idea of how long it was. There are very few people who ever saw the grand canyon as we saw it Saturday. I got a lot of pictures too, let's hope they turn out okay.

Well, when we flew out of the river, there in front of us were the Mts. to cross again. We gave her the gas and started to climb. We got to 12,000 ft. where we had to use oxygen, and still the Mountains were above us. At 14,500 ft., we were even with them and finally crossed them at 16,000 ft. There was plenty of snow on those peaks and the leather jacket I had on felt pretty good.

I had intended getting some pictures, but with the oxygen equipment on you are not in much shape to take pictures.

We reached Denver about 1:00 o'clock, landed, and got a few bites to eat. When we landed, there were about 10 B-29's at the field. They are the babies that bombed Japan the other day. The B-29 is the latest and biggest thing out.

From Denver we headed for Minneapolis, Minn. We had a tail wind all the way, and did we lounge along. I think we had a ground speed of 250 miles per hour. The country we were flying over then was just as flat as the Mts. had been rough. Things did look a little better and as we got farther north there were some real good country. There was

We reached Minneapolis, about 7:30, just ahead of a terrible storm. There was six of our feet of planes scheduled to land there, while only two made the goal; the others had to make other landing fields.

It was close to 11:00 p.m. before we got supper, and we didn't see much of the town because of rain; what I did see was a lot of snow on the ground, and the storm was over, so we went down to the airport to head for home.

We got all cranked up and started out. Another fellow and I were going to ride in the back for awhile. The pilot put on his lost his balance and bumped his head into an oxygen bottle and cut a large gash. We had to get his head bandaged and it was almost 11:00 before we were ready to take off. We flew to Des Moines, Iowa, then to Kansas City, Tulsa, Okla., and from Tulsa, to Ft. Worth.

That was our trip. We landed a little before 5:00 this afternoon and are a little glad to get home. We did have a big time and saw some wonderful things. I just wish some of you folks could have been along to help me enjoy it. We saw a lot of country and that was just as large as my eye is.

The only thing I regret is that I had weather on the west coast, which kept us from going to Los Angeles.

Well, I am a little sleepy, but well and happy. Do wish I could see you all. Take care of your selves. Lots of love, Sherman.

This letter is from PFC. Ralph E. Rogers, son of Mrs. Leah Rogers, of Marlinton, who is serving with the U. S. Fleet in the Central Pacific.

Central Pacific,
Sun. 18th June.
Hello Mr. Friend.
It has been some time since last wrote you, so I will see what I can do about it. I guess life in Marlinton is just about the same as usual. With me it is just the same old thing, over and over. I just received The Times today and was so busy reading it that I missed my dinner. So you see The Times is very interesting. The show was probably no good any way. About the only time I got a real good meal is when I go to town on liberty. I sure do love the ham and eggs and steak. I even got a real glass of milk the other day; the first in seven months. There is not much we can do here when he goes on liberty, go to a movie and eat some of good things.

I guess the army is still taking plenty of men from Pocahontas. I guess there will be very few left by the end of the summer. I don't especially like this place where I am, although it does kind of remind me of W. Va. It has some pretty nice hills. I used to think I went to the movies a lot in civilian life, but now I go every night and it does not cost a cent. We have all open air theatres, they are pretty nice too.

I don't know just how long I will be here, but I hope not very long, I don't like it here, a guy can spend too much money. I have always wanted to go to China and maybe I will get there sometime soon, I hope. The news down here in the Pacific sure sounds pretty good.

I read in The Times where Kenny Beverage saw me in Italy. I think he is fouled up. It might even be better in Italy than down here. It sure is hot enough here, in more ways than one too.

Please excuse this awful typing. I am a little out of practice at present. I hope this finds you and everything okay. So long for now, think I will go swimming now.

A Friend, Ralph.

Forward to Green
The Mayan civilization in Mexico and Central America began about 2500 B. C.

Up in Chicago last week the Republican party nominated Governor Dewey, of New York, for president and Governor Bricker, of Ohio, for vice president. Earl Warren was there, from nearly backing the winner. Some said he shaped the ends of the convention; some old sour heads say he was just running a head of the crowd; that he would have been run over if he had attempted to head it off.

1940 candidate Wendell Willkie, titular head of the party, was notable by reason of his absence. Prior to the convention Mr. Willkie had written seven dreary newspaper pieces, outlining his ideas of what his party in convention assembled ought to do, to save the country and the world from utter destruction. I honestly tried to read said articles and I utterly failed in the attempt. I asked a close observer who attended the convention if he sensed any Willkie sentiment among bystanders. He replied that it appeared to him they were totally indifferent to Willkie; neither for nor against him. The observer was familiar with the Willkie suggestions; he said the platform makers did not seem to bother about following them out.

Anyway, it was a set up for the Governor of New York. He had taken the position of a receptive candidate, and nobody ever smoked him out for expression on any issue, other than in the most general of terms. Some powerful factions violently opposed to Willkie could and did unite behind Dewey. If this be so, Dewey had enough of his own and anti-Willkie delegates committed to him to prologue even the trial of strength in one ballot.

The only runner up with any semblance of strength was Governor Bricker, of Ohio. He just seemed to have played in rotten luck all along the line. Away back, some years ago, some well meaning writer dubbed him "an honest Harding." That fool thing crippled him in the wing at the outset. Then came another with the statement he had paid up a deficit left by a former administration of forty million dollars in the business of the State of Ohio during his administration as governor. When this had gotten to going right, somebody discovered the constitution of the State of Ohio specifically forbids the contracting of debt except by vote of the people.

Of course, all that could have been lived down, but then Governor Bricker apparently became the favorite of republican Senators and Congressmen. I would say this was a kiss of death, for Congress in its muddling along the past few years is not any too popular with the people.

This brings me to the point to say the Chicago gathering was a party of the twenty-six republican governors of these United States. The keynote speech was by Governor Warren, of California. It was not his year to be nominated for president, and he had trouble keeping them from naming him for vice president.

In this connection too let it be said that the wild-eyed build up for a coalition ticket with Senator Byrd, of Virginia, as vice president was not publicly mentioned at Chicago. The governor now saw to it that this move was frost-bitten in the bud.

Newspaper and radio commentators made mention of the lack of enthusiasm which marked the stampeding of the convention four years ago. One country editor says this restraint was but the sobering effect of war times. However, the situation was probably more properly expressed by a prominent citizen of Ohio, a delegate in the Convention: "A man who has attained eminence among his fellow citizens as has Governor Dewey, demands respect. As for John Bricker, we love him."

Another item along this line: Governor Bricker had agreed to eliminate himself as the candidate of his party for president by securing the nomination of Governor Dewey. A middle aged man, a delegate from Ohio, spoke with tears running down his face: "John, don't do it; we do not want a prosecuting attorney for our president; we want you!"

As for the platform, they say it is about what one would expect in platforms of big political parties, embracing people and business of each. However, I am sure you can run into it and put it to rest anything you want. However, they do say the plank on foreign policy is a good one.

It was a great assembly to get away from an overpopulated city. In the rush around, a colored representative from our State was taking his time. A friend inquired when he was going home, and he replied when his money ran out. Then as an after thought, he added that the way his money was going he figured he would be out within an hour!

Another tale going the rounds down in Charleston is that the Hon. Raymond Funkhouser, late candidate for the republican nomination for governor, applied for twenty rooms in the convention hotel. The National chairman referred the letter to the Virginia committee man as the letter was written from Winchester. The Virginia man said that was not his responsibility; Mr. Funkhouser being a citizen of West Virginia. The matter was referred to Mr. Hallanan of West Virginia. Now the letter had been made an issue in the campaign and the passage of words had been on the acrimonious order at times. However, Mr. Hallanan let bygones be bygones, so the story goes, and he assigned a couple of rooms in the crowded hotel to the gentleman from the Eastern Panhandle.

Pocahontas County was well represented at the convention. Judge S. H. Sharp sat as a delegate at large from West Virginia. Attorney J. E. Buckley and W. W. Harper got good seats in the gallery. Editor Aubrey Ferguson is stationed in a Naval Hospital near Chicago, and he was able to attend too.

Speaking about this Convention being the party of the governors, run by twenty-six executives, and nominating two of their kind, there is the saying that the best schooling for effective presidents is the governorship of a great state. The examples put forward to back up the saying are, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Among others who lacked this preparation were Presidents Taft and Hoover.

As for the ticket nominated by our friends the enemy up at Chicago last week, time alone will tell whether it was stronger with the people the day it was nominated than it would ever be again, or whether it would go from strength to strength to be a real contender in the election with our ticket headed by President Roosevelt next fall.

REVIEW

(A short Story by E. G. Davidson, Jr.)

For the first time in his life Judge George Wilson felt old and tired. It was the weariness of one who has done wrong, and knowing that there is no way to rectify his mistakes, resigns himself to his just fate.

He had got out of serving on the Welcoming Committee by feigning illness, but now that the returned hero had telephoned and asked him to come to his house there was nothing else to do but receive him.

It was a strange mood indeed for a Judge to be in. Usually it is the one appearing before the Judge that is morose, but it was not so in this case. The only thing he hoped was that the interview would be short and the judgment about to be passed on him would not be too severe. He now knew how a condemned man felt when placed before him to receive his sentence.

Sitting here waiting for his namesake and ward to come he had a few minutes for retrospection. Looking back over his deeds they indeed seemed grave now, though at the time they were committed they seemed trivial enough.

In the first place it had not been his idea, but instead that of his wife. She was very ambitious for her husband, then a struggling young lawyer. But she was dead, and it was he who had to bear the disgrace all alone. Heaving a deep sigh the Judge reflected that it was just as well that she wasn't here to see him disgraced in the eyes of his fellow townsmen.

As far as the townspeople were concerned his had been a beautiful and useful life. Even the thought of them seeing him in disgrace sent a chill through his old frame, and it seemed as though he could not stand up under the sentence. To run away would be to admit his guilt, and then he could never return to his home. To commit suicide was completely out of the question. The only thing he could possibly do was wait and take his just deserts.

Twenty-five years ago when he placed his wealthy young ward, then only seven years old, in an orphan's institution he had only intended to use the boy's money until he became of age. The money however, had become so essential to his happiness and well being he had completely overlooked the fact that the boy had reached his majority and that the money was legally his.

When the lad was discharged from the orphanage he had to shift for himself. The idea that he was supposed to be wealthy never dawned on him as he had not seen the Judge since he had been placed in the orphanage and the Judge had overlooked the matter of telling him that he had his money in trust for him.

All these years Judge Wilson had led his fellow associates to believe that his ostentatious trips back East were for the purpose of visiting his ward who was supposed to be in an exclusive boys' school. It also gave him a good reason to transfer all the boy's money to a bank in New York City. His semi-annual trips to the East had not been for the purpose of visiting his ward but in fact to the investment of the money he had usurped.

When young George Wilson Anthon had been placed in the orphanage Judge Wilson could have entered him under an assumed name and place of birth, but at the time it did not seem necessary as he had every intention of returning the money when the lad became of age.

Routine and continued usage however bring about peculiar changes in mankind; so the Judge in time had all the money transferred to his own name. His investments were profitable beyond all reason, and soon he thought he would have enough money to return George's share and enough left for himself. But he did not reckon with the debacle of the stock market of 1929. Everything was lost and all of it in his own name. Not one scrap of paper did he have to show that he had lost it while investing it for his ward. This left him guilty in the eyes of the law, so he kept quiet about the loss and hoped that young George would never return to his birthplace.

"Dad the Axis and Hitler, now, mused the Judge. 'How was I to know that some day there would be another World War and that George would distinguish himself before all the world?'"

But distinguish himself he did, and all the world knew about it. Every living soul in town knew when they read of the daring exploits of George Wilson Anthon, for the papers gave his birthplace and age.

There was a knock on the door. This he thought the Judge, so I will have to face it the best that I can. Putting on his most dignified air he called bruskly, "Come in."

A shy looking young man entered. He was dressed in the uniform of an officer of the Air Corps. He wore the gold leaves of a Major, and on his chest were many ribbons and medals that the Judge could not identify. His build was slight yet he was very handsome. As he approached the Judge's chair to shake hands, the Judge could notice a decided limp in his left leg.

"I'm sorry to impose upon you while you are ill," said the young man, "but I felt that I should leave without seeing you."

The old Judge's heart dropped down to the bottom of his boots and his face turned deathly pale.

"You see, Sir, I am suffering from amnesia; caused by shock during combat, and as everyone has told me how . . . " here the young officer seemed at a loss for words. His face turned red and he could not speak. The face of the old Judge grew more livid than a few seconds before, knowing that he was about to be accused of embezzlement. . . . "how kind you were to me in my youth," continued George, "while I have no recollection of anything before the shock I received, yet I could not leave town without coming to see my benefactor and true friend."

"Amnesia is a terrible handicap, sir, and as I could never bring myself back here to live after the war, I still wanted you to know that I appreciate everything you have done for me."

By this time the old Judge had recovered from his mental shock, but it did not leave him with amnesia, though he would have liked to forget certain parts of his past.

"Yes," he replied in a composed and calm voice, "amnesia is a terrible curse to some, but to others it can be a Godsend."

"Er . . . I don't understand."

"Nor can I explain. Probably the hallucinations of an old man."

The Judge's body slumped forward in his chair. The shock of the reprieve had been too great for his old heart. Clover Lick, W. Va.

Timber Sales On White Sulphur Ranger District

National Forest timber has been placed on the market to help supply the war demands as rapidly as buyers were found for it.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1944, the White Sulphur District sold over 5,800,000 Bd. Ft. saw timber, 656 cords of pulp wood, 880 cords of chestnut chestnut, wood used for fuel.

Since February of this year Lewis Gay has been employed as a helper to assist the Forest Ranger in handling the sales load. This district made 106 individual timber sales the past fiscal year ranging in size from $3.00 to a million board feet. Most of the sales were made on a tree measure-other products.

Since February of this year Lewis Gay has been employed as an aid to assist the Forest Ranger in handling the sales load.

This district made 106 individual timber sales the past fiscal year spring in size from $1.00 to a million board feet. Most of the sales were made on a tree measurement basis, but the larger ones were logs scaled to arrive at a volume.

During the war, the Forest Service is concentrating most of its efforts to make the natural resources available to help meet the critical demand. Maintenance of the forest improvements are undertaken only to the degree of protecting them from deterioration.

Army Air Force

Army Air Force, Headquarters, Station No. 12, Central African Wing, Air Transport Command, Miami, Florida, May 21, 1944.

Dear Mrs. Shaffer:
Yesterday afternoon at five o'clock a Memorial Day Service was conducted at this station in Central Africa, that we might honor S. Sgt. George E. Shaffer and his comrades who lost their lives in the performance of their duty. Presided by the colors, the troops marched in formation to the site of the American cemetery. There the ceremony began with an invocation by the Chaplain. The Commanding Officer delivered an address appropriate to the occasion, followed by a prayer of dedication. In solemn tribute to the men who lie buried there, the firing party fired three volleys of shots. Then the bugles stepped forward and blew "Taps."

Earlier in the afternoon the graves were decorated with wreaths of lovely orange and yellow flowers placed at the head and the remainder covered with branches of green leaves. In the center of the small cemetery there was placed a beautiful, large flower cross, composed of red flowers against a background of green leaves. The cross and the decoration of the graves were all accomplished through the efforts and the interest of the officers and men of this station.

I write you this in order that you may know that though your loved one lies buried thousands of miles from home, his fellow soldiers have not forgotten him. Through the ceremony yesterday we also honored his life and the lives of all the men who died for the things they loved and the land they loved. The Lord bless you and keep you; the Lord make His face to shine upon you and be gracious unto you; the Lord lift up His countenance upon you and give you peace.

Sincerely yours,
Paul F. Ketchum,
Chaplain Captain.

Somewhere in France,
June 28, 1944.

Dear Mom & All:
Just a line to let you know I am O. K. Here's hoping to find you all the same.

I bet you were beginning to wonder a little whether I had "kicked the bucket" or not. I haven't had much chance to write. I have been here since D-Day, and having a swell time.

How is the rest of the family? Tell them not to expect any letters for awhile, but I will try and write soon as possible. I had to burn this paper and pencil, so you no envelope. We got our first mail yesterday, and all of it was written in May.

Is Dad still working? I bet Helen is having a pretty good time. I would like to have a picture of her to send me much she has grown.

Well Mom, I don't know any more. Tell the rest of you. I am as possible.

Your son, Earl.

Mrs. Harlan Rogers, of Upper Truck, sends this letter from her brother, Kyle, somewhere in Ireland.

Hallo Orla and Brian.
Tonight I will be and drop you a few lines to let you know I am well now. I was sick a few days but now I feel all of you are fine. I get a letter from you today and was glad to hear from you. I received a letter from home today, saying you were all well. Saturday is Mark's birthday, he will be a year old. I would like to be with him.

I hope this war is over soon, so we can get back. The days are long over here now. Dark comes about 11:30 or 12:00 o'clock.

I sent Doris some more pictures you can get one of them anytime.

I will close for now, hope to see you all soon.

Love, Kyle.

Mrs. Arnot McNeill, received this letter from her son, Gerald, with the U. S. Forces in France.

Hi Mom:

Well your little boy has added another country to his list. They told me not to tell where I am, and that sure is a job, for I don't know myself. The people here were rather glad to see us; in fact they had quite a few works display for our benefit when we arrived. Don't worry about me, for I am as safe as in bed at home if I don't catch cold from sleeping in the ground. However, I was in a few hot spots, but haven't been in any for the past three days, and from what I hear won't be in any more. I hope you have not been too worried about me, for I am just like a bad coin that always shows up.

Guess it is about time to bring this letter to a close. I want to write Elsie a letter this afternoon and hope to get it out soon.

With love, Jerry.

E. H. Sams, of 260 Prospect St., Covington, Va., sends the following article from his son, Robert L. Sams.

Aboard A Coast Guard-Manned Transport, "Somewhere in the Pacific (Special)—From bookkeeper to anti-aircraft gun crew director is quite a transition, but Coast Guardsman Robert L. Sams, seaman 1-C, of Covington, Va., has proven his adaptability with flying colors.

As a reward for his fine work work on the gun crew, and in the carrying out of his regular deck duties, Sams was boosted to his present rating.

"It's only one thing to be looking for an error on the books and another to find the mistakes in your firing. The crew can't fire until I give the signal, so I have to draw a pretty good bead before pressing the button. The 18 year old Virginian observed.

Sams, who is the son of Mr. & Mrs. E. H. Sams, 260 Prospect St., Covington, likes his work fine and thinks it a great adventure, but when the war is over he plans to return to his former work. He was credit manager for the Good-year Tire & Rubber Co., in Covington.

A graduate of Covington High School, Class of '43 young Sams is a veteran of the Marshall Islands campaign. He saw action at Majuro, Eniwetok and Kwajalein Atolls. More recently he was sent to Point Montara, Calif., gunnery school for additional anti-aircraft training.—Covington Virginian.

Some Record

This week Sheriff Ward Hudson publishes the lists of persons delinquent for the non-payment of taxes on real and personal property. This sets the record for tax collection in this or any other County—ninety-nine and one-half percent. It is a record the Sheriff and his deputies can well be proud of. Out of $83,000 worth of tax tickets less than $500 remains to be paid; of this amount less than $75 is chargeable against real estate. Of course, such close collections is not at all popular with some people, but I say again it is a record to be justly proud of.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hamrick were over at Charlottesville last week, where Mrs. Hamrick had a physical examination.

Mrs. Joe Eskridge and four children of Fayetteville, are here visiting Mrs. W. A. Eskridge.

Mrs. F. M. Sydnor, Mrs. J. L. Hamner and son, Jimmy, of Manbboro, Virginia, are visiting friends in Marlinton.

Mrs. Pearl Yeager is back at her work in the County Clerk's Office after several days illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Layton T. Tharp, of Baltimore, were here last week to visit Mr. Tharp's parents, Rev. and Mrs. D. T. Tharp. They are workers in the Glen Martin airplane plant. They came and went in their own plane. The elder Mr. Tharp, though 79 years old, enjoys a flight with his son as well as any body could. The elder Mr. Tharp is not quite so air minded.

Miss Clara B. Johnson, Executive Secretary of the West Virginia Library Commission, was in Pocahontas last week. She brought the good news that looks loaned by mail to farm families by just writing a letter to the Library Commission at Morgantown. In communities where there are no libraries, any organized club can borrow a collection of books for a period of one month for their members.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Kibler, of Columbus, Ohio, spent last week at Cloverlick. Also Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Knight of Atlanta, Georgia. Mrs. Kibler was Miss Genevieve and Mrs. Knight was Elise, daughters of the late Dr. and Mrs. F. T. McClintic. Dr. Kibler will be remembered as a former principal of Hillsboro High school. He now fills the chair of Economics at Ohio University. Their sons, Frank and Thomas, are in the armed service. Frank has recently been awarded a medal for distinguished bravery in action in Italy. Have a "Coke" = You're home again

...or getting back among the folks

The biggest moment on earth to a fighting man is when he returns home. And one of the things that makes him feel at home is the old familiar phrase... Have a "Coke". With Coca-Cola, ice-cold, in your refrigerator, you can make any fighting man, including your own, feel he's back with his friends. From the border to the Gulf, Coca-Cola stands for the peace that refreshes—has become a symbol of friendly living.

Our Post-war Plans for G. I. Joe...

2ND in a series of ads on post-war opportunities

When it's over "over there," G. I. Joe will come home to a wave of gratitude such as this country never saw. And he's earned every bit of it—and more.

But gratitude won't buy groceries—G. I. Joe wants to go to work. He's got to have a job—and a chance to grow into still better jobs. We are going to do our part in the great task of providing these opportunities.

The day after Pearl Harbor, Esso Marketers adopted a plan of wartime benefits and job protection for our people in uniform. We published its main points here recently. We now want to tell you about two plans for taking returning servicemen into our organization. Here are their main points.

PLAN ONE covers our own employees as they come back:

1. Assurance to each man of his old job or another as good or better.
2. Review of changes in the man and in the business since he went away to be sure he gets the best job for him now.
3. Recognition of the development of men during the war, by providing better jobs than they left, either at once or as soon as possible.
4. Provisions in the case of a man not physically up to his old job for finding one he can do, temporarily or permanently as soon as possible.

PLAN TWO aims to take as many new people as possible from the armed services into our business. Post-war petroleum will need more people. Wartime experience will equip many men for this business. Here is our plan for these men:

1. Careful analysis of the man's abilities as they can best fit our business on the basis of a real career for him.
2. Special training with pay to prepare the man for prompt assignment to a definite job on a regular basis.
3. This also means full participation in old-age pension, disability, savings plan, and other individual job-security benefits which our employees share.
4. Opportunities for further training to prepare for advancement on a basis of proved ability.

 Yours truly,
 John E. Walker.

THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1944.

Let me tell you Conservation Commission broke loose in the wrong place again by putting the bear on the protected game list. They set up five days along about the first of December in which to hunt bear, and set the limit at one bear per hunter per season. Maybe the Commission thinks they can get by with this high handed procedure. However I give them credit with more sense than this. Naturally this discredits the Commission, intimating they have responded to pressure from groups of so called sportsmen on a point they have no idea they can maintain. The legislature alone has the power and authority to classify the black bear as a game animal. This our law makers have consistently refused to do. So long as we keep June McElwee in the House and Senator Fred Allen in the Senate, I say the legislature will continue to keep the manhandling bear in his place under the law as a predatory beast. So, if the bear comes around, and needs killing, why kill him. This is not advising the setting at naught of any law, for the law making body has consistently refused to grant unto the Commission the power they have so presumptuously attempted to usurp.

Of course I know the sob sister staff they would write in their record about the poor black bear going down the long, long trail winding with the buffalo until there be less than five hundred head of bear left in all of West Virginia. I have before me the report of the hearings of the joint game and fish committee of our National Congress. The report from the Monongahela National Forest alone shows more bear than this. My own good guess for Pocahontas County alone is considerably more bear than either the depressed figures of the Commission for the whole State and the accurate figures of the Federal Wild Life Service for the National Forest area.

While the hunters and fishers under write the cost for what conservation of natural resources is done in West Virginia, actually there are other interests in our State. There are selfish souls who would turn the choicest part of the State for human habitation over to wild life so they could enjoy seasons of recreation in the pursuit of game and fish and varmints. Other people are of secondary importance; we can abide here if our presence does not interfere in any way with wild life in the ten months in the year when it does not suit the convenience of the lowlanders to leave home to pursue it. Now they want us to board the bears for 300 days each year for the privilege of the chance of taking one a piece in five days hunting with the woods full of green horn tenderfoot shooting big guns into every shaking bush.

A thousand years ago in old England the king's courtiers took needed farm land for deer range. History merely repeats to the extent that attempt is made to give game and varmints law protection to consume crops and live stock and greatly interfere with the business and living of the people.

It suits one pressure group to confine bear hunting to five days, though with all year open season and at times a bounty, the number of bears have greatly increased and the gesture is made to confine bear hunting to a week, regardless of cost to stock raisers.

It suits another pressure group to go deer hunting about December 1, and in response to such a demand the unsentimental open season is placed smack dab in the middle of the mating season; too late, for most, too early for service as breeders. It suits an other pressure group to hunt grouse through the month of December, and almost an extra month is added to an all too long shooting season of six weeks, with the supply of grouse so greatly diminished by a plague of foxes and other varmints so great it is a wonder that we have a single ground nesting bird left.

Here we thought we had the bear business laid with the refusal of the legislature to expose people and property to the raids of the ruthless bear and with the blocking of the pre-emptive attempt of a former commission to be remembered, but it does seem they are trying to pull the bluff again. I know it will amount to naught in the long run but we have to be kept stirred up and bothered all the time.

NOTICE

More than a year ago the selling price on milk for this area was set at 14c per qt. retail. We had hoped to maintain our present price, but owing to the increased cost of production after August 1, milk will be 14c per qt. retail. We are sorry the war gallop.

Mrs. L. C. McCutcheon, of Greensburg, sends in this letter from her daughter Jeanne.

Dear Mother:
 Ireland may be called a "Little Bit of Heaven," but if you want to see a lot of Heaven—just come to "The Isle of Capri." After months and months of work what a grand place it was for a few days rest—if one could call it rest. We were doing something every minute, but it was something different.

Capri seemed a million miles removed from the war zone, in fact, I do not believe those folks know a war is on.

We left Naples by boat on Thursday at 3 p. m. and arrived in Capri at 5 p. m., so you see "Heaven is not far away." There were jeeps at the dock to take us to the Capri Hotel where the service was wonderful. While we slept our shoes were polished and our uniforms were pressed. It just seemed that they could not do enough for us, so for one brief spell we were ladies of leisure, and I felt that we surely earned our five-day vacation. This new drive in Italy has sent us so much work.

The first night we went to a dinner dance at the La Palma hotel. The food was wonderful, and these Italian orchestras can just make you trip the light fantastic. We turned in a little early the first night.

Friday morning we did a little shopping and then got a row boat and paddled up to the "Blue Grotto." I couldn't begin to write about it. I would do it an injustice. I will try to remember all about it and tell you when I see you. Friday night our escorts got a sail boat and we sailed over to Sorrento to a dinner dance at a beautiful hotel there. Dancing was on the terrace overlooking the sea and there was almost a full moon and how pretty it was shining across the water. It was in the wee morning hours when we got back to Capri.

Saturday morning we slept and spent the afternoon on the beach sunning ourselves and swimming. You should see my freckles. Saturday night it was another dinner dance at the Morganna Hotel, and again on the terrace with the moonlight to guide us. I do wish you could see how pretty it was.

Sunday morning we went to Anna-Capri, a small town on the other side of the island where we attended Mass in a church over two hundred years old. It was a beautiful old place. In the afternoon we visited the "Villa of Iphigeneia"—one of the mean Roman Emperors, and saw the cliff over which he threw his many wives. We had a sail boat with a motor and could travel a little faster and see more since our time was limited. We went for moonlight strolls Sunday night. There are beautiful walks.

Monday morning we got on the boat at nine and were back in our apartment at one p. m. and we sure did hit the hay. There is so much to tell you that I will have to wait until I see you. We are so very busy. I am working in the 5th Medical section now and I surely see some sad sights. I helped Colonel Fisher pass out purple hearts this morning.

A letter from you yesterday, written on Mother's Day. Very little mail is coming to us now. I wish you could see the moon that is coming up over Mt. Vesuvius, and I guess you will be seeing it in a few hours. I am writing on the balcony outside my room and everything is quite peaceful. We do not have many air raids any more. I used to go to the air raid shelter, but any more I feel about as safe in my room. We need to have raids about every other night.

I must get some sleep. I will be writing you again in a few days. My love to all.
 Jeanne.

 Pvt. James W. Nottingham was graduated July 23rd from the Liberator bombing mechanics school here and is now ready for line duty or further training under Army Air Force Training Command. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Nottingham of Marlinton, West Virginia. Now qualified as a B-24 mechanic, Pvt. James W. Nottingham will join the ranks of the green-clad army maintaining the big four engine aircraft, be sent to a factory.

Further specialized training, so as to one of the Training Command's aerial gunnery schools. The course of approximately 12 weeks has taught him the intricacies of electrical and hydraulic systems, propellers, instruments, fuel systems, engine operation and aircraft inspection. For eight days before graduating, he applied what he learned under simulated battle conditions at "Fort Liberator," a branch of the airplane mechanics school.

A prayer by a soldier of the U. S. Army.

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for all the good thou hast granted us, especially for health of body and spirit, and we pray that these blessings may be continued. Increase in us, O Lord, faithfulness to our duties as soldiers, so that our prowess may keep our country safe. Be with us when we are lonely and miss the dear ones back home, especially my dear wife. Be with them all, as thou art with us. O Lord, be our power and strength, and lead us so that in these evil times we may continue to be Christians in fact as well as in faith. It is because of our faith in thee that we so beseech thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Mrs. B. W. McComb sends in the following poem in honor of her son, Olen, who recently returned to duty after spending a short leave here with his mother:

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

Dear God take care of my boy in service,
 Help him dear Lord to do the right,
 And may he know by his mother's praying
 That You will protect him day and night.

Dear God prepare him for his duty
 Whatever it may be
 And when this cruel war is over
 Dear God please send him home to me.

The way seems dark and oh! so lonely,
 Since these dear boys have gone away.
 But this we know when the war is over
 There will be a happy day.

Yes, there are others, some mother's sons,
 So let us pray for everyone
 And don't forget that day by day
 They need our prayers while on their ways.

Some are on the land, some are in the air,
 Some are on the sea, we know not where,
 But this we know dear God of love,
 You can watch them from above.

Oh, yes, there are daughters out there too,
 Helping to protect the Red, White and Blue,
 If it be Your precious will today
 Please God protect them while they are away.

There are some dear Lord we know,
 Whom we'll never see again here below,
 So help them dear God to do the right,
 That we may meet them where there is no night.

Please God just answer this feeble prayer
 For mother's sons, we know not where,
 They had to go and leave us all,
 So we pray dear Lord they may not fall.

New Road Maps Out

The State Road Commission has published its 1944 edition of the official state road map which is being distributed by the Commission's Bureau of Highway Information, 211 Duffy Street, Charleston.

As a wartime economy move the commission will again publish but one edition for general distribution. However, the map side of it will be brought up to date every two months. State highways and the contribution they are making toward the war effort are featured in this map. The commission will issue 100,000 maps this year, a reduction of 570,000 from the last pre-war year. At the conclusion of the war, when tourist trade is again encouraged, the Commission will distribute the maps on the former quantity basis.

I'm not losing face.

I guess you've seen pictures of those real ancient cars that are quite a fad with some prominent people. I'm no big shot, but folks envy me, even at that, for keeping this car like an heirloom. Oh, some say that any good motor oil would largely do the trick, and they're welcome to believe it. I simply say this: Keeping my engine oil-filled over since I switched to Conoco N-4 motor oil, has helped me beat the curse of engine acids. I get what that acid does to combustion always try to curdle an engine's little fish, but CONOCO furnishes special protection. A special in Conoco N-4 oil, I've learned, helps prevent the oxidation. This means the working parts almost don't oxidize, and hold on to it. It's saturated so closely as almost giving to keep metal surfaces from oxidizing. That would certainly be a check on oxidation, from the inside you switch to an oil-oxide engine. So just get Conoco N-4 motor oil.

Dear Mom and Dad:

Dear Mom and Dad: I am still thinking about every-thing. This fight is in fact a little bit of a war, but it is not a war.

July 1, 1944.

Dear Mom and Dad:

I am sorry I haven't answered your letter sooner, but I was on a very busy day. I was in the hospital and I was in the hospital.

I have read about it in Sunday School and History, but when you see it, you can't imagine the difference it makes.

The places I saw, I will have to admit were not like history or the Bible since several centuries have passed by, and some places it is three cities deep where they have destroyed and built again. I spent five days touring the Holy Land and one could spend five times that long and not get tired of what you saw.

I wish I could tell you everything I saw but I could not begin as there is so much to remember that you could not start to put it on paper. But I am glad I took the trip while I had the chance as what I saw costs people thousands of dollars to see, while it only cost me fifty.

I have several pictures which we took on this trip. I will send you some as soon as I get them developed. I hope they all come out, especially one, which we were not allowed to take, but I snapped one anyway of the Jews at the Wailing Wall. The most beautiful churches and synagogues you ever feasted your eyes on. The church of all nations, located at the foot of Mt. Olive is really beautiful, besides the others I saw in, which as you know in the

AND WE'VE SET ASIDE
$1,500,000
TO HELP BRING THEM TRUE

$1,500,000 is a lot of money in West Virginia. That's the amount the Monongahela System has definitely earmarked for building new rural lines in just the first year after World War II is won.

Plans are ready. Construction will begin as soon as WPB releases necessary materials and manpower becomes available.

For years Monongahela System has followed a comprehensive plan for rural electrification, believing that stable progress for the state and for this company depends substantially upon our agricultural industry.

The $1,500,000 expansion program is just a part of that plan... our newly enlarged Agricultural Department is another.

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

A Post-war Plan to Help "Small Business"...

3RD in a series of ads on post-war opportunities

Every business starts small. No business, however large, can function without good smaller businesses working with it day by day. The oil wells and refineries of Esso Marketers could not sell their output without the vast army of local, independent dealers and distributors who bring the bulk of our products to you.

At war, we have seen these businessmen do a magnificent job. They have worked under most difficult rationing restrictions. Their manpower shortage has grown worse and worse. They have had to push old equipment to the limit. And still they have done an outstanding job in helping to hold the nation's transportation together.

After the war they will have new tough problems to face—in modernizing facilities, replacing old equipment, expanding their businesses.

To help them do this we announce the Esso Marketers Business Assistance Plan.

THE PLAN, which will be revised from time to time to keep pace with new developments, includes:

1. Suggestions for post-war service station designs.
2. A list of recommended equipment now generally available, to which will be added new equipment from time to time.
3. Modernization of existing service stations to meet post-war needs for petroleum products and the handling of other services for automobiles, trucks and air travel.

4. This plan faces the fact that many of these smaller businessmen will not come through the war with financial resources equal to their sound business expansion needs. This plan will supplement the service of local commercial banks in lending money to see these men "over the hump" of post-war needs.

Anyone interested in the plan, and qualified for its help, may write:

PANORAMA OF ITALY

(By S. Sgt. Frank B. Crigger)

If I were an artist with nothing to do
I'd paint a picture a complete view
Of historic Italy, in which I'd show
Visions of contrast, the high and the low.
There'd be towering mountains, a deep blue sea,
Filthy brats yelling "caramelle" at me.
High plumed horses and colorful carts;
Two toned tresses on bustling tarps.
I'd show Napoleonic vops, the Carabinieri,
Dejected old women with too much to carry.
A dignified old gent with a Balboa beard,
Bare bottomed Bambinos, both ends smeared.
Castle and palace, opera house, too,
Hotel on the mountain, a marvelous view;
Homes made of stone, bricks and mud,
People covered with crabs, scurvy and crud.
Chapels, and churches, great to behold,
Each a king's ransom in glittering gold.
Poverty and want, men craving for food—
Picking through garbage, practically nude,
Stately Cathedrals, with high-toned bells,
Covered shelters with horrible smells;
Moulding catacombs, a place for the dead,
Noisy civilians clam'ring for bread
Palatial villas with palm trees tall,
A stinking hovel, a mere hole in the wall,
Tree fringed lawns, swept by the breeze;
Goats wading in filth up to their knees.

Revealing statues, all details complete;
A sensual lass with scores on her feet.
Big breasted damsels, but never a bra—
Bumping against you; there should be a law.
Creeping boulevards, a spangled team.
After that wind like a dope sand's dream.
Flowers blooming on the side of the hill;
A sidewalk intrude with privacy nil.
Two by four shops with shelves all bare;
Surrounded by fish, rot and decastering merchants, arms flail the air.

Narrow gauge sidewalks, more like a shelf;
Butt puffing youngsters, scratching themselves;
Lumbering carts, hogging the road.
Nondescript trucks, frequently towed.
Diminutive donkeys, loaded for a bear.
Horse drawn taxis, seeking a fare.
Determined pedestrians, courting disaster.
Walking in gutters where movement is faster.
Italian drivers, all accident bound.
Weaving and twisting to cover the ground.
Home made weed brooms tied to a stick.

Used in the streets to clean off the bricks.
Bicycles and pushcarts blocking your path;
Street corner politicians, needing a bath.
Barbers galore, with manners quite mild.
Prolific women all heavy with child.
I'll Duce's secret weapon, kids by the score.
Caused by his bonus which is no more.
Arrogant wretches, picking up snipes.
Miniature Fiats of various types.
Young street singers, hand organ tune;
Shoe shining boys, your sidewalk saloon.
A beautiful maiden, a smile on her face.
With a breath of garlic, fouling the place.
Lisless housewife, no shoes on her feet;
Washing and cooking right out on the street;
The family wash of tattle tale gray.
Hangs from the balcony, blocking the way.
Native coffee—God, what a mixture.
Tiled bathrooms, with only one fixture.
Families dining from one common bowl.
Next to a fish store, a horrible hole.
Italian zoot suiters, falsely dressed.
Barefooted beggars, looking depressed.
Mud smeared children clustering about.
Filling their jugs from a community spout.
A dutiful mother with a look of despair.
Picking the lice from her small daughter's hair.

THE DROUTH

While it looks like rain this morning, Tuesday, and a good rain was reported from Lowmeyer on Monday afternoon, the dry spell is now at death proportion, with water at its lowest since 1930. Pastures are burned up and corn is already injured.

Down in Kanawha County application has already been made to the United States Department of Agriculture to have that county officially declared in the drouth area, so that relief food can be made available for domestic animals.

I never saw Greenbrier River and Knappa Creek quite so low at Marlinton, not even in the dry year of 1930.

Dead fish are being found in all the streams—Greenbrier River, Williams River, Stony Creek and Knappa Creek. The prize trophy was a twenty inch black bass found below the mouth of Stony Creek.

To help deplete the supply of oxygen in the water, the streams now have much "moss"—algae.

Old Fellows Memorial

Elkins.—On Sunday, July 30, with proper ceremony, the monument erected by the Odd Fellows and Rebekah of West Virginia, in honor of A. J. Wilkinson was unveiled at the West Virginia Odd Fellows Home. The base is 5 ft. by 7 ft.; height is 10 feet; weight 16 tons; cost $10,000.

Ashly Jackson Wilkinson was born in Harrison County January 9, 1863. He became an Odd Fellow in 1888. He was elected grand secretary of the Grand Lodge of West Virginia, April 8, 1888, and has served ever since. He has been member and secretary of the Odd Fellows Home Board since 1922.

This Memorial is erected through the spontaneous free will offering of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of West Virginia to the honor of one who has done so much for the Order. Largely through his efforts the Home, on whose grounds this Memorial stands, has been made financially independent. We believe that generations yet unborn will garner the harvest from seeds sown by him and will live more abundant lives because he has lived.

Among Pocahontas people in attendance at the unveiling were R. B. Slaven, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. VanRensselaer and Val Fortune.

There will be singing at the White Chapel Church at Woodrow, Sunday night, August 6, at 8:00. Everyone welcome.

CLARENCE W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, AUG. 5, 1944

What with the declaring a closed season on bears and an open season on university presidents, here in West Virginia I allowed it was about time I was getting down to the settlement at the mouth of Elk River. I did not find out much but it was a pleasant trip to the capital city anyhow. The occasion was the State democratic convention, held last Monday. I have been attending democratic State conventions off and on, for forty years and there has been great changes. Now all business necessary could be transacted on a post card with room to spare. It used to take the better part of a week to name the State ticket. First there would be jockeying and horse trading around among the adherents of factions to get the favor of the big boy; then the big boys would trade and parcel out the nominations to the various offices among their favorites on a give and take basis; then the rejected ones would combine to throw wrenches into the works in usually futile effort to wreck the machines. I have seen them start out a running for governor, to wind up well satisfied on the ticket for presidential elector. It was all very interesting, confusing, and, beyond the social side, served no especially good purpose.

In my time of the big conventions, the democratic party was most of the time the minority party, beleaguered with two rival would be leaders, to make party efforts, lively, interesting and futile. The republican party was most of the time the majority one, and it was more of a close corporation with large, docile blocs like the pensioner vote, labor vote, the colored vote to rely upon. It had a real, recognized leader—we called him a boss—who called the figures. He was obeyed without question, or the questioner sunk without a ripple. Such politics were effective but uninteresting. As democrats always put off the best show, but that was about all it amounted to, usually.

The people got so sick and tired of such a system of making party nominations, that in 1915 the party convention went into the discard. That is for naming all officers except judges. Two years ago, certain judicial conventions were so political boss ridden to cause our people to arise in righteous indignation, and so the legislature made the naming of judicial candidates of the parties by primary election too. Outside of social lines, we have not lost a thing.

With a week to spend, taking a few drinks, smoking some cigars and romancing around generally one acquired statewide acquaintance, extending into every county.

I could not help comparing the rush in and rush out one day convention of last Monday with the leisurely, old world week long gathering of the clans of thirty and more years ago.

The old conventions were hard bitten affairs with only men in attendance; in our now one day gatherings, the half of a county delegation was easily women; forty years ago, it is no exaggeration to say, a half or more of the men in attendance at a state political convention were lawyers. In fact it was generally understood that it was a part of election years work was for a lawyer to attend the conventions of his party. One never knew when or where lightning might strike. Now at the Charleston meeting, lawyers in attendance probably in about their ratio to the general public, and certainly outnumbered by laboring men; particularly miners, being as this is a mining state.

Our old conventions used to be lily white. Seemed like colored democrats were the unknown quantity everywhere like they still are in Pocahontas County. Now conventions have negro citizens scattered all over the meeting place, with whole blocks of them in the delegations from the industrial and mining counties like Cabell, Kanawha, Logan, Fayette, McDowell, etc. You know a little good honest black never yet has hurt any body's party meeting.

Times change, and convention gatherings and people change with the times. Eight years ago at Charleston, we all were a court ing of Senator Neely to be a good boy to quit sulking in his room and come out and fill his speaking engagements as outlined in the manifest. He did speak, but hurried off to Washington immediately after. Seemed like it was not his show.

Colonel Louis Johnson, chair man and keynoter, mentioned in his speech the marked improvement in the caliber of the people who are now in attendance. I say they now listen to a good speech. The lure for office is no longer present as the bait to attract suckers. With no party party stalwarts who gather for the sake of principle, to make declaration of such principles set out in a formal platform, and to lend by our presence the moral support due our standard bearers, heretofore chosen by a direct vote of the people of our party.

Speaking about conventions, our republican brethren held their meeting at Parkersburg last Saturday. I was impressed with the report I got on this meeting from a republican stalwart. He intimated that about the most he could see wrong with his party is that it persists in a policy of exclusiveness even in lean days. Here the democrats are making the colored brothers and sisters welcome in their party while the republicans gave the cold shoulder to Mr. Wendell Wilkie at the Chicago convention. Down at Parkersburg, the convention was so manipulated that Mr. Raymond J. Funkhouser of Charles Town, Jefferson County, was denied the empty out honorable honor of being put on the ticket as one of the presidential electors. In the late primary, Mr. Funkhouser received around 70,000 votes for governor. While he has strong personal following in his party, a plenty of these were protest votes against present republican management.

Speaking about speeches, Governor Broughton, of North Carolina, followed our own Louis Johnson, and it takes an interesting speaker to hold attention following the Colonel. I look upon Governor Broughton as one of the coming public men of America. He gracefully side stepped the vice presidential nomination last week at Chicago. Of late I have been kind of off the public men of North Carolina, with the late Senator Simmons voting for Hoover; and the records of Reynolds and Bailey joining the Yanks in the Senate. Reynolds was named to offer for reelection. With South Carolina retiring old Cotton Ed Smith this week, I am in hopes the old North State will put the come hither on Bailey the first chance, and replace him with Broughton; for the good of the country.

Our temporary chairman was to be Col. J. H. Long of Huntington. He slipped and fell on his printing office floor, to be laid up on convention day. So they called up another friend of mine, Carl Andrews, country gentleman, of pp. Elk. He had to start to town so early he did not take time to run his trot line that morning.

Let me say that Arthur Koontz, national committeeman, and Joe Smith, state chairman, are party managers in fact as well as in name. We can count on the best they have, and their best are plenty good. We can expect an energetic, systematic and efficient campaign this fall; none of those artistic institution moves, which may be all right when they win, though usually disastrous.

Our governor candidate Judge Clarence Meadows, of Raleigh County, made a good speech and an impressive one. The only trouble was that he let himself be run on as the last orator of a long hot day, when the crowd had begun to mill, fixing to start for home or bed down for the night. Between now and the fall election I am liable to write a chapter on the Judge's speech and chapters on the platform they drenched on to us along about sun down.

Anyway, you know the most important party positions are certainly the most thankless in the county chairman and district executive committee board members. They are allowed to do the hard work of political campaigns and keep the party functioning during off years in season and out. Successful candidates, riding into office through the efforts of district committee members all over the State, have been known to forget all about the men and women who made the victory possible through unselfish effort. Such birds have been known to set up an organization of their own make, neglecting the duly elected party organizations, for consultation, advice and patronage. Let me go aside for the remark that the next time such birds come up in an election they usually fall outside of the breast works—some say shot in the back. Anyway, there was a world of comfort in the words of our champion, publicly expressed, that in the matter of patronage, it would be dispensed by Joe Smith, State Chairman after consultation with duly accredited party workers.

While this chapter is plenty long now, let me go on to say that the one day convention met in a big high school building, with room a plenty and to spare for the thousands and more people in attendance. In the old days the seventy odd saloons of the city invaded some thousands of dollars in a great rough board structure, with splinters in the hardwood seats, and all unbecomingly hot and uncomfortable. They always said the bar keeps realized heavily on the investment. Anyway, I am for these modern, stream lined one day state political conventions. Most of the delegates can drive down to Charleston in the morning and get back home for part of the night. The hotels take care of you in comfort without undue crowding and price gouging. Just as funnatical partisans attend, for the advancement of the cause of freedom, with little thought of personal political preferment. I feel kind of self righteous about it.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Gerard H. Nottingham, Senior 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nottingham, of Dorbin, has returned to the Naval Base at Norfolk, Va., after spending 30 days leave with his parents and friends. It will be remembered he was one of the survivors of the Block Island Ship which was sunk in May.

His brother, Ellis D. Nottingham, who was home on a five day leave, has returned to his Station in Sampson, N. Y. He thinks he will be assigned to a ship soon, and hopes to get a crack at the Japs.

Mr. & Mrs. Milton D. Vaughan of Hillsboro, send this letter from their son, Henry.

South Pacific.
June 10, 1944.

Dear Mom & Dad:

I received six letters from you all today, the first I had heard from you for over two weeks. I sure was glad to hear from you. You don't know how much I enjoy reading your letters, and they were just like they were when you mailed them. In coming mail is not censored. I also received six letters from Arleen; pretty even, weren't they? Yesterday, I received a box of candy from Arleen. She had mailed it to me, while I was still in the States; it arrived in good condition. Mom, I know I will receive the package of sugar. I know it will reach me sometime. I know you all keep up with the Americal Division. There is a lot of news about it in the States. You wanted to know how the Americal Division got its name. It was formed in New Caladonia—named after America and Caladonia. It is the only Division that doesn't have a number, and sure is a swell outfit.

Yes, I know some boys here, that I met in the States, two that I took training with while in the States, both are from Pittsburgh, Penn. Also, I am acquainted with a boy from Cumberland, Md., who is a real nice boy. His name is Filer, a queer name.

Dad, tomorrow is Father's Day. I wish I could send you something but you understand how it is. But, I want to tell you, you are the best Father in the world, and I will always follow your advice. I am proud of the way you brought me up, and only hope I can be half as good as you are. I think of you a lot, and hope by this time next year we can be with each other again.

You sure must be fixing the farm up. I am glad to know you are making such good progress with the crops. I bet the barn yard looks nice, since you have it fenced. It sure is a beautiful place, it all comes back to my memory. The trees around the house. If you can, send me some pictures.

I received a letter from Louise, telling me about her boy, Wayne Sanford. She is sure proud of him. Jimm is my boy. I really think a lot of my kid brother, and only hope when he grows in to manhood, he won't have to go off to war.

Arleen is working, she had told me in one of her previous letters, what kind of work she was doing but as yet I haven't received the letter. Tell Bill not to find too many bears. Tell him we will go on a big bear hunt, when I get back. Am glad to know grandpa is well. Tell him hello.

I'm sure glad to know the road up the Creek is being put in condition.

I will have to close for this time. Will write as often as I can. I am well and in the best of health and hope you all are the same. Please excuse writing, as I am on my knees and by candle light.

Your son, Henry.

This letter was written by Pvt. Henry M. Vaughan of the Americal Division, Southwest Pacific. June 10, 1944.

Dear Mr. Price: I want to write and thank you for sending me your big, little paper so regular. It brings a lot of news from home. What I enjoy reading most is the article you publish "Our Army and Navy Boys." I enjoy reading about their experience on foreign soil.

I am on an island in the South west Pacific. The island is jungle at its jungle. It has been cleared to some extent. But let me wander fifty yards from my tent and the under brush is solid as a wall.

The jungle is inhabited by every known type of insect that bites or makes a noise. There are ants whose jaws are so big that when they bite the succulent G I ankle you can hear their jaws snap. That is really on the level.

The scorpion having been introduced to the comforts of blankets, shoes and socks take to these for their living quarters. A soldier who pokes his foot into a shoe without first reconnoitering, will get the works.

It rains here every day (and when it rains it comes down in torrents. But we put the rain to a good purpose though. When it starts raining, we calmly strip off our clothes, grab a cake of soap and let mother nature give us a shower, which the army can't provide. All in all, the jungle isn't so bad after you get accustomed to living in that manner, but that is one thing. I don't think I can ever get used to it.

I would like to write more but I am kept pretty busy. When I get back to the States, I will drop into see you and see which one can spin the biggest yarn.

One thing more I think and know the good old Americal Division can go anywhere the Nips can, jungle or no jungle.

Just a doughboy,
Henry M. Vaughan.

Sgt. Norman H. Alderman, writes to this paper as follows under date of July 16th.

France.

Dear Mr. Price: For some time I've been thinking about writing you a few lines so I am just now getting around to it.

I received your paper yesterday—always real glad to get it. It is really nice to sit down and read the news from back home, even if it is a month old.

Well, Mr. Price, we are awful busy these days, not much time off. My branch of Service is more or less on the move all the time not long in one place, but that is the sweet part of it, as the fighting line moves up we go. Don't forget we are in the thing and we are going to pitch till we win. Let's make '44 the Victory year.

Well, Mr. Price, back in April, while still in England, on one Sunday evening, I had a great surprise, while I was preparing for a short journey, I heard a voice saying: "What are you doing?" I turned around and to my surprise, who do you think it was? After two long years, my brother Neil had stepped in my tent to pay me a visit. That spirit of Brother's Love filled my heart. Today, that same spirit was renewed again. Where? Upon the soil of France, after many long months, yes, it has begun to run into years of hard training we are now engaged in the great battle to prove to our enemies, and all those who seek to destroy the true way of life. Liberty, justice and freedom for all shall not perish from the earth.

Today, Mr. Price, if the people back home could view the battle front and see the spoils of war I honestly wonder what they would think. It's a long hard road that leads to Victory, but these men are paying the price, willingly with their own blood. We know this, we have seen it with our own eyes. I wish all America could realize how serious this fight is, I think this war would end lots quicker if they did.

Well Mr. Price, just a few words about France and then I'll close. I like it very well here, as for the climate, I will have to say I like it better than England. There is a wonderful apple crop here in the locality I'm in. A hedge around every field I've seen yet, which makes very hard fighting. As for livestock the people sure believe in raising horses, some very nice ones. The cattle is good as I have seen anywhere. But the language I can't understand.

I must be closing. Hoping to be back in the good old U. S. A. in '44.

Yours truly,
Sgt. Norman H. Alderman.

Warren G. Moore sends this letter from his son, Melvin, who is in the Navy:

Dear Dad, Mother and All: I will write you all a few lines now, as I have time. I got a letter from you today, one from Juanita and one from Pauline. Sure was glad to see them when I came in from work at noon. I hope these few lines find you well and getting along fine. I am O.K. myself.

I got a letter from Mother, and she said Vinton was going to buy him a bike from Iva. Has he got it yet or not? I want you all to tell aunt Levy hello and tell her I am going to write her a big letter before long.

Has Russel ever gotten his call or not? I hope not, because he is needed at home to take care of things and poor aunt Leavy, for she is getting old. Tell all kids hello and tell Cora to get me a picture of the twins and send me. I want to show some of the boys over here.

I was just thinking today, when I was in the Great Lakes and Earl came across, Granville wrote me and said, "don't you wish you were going with him?" I answered and said yes, but I wish I was coming back across now. I have seen enough over here for now. When we were in Norfolk, most of the boys said, "boy, I can't wait until we get on a ship," and I said, "yes and you won't like it so well when you get there." Add I think most of them will agree with me now. If I was not with a lot of the old West Virginia guys, I don't know what I would do, for they sure are friends for me. There are boys from Charleston, Clarksburg, Fairmont, and Beckley all around here. My best pal is from Beckley, his name is Larry Mitchell. We run around all the time together.

Well Dad, I will close for time.
Your son, Melvin.

PEC. Ralph W. Curry, writes from Camp Gruber, Oklahoma: July 3, 1944.

Dear Mr. Price:

Due to my change in camps, immediately after my furlough, please send the paper to the address below.

I've really seen a lot of beautiful country in the last two weeks but none as beautiful as those good old West Virginia hills.

I guess before too long now, it will be hunting season there again. I sure would like to be there, but my hunting season is coming soon too, only a different kind of game. Its the game I've really been looking forward to get my eyes on.

Well as news is scarce, I'll sign off for now and here's hoping I receive the paper soon, because I really enjoy reading the news from home.

Sincerely yours,

"Good Soldier"

The proudest title in the Army

It consists of two simple words.

Yet every soldier who's worth his salt covets it.

This title is simply:

"Good Soldier."

It isn't just happenstance that so many women in the WAC have earned this title—the proudest in the Army.

For wherever Wacs are working, both here and overseas, there you find a job well done. And done with a spirit so gallant and fine that high Army officers everywhere say of the WAC...

"They're soldiers. Good soldiers!"

July 23, 1944.

Dear Folks: It is now a few minutes past nine-thirty but will write a few lines tonight before going to bed. I received your letter of July 2nd late this evening. Just three weeks today since you wrote it. So you have been getting some of my letters. Am glad you finally got some of them.

And you are having some cool weather there too! I am writing this—my fingers are cold and stiff and can see my breath in the air. Feels cool enough to frost but I don't guess it will.

I went to services this morning. The Chaplain preached a good sermon and we had some special music by two corporals. One sang "The Holy City" and the other played the organ. The organ sounds just about like the one you have in the church there. It is small as it is a portable. Some of the hymns we sang were "Faith of Our Fathers," "Holy, Holy, Holy," and "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me." There was another one or two but I forget what they were now. Had a very good crowd, more than could get in the tent.

We had a right good dinner today—ham, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots, spinach, bread and marmalade, peaches, and coffee to drink. In fact we get plenty to eat most of the time.

The tornado or hurricane which you mentioned in your letter must have been bad. I believe I told you in a previous letter about seeing it in the Stars and Stripes. I never heard of such in that state before. It sure was hard on the people in that section of the state in which it hit. Was sorry to hear about the Hefners. Hope the same will not happen with you.

How is Glena getting along now? I received her letter some time ago but have never answered it. I have several letters which I should answer but seems like just can't get at it.

I hope the watch you are sending will get her all right, and guess it will eventually as packages are pretty slow. Some of the boys have been receiving them though all along with candy and cakes, etc. The cakes are somewhat stale usually though unless they have been well wrapped in oiled paper. Then they taste like the box. The wash clothes you are sending will come in good as the ones I have will be worn out before long, one of them anyhow, the other one isn't bad yet as got it in New York.

It is getting a little dark so I will close and get ready for bed. Hope all are well. I am feeling well as usual and getting along O. K. We are fairly busy the most of the time but not working too hard.

As ever, Richard.

Mrs. C. C. Beale received the following letter from her son, John Ellis, who is serving in England:

England July 22, '43.

Dear Mother & All: I just came back from spending the most happy afternoon that I've spent since coming to England. You can probably guess who I saw. It was Clyde, and I don't think there were ever two happier brothers than us. Until yesterday, the last I heard from him was after he had gone to France. Then yesterday afternoon I got a letter from him and he was in a hospital here in England. The coincidence was that he was in the same hospital they had me, so I knew exactly where to go to see him. Mac went up with me. It is about fifty miles from where I am stationed, and the Adjutant General gave us a truck to go there.

Clyde is almost well now and said to tell you not to worry. He has probably told you all he can about being hurt. He was hit with some pieces of shrapnel from an 88 m. gun.

He will probably be out in a few days and sent to a replacement pool, so don't guess I'll get to see him again for a good while. He told in his letter he hadn't been getting any mail, so I took all the letters you have sent—his was the last one I saw. He was very glad to hear from you and was very glad to hear from you and was very glad to hear from you.

able to get the news from home that way. He lost quite a bit of weight in France but is still heavier than when I last saw him. He didn't know I had been hurt until I told him today.

Grandma said in her letter that you had been pretty sick again. Write and let me know how you are and take care of your self. I am going to write you a V-mail tonight, so we can see which letter gets there faster.

Mac flew to France in the same glider I was in, but he wasn't hurt any.

Hope all are well and I am thinking of you in my prayers for the opportunity of seeing Clyde. Love to All, John Ellis.

Mrs. Emmet Galford sends in the following letter that she received from her son, Garland P. Galford, who is stationed at Key West, Florida:

Dearest Mother and Dad:

It seems like it has been a long time since I have written to you. So while I am just sitting around here at the guard house waiting to go on post, I will drop you a few lines. I got a big letter from Mrs. Moses the other day. I don't get as many letters as I did when I first came here, but it is because I am too lazy to answer them.

Well I guess you enjoyed the girls being home didn't you? Wish I could have been there too. Although I never get home sick, but after all, there is no place like home.

It looks like this war might be over in a few months for a year, according to the news papers.

I sure hope so, so I can come home and tell about the Battle of Key West. (ha!)

Well how is everything going at home? Fine, I hope. For me, I am well and getting along fine. It is still awful hot here, and we have a thunder shower pretty often. But nothing exciting ever happens here to write about.

How many letters have you got up to now. You should get a bond in a few days. After this month, I will probably send a few dollars home or straight to the bank and if I send it home you can put it in the bank for me.

I guess the boys are helping Tom make hay, aren't they? What is Dad doing now? Believe it or not, we had a written test on Guard duty Thursday and I made 100 per cent on it. I think there was about a out of 75 made 100 per cent.

I haven't been to church since I came here. I would like to go, but I just don't get a chance to, because church is always at 10:00 o'clock and I am either going on duty at 8:15 each morning or coming off duty at 9:00. I can't dress and walk to Church in an hour.

There is one Christian Marine here and I talk to him a lot and he is sure a good man.

Well it is time to go on Post, so I must close. Good bye and answer soon.

Your son, Garland.

P. F. C. Kyle C. Dilley sent this poem to his wife, the former Doris Arbogast. He is somewhere in France.

You, Who Have Loved Me

You who have loved me know that I shall ever keep faith with you. A part of my heart shall always be yours. Shall always forever be true. No matter how long the road may be. Though we're half the world apart. I shall keep faith with the Dream we found. With the memory in my heart. You who have loved me know that I shall hold to the love we knew. And when Peace has come to this world again. I shall be waiting for you.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Perry of Renick, received a telegram from the War Department stating that their son, P. F. C. William S. Perry was seriously wounded in action in France on July 12 1944.

P. F. C. James G. Hiner, of Camp Campbell, Kentucky, Mr. Conrad L. Kerney, and Miss Mary Hiner of Akron, Ohio, were called home by the unknown illness of their father, Anthony W. Hiner, of Mountain Grove, Virginia. All three of the letters you have sent—his was the last one I saw. He was very glad to hear from you and was very glad to hear from you and was very glad to hear from you.

The following poem was written by Mrs. Birdie McLaughlin, of Minnehaha Springs, to the tune of "Just Before the Battle Mother," which was one of her favorite songs so often sung by her son, Forrest, who serves in a Glider Division and was wounded in the invasion:

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE

Just before the Battle, Darling, Mother sits with tear filled eyes; With this earnest prayer ascending To our Saviour in the Skies; "Oh! dear Lord, please keep my Darling, Don't let bullets near him come, And when this cruel war is over, Bring my Darling safely home"

Chorus:

Oh! my Darling, should I never, Press you to my heart again, I never shall forget you Darling, If you're numbered with the slain.

Oh! I long to see you too, dear, Wishing you could be at home, But I know that you'll be brave dear, Till in honor you can come And all your comrades lying round you, Oh! should they sleep beneath the sod May they have only gone up higher, To be at rest in Heaven with God.

It seems I hear the bugle sounding, Calling you into the fight; And oh! may God protect you Darling, As you're fighting for the right.

To protect our precious Bible, And the freedom of our land; Facing death to save our Country From the cruel tyrant's hand.

This note and poem is from PFC. Kermit Foe, of Cass, who is serving in Italy.

July 17, 1944.

Dear Mr. Price:

Hello Friend. Thought I would send you a little poem for your paper, for Mothers, who have sons in Service over here. Will you please print it for me! My home is in Cass, W. Va., and I am longing for those hills. So I'll close. Good Luck, Kermit Foe.

DON'T FORGET TO PRAY

Son, there isn't much that we can say, Though deep within our hearts There are countless thoughts we can't express.

When it comes time to part Of course we'll tell you to be brave. When you are far away, But first of all comes this advice, "Son, don't forget to pray."

We won't be with you over there Your hands can't touch us when You reach for just a friendly clasp. And comes remembrance then. But up above there's some one who hears every word you say So, when times are the toughest, "Son, don't forget to pray."

There isn't much that we can say to help. When times like these arise. Except to say, 'tis best to look For aid up in the skies. For He, who watches over you After you've gone away Will be the One who cares for you.

So don't forget to pray Some day you'll be back with us Some day you'll understand That pathways leading to the best Are guided by his hand.

And though there are not many folks like us; Just plain old folks, can say 'Tis with believing hearts we say, "Son, don't forget to pray."

FIELD NOTES

On last Saturday Dan Carpenter killed the big old sheep eating bear which has been raiding the sheep flocks on Williams River all spring and summer. He got the bear on Mt. Lick Run. This was a big old bear in good condition. He dressed out about 300 pounds. Dan has been carrying his gun for this bear for several months.

The other day Mrs. Elmer Sharp came upon a big snake while picking berries. It proved to be a blowing viper, more than four feet long and big. This is a harmless snake, if a creature which will scare you to death can be considered harmless. You know about the blowing viper, when he opens his mouth to strike he cannot close it again until he falls down dead, to get over his fit of anger. This has been true of blowing vipers, according to the old colored people, ever since the one came out of the fire on the Island of Malta and fastened to the hand of the good Saint Paul.

Stanley and Carl Wooddell, of Big Spring of Elk, killed a big black snake some weeks ago. In the snake were four little wild turkeys and a grouse chick. Don't you let the nature fakirs persuade you, to spare blacksnakes. Kill every one you can, there will be enough left to balance the scales of nature.

Speaking about blacksnakes, some weeks ago, G. M. Sharp, on Knapps Creek, found a chicken hawk of medium size all sprawled out in a field near the house; but showing signs of life. Looking more closely, Mr. Sharp was surprised to find a chunk of a black snake all wrapped around that hawk, squeezing the very life out of him. On more than one occasion I have seen hawks flying a way with big black snakes, but this is the only case in my record of where the snake got the drop on the hawk.

Mrs. Carl Stockwell and little daughter Jean, of Port Arthur, Texas, are visiting Mrs. Stockwell's father, Dr. N. R. Price.

Miss Peggy Vanowale has returned to Washington, D. C., after spending a week at the home of her parents, at Boyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Turk McLaughlin, Jewel and Donovan, Mrs. Glenn Dean, Blanche and Forest Dean and Orland Gorn, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Dean, at Marlinton.

48th Church Anniversary

The 48th anniversary of the Marlinton Methodist Church will be observed on Sunday, August 13, at eleven o'clock worship hour. The sermon will be by Rev. S. R. Neel, of Cumberland, Md., a former pastor. S. J. Rexrode will call the roll of deceased members and veteran F. H. Viers will call the Service Honor Roll.

A basket dinner will be served at the close of the morning service. After dinner a song service will be held.

CHURCH OF NAZARENE

Rev. Edward C. Oney, District Supt. of the West Virginia District will be the guest speaker at the eleven o'clock worship service Sunday morning, Aug. 13th, at the Church of the Nazarene. We extend to everyone a cordial welcome to attend this special service. Come in time for Sunday School, which convenes at 10 o'clock.

T. James Boshell, Pastor.

There will be preaching at the Mt. Zion Church Sunday August 13th at 3 o'clock p. m. Let every one come out as this is next to the last sermon before Conference.

The Mt. Zion Farm Women's Club met for their July meeting at the home of Mrs. Edna Burdfield, with eight members present. The devotionals were led by Hattie K. Hambrick, who also read an article "Secret Weapons" the lesson entitled "Care and Repair of Household Equipment" was led by Mrs. W. A. Hively.

The Club extends thanks to Mrs. Esther LaRose and Rev. Olson for the splendid help at the Vesper service, which was enjoyed by all. After recreation period the hostess served delicious refreshments. The Club adjourned to meet in August with Mrs. Dallas Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sheets and daughter, Thelma, of Wilmington, Delaware, have returned home after spending vacation with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carpenter at Buckeye and other friends.

Mrs. F. M. Sutton, of Edray, has returned from a visit to her brother, H. S. Delamore, at White Sulphur Springs.

THURSDAY, AUG. 10, 1944

We were asked the other day, who was the happiest man, the man who has plenty of money, lots of it, the man with a steady job, or the fellow who has nothing to do but do as he pleases?

The question is rather hard to answer, we know when we are happiest, but every man has a different way of figuring out his happiness. It is not man's nature to be content, and how can one be happy if not content. We do not believe the most miserable man is the one who has nothing in mind, no regular plan for the day, who gets up when he pleases, eats when he is hungry or a meal is offered and retires after all others are asleep.

There are men who find happiness in saving money, some obtain happiness by applying themselves strictly to business, others get a great kick out of spending.

We know some men who get their greatest happiness by doing something for others, by detecting when a friend is in need and by supplying that need his happiness is made full.

There can be no greater happiness than obtained by the man who does a hard day's work, does his job well, makes his way home to his wife and children, who earn his money by honest toil, builds a home for his own, can brush his way among the throng and not be attracted or does not let himself be drawn aside. The man who gets up early in the morning, every morning with his job in mind, who thinks of his family and their enjoyment, who is loyal to his friends and to his government. The man who knows that he has finished a day with clean hands—although they be black from the honest work he has done, that he has made something useful to humanity. All that great throngs of honest toilers with their heart in their work and their home and in the welfare of their fellows, yes, he is the happiest man of earth.

Editor W. H. Barger in his "This Afternoon" column in Mineral Daily News-Tribune.

Fred Littenberger is an "out door" writer whose column, "Sports, Afield and Astream" is an interesting, profitable and popular feature of the Zanesville, Ohio, News. For a living, he sells hard ware on the road for a big Pittsburgh firm. Happy am I that he has been given this territory, to call upon C. J. Richardson, several times a year. I met Fred at Columbus, Va., attending a big Ohio State sportsmen's meet. He is prominent in the "Out door Writers' Association of America." Here is what he wrote about his trip into our Greenbrier County:

Through and over the vast reaches of forest and rugged, precipitous earth that make a wonderland of the eastern section of the "mountain state" of West Virginia, and the western portion of Old Virginia, to the fabulous fishing waters of the Greenbrier and the Potomac's southern branch led the trail last week.

Beginning just below Charleston, through Gauley Bridge, to Lewisburg, past White Sulphur Spring and into the great Monongahela National Forest, up to Marlinton, on through Virginia and over the hump into the watershed of the upper Potomac, back into the Mountain State, past the highest and most beautiful of all the scenic fairland, the section between Petersburg and Elkins, by the loftiest point of all—Spruce Knob, with an elevation of 4860 feet, and back to so-called civilization, wound the tortuous path.

Travel through the mountains is a never ending wonder. Up long, winding climbs; down again into narrow valleys, crowded between the towering hills, every curve presents a new vista. The mountains are of every conceivable shape and size. Some are formed in ranges miles long. Some lay in long ridges, one behind the other, just strewn about in a sort of a casual way. In other sections, mountains of every shape are crowded together in a jumbled mass, as though someone feared in placing them, that there would not be room for all. Many are shaped like huge chocolate drops, all squeezed together with hardly room for the narrowest of valleys between. The peaks of most are lost in the mist overhanging, and all are clothed in lush, green forest.

At Marlinton live the Richardson boys. They efficiently operate the only hardware and furniture store for miles around, but the main occupation of the four is hunting and fishing. The greatest fisherman of all, however, is "Dad" Richardson, now retired from active participation, but still carrying on through the boyhood passed on to his sons. Every year for miles around will tell you of the exploits of the older Richardson. How in years gone by he caught, in the rush of waters of the Greenbrier, hundreds of battling small mouth bass, running up to seven and eight pounds in weight. Monster walleyes too, he added to his string. Nothing, it seems, was ever so important that it interfered with fishing.

Arriving at Marlinton late Wednesday, we met the boys and soon had a date with Jack, another brother, who was just helping in the store, while brother Charley was in neighboring Virginia on a fishing trip. Jack Richardson is instructor of physics and biology at Greenbrier Military Academy at Lewisburg and one of those fellows who instinctively like. The boys at the academy surely must consider him a prize. During vacation time Jack does everything from pinch in the store to milking the cow for his mother and operating a 900-acre farm up one of the mountains.

At Marlinton too, while waiting for fishing time to arrive, we stopped for a chat with Cal Price, small town editor and publisher of the Pocahontas Times, whose witty and unique reportings of the doings of Pocahontas county folk have won country-wide acclaim.

There on the little stone step that leads into the printing shop we sat and looked up into the mountains, which form the end of every street in Marlinton and heard Cal tell of the wild life that may be found.

Pointing out one peak, Cal said grouse could be found there. Turkeys were over on that other range behind, and deer and bear might be found most anywhere. Why, only last Sunday, some Marlinton folks sat on their front porch, and looking up to a clearing above, saw a mother bear playing with her cub.

Wild turkeys, according to Cal, are coming back. For a time, after the demise of the chestnut they moved away, but now, says Cal, they are coming back, evidently having learned to eat the plentiful acorns.

Bears are rangy at times, because of food conditions, may move clear over into Virginia. But it seems they always come back. For the first time this year, West Virginia has a closed season on Bruin—and the mountaineers don't like it a little.

Forest fires, whose dangers are ever in the minds of mountain folk, also were discussed, Cal saying that in the past many fires were set by those who wanted to clear a spot for grazing range. This practice, however, is almost a thing of the past as conservation mindedness grows.

Terminating the altogether too short a visit with Cal, we drove to one of the fine mountain stone houses in which Jack and his brother, Craig, live to keep the fishing date.

Jack wanted to take us to a spot a mile or so below Marlinton on the Greenbrier, where he said some nice small-mouth could be found. Then he spoiled it all by mentioning walleyed pike. Evidently noting the pricking up of our ears when walleyes were mentioned, Jack said he knew of a spot a little below where 15 pound walleyes had been taken and where there were bass just the same. He called it the "Violet Hole." Said he hadn't been there for several years but thought he could find it.

So the "Violet Hole" it was. After considerable trouble it was rediscovered, and fishing began before dark. The Greenbrier at this point lies a narrow valley between rugged mountains and rushes and tumbles from one deep pool to the other. The entire bottom is covered with rocks from the size of a pebble to huge chunks of the mountain itself. The water is crystal clear and everything on the bottom is as in an open book. The forest-covered mountain rises abruptly from both banks. A more wild, rugged and beautiful fishing spot would be hard to find.

Jack had a fly rod and we chose to plug. Leaving Jack on the west bank, we waded across on a rifle to better cast the "Violet Hole" which was indeed dark violet in color, especially as the deepening mountain twilight was reflected from the seemingly bottomless depths.

We had wanted to strap on the snake-shooting pistols we usually carry, but Jack said "No." There are plenty of snakes, no cotton mouth, just harmless copperheads and rattlers, according to Jack. The trouble is some of the mountain lads still can't distinguish between the crawling kind and the two legged variety—hence the governmental taboo on pistols.

As we stood casting in the gathering darkness wondering just what we would do if a bear or one of Cal Price's paynters would jump from the brush, the frog finish Palo-mine we were casting, hoping a walleye would strike, came a sudden stop, way out in the stream. Thinking it was a rock, we yanked and the "rock" exploded into a million bits and jumped at least three feet into the air.

The struggle began then and was followed by rush after rush until what we knew was no little fish and no walleye either, but a big gamey small-mouth bass. The fish evidently was well hooked for he fought like a demon and took line again and again. When the end came and we slid him out on the rocks in the now thoroughly darkened mountain world, the words came with a rush "Boy, what a bass!"

The small-mouth was more than 20 inches in length and weighed three and one half pounds.

Jack in the meantime had captured three blue rock bass on the other bank of the stream.

Next morning it was cream of wheat, tomato juice, mountain raspberry jam, toast, bacon and coffee and Greenbrier bass done brown in bacon fat for breakfast.

And now we are still dreaming of another trip to that mountain arm of Jack's for turkey, bear, deer and grouse. And like Cal Price and his paynters, we say, "Even if you can't prove there are 15-pound walleyes in the Greenbrier, no one can prove there's not."

PUBLIC HEALTH CLINIC

Beginning the first of August, 1944, a representative of the Health Department will be in Pocahontas county each Tuesday for the entire day. The office in Marlinton will be open from 10:30 until 12:00 each Tuesday morning and we invite you to come in with any problems pertaining to the work of the Health Department.

An immunization clinic will be held at that time and anyone may come in and receive typhoid and smallpox immunizations. Any child between the ages of six months and eight years may receive diphtheria immunization and children between the ages of six months and two years of age may receive whooping cough immunization. As you perhaps know, all children entering school for the first time are required by law to have diphtheria and smallpox immunization before entering school. Since it is only one more month before the opening of school, we urge you to bring your children in now for these required immunizations. Do not wait until after school opens to do this.

Any communications addressed to the Health Department in Lewisburg will be given every consideration possible.

A Switch in Time saved Mine...

Leave me out of it.

I'd rather skip any new car rush—worse than a nylon stocking sale after War. More cars have already gone out of the running than ever were built any year! How? Every body get his new car overnight? But I've come this far with my engine OIL-PLATED, so I figure I'll hang right. I'll just keep it safely OIL-PLATED by staying with my good old friend Conoco N6 motor oil. If you think you can beat it, okay. But remember, any engine is bound to have acids build from every explosion. Therefore you'd risk too much grief from corrosion, as I understand, except that OIL-PLATING is made to check it.

This cans of N6 oil tell you about a modern synthetic that does the OIL-PLATING. You'd imagine it's kind of magnetized to working parts, making a protective surface to shed off acids, before the worst happens. Good thing you needn't wait for an OIL-PLATED engine; you can have that whole improvement now, using Conoco N6 oil.

CONOCO N6 MOTOR OIL

My friend, Earl W. Shaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Shaver, of Marlinton, writes from somewhere in Italy under date July 18, 1944.

Dear Mr. Friel and All: Just a few lines to let you know that I am getting along all okay, and hope this finds you and the old town at its best. I hear you all are having some hot weather, but I know it can't be as hot there as it is over here.

I was in Rome and I went to see the St. Peter and St. Paul Churches and they were the most beautiful places I ever saw. That is how I spent my time in Rome. I saw most of the historic places, but I don't know just how to write about them. I will tell you about them when I get home.

The next time you see Rev. J. C. Wool tell him I said hello.

I met with a little bad luck on June 13. I was wounded, but not serious. I was only in the hospital a little over two weeks. It was only a small cut on the hip.

I am still looking for a letter from you.

I receive The Times and that is the only way I have of knowing where some of the boys from Pocahontas are. I can't think of anything to write so I will close for this time.

Your Pal, Barney.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Long send in the following letters from their sons, Sergeant Ralph Long, who is stationed in Italy, and T-5 Ernest O. Long, who was recently transferred to an undisclosed destination after serving in the Hawaiian Islands before the attack on Pearl Harbor:

Italy, July 5, 1944.

Dear Mom and Dad: Received your letter the other day and was very happy to hear from you and to know you were all well. I am getting along fine and am in very good health so far so do not worry about me.

Yesterday was the Fourth. I suppose every one took the day off and celebrated or was it the opposite? I don't know. It was just another day put in fighting the Japs, but the sooner we get them whipped, the sooner we get home, which I am hoping will not be so awful much longer.

I received a letter from Margaret yesterday but have not gotten around to answering it yet. Tell her I will answer it in the next few days.

Give everyone my best regards and take care of yourselves.

Love your son, Ralph.

July 11, 1944

Dearest Mom, Dad and all: Will try to write you a line or two to let you know how I am getting along. I guess you wonder where I am. Maybe I can tell you to be on long but cannot at the present time. I know you will be surprised. It sure is rough going in these parts of the world.

I hope you got my other letter. It had been so long since I had a chance to write I know you were worried to death. But you must not worry, some one has to help in the war. Maybe after this deal we may get to come home we hope. Will write every time I get a chance.

Lots of love, Ernest.

Mrs. Maude McClure, of Watoga, received this letter from her brother, Walter, who is in Italy:

Dear Sister: I will write you a few lines to let you know how I am. I am okay, and doing fine. Hope these few lines find a lot of you well.

Well Maude, I received the paper, you subscribed for me yesterday. You can not imagine how glad I was to receive it. I received it about three o'clock yesterday eve, and by eight last night I had finished reading it. I want to thank you for sending it to me. Gee, but I am getting anxious to get a letter from all of you. I haven't gotten any letters from you for quite some time.

Gee, but we are having nice weather here, and the days sure are long. It gets dark about ten in the evening and daylight comes about 4:30 in the morning.

Well how is Forrest and the children getting along by now? Tell him I said not to work too hard and to write me. I sure would like to have a long talk with him. Tell him that I have lots to tell him when I get back.

Say, in one of your letters I received some time ago, you asked if I remembered the time I came to see you and you got sick and I had to do the cooking? Yes, I remember that well. I know a little more about cooking now than I did then, for I have been working in the kitchen about ten months.

I am watching an Italian load wheat on a wagon. They do their thing about the same way we do. Most of them do their farming with horses. Their horses are similar to ours, the only difference is their horses are much smaller. They have very few wagons. They do most of their hauling on two wheel carts.

Well Sis, I can't think of anything interesting to write so will close. Love to all the family.

Your brother, Walt.

Mrs. Jerry Friel, of Marlinton, Route 1 sends this letter, from her son, Raymond Charles:

Some where in Atlantic.

U. S. Navy

July 13, 1944.

Dear Mother: Thought I would take time off and drop you a few lines today, to let you know I am making it okay, and for you not to worry about me. Mother, I know it has been quite a time since I have written you, but I haven't much time to write, but don't think I have forgotten you all back home.

Hom is on my mind all the time. I suppose Dad and Mack are making hay now, only wish I were there to help them. I hope next year, I will be.

Mother, I am somewhere in the Atlantic, but cannot tell you where.

Well mother, I will have to make this letter short, so here's wishing you all the best of luck with the crops. Answer real soon.

Your son, Raymond.

MOTHER'S MEDAL
I left you standing by the train, smiling through tears of grief and pain.
My striped collar showed the trace of tears
From that beloved face.
I wondered then why you should fright
For wasn't I prepared to fight—
For victory, freedom, peace and love,
Protected by my God above?

For days I thought of you standing there
Your smiling face, your graying hair,
Till God helped me to realize
The mysteries of those tearful eyes.

Dear Mother, yours is the hardest fight,
For yours is the misery of sleepless nights
And dragging days in the house alone,
Watching for mail and the silent phone.

And when at last peace reigns o'er the world
You'll stand at the station, your flag unfurled
To receive the medal that you have won—
The loving smile of your homecoming son.

Raymond Charles Friel.

Air Service Command Station England—St. Sgt. Emil L.

Grogg, one of Mr. and Mrs. Farret Grogg of Dunmore, W. Va., recently completed an orientation course designed to bridge the gap between training in the States and combat soldiering against the enemy in France.

At this Air Service Station St. Sgt. Grogg attended a series of lectures given by battle-wise veterans which included instructions on chemical warfare defense and pertinent tips on staying healthy in a combat theatre.

His next station will be one from which America's fighting planes cover our liberation of Occupied Europe. Before entering the army air force, he was employed as a sheet metal worker by the Glenn L. Martin Company in Baltimore.

Examine Your Fan Now! Does It Need Oil or Grease?

When fans are needed most they often quit because parts are worn out through lack of oil, or became all fouled up with dust and dirt. Even though your fan is running at the present time, take out a few minutes to see whether it needs some attention. If it is of the conventional type the gears may need a little vasoline.
Should your fan need expert servicing, bring it to our Appliance Service Department.

VOL. 62 NO. 3

MARLINTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, August 17, 1944

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. Eva Jane Cloonan White has received word that her brother, Private Clarence B. Cloonan, died in England August 5, 1944. He was in the Army Air Force with a bombing squadron. He entered the Service in September, 1943, and has been overseas 14 months. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jason Cloonan.

Mrs. Edgar Wooddell of Marlinton, received the following letter from Sgt. Vernon C. Diller:

France,
July 22, 1944.

Dear Geneva:
I received your letter of June 26, two days after I landed here in France. I got about six letters from Faith at the same time.

Things are a wee bit torn up here, in spots. It is almost impossible to describe it further. In spite of the destruction of their property, the French people seem cheerful. They smile and laugh easily and talk your head off if you can understand them. I wish I had studied two years of French in High School so I could talk to the people, but I am learning a little. I can read French and understand what it means for the most part, but it is much more difficult to understand their speech.

It is warmer here than it was in England, and it was dry and dusty at first, but it has been wet and muddy the last three days.

The farmers are making hay now. They put it in stacks and then tie it in bundles with a rope made in a manner similar to the way you spin yarn from wool. They get a handful of hay and make a loop over a small stick and begin twisting as they pull the hay slowly from the pile and in about five seconds they have a rope about four feet long. Then they load the bundles on a two wheeled cart and haul it to their barn. I guess I should say to their stone barn and house, because often it is impossible to tell where the house ends and the barn begins. I was out this morning at a place where four buildings formed a square with the house facing the center. They had cows, chickens and turkeys in the center; there was a cow manure right up to the doorstep and chickens entered the house at times. The water supply came from a well in front of the house. Before we left the milkman came for the milk. He tested the milk by taking off the lid and sticking his hand in it. I guess to see if it was cold. His hand looked dirty too.

There are no forests in this section. The only timber trees they have grow on top a 3' to 4' high ridge of earth which surrounds the square, four to five acres fields on all sides. For fire wood they trim the branches off the trees and tie the branches in bundles and stack them near the house. Some of these stacks remind me of fodder stacks back home. I don't know how often they cut off the branches but I imagine about every four or five years.

The fields are mostly in grass but there are some oats which are ripe and wheat that is still green.

There are many orchards in this area, mostly apples. Some of them are ripe yet but there will be a lot of them this fall.

We have been very busy the last few days. Everything seems to be quiet around here. I have seen only one German plane, early one morning, and it was turned away by anti-aircraft guns. I found an unexploded German cartridge the other day. It is a 28 caliber and the odd part about it is the bullet in wood. The Germans are using them for very close ranges, (50 yds.).

I am fine and hope you are too. I am very glad to get your letters and hope to hear from you again soon.

As ever, Vernon.

On many occasions, Sergeant Sharp worked day and night under extremely adverse weather conditions in order that the aircraft might be ready for the next mission.

Cow Adopts Beaver

Mrs. Floyd Oscar, of the McClintic Swago Farms, Buckeye W. Va., reports the unusual—her cow has adopted a fifty pound beaver, and the family cannot sell it for a calf either. For the past two months, the cow has hung around a swampy piece of timber and brush land on a small spring branch of Rush Run, on the McClintic farm. It was noticed she did not graze in the open. She was going down in her milk, but as the weather was so dry as to approach drought conditions, little mind was paid to it. At milking time each day, Mrs. Oscar would send the faithful stock driving dog out for the cow, and he would bring her up to the milk gap.

Last Sunday evening the dog was not around at milking time, so Mrs. Oscar sent her son, Roy, aged 15 years for the cow. He called back that there was a brown animal much bigger than a ground hog with the cow, that she would not be driven in and wanted to put up a fight.

Mrs. Oscar and an older son, Ramon, went to see about things, and the cow again showed fight, in protecting her companion, the big brown animal, which they easily recognized as a beaver. Nor would she come to the milk gap until Ramon picked up the beaver and carried it along. The cow followed up and allowed herself to be milked. When the beaver was taken away, the cow bawled for it as for a newly weaned calf.

Equally strange was the behavior of the beaver in allowing himself to be picked up and then carried along without a struggle. The Oscar family now remember they saw the tracks of the beaver last winter, going in and out his den under a tree root beside the drain.

THURSDAY, AUG. 17, 1944

Save strong string and box material and start to plan shopping. Postmaster General Frank C. Walker advises Americans in announcing the rules for mailing of Christmas gifts for Army and Navy personnel overseas.

This year the Christmas mailing period for both Army and Navy overseas forces is the same - September 15 to October 15. After October 15 no gift parcel may be mailed to a soldier without the presentation of a written request from him.

The great demands upon shipping and the need of giving preference to arms, munitions, medicine and food is the prime reason for the early mailing date. Moreover, gift parcels must travel very great distances to reach Army and Navy personnel who are located at remote points, and frequently the transfer of large numbers to new stations necessitates forwarding of the packages and additional time is required.

"The response that our people made last year during the overseas mailing period demonstrated that they will cooperate in any measure designed for the welfare of our armed forces personnel," Mr. Walker said. "It is not easy to concentrate on Christmas gifts in the midst of warm weather but our people recognized the need, and because they want the men and women who are absent from their homes to know they are not forgotten at Christmas, they took pains to secure prompt delivery of Christmas gifts."

"I know that our people will observe the overseas mailing schedule once more this year but I do want to stress this fact: More care must be taken in wrapping packing parcels securely and addressing them clearly and correctly."

"It is not a pleasant thing to visit a postal concentration center and see the numbers of Christmas parcels which will never reach their intended service recipients. Post office personnel have orders to deliver every gift they can to effect delivery of such gifts, because we know how important they are for the happiness of the armed forces. Too frequently nothing can be done."

"I am sorry that any one ever neglected the size of a shoe box as the approximate limit for packages intended for gift mailing overseas. Unhappily many people became convinced that a shoe box is the best possible container. We must be mindful that these gifts must travel far, with shipping space crowded. If gifts are to be protected in transit they must be packed in boxes made of metal, wood, solid fiberboard, or strong double - faced corrugated fiberboard, reinforced with strong gummed paper tape or tied with strong twine. If both tape and strong twine are used, so much the better. If the outer wrapper is crushed - and this is likely to happen - the loss of contents may be prevented if fiberboard boxes are wrapped in heavy paper."

"We were unable to deliver many parcels which families and friends sent to men and women overseas last year because they were crushed in transit and the gift and the outside wrapper became separated. We would have been able to make delivery if the address had been shown on the inside wrapper. We advise that everyone write the address of the sender and addressee inside the package as well as outside."

"Christmas gifts mean much to our people overseas. Because strong twine, heavy paper, and boxes and fiberboard will prove of real help in making delivery of gifts possible, I urge those at home to begin saving these materials now. As time goes on they are going to become even more scarce than they are now."

Among the more important rules for Christmas mailings to the armed forces overseas are the following:

The parcel must not exceed five pounds, and must not be more than 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. It should be marked "Christmas parcel" so that it may be given special attention to assure its arrival before Dec. 25.

Not more than one parcel may be mailed in any one week to the same member of the armed forces by or in behalf of same mailer.

When combination packages are made up of such items as miscellaneous toilet articles, hard candies, soap etc., the contents should be tightly packed so that they will not become loosened in transit, to damage contents or cover. Hard candies, nuts, caramels, cookies, fruit cake, chocolate bars individually wrapped in waxed paper, should be enclosed in inner boxes of wood, metal or cardboard.

Perishable things such as fruits and vegetables for they spoil, are prohibited. Intoxicants, inflammable materials such as matches or lighter fluid, poisons, and any thing that may damage other mail, are prohibited. Gifts enclosed in glass should be substantially packed to avoid breakage. Sharp instruments, such as razors and knives, must have their edges and points protected so that they can not cut through the covering and injure postal personnel or damage other packages.

Relatives and friends who know that the personnel in the armed services to whom they plan to send gifts are at far distant points should begin to mail their packages on opening day - September 15 - of mailing period. Last year late mailing causing concentration of great numbers in the final day of the mailing period, threatened to defeat the program. It is stressed that success can be assured, with the limited personnel and facilities available, only if the public gives full cooperation thorough prompt mailing of the overseas gifts parcels from the opening of the mailing period.

FIELD NOTES

Wade Galford, up on Galford's Creek, had a right smart time with a big rattlesnake on Postum the other day. He was out to round up his stock ranging on the Allegheny, to salt and to see what the bears might be doing to his sheep. He was riding a young horse, but he thought he could be depended on to smell out a rattlesnake, so he was not paying much attention. Suddenly the horse veered, as one whole of a rattlesnake struck at him from the side of the trail. The snake coiled again, and Wade dismounted to kill him. There was plenty of loose stone, and he rocked the snake to a fare you well. The stones bounced off him as from a rubber hose and with a little effect, apparently. Every time a rock would land on him he would strike out and then back into a coil, like a spring. Finally Wade got himself a stick and one properly placed blow disjuncted the snake's neck. This was a big rattler, about five feet long. He had plenty of rattles, but he never rattled a single time.

Emory H. Smith, of Colusa, California, writes—

I am fully in accord with the idea of Miss Louise McNeil to perpetuate the saga of the lumbering industry in the Greenbrier Valley and would be proud if I could make some worth-while contribution to the work. I have often heard the expression "Once a woodsman, always a woodsman," and the adage certainly applies in my case. People who grow old are inclined to live in the past and my mind often goes back to the cold winter nights when I lay in bed on the McLaughlin place, near Dunmore, and heard the boom, boom of logs in the slide and the chug, chug of the little engine named after my brother Jim, as it delivered a load of logs to the landing and hurried back to the woods for another. No symphony of Bach or Beethoven was ever sweeter music to my ears. And where can you match the thrill of seeing a log jam give way in turbulent water and the jam breakers crash chauntily riding a log to the next stop.

Salineville, Ohio
August 1, 1944.

Dear Mr. Price:

As I have just finished reading your Paper, thought I would drop you a line.

I get a real kick out of your nature stories. And since you really like good stories about animals, I've got the "bear" facts on a real snake story. It happens to be about a Python—18 ft. long and magnitude in body—that escaped from a cage of a circus in Portage county about two months ago. At which time he broke away and entered a park. Nothing else was heard about the snake until the other day, when the Sheriff's office at Lisbon, 12 miles away, received about 50 odd telephone calls. One caller volunteered the information that the snake crossed the Lincoln Highway. Another said a snake had left a swath 12 feet wide in crossing a farmer's wheat field.

Another said he heard a horse had disappeared down the throat of the monstrous creature. And another person said he was informed the reptile had invaded a home near Lisbon and swallowed a baby whole!

Portage County is about 40 miles from our county of Columbiana, and northeasterly from here. The authorities of all the surrounding counties have elbow pains from taking down and hanging up receivers.

What do you think! We hear all this and more too, from the minds of the imaginative. But these facts remain: We know that a Python is loose, and has never been caught. We also read that a python can swallow a full grown calf, and while his prey digests in his monstrous stomach he sleeps for three or four weeks.

Again, I say what do you think! Hope to see you soon, with kindest regards, Your pal, Walker D. Irvine.

New Electron Microscope Reveals Smoke Particles

LONDON.—A new electron microscope, powerful enough to break down smoke into particles heretofore indistinguishable, has been designed by Prof. L. C. Martin of the Imperial College of Science in collaboration with Metropolitan Vickers Electrical company, it was disclosed.

The device uses a beam of electrons instead of a beam of light. For "lenses" the electron microscope uses electrostatic and magnetic fields which refract the electron beams much as glass operates in ordinary optical instruments. The image can be reproduced on a fluorescent screen or photographed.

He Cannot Collect, But Cash Keeps Rolling In

TOPEKA, KAN.—Officially, Col. J. W. F. Hughes, of Topeka, can't get the $299 he sought from the legislature as salary due him as a state guard officer in '33. Unofficially, the money's rolling in.

Representatives agreed it would set a bad precedent to pay the ailing colonel—who never asked for payment of the 50-year-old debt before because he never needed it before.

But when Rep. Henry Buzich said he'd start a private fund with $5 of his postage allowance, the total grew to $172 within half an hour—and may reach $299.

87 of 100 Men Survive Torpedoing of Vessels

LONDON.—Eighty-seven of every 100 men aboard torpedoed vessels survive, Lord Leathers, minister of war transport, said.

Replying to a toast at a luncheon of the Worshipful Company of Tin Plate Workers, Lord Leathers said that most casualties resulted as a direct result of enemy attack or while men sought to escape from a stricken ship.

Loss of life in lifeboats and rafts is less than 2 per cent of the occupants, he continued. In five of every six cases the survivors are picked up within 24 hours.

Our Army and Navy Boys

This letter is from T-5 Ear M. Sharp, 1242nd Eng. Fire Fighting Platoon, 1st Regiment, Camp Claiborne, Louisiana.

August 2, 1944.

Dear Mr. Price:

I have been thinking about writing you a few lines but never seemed to get around to it, for the army is a pretty busy place.

I have been down here in the state of Louisiana since February of this year and have seen quite a bit of it. I spent six weeks at New Orleans, going to a Fire Fighting School learning the ways and means of putting out every type of fire that occurs with or without a war, oil fires were the chief fires though. I saw a good part of New Orleans while I was down there, the French Quarter and all the historical places that have been there for years. It is very nice there if one had the money, everything is high there but of course it is high every where, whisky over the bar fifty or sixty cents a shot and even higher in places for a small one at that. A good dinner costs $1.50 to five bucks, I should have said an ordinary one. The sea food was good and reasonable enough but the cover charge would make you dig down and that was in every place there.

I have often thought you should go down there where you could get plenty of shrimp, and you sure could get plenty of it down there. You should try some of the shrimp, the French fix it down there, and I will have to say that it was pretty good. I used to read in The Times where you and some fellow was always chewing the fat about eating shrimp. I never could figure out why but I guess one could eat more than the other.

I have roamed around over Louisiana quite a bit since I have been down here. I have been to Baton Rouge, Lake Charles and different other places. I have visited some of the many oil fields, and refineries. I do say though that I don't exactly like the state even though it has its many acres of cotton, sugar, cane and corn. There are acres of forests, with some of the finest pine that ever grew out of the ground. There is enough pulp wood in this state alone to last for years, but even as accessible as it is to the railroads and highways there seems to be little of it being cut. It would be some of the woodsmen's delight of that vicinity to get in some of this Louisiana pine, and I wouldn't mind doing some of it myself, if it was anywhere else but down here. I think I will stick to the hills and mountains of West Virginia or Virginia where you can climb and get a good breath of fresh air without getting sand blown in my hair when I take my hat off.

I was out on bivouac for two weeks among the coral snakes, and wood ticks. We only killed five coral snakes while we were out here, but there was just no end to the wood ticks, and they were of particular where they dug in their at night or day.

What has happened to all the field notes? I get the paper every week that my wife sends on to me and there is hardly any of the field notes there used to be a lot. There doesn't seem to be very much game here. I have seen several rabbits, and quail in some sections, ducks and geese by the hundreds. And that is all the game I have seen here, unless they call these thousands of boys that are running loose here game, but I wouldn't kill one of them for it would take a dozen of them to get a tea cup full of lard and with as scarce as it is it would be mousier before one could be eaten up.

I guess deer will be as late as ever this year, like always, right at the time when they aren't worth a cent if some one wanted to eat. The season should never be any later than November, I and a week earlier wouldn't hurt. I am hoping the war will be over by then for I would like to hunt a few days this fall, and especially try one of them bucks that I know of up around Frost. There should be quite a few deer now with everyone in the army, but they will sure catch it after the war is over. See if you can't dig up a few good vamps.

I just received the paper my wife mailed me and of course I usually look for the Field Notes first, and there it was bear protected again. Why they want to protect them woolly devils is beyond me, and I doubt if they could tell you themselves truthfully. Of course it is easily figured why they set the deer season as late as they do, its for the benefit of the fellows around Charleston and other places who take their vacation around that time of year and are only looking for a set of horns to adorn their mansions. It isn't any wonder that deer are killed out of season, for I know when I go deer hunting, I'm not going altogether for a set of horns for I want something I can eat as well as look at. The horns are just as good around the first of November as they are in December. And if those fellows don't want to take the meat back with them they can always find some one who will take it off their hands. Why they want to have it in December beats me.

Well guess I had better quit for this time. Just kind of slip the word along to the fellows around home that I hope to be back hunting with them this fall.

Very truly yours,
T-5 Ear M. Sharp.

P.S. There is one thing them bear lovers will have to give you credit for and that is you never give up the ship, so keep pounding away and you will get results after while. I guess it is of more benefit to pay out money of the people for the stock the bear has killed and protect the bear so he can kill again, but he as it may be the fellows that are there won't be there forever for there will come a day, and it won't be a rainy one either.

You know how the old saying goes. There will come a day and what a day.

There is another thing I would like to add, is that they keep the dogs so penned-down because they run a deer now and then that the foxes have gotten so bad it is hard for the small game to survive, what there is left, especially after a pretty cold spell or two.

Keep pounding away on the deer and bear situation and I think you will get results with a little help from the people who understands the situation.

Dear Mr. Price:

As I have been receiving The Pocahontas Times every week, I would like to put in a little complaint on the poems published in your paper. Just received your paper today and the poem of PFC John Taylor Townsend, "The Village Pub," doesn't make much sense. Too much of it was censored out, or maybe he couldn't find the exact words to put in it, for I have been in England for quite a while and personally I can't find the fittings myself.

Tell P. F. C. Taylor not to take this as an insult, for I really enjoyed the poems and letters of the Service men. Also, my buddies here with me. At this base there are quite a group of boys from West Virginia, but not one of them are from good old Pocahontas.

Well Mr. Price as my time is limited I will close for this time. Give my regards to everyone.

Sincerely yours,

J. W. Fertig.

This little poem is sent by Rex Sharp to his mother, Mrs. E. G. Sharp, of Frost, Rex is serving with the 1st Army, Medical Corps, somewhere in Italy:

MY MOM

Mothers are very important these days.

To this all the boys will agree. Each soldier claims that his is the best.

But the guy with the best Mom is me.

Each calls his Mother an Angel divine.

That's only natural, you see; But more precious than gold is that Mother of mine.

So the guy with the best Mom is me.

Let them all boast and brag as they will,

But inside, I'm smiling with glee; Of the gang, there is Harry, Jerry and Bill.

But the guy with the best Mom is me.

A toast to all of the Mother's to day,

Where'er in the world they may be;

I've heard lots about moms, but again I will say,

That the guy with the best Mom is me.

Mrs. Earl Wenger of Arbovale, received the following letter from her brother-in-law, Clay Talman, who is stationed in England.

July 2, 1944.

Dear Folks:

Just a line to let you hear from me and let you know where to write to. I am well and getting along all right. Have been seeing some very interesting things. I didn't get any sea sick on the way over, am a good sailor.

What is Wayne doing? Tell him hello. What is Earl doing? Is he making hay yet? Sure would like to be there to help him.

It is funny to see the sun shining at ten o'clock at night here.

Ethel writes to me real often. There will be times you won't hear from me, for a good while, but write any way. Your letters will not be opened. Tell every hello.

Clay.

Mrs. Oliver Sprouse, of Cass, sends in the following letters from her husband:

June 28, 1944.

Somewhere in France.

My dearest wife and children:

I guess you know by now why my mail was not going through. June 8th, 1944, sure is one day I will not forget. I have been through a lot since that day but through the grace of God I am safe or at least reasonably safe. I was a German prisoner a few days but was rescued.

I always was proud of the Parachute troops but since seeing the good work they did in the real test I am more proud of them than ever before. I sure was glad to see the good old American flag again when the Germans had me. The Germans treated me fine, but they knew they were going to be captured before long.

When I got back I could not help but think what a great place it was going to be when this whole thing is over and I can come back to you and the children.

Love and best wishes, Oliver.

July 7, 1944.

Dearest Wife and children:

Excuse this stationery please: it is all I have. I could settle for V-Mail, but I consider V-Mail a post card. This is a very expensive stationery. Although it usually comes in rolls, this was in small envelopes. I hardly think the Army intended it used for stationery but as the sailors say, "any old port in time of storm."

I am still somewhere in France, but I am not fighting now. It sure took me a long time to get filled up again after getting back to my outfit. I ate until I was in misery for several days and then would still be starving. Did I tell you about living on three medium size raw potatoes a day and a few cabbage tops for four days. That was while I was behind the German lines trying to get back to our troops.

"Heck" of the whole thing was I was within three hundred yards of our lines when I walked into a German machine gun nest. Every where I looked a German had a rifle pointed at me and as I am hoping to spend a lot more time with you and the children I gave up. I helped play havoc with a lot of them in the thirteen days I was back there. I sure was glad I had been in the infantry and I had learned to slip around through the mountains in West Virginia.

The training sure came in handy. I am not the least bit ashamed to confess I did a lot of praying during those days. More than one boy prayed during those days who never thought of it before, and I have had more than one to tell me they were going to be a regular church attendee from now on. I know it makes a person think. I have been shot at with everything the Germans have. I still think it is only by God's mercy I was not hit.

The Germans sent some of the best parachute troops they had at us but they were not good enough for Uncle Sam's parachute troops. That is one reason I am proud to be a part of the best outfit on earth.

Did you see the July edition of the "Yank"? The one I read was a British edition. I do not know if the American is the same. If it is you will find a lot in it about the paratroopers. Get it and read it. The first article in it is two men's accounts of what the parachute troops did and some of the things they went through over here for awhile. These two men were not paratroopers either. So much for the paratroopers, but if I sound boastful, I am sure you will excuse me.

If you could see me now, you would very likely try making me shave, especially my mustache, I let mine start the day before D-Day and I think I will keep it now until the war is over, and if I do not have "other influence" I may decide then not to shave it.

I am rather proud of it myself. Did I ever tell you about the man I ate dinner with who had a big mustache and also a bad cold. By the time he finished his meal, I am sure he had washed a half cup of the thickest "cream" you ever saw in your life out of his whiskers. Yum yum. But I very near turned against coffee.

I received another letter from you yesterday, sweetheart, and it sure is nice of you to write so often for you have written faithfully even though you were not hearing from me. Thanks a lot, Lucille. I sure appreciate it. These few words of thanks sound hollow to me when I consider how much I really appreciate your letters. I want you to know I am grateful. I read every letter over several times. I think you can write the sweetest letter of any person I ever met. So I say a person, thanks a million sweetheart.

What part of France I have been in sure is pretty. I have been on two sight seeing tours. I was at the Beach, the Fourth and had my first salt water swim. It is a lot of fun swimming the waves. I hope the time will soon come when we can enjoy beaching together.

It has been two months since I received any pay but as soon as I get a pay day I am going to send you some cash. You can either bank it or pay for the furniture with it Lucille. I think you are doing a fine job of managing. I am proud of you, honey, you are wonderful.

I think I have a wonderful little family waiting back there for me. I sure am anxious to get back and see Larry and Karen Sue. Gee, but it is going to be great to go home to stay. I am looking forward that time.

Lucille, will you see if you can find a good Parker fountain pen, if you can please send me one as soon as possible. I have gotten all my pens lost or broken moving around.

I love you, sweetheart. Kim Larry and Karen Sue for me. Love and millions of kisses for a wonderful family. I am praying for you.

Your Husband, Oliver.

The following letter was received by Johnny and Margaret, daughters of Mrs. M. J. Talman, who is in England.

nie Batchelder, who is serving with the W. A. Co. in London, England:

July 19, 1944.

My dearest sons:

So far I am still alive, but believe me it is rough here these days—too much for comfort.

I am glad you got an airplane ride. I love them, they're an awful lot of fun. Tell you what, I'd love to take a ride in one of those Buzz Bombs—that is if I could bail out before the motor stopped. They are the fastest things I have ever seen—and very pretty at night with their streak of fire trailing along behind them. But it is awful to be standing by and knowing that death is passing right over you and may stop by for you. Sure makes a fellow stop and say a silent prayer. I do.

I hope you two boys will never have to go through with what I have seen over here. It's just plain H—-. You see people sleeping in some of the queerest places there was a baby born of all places, in an air raid shelter. Just little things but big enough to make one understand things more clearly.

I was talking to a young boy of the 82nd Division, a paratrooper, today. He had just returned from France on a seven day furlough. The things that kid could tell. I only wished you could have talked to him. He sure was interesting.

I went to see Westminster Abbey; it is simply beautiful there; so many old tombs and statues of lords and kings long since dead. The windows are painted beautifully; different paintings in each window. There was a real monk inside. The thing that got me most was the grave of the unknown British soldier. There is an inscription on his grave which makes a fellow feel as small as a peanut. The thing as a whole really gets you. I went to see St. Paul's Cathedral but it was closed.

The best part of my whole week was that I saw Daddy last night. We spent a few hours together at a little town a short ways from here. Sure was swell seeing him again.

Please excuse the mistakes I am making. I am reading this over to look at my terrible English. I am so tired and sleepy. Sunday I got to bed late. Got up for K. P. Monday, Tuesday or last night I was on leave to go to this town where daddy was to come, scarcely any sleep then. Today, was my day off, so I am pulling fire guard for two hours tonight. Am afraid I will go to sleep. Will write more tomorrow.

Tomorrow: How are you feeling now after those plane rides? I sure would like to have some of those peas and most of all the cherries. Can shut my eyes and see those big delicious black hearts. You can buy some red ones here, but they are sour and cost a fortune. You buy them by the pound. How are Granny and Granddaddy? Well I hope. Say hello to them for me.

Please be good boys and help there at home all you can. Will have to close. Write soon and often.

I would give anything to see you; just for a minute would be heaven. I love you both very much. Good night and God bless you both.

Always your loving mother.

Debbie Gaylor of Huntersville, received the following letter from her brother, Cpl. Clarence Gaylor.

Dear Sis:

I will write you a few lines to let you hear from me. Well, for myself I am well and getting along just fine. I hope these few lines find you all the same; when they reach you. I haven't heard from you for a good while. I suppose you are busy now.

How are you folks getting along with the work this summer? Are Mom and Dad well?

Well Sis, my buddy now is the Gaylor that is in our Company. We have been working together for about six months. I have seen his brother. He is a big husky guy. Well things are very quiet here yet.

News is scarce here, so I will be looking for an answer soon.

Your brother, Clarence.

OBITUARY

Bernice Rhoda Walker, young daughter of Mrs. Susie Walker and the late William Walker, was born Feb. 11, 1925 and passed quietly to rest July 16, 1944, at her home in Brownsburg, after a short illness. She leaves to mourn her passing, her mother, Mrs. Susie Walker, three sisters, Mrs. Edward Boggs, Mrs. Forrest McChesney and Mrs. Virginia Covington, all of Brownsburg. Five brothers, Johnny, Howard, Harry, Frank, James and George at home, Pfc. Edward Walker, stationed at Venice, Fla. and Cpl. Nathan A. Walker, some where in Italy and many other relatives and friends.

Bernice was always active in Sunday School and Church work. She was a member of the W. S. S. of Wilson Chapel. We will always remember her cheerful spirit and endearing ways. She always gave her services when and where ever needed.

The light, the dew, the broadening view
Were found the same as they were before.

And it lost itself in beauties new,
Breathing its fragrance more and more.

Shall claim of death cause us to grieve
And make our courage faint or fall?

Nay! Let us faith and hope receive,
The rose still grows beyond the wall.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to the Doctors and Nurses for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and at the death of our dear husband and father, Geo. H. Hefner. We also wish to thank Mr. Smith, Rev. Oxendale and Rev. Skaggs, and our many friends for the beautiful flowers.

May God bless each and every one of you.

Mrs. Geo. H. Hefner & Family.

Have a "Coke" = Welcome back

...or giving a returned soldier a taste of home.

To soldiers overseas, Coca-Cola is a reminder of home. To soldiers at home on furlough, "Coke" is part of the old familiar way of living. With frosty bottles of "Coke" on hand, offering a man in uniform a refreshing welcome is an easy matter. Here a "Coke" is always the hospitable thing to say. In every family overseas, as in your own living room, Coca-Cola stands for the peace that refrains—has become a happy symbol of hospitality.

A Ninth Air Force Fighter

Base, France: "For meritorious achievement in combat flight," 1st Lieutenant Richard H. Brown, P-51 Mustang pilot, has been awarded the Air Medal and the first and second oak leaf clusters to the Air Medal. The presentation was made by Lieutenant General Lewis H. Brereton, commanding general of the Ninth Air Force, United States component of the Allied Expeditionary Air Force.

Lieutenant Brown, who has shot down one enemy aircraft since entering combat in March 1944, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Brown, 1141-2 Washington Avenue, Covington, Virginia. His wife, Mary, resides at 328 Bath Street, Clifton Forge, Virginia.

A member of the Pioneer Mustang group of the Ninth Air Force, Lieutenant Brown has flown on 25 missions against the enemy. His unit has accounted for 380 enemy aircraft in seven months of combat operations, and has received a Presidential citation.

Under date of June 19, Fred Mackenzie, war correspondent for the Buffalo Evening News, New York, wrote from an Air Base in England, that "awake most of Saturday night, preparing for his mission Sergeant Clifford L. Douglass, ground crew chief, slept a hundred feet away from an ack-ack gun, undisturbed by its clatter. On one of the ramshackle shanties of crate sides and canvas is scrawled 'Two Aces in a Hole.' One of the aces is Sergeant Clifford L. Douglass."

Crew Chief Douglass is a grand son of Mrs. S. M. L. V. Walker, of Lower Camden Avenue, Marlinton. His mother is Mrs. Margie C. Douglass, of Buffalo, New York.

Corporal Norman Beverage, of the Army Air Corps, now stationed in Nebraska, is home on a fifteen day furlough.

Mrs. Lantie Hogsett received the following very interesting letter from Sergeant Frederick Wilmer Ruckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ruckman, of Millpoint, who is now serving with the United States Army in England:

August 2, 1944.

Dear Mabel:

I have been getting the Pocahontas Times, and very much appreciate your sending it each week. I always like to read the Times, aside from the fact that it is the best way to keep up with the news from home.

I like England right well and it is interesting to observe the difference in some of the customs here from those in America. There are, of course, many things here of historical interest. I recently spent a few hours in an ancient part of a city which was originally built by the Romans. The wall around the city is still in good condition and by walking along the top of it a person can get a good view of the scenery.

The ancient cathedral is just inside the wall and is in use today. There is also a huge old castle standing within the walls and it is also being used.

One of the first problems when we came over was to learn the English money system. Another was to understand what the people were talking about, for in some parts of England the accent is quite different from what we are used to, although the people in other sections do not sound so much different from Americans. It is said that a person from one section of England may have difficulty in understanding someone from another section. This seems rather strange since England is a small country smaller than South Carolina or Iowa, while England, Scotland and Wales together are hardly bigger than Minnesota.

The houses here are usually built of brick or stone, and do not have a front porch. There are also some thatched cottages, which are quite picturesque. The people here sure do like flowers and most lawns are filled with roses and other colorful flowers in various arrangements.

I have seen several farming sections but have not seen any corn growing. The people often speak of the corn fields but they are referring to grain fields. I rather doubt if the people here in the section where I am stationed, would know an ear of Indian corn although they import meal as feed for livestock. Peaches and tomatoes are usually grown in greenhouses as they do not mature well outside. I was recently in a green house for tomatoes. The building was possibly fifty feet long and fifteen feet wide, and the owner said he expected to get a ton of tomatoes. The vines are staked and are about six feet high and full of both ripe and green tomatoes which are quite firm.

Many vegetables thrive here, especially cabbage and potatoes, and the pastures are excellent. There is a right good fruit crop this year but it was damaged somewhat by spring frosts.

The English have been in this war for quite a while and feel they need a vacation during the summer, so it seems to be the custom for a whole town to have a week's holiday at a certain time. It seems rather strange to us for an entire town to have a vacation with almost everything being closed. Great crowds are going to the seashore and the lakes, and often transportation is simply jammed. I was just reading that more than a thousand people kept an all night vigil in a certain city to secure a place on an early train going to a well known pleasure resort.

The English ladies here are primarily small in comparison to ours, and they are called "birds" or "goods" wags. Speaking of the difference in the modes of things—gas is petrol; a light truck is a lorry; the drugstore is a chemist, and the hardware dealer is an ironmonger. We seldom say we are standing in a line, but in a "queue." It seemed strange to see unwrapped bread lying on a counter, and when the housewife buys it she drops it in her basket or market bag with other purchases. We can not buy many things here since we do not have coupons for those articles which are rationed. Most clothing requires coupons—even ties and handkerchiefs.

It rains quite often, but seldom rains so very hard. However, we have had some real nice weather this summer. There have been some hot days but the weather is often a little cool for summer.

As you know, this country is located rather far north, but the winters are not extremely cold due to the warming of the air by the gulf stream. The ground was not frozen except for a small part of the time last winter, but it seemed quite cold because of the dampness of the atmosphere. The days are extremely long during the summer months and it is bed time before the sun goes down.

On the other hand the nights are just as long during the winter, and over here a black-out is usually a black-out that lasts all night. The younger children have never seen the lights burning in their towns.

I trust that all is well over there in Pocahontas; and that this war may soon end so we may return to that great place—AMERICA.

Sincerely,

Wilmer Ruckman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper Anderson received the following letter from their son, Dick, who is stationed in Indiana:

Dear Mom and Dad & little Dolores:

I left Rhode Island Saturday morning at nine o'clock and I am now in Indiana, this morning just a little ways from Chicago, where I went through boot camp. We have sleepers in here, and I rested very well last night.

Hope you are all well and stay that way. I don't know what I would do if something would go wrong at home, just something to keep me worried I guess. I did hate to leave you all this time. I was so nervous when I was home thinking about leaving to go back I hardly knew where I were. I don't know what kind of a camp I am going to, but I hope it is O. K. I don't know how long I will be there.

I hope I don't have to cross. Maybe something will turn up before I do; for if something would go wrong at home, I would be so far away.

Mom, do take care of yourself and the rest. Kiss my sweet little girl for me and tell her hello. If you hear any good news write me for it will help. Maybe I will be at home again soon. Well I will write again sometime today and tell you where I am. Be good till I see you again.

With love,

Dick.

A Ninth Air Force Service Command Unit, France:

The promotion of Edward O. Shanahan, 37, of Marlinton, from the rank of Private First Class to that of Corporal was recently announced by the Headquarters of this Ninth Air Force Service Command Unit.

Corporal Shanahan, the son of Mrs. Stella B. Shanahan, Marlinton, entered the service in December 1942 and came to the European Theatre of Operations in January 1944.

Corporal Shanahan is now serving as Squad Leader in this advanced landing ground of the Ninth Air Force in France.

The Ninth Air Force Service Command plays a vital part in supplying and maintaining unit of the Ninth Air Force, giving air support to the Allied Invasion of Europe.

Mrs. Mary Hefner Yanger, of Terra Alta, received the following letter from Pvt. Don L. Taylor, of the U. S. Army Hospital Plant Department of Patients, France:

My dear Mrs. Yanger: I received your letter which made me feel very blue. I am making the Red Cross Staff to send this letter for me, because my hand is in a sling and I am not able to write at this time.

I might be coming home shortly and you may be sure that I shall see you and tell you of a number of things that you are interested in and hope to know you better. Please let me assure you of one thing: Andy was killed instantly—there was no suffering. Death was instant.

I feel that I know all of you very well, because of the number of times that he has mentioned all of you to me. In fact, when we realized that our families were neighbors, Andy and I became good buddies. I realize you are heart-broken and I am deeply touched too. It is impossible for me to say more at this time.

He was very brave as you no doubt know, and loved combat. Let us be brave too. As I have said before, I will see you in the not too far future.

My sincerest wishes to you and your mother, and I will keep in touch with you.

Sincerely,

Pvt. Don L. Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mace, of Mace, received the following letter from their son, Herbert, of Camp Beale, California:

Dear Dad and Mother:

Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and getting along just fine. Guess this will be the last time I will get to write to you while I am in California, as we have our shipping orders and will be leaving soon. I have been here six weeks, waiting to take a boat ride, but it looks as though it would be a long train ride instead.

I don't know for sure where we are going, but I have a good idea, but can't tell it now. I will write as soon as I arrive at my new camp.

My trip from the West Valley to deep in the heart of Texas and thence to California—the land of sunshine has been a wonderful experience, and I have really enjoyed it all.

Our Major, Frank C. Wimer is from Elkins, W. Va. I have talked to him several times since I came here and also met his family. It is nice meeting someone from West Va., especially a Major.

I worked in the Del Monte Cannery at Yuba City last week. The peach crop is heavy here, and they had to call on the soldiers to help can them. There is a large fig and date orchard at the edge of camp. So when people say that California has plenty of fruit they are right.

By being a good friend of the Major and with all these California peaches and dates, I really am sorry to have to leave here. But when Uncle Sam says to do anything he means just that.

I want you to still send me The Pocahontas Times, as I enjoy reading it.

Hope you all keep well and can keep the store and office going. I hope to be back before long to help. I will close for now.

Your son,

Herbert T. Mace.

(By Marine Private First Class, Melvin Rutenberg, Camden, N. J.)

Guam, Delayed.—A Marine combat photographer, Corporal Arden J. Curry, of Court Street, Marlinton, W. Va., has a paradoxical story to tell regarding the invasion of Guam. It is about the fetish that the Japs have for American products.

Curry says that while touring a hilly sector that had been captured by Marines the first day of the fighting, he came upon a bombed native hut which he decided to photograph. Coming closer to the demolished dwelling he found standing in front of the crumbled entrance a red Coca-Cola refrigerator box without a scratch on it.

Inspecting the interior of the hut, he found amid the Jap debris a broken American record. It title was strangely prophetic: "What Is To Be Will Be."

Mrs. J. Gilmer Sharp has received word that her husband, Pvt. J. Gilmer Sharp, has landed safely somewhere in Italy. Before entering the service in 1943, Pvt. Sharp was a Foreman over the Major assembly for the U. M. P. Co. in Bristol, Tennessee.

Rehabilitation

Service Now Available. Aid Those With Employment Handicaps is provided for each County.

What is Vocational Rehabilitation? It is assistance provided for all persons, sixteen years of age and older, who are not in school, and who would be employable with proper services such as appliances, training, surgery, counseling, etc. There are some people who are so badly handicapped due to mental or physical conditions that no services available would make them employable. However, most persons should be able to produce enough work with proper assistance, to enable them to earn a living.

In this service available to all persons, regardless of their own ability to take care of themselves. Counseling, advice, medical examinations, certain tuition for training, and assistance in job finding is available for all who are eligible for service. Materials to work with, some materials to assist in setting up a small business, certain transportation, some help in board and room while in training, certain surgery and hospitalization, are available if an economic survey of the client's condition shows that he is unable to provide such services for himself and that such assistance would enable him to become a productive, self-supporting wage-earner.

How about age limitations? In order to comply with Child Labor laws Rehabilitation service begins after the client reaches his sixteenth birthday. In general persons over sixty years of age are not very employable. The condition of the client's health, the nature of his handicap, and the possibility of a number of years of productive work or management must determine the upper age limit.

Is this Rehabilitation program just for the veterans? There is a special Veterans Rehabilitation Service. Those interested in further information as to specific services offered them should write or contact that bureau. The Division of Vocational Rehabilitation for all eligible persons. Veterans with in-service disabilities usually contact the Veterans Bureau upon discharge from armed service. Those with non-service disabilities usually contact the division of Vocational Rehabilitation in their respective states. However, this Division serves anyone with an employment handicap, if, and when, services are asked for and accepted on an eligible basis.

What is meant by eligibility? Any person to be eligible for service must be proved to be an employment possibility after a thorough medical examination and a study of his job opportunity after being fitted with a hearing aid, brace, built up shoe, or other needed appliance, or with training for some job through schools, colleges, institutions, or shops, with physical restoration through surgery. Medical treatment is not provided other than examination, surgery, and limited hospitalization. The whole object of the service rendered is to enable the client to be a dignified, self-supporting citizen. Persons who have diseases in active stages, persons with too low mental, or persons of low morals and bad habits are not employable.

Just how are these people employed? What jobs are they fitted into through Rehabilitation? Some who graduate from high school in the upper half of their classes are assisted with college training to become teachers, lawyers, doctors, engineers, and for other professions. Some go to business schools. Some are trained in trade schools as welders, machinists, electricians, watch repairs, and other trades. Some learn in institutions to become nurses, auto mechanics, shop repairmen, and other necessary trades or careers. Some are assisted in finding places where they may be employed without further training, largely through the U. S. Employment Service, through County Agents for farm work, and through interested employers. Some clients undertake home projects such as poultry raising, potato chips, small fruits and handwork for which there may be sufficient demand. Some considerable assistance may be given clients who are deserving, ambitious, industrious and dependable.

What about the blind and home bound? These people find that there is much talk and little done in their behalf. The world is becoming quite conscious of the problem. Division of Vocational Rehabilitation is employing one or more full time workers to deal with the problems of the blind and it is hoped that in some cases clients may be trained and placed. This service should begin to function by this fall. However, too much should not be expected.

of it until it has had time to develop practical ways and means. After all industry has to be shown where the blind can be useful, and special special training and care must be given such clients to make them employable. Aid for the homebound usually depends on such factors as education, hand skill possible, and nearness to a market for whatever to be produced.

In order to receive services where should interested persons apply? There are a number of Field agents who cover the state and they plan regular trips into your county to meet those desiring service. A card index is kept on all reported cases for each county and the agent sends out a letter or notice of his coming, naming a place, date and hour for such interview. If you want your case considered, write to the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, Room 54, Capital City Building in Charleston. Be sure to state clearly your name and address, your age and education, the nature of your employment handicap, and the kind of services you think you should have. The agent will then contact you on his next visit to your county. He has no job to peddle out. His task is to help the client find ways and means of becoming employable and adjusted to a job. Those who are already satisfactorily employed should not apply for services which they can afford for themselves.

Who pays for all these services given to these clients? The State and Federal governments match funds. Last year, 1943-44, about eighty thousand dollars was spent in such persons. They became wage earners totaling almost a million dollars of income. The axes they will return in one year to the State and Federal governments will run over one hundred forty thousand dollars. Beside that, these satisfied workers have become self-supporting, dignified citizens who take care of themselves and their families and need nobody's charity.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Pvt. Henry L. VanRosen, of Camp Gordon Johnston, Florida, writes to his sister, Miss Golda VanRosen, R. N., X-Ray technician of Beckley Hospital, Beckley, as follows:

Dear Sir: How are you by now? I didn't get the Navy, so I am a soldier now. The new draft pool put me in the Army. About 40 of us from Newport News were assigned to the Navy in April and when we went for induction they put us all in the Army.

I went to Fort George G. Meade, and stayed there until late Wednesday, then went to Waynesboro Saturday night a week ago from there. Sure glad I went, for I probably won't get to go for a long time now. I left Ft. Meade at 12 noon Wednesday and arrived here Thursday at 11 p. m., it was a hard trip, over a thousand miles. This is some place. On an island out here 60 to 70 miles from the nearest town which is Tallahassee, the capital of Florida. Nothing but swamps and sand. Saw my first palm trees and first banana trees. This island wasn't even a part of the United States until a few years ago. Everyone here hates it. One fellow I talked to said that he had been overseas in the jungles 16 months, but it wasn't any worse than this.

I haven't been assigned to an outfit yet. Will be assigned and then start my basic training. This is basic is awfully tough. Hope to get started though, so I will be advancing some. I probably will be assigned to Harbor Craft, or Marine port installation; the latter is work repairing damaged ships in foreign ports so that they can get back to their home port. They say ratings are good in either one. I hope to be assigned where I can make a rating.

This island is right on the Gulf of Mexico. I said that I wanted to see the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific Ocean after I had seen the Atlantic. Now I have seen it, a d probably will see the Pacific before it is over, although I am not anxious to see it, until peace time.

The way they do things in the Army now, it is hard to tell how one will stay on this side. I sure hated to leave my little girls. It is a long ways to Virginia from here. We had a Pullman from Washington to Jacksonville, Fla. We had to ride a day coach from Jacksonville, to Tallahassee and a bus from there to here.

They say there are plenty of alligators around here. Also poisonous snakes here in the swamps and woods, among them the diamond black rattler and the deadly cobra snake. Sure hope I don't meet up with any. The Gulf is also full of sharks, I understand.

I went to Wakulla Springs Sunday afternoon. That is one of those crystal clear pools. You can see 185 ft. deep. The cost for a service man to go out in a glass bottom boat is 75 cents. I did not go out but went up on top of the diving tower, where I could see down where it was real deep. It looked like a big cliff of rock where it was about 50 or 60 feet deep and beyond the cliff it looked real blue. They say you can see 185 ft. It is unusual to see such crystal clear water.

Have you heard, from home lately? How is everything up in good old West Va.? Sure would like to be up there anywhere north of South Carolina. The countryside here looks terrible; swamps and people living in the worst looking shacks, I have seen. Not good as most barns up there.

They say it is beautiful in some parts of Florida. It is about 300 miles west to Pensacola, and 400 miles south to Tampa and 800 miles to Miami. In other words this place is one that should have been left to the Indians, although I doubt if they would have it. The Navy wouldn't. It is owned by Dupont Company who collects 50c. on every man who goes through here.

Well I must close, answer real soon. As ever, your brother,

Lee.

Gerald Sanders, son of Joseph A. Sanders, of Oakland, Md., writes to Mrs. John Lee, of Huntersville.

Somewhere in England, Dear Golda:

I received your letter and was very glad to hear from you. I am somewhere in England.

I received a letter from Dad a few days ago and he said John had been to see him; I suppose he is at home now. I know you were lonely by yourself.

I was very glad to get the picture you sent me of myself. I was quite small when that was taken. You should see me now. I only weigh three hundred pounds. I will send you a picture when I have a chance to have some made.

I will close, write me the news from Huntersville.

As ever, Gerald.

Mrs. Margie Wilfong of near Marlinton received the following letter from her son, Harry Wilfong:

Dear Mother and All: Will write you to let you know how well and getting along fine. Hope this letter finds you the same.

I just came back from the movie and believe me, it made me homesick. The town where the picture was made reminded me of Marlinton. I would really like to see Marlinton, and I would like to see you and the rest. An awful lot! I moved to a new place not long ago, and got farther away from home. I don't lack much now of being half way around the world. I have gone so far south now that it gets pretty cold here. It was awful hot where I was before. Where I am now, it is still about 79 degrees in the shade, but one thinks that it is rather cold here, or at least I do. If I were to come home now I would probably freeze to death.

Mother, if you could, I would like for you to send me a couple of sweat shirts. I would like the gray color, if you can't get them, send white.

Has Catherine gone to Charleston yet? What is everyone doing? Tell all I said hello, and I hope to see them soon.

Love, your son, Harry.

Frank W. Slavin, a veteran of Pearl Harbor, writes to his father, Carl W. Slavin:

U. S. S. NEVADA,
August 2, 1944.

Dear Dad:
You have no doubt, read quite a bit about the activities of the USS NEVADA, since the invasion of France.

She not only has a great record for her fighting ability during the Invasion, but she made a name for herself during the attack by the Japs on Pearl Harbor.

The NEVADA was the only "battleship" to get underway in the Pearl Harbor attack. She was not sunk by the Japs but was beached under orders. Her magazines were flooded to keep her ammunition from exploding and to hold her on the beach.

She was struck by one aerial torpedo which tore a hole in her side 30 ft. by 40 ft. She was hit by five heavy bombs which caused quite a bit of damage. I believe the official list of casualties was 64 killed and 100 wounded. She was credited with shooting down 4 of the attacking planes. Before one of the bombs hit and exploded on her gun deck, all of her anti-aircraft guns were in action.

The Nevada's crew did most of the work of raising her and getting her in shape to return to a navy yard.

At all times during the process of raising and restoring her, her guns were manned and ready to repel an attack, if another one should come.

I was the only chief fire controlman attached to her and it was my job to repair and get back into operation all fire control instruments and circuits that had been damaged.

On the day of the attack, I could not do much in that respect so I was quite busy helping organize relief gun crews, ammunition supply details and fighting fires.

The day after the attack I was able to make an estimate of the damage and the material needed and to obtain the material from the navy yard. There was certainly no red tape to obtain material then. I believe we set some kind of a record in getting our fire control installation back into operation. Some of the work was slightly crude, but it seemed to serve the purpose.

During this time I lived on board, in the booth of a turret. The chief turret captain who was in charge of the turret, and I rigged it up and made it quite comfortable. We ran a lighting circuit into the turret for lights. I found an electric fan, and after doing some work on it, we had an electric fan and it certainly came in handy. The large Honolulu mosquitoes invaded our place, so we turned scavenger for awhile and ended up with some cheese cloth to cover the ventilators, also a squirt gun and some bug juice and we lived quite comfortable after that. We took turns at scrubbing our dirty clothes. When it was my turn he would see that I did the scrubbing and I made sure he was prompt in getting them on the line. In doing so we had fresh change of clothes each day. We slept on a blanket which was spread on the deck. After a hard day's work, it felt like a Beauty rest mattress.

The oddest thing I saw from the bomb explosions was a large section of deck with a deck which attached to it which was blown up and stood in a vertical position. Attached to the underside of this deck was a large glass light shade. Although it was blown up to this vertical position and yards of steel around it was ripped and twisted, the light shade was in perfect condition. One of the crew removed the lamp and tested it and found it was not damaged.

The crew that remained why the NEVADA was a tired lot bit the time we arrived at a navy yard to be overhauled. There was no letting up in the long hours of work and watches during this period of overhauling, as the crew was anxious to get back at the Japs for their sneak attack.

I was kept quite busy going over plans for her new fire control installation and having instruments overhauled. We were receiving new men quite often and they had to be given as much training as was possible. I had to keep up on the installation of all fire control equipment, seeing that we received the required spare parts, before going to sea. I was acting division officer for part of our overhaul period. You can see I was kept busy.

After our over haul was completed we went to sea for a training period. We had new equipment to get used to, and of course most of our crew and officers had never been to sea. They were all eager to learn and it was not long until we had a first class work and watches during this period of overhauling, as the crew was anxious to get back at the Japs for their sneak attack.

I believe the Atlantic is the roughest ocean in the world during the winter months. Most of our time on convoy trips the decks were awash and only the gun deck was safe to go on, so most of our time was spent below decks.

Our next tour of duty, as you know, was the Invasion of France. I am sure you know the very good record of the NEVADA's shooting there. I don't believe I can add anything to what you already know, so I won't try.

I recall a few years ago some people wanted to scrap the old battleships. I still say battleships are the Queen of the Seas.

My station during battle is in the Main Battery Plotting Room. I am the Assistant Plotting Room Officer. The Plotting Room Officer is a commissioned officer. To give you a fair idea of what organization. Training periods are hard, tough grinds, and it takes a fellow's nerves to the limit. We all wanted action and it was a happy crew the day the Captain passed the word that we were on our way to port in the Aleutians. We knew it would not be long before we were to get our first revenge on the Japs.

You have probably read and heard about the weather in the Aleutians. I can tell you it is all they say it is. The weather there was cold and damp. It would penetrate the heaviest clothes. We had special clothing and it was certainly a blessing. We would have snow squalls that were as thick as a heavy fog. I don't believe the wind ever blew for over five minutes in the same direction. We had plenty of fog and rough seas. The water was so cold that if a man fell into it he stood a very slim chance of coming out alive.

On May 11th, the NEVADA made an attack on Attu Island, covering troops landing in Massacre Bay and for four days she gave the Japs there hell.

The Army was amazed at the accurate shooting of the Nevada and was well pleased with our job there. The crew felt pleased with themselves and was looking forward to the day we would help take Kiska, but the Navy Department had other plans for the Nevada.

Our next tour of duty was convoy duty in the Atlantic. Convoy duty had some exciting moments, but most of the time it was monotonous. We at last had something to look forward to as we felt sure the Nevada would be used in the invasion.

I do I will give you a few of the qualifications for a Chief Fire controlman.

He must have a detailed knowledge of construction of all fire control instruments aboard ship and sufficient mechanical and electrical ability to analyze failure of material and make repairs incidental to operation and use.

Ability to take over in an emergency the control of the Plotting Room, any group of guns, or spot the fall of shot.

Ability to determine ballistic corrections and apply corrections.

Ability to take charge of, organize, instruct and control the crew of any gun fire control station.

Ability to check alignment of director system on all batteries.

These are only a few of the requirements. You can see I have to be an electrician and mechanic. I also have to know mathematics such as trigonometry, algebra and other simpler mathematics.

In August of this year I will have served seventeen years at sea, the last six of which I have been chief fire controlman. Most of my spare time has been used for studying. The work is interesting to me and I have been well satisfied.

I have hopes of going to a shore job soon. You know the Navy has many shore jobs that are just as essential as the jobs at sea. I feel as though I deserve a shore job after the many years I have been at sea, so wish me luck. I hope this finds you and mother in the best of health.

Take good care of my wife and boy while they are there.

Your son, Frank.

Sgt. Dewey E. Sharp, of a Fighter Squadron, writes from Somewhere in France.

Somewhere in France.

Dear Cal:
It has been quite awhile since I wrote you and my address has changed several times. I guess it is time I write a line or two. I still receive The Pocahontas Times but it is delayed due to change of address. This is about seven or eight thousand miles between letters. I have kept my eyes open to meet some of the boys from home, and only one one have I met! Edward Shanahan. You can bet we are all doing a job. I wonder if I will be homesome when I have to leave the drone of planes.

Well how is fishing this summer? I bet you was right on the bank when the clock hit twenty-four hundred.

Well the light has gone behind the hedge and my cozy little ground hog nest is calling me.

So to all the boys in the Service, I say hello, and I wish you the best of luck.

Always, Dewey.

Goofy, am I?

Go ahead—that's your privilege—thinking I'm just plain lipped on overlastingly keeping this engine's insides OIL-FLATED with Conoco Nth oil. Maybe there is and maybe there isn't sixty other ways that would have kept engine acids from raising Ned with this pre-Pearl Harbor limousine. But one thing I know is this: it's still running swell on nothing but Conoco Nth motor oil. You needn't be a scientist to know that acids from every explosion are forever trying to spoil an engine. Looks like the proper idea is to try blocking those acids by getting your engine OIL-FLATED. I learned there's a modern synthetic in Conoco Nth oil that reminds you of magnetism, because it makes inside surfaces attract a shield of OIL-FLATING. Acids can't so easily tear right into this. Then your OIL-FLATED engine has an extra chance to last you. When new cars arrive, hurry! But a real advanced improvement right now is to switch to Conoco Nth motor oil, too.

In My Father's House
No, not cold beneath the grasses, Not close walled within the tomb; Rather in my Father's Mansion, Living in another room.

Living like the One who loves me
Like a child with cheeks ablom, Out of sight, at desk or school-book, Busy in another room.

Shall I doubt my Father's mercy?
Shall I think of death as doom, Or the stepping over the threshold To a bigger, brighter room?

Shall I blame my Father's Wisdom?
Shall I sit enswathed in gloom, When I know my love is happy Waiting in the other room?

FISH NEWS

Harry King got a twenty-inch small mouth bass and Delaney Johnson an eighteen inch one in the Greenbrier some where below Marlinton. They were fishing together, after dark with plugs.

More big bass have been caught in the Greenbrier this year than for many years. This is due to the lowest water in fourteen years. The improvement in the size of bass caught began to be noticed last year. The reason is the lowering the minimum length from ten to nine inches. If the Conservation Commission can be induced to take another inch off to make the minimum length eight inches, I can guarantee bigger and better bass in Greenbrier waters. It has been proved that a given body of water will grow a certain number of pounds of fish—whether this be one hundred big ones or a thousand little ones. Fruitmen thin out three-fourths of the fruit on a tree in order to have choice fruit of large size.

I always thought that the ten inch limit on bass worked well only in our swift mountain streams. I have recently found out that wherever a minimum length has been put upon bass, the fish have gradually become smaller and smaller. This applies to ponds, lakes and streams, regardless of depth.

Miss Geneva Alderman, of Minnehaha Springs, while visiting her sister, Mrs. Dennis May, in Fallings Springs Valley, Va., killed a big copperhead in their backyard. The snake was striking at a chicken. It was nearly three feet long.

August 9, 1944.
Wednesday Night.

Hello All:

Another day and another dollar, but no mail from home or the sweet one. But as our mail is not getting to us I don't feel bad about it, but if everyone else was getting mail and I wasn't getting any, I sure would. One of these days when it catches up with us I will take off a whole day to read it, because about every one in the whole county owes me a letter.

Well this finds the whole bunch of us boys getting along just as fine as a rat in a cheese factory. I guess you know that we are getting along just fine. I am still punching at the typewriter and learning a lot of other things along with it. I sure enjoy this kind of work and one of these days again, I will be making another rate I hope. I think I will try for it the first of October. It will be a pretty hard test, but if I study real hard, I guess I can make it. If not the first time, I will try, try and try again. It is just like the old test that we took in High School, but a darn sight harder.

Well how is everyone at home by this time. I haven't heard for several days, and maybe by the time I hear again, Alvin will be wearing some kind of uniform.

I guess you are about ready to go out and gather in big buckets and baskets of big red tomatoes, and I can just about taste them. I can picture the whole garden as it lays there with all the green vegetables and I know that you have a lot of it canned and ready for this winter.

I guess Russell is still working at the farm and his money is piling up on him now but I sure will come in good this winter. Alvin and Dad are still on the mountain I know, that is if Alvin is still home.

What is all the news on the mountain? I guess Virgil still keeps you all company. It looks like he is going to be about the only boy left there now and I guess it won't be long until he will be gone.

Where did Donald end up after he went back, or did he get the leave he thought he would? I guess he will soon be sailing out over these deep blue waters to one of these islands, far from home and maybe never to see again. It is a sad thought to think about when you get ready to leave, but when you get out here it is not as bad as you think before you see it. I sure have found that out and take it like you like it whether you do or not. There is no use to worry about it, when the day comes for your leave you will get it. Darn it, these waves have carried me out here and one of these days they will carry me back to those little rocks there among the mountains.

Jack and I sit on the top side of the ship at night and maybe your mind doesn't wonder back when the stars keep coming up over the blue waters to take a look at you. There is not a more beautiful sight than that for those who have never seen it. It is then that I wish that I had Mary Frances beside me. I sure keep waiting for the day when I will receive those pictures of you all. They will probably reach me in the next mail whenever we get it.

How are the farmers getting along with their farm work there now? What is the news around Cass now, the same as always? How is the mill running there now? Is it six days a week or it pretty slim? I guess it won't be very long now until Dad will be grinding the corn cutters and be at it again. I guess I got out of it last year and here is another one that I will not take part in, but I sure would like to be there to take part in it.

We sure had a good dinner of chicken and a good meal of it, today. So you see, I bet that you didn't have chicken today. We sure are getting good things to eat and plenty of it.

What has Kyle been doing to pass the days now? I guess him and his dog still wander out and in all over the place now. I guess he must be getting to be a big fellow by now, and I sure would like to hear him and Dad have a few of their chats.

Well as it is about time to go to the movies, I will close for tonight, to answer soon and drink a big glass of butter milk me, ha!

Love,
Delbert.

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

By Tony Sage

I sit down to write, with so much to say,
But how can I tell it when there isn't a way,
Can't say where I'm at, cannot you know,
Can't say where we've been—where we may go.

Can't talk about the sight of whom we have met,
Can't talk about the ship or the food that we get,
Can't smoke after dark, must be early to bed,
Can't use my flashlight—must be on my head.

Can't write love an XXX might be in code,
Can't talk about battle or we've out rode;
Can't tell of the sunshine, the rain or the storm,
Can't say if we're freezing or whether we're warm.

Can't do many things, but this we can do—
We can eat, we can sleep—when they tell us to;
We can laugh and be merry, but we can't overdo it,
We can tell folks we're happy, and hope they'll not see through it.

We could play the radio, but we haven't got one;
We could get a good tan, if we just had the sun;
We could sit aft and fish, but there's never a bite,
We could argue for hours, but it ends in a fight.

We can go ashore, but there's nothing there,
We can grow a beard but we can't have long hair;
We can tell jokes for hours—but I don't know any,
We can borrow from friends, but those "with" aren't many.

We can do all those things and perhaps many others,
But we want only one thing—and that my dear brothers,
Is to finish this fight and return home again,
To where women are women, and men were once men.

And in later years we may look at all this,
And there may be a time when we find that we miss
Some of this life, that we now know so well,
And may wish we were back aboard—who can tell.

[Editor's Note] This same poem caught the fancy of our young friend, Ralph Nottingham, 82-C, of the Navy, who is now serving in the Southwest Pacific, who sent it this week to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nottingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Beverage received the following letter from their brother, Wilbur Beverage, in New Guinea:

Dear Bud and Sis:
So sorry not to have written you sooner, but we just got back to camp today after thirty days straight on the front lines. We were in some pretty hot spots but almost all of us were lucky enough to be able to walk back to camp.

One morning the Japs hit us and three of them came out of the brush in front of us. I gave them two clips of my Tommy gun and Steve Stipah opened the machine gun. We killed one and wounded and captured another who was an officer. I got myself a beautiful sword, a Jap flag, 10 Jap watches and some money, here is some of it. I also got a Jap rifle. I am going to sell it and the sword for I think I can get about $500.00 for the saber for it is a nice one. Will send you the picture of it later.

Not too much news on the home coming but it looks promising.

Well, guess I shall close, will write more later. Answer soon and be good. Love, Wilbur.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Recently there has been a trend away from the rigid isolation of poliomyelitis cases. It would seem the course of wisdom to continue to isolate all patients with polio in the communicable stage until three weeks have elapsed from the onset of the disease, Dr. J. E. Offner, state health commissioner, has announced.

Until the last word is known concerning this grave illness, he said, a conservative policy will be adhered to by the West Virginia State Health Department, and the strict enforcement of our present quarantine laws will be demanded.

The quarantine law in West Virginia provides that all cases of polio be isolated for three weeks following the onset of the disease. The home shall be placed under quarantine and all children shall remain within the premises of the home during the period of illness.

Because of recent developments showing the value of early treatment in infantile paralysis, the three-week quarantine was relaxed last week by the State Health Commissioner. However this order permitted only the immediate transfer of patients from the home to a hospital and stipulated that the local, full, or part-time, health officer must give his permission before the transfer may be made. As long as the patient remains in the home a strict quarantine must be observed in accordance with the laws of the state.

Officials of the State Health Department are keeping constant watch over the polio situation in order to forestall any possible epidemic in West Virginia. Cooperation of the health officers, physicians, parents and patients is needed to curb further outbreaks.

Dr. Offner reiterated that fatigued and undernourished children are the most likely victims. Also unnecessary travel and needless mingling in crowds increase the chances of infection.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, AUG. 31, 1944

Dr. Calvin Price,
Bear Hunter, Etc.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear Cal:

I see where you take violent exception to the State Conservation Commission opening the season on Bears a few days the first of December.

And as this is a subject I know nothing about, I can write freely on it. It seems to me that you want to shoot a bear any time you meet him, without waiting for open season, and I can also understand why you farmers who feed the bears 365 days a year should not be limited to only five days to shoot them. Although it strikes me, if you applied that same principle there would be open season for farmers all the time on everything.

And I've said before, I was a little jealous of the farmer's situation with all kinds of things being done for him all the time.

Your statement that there are over 500 bears in Pocahontas county, was new to me, and if I lived there I'd want to shoot them, whenever they appeared. And I'm going to suggest a good way to get the State Commission to change its ruling. Is robbing by the members and take them hiking in good bear country and you disappear when a bear appears, and then see how they feel about protection for this "spot."

I read what you said also, about Pocahontas county bluffing the State in the Legislature on the question of bear hunting, which is a fine thing to boast about in Pocahontas county, but if it ever gets out the rest of the State might set in on you, and that's bad.

Personally, I don't care how much you took your own horn or what is done about the bears, so long as you keep them over in Pocahontas. And I think you'd better catch that tiger you've been sniffing so long before you tackle bears.

WILLIAM.

Dear William:

You miss the main, logical point in the matter of giving protection to the bear. 360 days out of the year, always excepting leap year when he is to have an extra day of grace. The high point has to do with juvenile delinquency we all have been reading so much about. You recall how on that ancient day the bad children came out of the city and mocked the preacher by saying go up, thou bald head. And there came forth two she bears out of the woods, and tore forty-two children to bits.

Certainly you cannot raise children right and keep them in the straight and narrow way without bears to threaten them with. And the lowlanders being without bears for several generations, it is small wonder we now read so much about what they call juvenile delinquency.

However, the zeal for conservation of the bear is without knowledge. You have to apply this remedy locally; what they call a sent treatment just don't go when it comes to children and bears.

That there reference to the necessity of drastic action on the part of our betters such as the bear law to keep the farmer humble and in his place. You know the old gag about the value of a flea in the great and grand and general scheme of things to make and keep a dog humble by causing him to realize his low estate as a dog. Like old man Bately who threw dust in the family pot of grease to show his authority.

Now, dear William, do get out of the idea that sheep are killed by chipmunks and fairy didies, and that the big hearted bear was merely mooning around, as a child mourner, when he left his sign on the corner of the carriage.

These nature fakirs would have a person believe the black bear is the play boy of the forest; that in exuberance of spirit he attempts to play with the woolly lambs. This scares the poor woolies plumb to death; causing them to run blindly against stone and timber with fatal results. How come the sympathetic bear gets wool in his teeth is a trying to nurse the lambs back to life.

Bears are no joke with us of the unwhined tribes of the upper Greenbrier. They injure our chief source of revenue, our lamb and wool crop. I could write much on the tender feeling the shepherd holds for his flock too, and each individual member. Then to have our better members command us to cease laying violent hands on the puffy bears in defense of our property and chief source of income. Why that is just adding insult to injury.

Just across the street from the money end on which I write is a new house where the wool of this bear is being spun in a great big factory. And what high grade wool it is too. More than is down car loads have been shipped this year, with an average weight of twenty tons to the car, and average value of over a thousand dollars per ton.

No mountain lions to report at this writing. However my mind is not at ease; between the end blackberries and the beginning of the mast crops, the bears can be expected to break loose on sheep again.

Regards,

CALVIN.

BEARS

The past June, bears got to killing sheep for Howard Burner, who lives on Burner Mountain out from Durbin. He set a trap at the forks of the road on Burner Mountain, just in sight of his house. He used apples and honey for bait.

One morning as Mr. Burner was going to work, he went by to look the trap. There were bear tracks around and the trap was gone. He and his neighbor, Arthur Townsend, followed the sign a little ways and found where the bear had hung, but had pulled loose. Going back home for a bear gun, a 44 calibre Winchester, they followed on until they overtook the bear in a laurel patch. Mr. Burner put a ball just over one of the bear's eyes, and that laid him out. This happened on a Thursday.

The two hunters looked around that day, and they found where another bear had killed a lamb. This bear had chased the mother ewe within 50 yards of Mr. Burner's house.

The next week Mr. Burner tracked another bear, so he and Mr. Townsend took an evening off when they came from work to see what about this one. They found where he had killed a sheep. They took time to set a trap. The bear came back that night to eat another fill of mutton. The next evening Mr. Burner put a trap there, and staked down what was left of the sheep, which was not much. He looked the trap the next morning only to find it gone. He then called Arthur Townsend and they followed the bear about 150 yards, to find him fast. Mr. Burner put a 44 ball behind his ear, and it brought him down. This was on a Sunday morning.

That afternoon, Willie and Lester and Forrest Burner came to see Howard. Late that evening the brothers wanted to see where the first bear had been caught. They went to the pen and found the trap gone. Forrest went for the gun, and then they followed the bear. He had gone down close to the road. He had been fast but had pulled the drag loose. The bear was found lying on the bank of the road, with one arm over his head. Forrest shot him down. This bear's stomach was full of mutton. That was two bears in one day.

In a few days the game warden was around to see Mr. Burner; had him arrested and brought before Squire C. E. Hull. Seemed like the bear law did not hold nor apply and the case was dismissed. These bears had killed eleven head of sheep for Howard Burner about fifty head for Willie and their sister, and a number of head for other people. The bears would weight about 300 pounds a piece; fat and fine. They were all male bears.

There is still another sheep killing bear on Burner Mountain. He killed sheep until the berries got ripe in late June. The neighbors are looking for him back after their sheep just as soon as the berries are gone in September.

Our Army and Navy Boys

The following letter was received from Mr. & Mrs. E. A. Hudson, from their son, PFC. Luther Neil Hudson.

Somewhere in Italy,
July 27, 1944.

Dear Mom & Dad:

Well I received some mail to-day a bit old but I did enjoy reading it. I had two letters from you today, dated June 25th and 26th. Also received the nice box which Gladys and you sent me. Thanks a lot. Boy, the candy is good. I can hardly keep out of it. I like the cigarettes too, and envelopes and stationery. Thanks again.

I'm sure glad you're coming along so well. I'm fine. I never felt better in my life. The only way I could feel any better than I do, now would be to get a trip back home—back to good old West Virginia. I don't think that will be so far off either. I hope not.

I haven't seen Hildie since day before yesterday, but he's getting a pass tomorrow and is coming here. It is so good to be close to him. Boy, I hope Luther will come this way. We would turn this part of Italy upside down. A fellow in our Company has two brothers, that are stationed here. One is his twin. All three are out together this evening.

I haven't been able to see many places of interest yet. I've visited Salerno, Pompeii and Naples. I have also seen Mt. Vesuvius. I'd rather see Asbury's Knob anytime. Keep well and don't work too hard. Love, your son, Neil.

Cliff C. Sharp, of Huntersville, sends this letter from his son, Earl M. Sharp, of Camp Claiborne, Louisiana:

Dear Dad:

Will write you a few lines. I wrote to Lucille and the kiddies, so I still have a few minutes to write to you.

How are you getting along? I hope you are feeling better now.

I have been so busy that I did not have time to write to you before, with one exception right after another, with so many things to do, and so many training aids to get each day for the training we have. I hope it is all over for awhile now, and hope for a week or two of just routine duty, so I will have a chance to get things straightened out again. I mean the records and books of the men in this platoon. I have a lot of paper work to do keeping these records straight, for they are inspected about every month, and they have to be right or else they are wrong, for there isn't any "pretty good" in the Army. My usual day's work is about sixteen hours, and I have worked longer. I don't think the sledging will be so rough from now on, or for awhile anyway.

This platoon is a new unit that was activated, and we started from scratch, for no one knew anything about what it was supposed to do, so we had to learn everything from the start.

Well it is plenty hot here in Louisiana, and there hasn't been a good rain here since I came back from New Orleans four weeks ago. I'm hoping we will move from this part of the country soon for I don't exactly like this state and I know of more beautiful places than this, and at least one can climb a hill once in awhile, and get a good breath of fresh air.

Well, we still have a hard row to hoe, as far as this war is concerned, and there is going to be a lot of people fooled as to how long it is going to last, so they had just as well prepare to dig down a little deeper, and put out a little more effort, for that is what it is going to take.

Well Dad take care of your self and maybe I'll see you all by Christmas.

Tell Cal, he is going to have to dig down and find a few bear stories for The Times, for it is pretty ragged without one now and then, and that is usually the first thing I look for, when my wife sends me the paper.

You know, as the old saying goes you can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy. Oh, well that is the best place to be any way, for there is always plenty to eat at every farmer's table. Well I have been sitting here for about an hour, "huffin' and puffin'", so I had better go to bed.

With Love, Earl.

Calvin Galford, of Dunmore, sends in the following letter from his friend, Arden Shinnberry, of the Navy who is some where in the Pacific.

New Caledonia,
July 21, 1944.

Hello Calvin:

I believe it is about time for me to write you a line. I had a letter from you a long time ago. I should be ashamed of myself for not answering sooner. How is the world treating you by now? I guess you are having lots of fun since school is out.

Well Calvin about all I can say is, I'm always on the go. When I was on the ship I sure traveled a lot, but now I'm going to school here in New Caledonia, for a few months, but I will be back on the ship when I finish school.

I sure will have a lot to tell you when I get back. You know those sea stories are interesting.

Christine said you had been sick. I sure hope you are better by now. How's your mother and Christine and the rest of the family? Fine, I hope. I guess you have company since Donald and Kenneth came over. Have you been swimming yet? I bet you have some time in the water. I didn't know there was so much water until I got in the Navy. You can ride for a long time and never see land. Tell Christine I will write her tomorrow night.

Well I guess I will have to close for this time. Write when you can. I sure like to hear from you. I hope to see you this fall. Have a nice time this summer Calvin. Tell everyone I said "hello". Your pal, Arden.

The following letter is from Kyle O. Dilley, who is some where in France, to his mother, Mrs. C. W. Dilley, of Dunmore. Dearest Mother and All:

I will drop you a few lines to let you know I am well yet. How are you all, fine I hope.

I have seen action. It is hard sometimes, but we can take it. Don't worry, I will be O. K. I got a letter from you today. I can't tell you where I am in France. My bed is in a fox hole at night.

What is Dad doing now? I have lots to tell you when I get home which I hope is soon. Well mother, tell all the folks hello, for me, tell Edna Galford I am well.

Well mother, I will close for now. Hope to see you soon. Don't send me any more boxes. Love, Kyle.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Dennis May of Falling Springs Valley, Virginia, from her brother, PFC Osborne O. Alderman, who is serving in the army in Kansas.

Hello Sis:

I'll send a line your way this eve. I am fine and hope you are the same.

We lift Camp Phillips. I like it much better here. We have nice barracks. I won't get any furlough from here but hope to soon. It will seem good to get back to good old West Virginia to see you all again. We will be here about six months.

We were on detail today and how we did work. I never done thing all afternoon. We went by the cavalry and I never saw so many horses. They were firing pistols over their heads. You should see the places they put these horses. It sure was interesting.

I would like to hear from my friends around there. Will you please give them my address. I met a lot of nice friends while I was staying with you. I still remember those good old times we had and hope to have them again. Tell Mildred hello for me. She was a real nice girl. What camp is Russell in? He sure was a good pal; as you know, we had swell times. How is old Ben coming along these hot days on those golf links. Tell him to take care of himself and not perspire too much, ha, ha.

Well Sis, I guess you all aren't taking your Sunday school pictures and pleasure trips now. I know you all are keeping old moral high by not using gas. I sure would love to see the children dress Victory garden now. Tell them hello for me. I will ring off here. Write soon with plenty of news. Your brother, Osborne.

Fort Riley, Kansas.

Private Harper H. Galford has been promoted to Corporal. He is stationed at Camp Campbell, Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Dean, of Lobelia, received the following letter from their son's Chaplain in answer to the one they had written him asking for information concerning the death of their son, Harlan, who had been killed in action.

My dear Mr. and Mrs. Dean: I am writing this in reply to your letter of May 29th. Harlan was killed instantly on the battle field when a large enemy shell burst near him. No fragments hit him but the concussion killed him. I cannot tell you where he is buried. (Censored)

Death came so sudden that Harlan never had an opportunity to leave a message for you, with any one. Rest assured that your loss is also felt heavily by us here. Harlan was a good soldier. He enjoyed the rugged and admiring of all the men of his organization.

One of the most tragic phases of war is the loss of these fine young men. No 4-F's these. These are the flowers of the world's manhood. It is up to us, the living, to fight now and so to live hereafter that they might not have died in vain.

May God shower His choicest blessings upon you.

Sincerely yours,
Ralph J. Smith,
Division Chaplain,
Third Infantry Division.

This letter is from PFC. W. B. Lester, somewhere in the Pacific.

Dear Sis: I will answer your letter. I received to day. Was glad to hear from you. This leaves me O. K. Hope these few lines find you in the best of health. I would have wrote you before but I did not know your address till you wrote me. I want you to write and tell me John's address for I would like to hear from him. I got the pictures you sent me.

I had a letter from home to-day; they were all well. Sis, I want you to tell mother to send some of my pictures to me. Well as news are scarce I will close for this time. Tell all the children hello for me.

W. B. L.

The following letter is from Harry Wilfong to his sister Miss Eva Wilfong.

Dear Sis: Will answer your two letters I got yesterday. Was very glad to hear from you. I am well and getting along fine. Hope this letter finds you and the rest in good health.

I hope you can read this letter. I am so sleepy I can hardly write. I got up at 4 o'clock this morning. I have the 48 watch.

I really liked that picture of Oliver. I did not know he was almost two years old. I am sending you a picture of some of us fellows on the ship. All of the crew are not in it. I will mark where I am sitting. If the fellows were lined up I would name them for you. The way it is now I'll have to wait until I get home. Some of the fellows in that picture have left the ship.

I told you about having trouble with my eyes. I don't have to have that place on my forehead raised. While I am very glad I don't, I had my eyes checked three times and I am near sighted. I have to wear glasses when I read or go to the movies, or if I have close work to do I have to wear them. I don't have my glasses yet. I left the place I had my eyes examined; they said they would send them to me by mail.

I will close now. Answer real soon. Hope to see you soon. Your brother, Harry.

AN AIR SERVICE COMMAND DEPOT. (Somewhere in England)—Private Jacob W. Fertig, the son of Mrs. Helen Fertig of Cloverlick, is now serving with this huge Air Service Command Base as an Aircraft mechanic. He helps in repairing battle-damaged fighters and bombers that are needed as quickly as it is possible to return them to combat. He has aided in winning the battle of production.

A former truck driver for the Keipers Lumber Co., of Daily, he attended Greenbank High School prior to his enlistment in the Army in June 1943.

The base where he is stationed was recently commended by General Eisenhower on the work of production of the thousands of men repairing and assembling planes.

Mrs. George C. Cromer, of Durbin, sends in the following from her son Alfred, somewhere in Italy.

Dear Mother: Here is a little prayer our chaplain gave us this eve. I think it is pretty nice, so I'm sending it to you.—Alfred.

HELP ME BE A MAN
(This prayer, written on note paper in a masculine hand, was found in a pew in the first Presbyterian Church, Greenville, S. C.)

Our Father in Heaven, I come to Thee in humility, asking forgiveness for all my sins and all my faults. Be pleased to grant, I pray Thee, what I am about to ask of Thee.

Please, God above, cause this terrible conflict to end soon; hasten the day when we can once again live in peace, happiness and harmony with our brothers the world over.

Bless my wife, and keep her safe from all harm and evil; bless Mother, and make her well again; bless Dad, and keep and protect him; and bless all the earth's inhabitants.

Father in Heaven, I know I am not worthy of Thee—but please help me to be a MAN. Grant me the wisdom and the courage and the strength I need, not only for the time I am a soldier but for all the days to come.

Bless the church I am in today; bless the minister and all persons connected in the work of it. I know no one here, but I feel at home because it is the House of God.

I ask this in the name of Jesus Christ, who gave His life so that we might have Life Eternal. Amen.

A SOLDIER'S PRAYER

This prayer was sent by an overseas boy to his mother in the States. It has been set to music and is being sung in the churches, according to the 703rd Adjutant, Captain Brown. His aunt in Maryland sent the prayer to him V-Mail.

O Lord, that I might valiant be, Reverently I call on Thee; Give me the courage to see it through—

Light my way in all I do. Be my strength, my soul, my guide,

Allow me naught to wish to hide; Keep me strong in body, mind, And to those who fall, be kind.

And when my work o'erseas is through, Make me remember 'twas done by You.

To help, to bless, to lead the way, Toward that bright, victorious day.

And then, at last, my final plea, That I might humble be, In Victory,

My final plea, That I might humble be. Amen. Amen.

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC

Somewhere in the South Pacific where the sun is like a curse, And each day is followed by another slightly worse.

Where the thick rain blows and washes away the sand, And a white man dreams or wishes for a better land.

Somewhere in the South Pacific, where a woman is never seen, Where the sky is never clear and the jungles are always green,

Where the Bananas Bear nightly chattering robs a man of blessed sleep,

Where there is never any paved highways and the trails are muddy, and always steep.

Somewhere in the South Pacific where the light is made of love, Where the moon is like a searchlight, the southern cross above

Sparkles like a diamond necklace in a traffic light;

It's a shameful waste of beauty, when the girl you love isn't in sight.

Somewhere in the South Pacific, where the mail is always late, Where Christmas cards in April, is considered up to date,

Where we never had a pay day and never have a cent;

But we never miss the money, because we would never get it spent.

From the U. S. A. to Brazil is a long way, but you'll find many familiar things in both places. A friendly spirit for one, Coca-Cola for another. Why Farmers Should Buy and Keep War Bonds

by R. R. Renne
President
Montana State College

BUILDING financial reserves, paying off debts, helping to fight dangerous inflation, and patriotism, are all good reasons why farmers should buy and hold War Bonds.

A good financial reserve is an important part of sound farm management. War Bonds are safe investments and are almost as liquid as cash. Thus, they comprise an excellent financial reserve for unexpected emergencies. After the last war prices fell rapidly, as they have after every major war, and thousands of American farmers lost their farms because they could not weather the economic storm. No other factor is more essential for continued satisfactory farm operations, through good years and bad, than adequate financial reserves.

In addition to unexpected needs for emergencies, farmers need adequate reserves to finance repairs, replacements and improvements around the farm. Difficulties in obtaining needed materials and labor for these expenditures cause farm buildings and equipment to wear out faster during the war period than in peacetime. If farmers can wait until sometime after the war ends to make these repairs and improvements, their dollars should go farther than they will immediately following the war, and better quality materials will probably be available.

Moreover, for rapid or forced cashing of War Bonds immediately after the war could create a serious situation and contribute to post-war inflation. Also, holding bonds to maturity makes it possible for the farmer to increase his investment by one-fourth through accumulated interest. Still another reason for having a good reserve in the form of War Bonds is that funds will be available for the boys when they return, to assist them in getting established in peacetime pursuits.

Many farmers still have long-term mortgage debt outstanding against their property. Investment in War Bonds now makes it possible for the farmer to help finance the war and at the same time accumulate the funds which will enable him to liquidate his debt in a lump sum after the war.

Systematic purchase of War Bonds furnishes a very orderly and sure way of accumulating the necessary funds for liquidation of debt that requires large lump sums for settlement.

The extremely heavy expenditures required to carry on modern total war creates high purchasing power, which combined with shortages of materials and labor, cause serious inflationary trends. Most farmers can remember the very high prices which occurred during the last war and the very low prices and depression which followed. With the present scale of operations much greater than during the first war, it is imperative that widespread inflation in general prices and in land be prevented. Using surplus funds to purchase War Bonds helps reduce inflationary pressure in commodity markets and, at the same time, helps finance the war.

Building financial reserves, paying off debts and fighting inflation, comprise sound reasons for buying War Bonds. However, there is still another major reason why farmers should invest in War Bonds until it hurts and this is the patriotic reason. We are engaged in a very serious struggle to preserve democracy and our way of life. The success we can win this war the future lives of our sons and daughters will be lost. Our youth are making great sacrifices on the battlefields all over the world, and it is up to each one of us on the homefront to give all we have. Large sums of money are needed for winning the war and if we will all buy War Bonds to the limit of our resources voluntarily, we can help finish the war at an early date.

The Chinese are beginning to sing in harmony and already a full-length opera in the native language has been produced before record-breaking audiences in Chungking. One of the most inspiring sights in free China today, according to reports, is to see thousands of people join in the mass singing of patriotic melodies. This is a spectacle never seen before in China and unheard of until six years ago. It is not confined to schools and colleges but has spread to the common people, to the refugees, guerrillas and soldiers at the front.

For good ironing results, sprinkle the clothes evenly and have them fairly damp. If you are in a hurry, sprinkle the clothes with warm water. It spreads more quickly than cold water. There are several sprinkling devices, such as a bottle with perforated top that can be had for a few cents that will do a better job of dampening clothes than can be done by hand. A small whisk broom also does a good job.

IMAGINATION

(By Harner Anderson)

Being certain we are right
Does not make it true
We must have the gospel light
To know what to do
To receive the gift of life
With its blessings rich and rife
And be free from selfish strife
Time eternal through

Satan—the god of the world
Has his world deceived
It has taken his advice
And his lies believed
It was certain it was right
But had not the gospel light
So it is now in a plight
And its friends are grieved.

Babylon is going down
At an early date
So the only thing to do
Is to now vacate
Christ is calling you today
To come out of her and stay
Who will hear Him and obey
Ere it is too late!

Being certain we are saved
Is imagination
If we know not nor obey
The God of salvation
Second Corinthians ten and five
The obedient will survive
Armageddon day alive
Out of every nation.

Our Army and Navy Days

Mr. and Mrs. Ann Camel, of West Allegheny, have received the following commendation of their son, Harland Dale, of the Fourth Beach Battalion, Italian Invasion. Harland Dale is now in a hospital in North Africa recovering from a broken leg:

From Commanding Officer.
To: CASSEL, Harland Dale,
958 57 04 S. 1C USN.
Subject: Commendation.

I wish to use this means of conveying to you my appreciation for the splendid way in which you carried out your duties and in many instances went far beyond them. In the Sicilian Avalanche operation on July 10, and in the Italian S.A.F.T.A. Landing operation, on September 9th and subsequent dates, 1943. I feel that the success of these vital operations was due in no small measure to the gallantry and bravery under heavy fire which the Fourth Beach Battalion, as a unit, displayed upon this occasion.

Beginning September 15, the people of Pocahontas County will be asked to contribute not less than $500 to the National War Fund of the United States organizations for our own and our Allies. Help some one you know through the USO. To get the down right idea of how the USO works on the field, Miss Virginia Payne Neel, formerly of Marlinton, writes from Brazil:

A SUNDAY AFTERNOON IN THE USO

It is Sunday afternoon in at USO far from the United States. All around me are your boys; your sons, brothers, sweethearts, and husbands. I am on the reception desk from twelve noon until about seven o'clock on Sunday. To paraphrase:

"They come in neverending line. The tall, the short, the brusque the kind."

They are mostly North Americans; but there are a few merchant seamen from the British Navy. Two came by to check in Library books. At the party Friday night, I met a Norwegian seaman. He and a friend of his came at the USO almost every night.

Home sick boys on Sunday afternoon, and the service that the USO renders is to be as nearly a substitute for those hundreds of small services that the family back home renders as far as possible to be in a distant clime. There is never any substitute for them for the homefolks, their wives or for the good old "state side."

One young married man who is worried about his family: I have just tried to introduce to some pamphlets on "Take no thought for the morrow." He just came by to leave a Hershey bar for me on the desk, as he left for a Sunday afternoon outing to the old Dutch churches of the city, promoted by the USO.

Another boy just came by and asked for a needle from the sewing kit. There we also keep thread and buttons.

I am talking above the strident notes of the "Wabash Cannon Ball" or something equally exhilarating, which he is playing as loud as he can.

I have just started a group off in our "bottle" to spend a happy afternoon at our quiet, pretty Beach Club.

As we stand here there in the rear of the building, a large group are conversing good, inspected American food. No alcoholic beverages are served. The boys are happier than they have been for some days, because they are able to have ice cream again. We hadn't had the "nip" for some time.

Just at this moment, one of the boys arrived by ship, came to say, "Hello." These boys who come in out of the harbor are especially ours. Perhaps more than any others. They touch our hearts because they have so few days at a time with us. One by one they are coming by for a cherry greeting and we have the opportunity to say, "Glad to see you back." And for their folk at home we breathe a prayer of thanksgiving that they are back safely from one more trip.

The boy who just came to the desk learned English as a foreign language since his folk are French Canadian, but he is in Uncle Sam's uniform. And that is another thing that impresses us. The uniform is clothing our good fellow citizens of various nationalities—or second generation removed from people of the various nations of the world. This fact came to ask about the "Circus" which a group of service men and girls presented as the feature of last night.

Across the way, the check-room is busy, and cigarettes, hershies, bars, stamps and pictures are on sale there.

To my right is a desk where the boys sign their names and home towns in state books. A crowd is often there to see if any folk they have known have signed the book.

Two boys from Oklahoma have just come shyly up to the desk to ask for our pocket guide to the city. Another fellow just brought back a mislaid copy of the Navy publication daily.

In the midst of all, another boy looks at me and says a riddle he has just discovered in one of the pamphlets lying around the lobby. Another group came by for wrap ping paper, and I have told them where it is available in the club and how they can ask the foreign attendant for it in English.

There is an almost constant demand for playing balls, which they check out carefully and return afterward.

One of our chamberlains just came to the desk for instructions. We are now heading up now to the next campaign of the USO to tell the boys about it.

In the open court at my left, the boys, pet, a beautiful parrot, is sleeping—or appearing to—until some other person decides to try to converse with him.

Over to my left is the half finished auditorium. A second floor is being added to it, and the remodeling is progressing.

In a few minutes I must call Navy headquarters about a movie for tomorrow night. In the midst of it all, I dash frequently to answer the telephone call for some boy.

Upstairs, some of the men are probably stretched out on wicker chairs or on the settees taking a Sunday afternoon nap. In a short time, we shall have ready a new room which will have army cots on which they can take naps in a more comfortable fashion.

And so the afternoon goes on. There is a Sunday afternoon party to which girls come. After this there is the news commentary of the week and then the hymn up on the terrace. More than any one of the services, the men want to feel that it is a place into which they can walk and be accepted as individuals.

They are just like they are at home. There is nothing that we notice perhaps so clearly as the kind of training they had in the deeper things of life. And in spite of all the training they had, they are still throwing paper and cigarette stubs on the floor, and they forget to straighten the piles of magazine and the rugs.

One night I was telling one of the mature men how refreshing it was for me to get away for a few minutes from the club. He answered like this: "Yes, you like to get away occasionally; but remember in many cases, every minute that a boy spends there, he is not at some place he should not be."

This is just a little glimpse of one afternoon. This does not tell you the policies of the USO but it does express in little details something of what we are doing. There is the boy who wants to show you the pictures of his family; there is the one who wants to learn to talk to a girl of this nationality and make a date with her; there are the numerous requests for ways to get to the church services in English. And back of all this is our motto, "Service to Service Men."

When it is physical need—such as money or something related to their family—some emergency at home—we put them in touch with the Red Cross. But for a home atmosphere off the base, they in the Western Hemisphere, north and south, are asking that the USO provide it.

Not long ago a North American who had lived in Recife when the boys were here and there was no USO said he found the whole atmosphere changed upon his present visit.

The Seneca Trail Farm Women's Club met August 16 at the home of Mrs. Norman Beale for their regular meeting and annual picnic. All members and one visitor, Mrs. Howard Beale, were present. Mrs. H. D. Rinehart had charge of the devotional. Mrs. Eula Hannah led the lesson, "Short Cuts in Housekeeping," which was very interesting. Our fair exhibit was discussed and planned. During the noon hour a bountiful picnic lunch was served on the Beale lawn. After lunch a short yester service was held which consisted of poems, songs and prayer. The next regular meeting will be September 30, with Mrs. Eula Hannah.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mr and Mrs. E. E. Grogg and family were notified last week by the War Department of the death of Sgt. Emil L. Grogg, on August 28th, in England, due to injuries received in action.

St-Sgt. Emil L. Grogg was born on September 22, 1923, at Greenbank. He was a graduate of Greenbank High school in May 1942. He was then employed as a sheet metal worker by the Glen L. Martin Company in Baltimore, until he entered the Air Corps on March 22, 1943.

He completed months of specialized training in Army Air Force Technical schools at Keesler Field, Biloxi, Mississippi and Laredo Army Air Base, Laredo, Texas; then had final training in Combat Crew Training school as an aerial engineer and gunner at Colorado Springs, Colorado, before he left for the theatre of war. After landing safely in England on June 28, 1944, he was sent to Northern Ireland where he completed an orientation course designed to bridge the gap between training in the States and combat soldiering against the enemy in France.

St-Sergeant Emil L. Grogg is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest E. Grogg, of Dunmore; six brothers, Charles, Merle, Edward Ray, Donald, Forrest, Jr. and Marion David; four sisters, Dorothea, Betty and Ruth Ann, all of Dunmore; Martha Mae, employed in Charleston; one brother, Pvt. Guy S. Grogg, in the Army, stationed in North Africa. Also numerous relatives and friends.

Somewhere in England
August 12, 1944.

Dear Mr. Price:

When I was home in Marlinton I often read letters from our boys overseas. Now I am writing you one myself and I hope you will print it in the Times. I am now back in England after being wounded somewhere in France. I am O. K. and am getting along fine. You probably do not know me so I will tell you who I am. I am the son-in-law of B. F. Long of Marlinton and I was living there when I was drafted. I would appreciate it if you will put this in the Times and I am sure Mr. Long will too. I am also sending you a poem I have written here in the hospital.

Thanking you very much, and in advance I am,

Yours truly,
Private Ralph D. Coberly.

THINGS I MISS

I miss my home in Marlinton,
I miss my friends so dear,
I miss everything so dear to me
Since I came over here.

I miss the singing of the birds
The humming of the bees;
I miss the hunting on the hillside
Among the rocks and trees.

I miss the buzzing of the old sawmill,
The tannery not far from the track,
I miss the gang at Wilb's pool hall,
But someday I'll come back.

I miss the things I did not know I loved;
I wanted to be on the run,
But there is no place I'd rather be
Than dear old Marlinton.

Lanty Phillips, S. 2-c. United States Navy, writes as follows to sister, Mrs. Ellen Hoover:
August 14, 1944

Dear Sis:
Thought that I would drop you a few lines. This leaves me O. K. and hope you all are the same. I guess you thought that I was not going to write but I have not had time. I have been moved again but we are not allowed to tell where we are but I would rather be back in the States.

Received your letter yesterday and sure was glad to know you were all well. For myself I am just fine. You said that you thought about me all of the time. Well don't think that I don't think of you all and home; that is all I can think of.

Tell Ruth and Joan that I cannot get the things they wanted until I come back in the States. You were wanting a poll parrot. I will get you two little ones if they will let me send them to you. They only cost two dollars a piece.

We have a lot of fun here but not as much as I had when I was home. Coconuts grow here and things grow the year around here. It is a nice place here.

Tell Lem I don't guess I will get to squirrel hunt this year but I sure would like to. Tell Bertha and all hello for me and give John and them my address and tell them to write to me.

Write to me real soon.
Your brother,
Lanty Phillips, S 2-c.

A Switch in Time saved Nine...

My wife wasn't all joking.

She said that a real new car improvement would be to go easing sideways, right into a cramped parking space at the curb. I said yes—maybe in 1950. There's one small improvement though, that's here already!—an oil-PLATED engine! You get that immediately by switching to Conoco Nth motor oil. I don't say it's the only oil; they're not hiring me. But I had this engine oil-PLATED around 1941. It's still running like a duck, using Conoco Nth oil all the while, to cut down damage from engine acids. If I knew what I've read all through this War, the acids made by every engine are liable to cause corrosion trouble. That's bad. But acids don't stop oil-PLATING—can't grow right through it. It's fastened real deep or out of plated auto waiting parts that you've got to protect all your new car comes. And even then you'll want the engine oil-PLATING with Conoco Nth oil, the same oil in the car you've got right now.

Our Army and Navy Boys

The following letter is from
Pvt. Geo. Rodney Siple,
Sunday, Aug. 30, 1944,
Fort Sill, Okla.

Dear Mr. Price:
I received a copy of The Times today and am writing to thank you or whoever sent it. It has been about sixteen months since I was in Marlinton or saw one of your very interesting papers. I had almost lost contact with all my old friends back there. The paper seemed to close the gap to some extent.

I hope to spend part of my first furlough in Marlinton, and get some cold drinking water once more. The water in Oklahoma is hot all summer, as is the air. The temperature has been around 105 to 110 degrees all summer.

I am training on the 155 m. m. Howitzers which is one of the most effective weapons used by the U. S. Field Artillery. This Fort is a very historic place and one tower still stands on Signal Mountain, that the early settlers used to spot the movement of the hostile Indians. This is the foremost artillery Training Center in the World at the present time. And artillery is playing a bigger part than ever before in our operations; so I am proud to be in this branch of the Service.

Tell all the folks on Camden Ave. hello, and to keep working and this war will be over sooner than most of the people think.

Very sincerely,
Pvt. Geo. Rodney Siple.

This letter is from Jesse A. Shinaberry U. S. Navy-S. F. Sc. New Caledonia,
August 20, 1944.

Dear Mr. Price:
This morning as I have some time I will try and write you a few lines. I haven't written for several months. Seems like there's always something to keep you going.

How's the weather back there by now? I saw in your paper where you all were having a dry spell like the year of 1930. I was not very big then, but

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sharp of Webster Springs, attended the Fair a couple of days.

Let these guys start it!

There's a day coming when the enemy will be licked, beaten, whipped to a fare-thee-well—every last vestige of fight knocked out of him.

And there's a day coming when every mother's son of us will want to stand up and yell, to cheer ourselves hoarse over the greatest victory in history. But let's not start the cheering yet.

In fact, let's not start it at all—over here. Let's leave it to the fellows who are doing the job—the only fellows who will know when it's done—to begin the celebrating.

Our leaders have told us over and over again that the smashing of the Axis will be a slow job, a dangerous job, a bloody job.

And they've told us what our own common sense confirms: that if we at home start throwing our hats in the air and easing up before the job's completely done, it will be slower, more dangerous, bloodier.

Right now, it's still up to us to buy War Bonds—and to keep on buying War Bonds.

Let's do that. Let's keep bearing down till we get the news of final victory from the only place such news can come: the battle-line.

If we do that, we'll have the right to join the cheering when the time comes.

So They Can Eat

PART of Southern States' operating territory has suffered drought damage as bad as last year's. To help farmers when they need help most, Southern States has done these three things:

1. Reorganized its Hay Purchasing Program to provide emergency hay at lowest possible prices. The Government is not subsidizing hay this year.

2. Lowered price of Southern States dairy feeds and poultry mixes. Manufacturing costs have been equated and Cooperative Service Agencies have voluntarily lowered handling margins. In some cases the protein content has been increased, which actually lowers ingredient costs. The result: Dairy feed has been reduced as much as $2 to $3 a ton, and the price of poultry mixes lowered somewhat too.

3. Opened its doors to new patrons . . . for the first time in two years, Southern States is in a position to accept feed business from new patrons with the assurance of protecting them up their future needs.

Corporal Arden "Pooley" Curry, son of Jailer O. B. Curry, who is now in a rest camp writes as follows to his friend, Mrs. Anna Thomas:

August 28, 1944.
Hello Mrs. Thomas:
Just a few lines to let you hear from me and assure you that you have not been forgotten. I hope this letter finds you in good health and enjoying life. I am okay and feel fine. I lost quite a bit of weight during the battle for Guam, but have begun to gain it back now that I can get some good chow and plenty of sleep.

It is sure not any fun trying to sleep in a fox hole that is about half full of water, with a million mosquitoes bothering you, and with lizards, ants, mice, coconuts, and other pests running over and swimming around you all night. But worse than that is the Japs. You are afraid to go sleep, afraid of one of those little yellow things will pile in your fox hole with you. They usually don't come to pay you a social call either, or at least they come with the idea of trouble, because they always have a rifle with a bayonet on the business end.

I have not told you but at least you should know by now that I was in on the invasion of Guam. I landed the first day with the Marines of the First Marine Brigade. You can take it from me that it is not any fun going on a beach and facing death any minute. Your best buddies are hit, but you cannot stay to help them, because you have to keep pushing forward with your unit.

Mrs. Thomas you cannot imagine the sights a fellow sees. I remember one incident where a young boy was hit in the stomach by shrapnel, and machine gun fire. He knew he was going to die, so he asked his best friend there to shoot him and relieve him of his pain. Of course he would not do it, or no one else around. Instead we got the chap laid to kneel by his side and pray for him, as he died. Later we came back and buried him. His grave is now marked with two bayonets crossed and placed at the head of his grave. That is only one of the many things that happened.

You never feel like eating and when you do the only thing you can get is rations, and believe me you soon get darn tired of them. For a slice of bread I believe you would cut a man's throat. The night I got back here is the first night I slept with my clothes off in fourteen weeks.

Of course it is not all horrible, because we had plenty of fun and lots of laughs. The Japs had plenty of beer, whiskey, saké and wine on the island. Did not need a ration stamp to get it either. Tell Roy he should have been there.

I had several letters from you waiting on me when I came back, also one package, and thanks a awful lot. The candy sure was welcome after such a long time without any. I saw "Dupey" (Emory Anderson, Jr.) there and he is O. K.

How is everything in the old home town? I have sorta lost out on the news from there. Are there any boys home on furlough now? Are they still taking them to the Army? Well there are a million questions I could ask you but I won't. Write real soon and give me all the dope. I am sending you a couple of Jap bills but don't try to spend them. Give Edgar, Maxine and Roy my best regards. Where is Tappan now? Oceans of love, "Pooley."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our many friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us in the loss of our grandson and nephew, First Lieutenant Donald Chittester Roman.
J. E. Chittester,
Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sharp.

Paul Vandervort Walton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Walton, of Benick, Greenbrier county, will soon be released from the San Fernando Naval Hospital in California, where he has been recovering from tropical fever and a wound received during a commando action in Sicily. He has spent the past ten months in the New Orleans and San Fernando naval hospitals and will receive a medical discharge from the Navy this month. Young Walton enlisted in the Navy in May 1942. During his four years of service he has been awarded the American Theater medal, the European-African-Middle Eastern Theater medal, the Asiatic Pacific Theater medal and for the action on Sicily the Purple Heart and Presidential Unit citation.

At a 12th AAF B-25 Base—Private Bert J. Riddle, son of Mrs. Rebecca N. Riddle, Route 1, Marlinton is a mechanic with a Twelfth Air Force B-25 Mitchell bombardment group which participated in the D-Day all out support of the invasion of Southern France.

Private Riddle's medium bombardment group supported the air-sea-land attack from a Base in Corsica, and worked in close support with all other Twelfth Army Air Force bombers, fighters and troop carrier aircraft.

The B-25 Billy Mitchell is held in France for eleven days prior to D-Day, knocking out their positions, destroying communications and transportation facilities and otherwise softening the German ground forces.

This B-25 bombardment group has figured in every major operation through Tunisia, Sicily and Italy.

In civilian life, Private Riddle was a woodman.

Sgt. Houston Eugene Simmons arrived home on Tuesday from Ft. Custer, Michigan. He is being transferred to Newport News.

Important

On account of the critical situation existing with reference to heavy duty truck and bus tires, Brickett L. Williams, Regional Administrator of the office of Price Administration, has requested the department to exert every effort to caution operators against exceeding the speed limit and to report all instances of excessive speed to the nearest OPA district office, which will take appropriate action through the Emergency Tire Board.

Company commanders are directed to make assignments as may be necessary so that one half of the time of all personnel of their respective commands shall be devoted to road patrol duty and will be responsible for the particular roads patrolled and the hours of day or night that such patrols are made so as to make a complete check on all vehicles using such tires in their company area.

Members assigned to road patrol duty are directed to give particular attention to and to exert every effort to detect such violations and to report all instances of excessive speed by letter in triplicate to the Superintendent through channels.

In addition to compliance with paragraph three, members assigned to road patrol duty will, as formerly, be responsible for the prevention of crime, apprehending criminals and law violators, investigating motor vehicle accidents, expediting traffic, assisting motorists, protecting life and property and performing all necessary police duties coming to their attention in the area which they are assigned to patrol.

Members not specifically assigned to patrol duty will be considered as assigned to general police work but will perform the duties of a member on patrol while traveling from one point to another in the performance of general police work when their service are not required for criminal work and when on the highway for any purpose will give particular attention to and exert every effort to detect such violations and to report all instances of excessive speed by letter in triplicate to the Superintendent through channels.

For the purpose of warning such operators the detachment commander will deliver a copy of this memorandum to each new paper in their detachment area.

The report by letter in triplicate directed by this memorandum is not intended to replace or change the manner or road law enforcement as directed by General Order 17, but it is for the purpose of preventing many war essential trucks and buses from being made useless through lack of tires.

For Governor

Clarence W. Meadows of Beckley, Democratic Candidate for Governor, opened his state headquarters at the Daniel Boone hotel in Charleston this week and launched a newspaper advertising campaign in which he urged the people to investigate his record and study his program.

"I want the people to dig into my past record, both as public official and private citizen," said Meadows, "and to study my program for future state improvements which I will discuss at length as the campaign progresses."

Meadows, former state attorney general and at present judge of the circuit court in Boone and Raleigh counties, expressed the belief that the people owe it to themselves and their children to look into the qualifications of men asking for their votes.

"I hope the people will investigate particularly my record," the Democratic candidate added. "I want them to give me the works, so to speak, for once they learn for themselves the things I have stood for and what I now stand for, I have full confidence in what their conscience will tell them to do."

Meadows, expressing the opinion that Democrats in the state are "confident but not over-confident," said he plans a vigorous campaign that will take him into virtually all of the 55 counties by November 7.

FIELD NOTES

That there painter cat is back again on Laurel Creek and Williams River. One Sunday night a few weeks back W. O. Riddle met up with it along the road below the Mason farm at the John Ad Run. He saw its eyes shining and could make out its form in the pale light of a half moon.

The big cat was loth to get out of the way, and the man had nothing to defend himself with but a pocket knife. The next morning several men noted the animal's tracks in the dust beside the road.

Just last week the body of a chunk of a deer was found on the abandoned railway grade on Little Laurel Creek. It had been killed, and partly eaten by some big animal.

A lady of the Laurel Creek neighborhood reports seeing a panther on two occasions in the past month. In color it was a muddy yellow.

No frost at Marlinton as yet, but falling temperatures around and below freezing. On the higher ground in the "frostless" belt, it has been warmer than on the river. Sunday afternoon a "sundog" was observed. This is a false sun. They say it is caused by sun rays reflected on ice crystals in the upper atmosphere. It is a cold weather sign.

French Johnson caught a mud cat fish a yard long in the Greenbrier somewhere below Marlinton. The weight was 22 pounds. Its mouth was eight inches across.

Down in the Kee Eddy, in the Greenbrier below Marlinton, big fish have been breaking lines and tackle generally. Jesse McNeill lost two lines. Some said it was big bass; others big pike. Then Dale Adkison came by and took out a five pound blue cat on a four ounce fly rod, so now they figure it is some able blue cats which have been taking hold and breaking things up.

Dink Moses, aged 12 years, caught one big pike in the Greenbrier below Marlinton, one night last week. He was using a plug for the first time. The weight was eight pounds, and it was 28 inches long.

The other day Dale Adkison had the head of a nine pound pike he had caught in the Greenbrier below Marlinton. Its length was right at 30 inches.

One day last summer, J. W. Jones and a number of friends were swimming in New River at Colleen Hill, Fayette County. They noticed a small brown animal darting in and out from a creek. It was a weasel and he was fighting a snake. The weasel had upon the approach of the men. They lifted the rock and found a big dead water moccasin. The weasel had chewed the snake's head until it was a bloody pulp.

Mrs. Paul Dean, of Franklin, Pennsylvania, is spending a few weeks with her sisters, Mrs. John Curtis and Mrs. Jim Shisaut, and brother, Charles Roman.

Bobby Dearing has returned to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dearing, after spending the summer in Franklin, Pa., with his mother, Mrs. Helen Dearing.

Woodrow, accompanied by his son and Floyd VanRosen, spent a week visiting her granddaughters Mrs. Howard Beverage of Baltimore, and Miss Viola VanRosen of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. George Cromer, Mrs. Ora Lambert and little daughter Doris Ann, Mrs. Baine Wooddel, Mrs. Roy Lambert and son Roy, Jr., Mrs. Follon Lambert of Boyer, and Mrs. Uster Lambert of Frank, were business visitors in Marlinton last Thursday.

Miss Daisy Moore has returned to Staunton after a three weeks vacation with home folks. She was accompanied back by her mother, Mrs. Graver Moore who will spend two weeks with her daughters, Miss Daisy, at Staunton, and Mrs. E. A. Hall, of Bridgewater, Virginia.

Arboreale—Misses Anna Lee Tracy and Ethel Roe Eye have returned to Greenville, Illinois, to reenter college. Miss Tracy expects to graduate in the spring.

PULAHONTAS TIMES

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR
THURSDAY, SEPT. 14, 1944

An important item of business this month and a personal, patriotic privilege as well, is to contribute to the raising of not less than $2,500 in Pocahontas County for the support of the United Service Organizations. These minister to our men in the Armed Services. Let the letter of Aubrey Ferguson, Pharmacist Mate, United States Navy, be our editorial this week. He wrote it to Harper M. Smith, the County Chairman.

Sunday Sept. 3, 1944.
Dear Harper:

I am spending the week-end in Chicago on liberty, and remembering your desire for a personal view of the U. S. O. at work for service men and women. I have come tonight purposely to one of the many clubs here, to drop you a line from "the scene."

This particular Club is located at Wabash & Monroe, and on the second floor of a large business building, the entire floor being donated by Norman F. Bensinger, a Chicago business man, for this activity.

At the door as I came in, I was met by a genial man who turned out to be a Mr. Henderson, a Salvation Army representative. His first inquiry was, "Can I do something for you?" And this seems to be the general attitude of all the Clubs and their workers—doing something for the men and women who visit them in such large numbers.

There are dozens and dozens of people in here at the moment. All around one side of the wall near me there are other writing desks who likewise are thinking of home and loved ones. And incidentally, most of them are not equipped with one of their own, are having the same struggle that I was having before my exasperation led me to change to this lowly pencil—that is, trying to make a public pen write!

It will be impossible to give you any more than a scant concept of the work of such a large club as this—for they undoubtedly do countless good things that do not readily present themselves to observation. But there is what I can see:

A snack bar, where good eats and drinks may be obtained at cost.

Cloak and check rooms for hats and wraps of military visitors and the civilian workers, including a bevy of attractive young women who are here to provide the feminine company so many men are looking for—and a corps of unassuming women, just a few years older, who act as hostesses and chaperones.

In one corner is a room marked "Camera Club," and here I was told a Service man may borrow a camera for that Chicago "excursion," and there is maintained a dark room and developer for finishing the pictures—one can either do it himself or it will be done for him.

Next is a work room where one can busy his hands making things from plastics and other materials. Then there is a Sketch corner with materials for the one with artistic inclinations. Many sample photographs and sketches show the work others have done in these two diversions.

A half-dozen ping pong tables are all in use on the other side of the room, and some are engaged in playing other games.

In the large ballroom a dance is in progress, with an orchestra providing the music. I noticed a juke-box which is probably employed when an orchestra is not present.

At a piano just back of me a girl is playing for a swim of fellows and girls who like to lounge. Since I have been sitting here their songs have expressed every desire from "A Girl Who Married Dear Old Dad" to "Will You Miss Me When I'm Gone?"

All over this side of the room there are comfortable chairs with cigarettes and ash trays nearby and the usual wide variety of magazines and papers.

At an information desk sits an attractive young woman who told me her name was Miss Adams, when I borrowed this pencil from her. So, if one doesn't see what he wants he can always ask Miss Adams! She was born at Beckley, W. Va.

An interesting feature is the "Spot Your Home Town" section consisting of cut out maps of every State in the Union, put upon a wall, with large-headed pins to be put in by visitors. Needless to say they are all well dotted with pins by now. I'll stick one the West Virginia map at the site of Marlinton just because it's one of the Nation's best localities!

Well, what more could anyone expect to get for the money they give in behalf of those who are serving their country?

I am to God Harper, that you have attempted to lead the drive again for the U. S. O. in Pocahontas county. You did a fine job of it last year, and you and your staff of volunteers, and all the generous people of the County may take my sincere word for it, that the work of the U. S. O. is unequalled in this war.

A friend of mine from West Virginia, Walter H. Fisher, Jr., of Charleston, just said to me the other evening, "I never realized till I got into the Service just what the U. S. O. is doing. It is hard for anyone else to realize the broad scope of its work."

That is true, but with so many to recommend it, I am sure that our people will not hesitate to give with such willingness that your drive will be put over the top—and quickly.

Very best wishes to you from one who is proud to be your friend.
Aubrey.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Pvt. Howard R. Doss writes from New Guinea under date of August 28, 1944.

Dear Cal:

This is a few lines tonight to let you know I am still alive, over here in New Guinea, and no matter how long I am over here I won't be able to forget about home and the folks back home. Hope everyone of them are well and happy and that the dry weather is all over. I know the dry weather must have cut the crops quite a lot.

Say Cal, there is something I would like for you to do for us boys who are from the county of Pocahontas and over here in New Guinea. I wish you would send me the addresses of some of them or all of them if you can. The most of us would like to get together once in awhile, but we are unable to, without the address. And APO number. Let me know if you can do this for us.

I have been writing Summers Dunbar for the last two weeks, having found his address in the home state address book at the "Red Cross," that is the only way we can find each other over here. I would like to have Ivan Barlow's address, if you have it handy.

I want to also let you know of my change of address and hope this is the last time I will have to worry you with this.

I am truly sorry to see by your paper, that we lost so many of our boys from our county at the start of the invasion. I send my deepest regrets to those who have lost loved ones and friends on that side of this War tired world, but let us hope they have not died in vain, as so many of our boys did in 1917-18. Let us hope the good old U. S. A. really wakes up this time and cleans out the two "rats nests" once and for all, and let as many of the boys come back to their homes again, as God sees fit to spare.

I must close for this time.
Pvt. Howard R. Doss.

Cpl. Forest H. Turner writes to his mother, Mrs. Nora Turner, of Frost, Panama.

Dearest Mother:
Well mother as I received two letters from you today I will try and answer them. They were the first I have received from you for a week, but as the air mail has not been going I did not expect any. So, if you have not heard from me for a week or so, you know why. Well I am pretty happy tonight, and enjoying myself. Mary sent me a box of cookies, so I am sitting here writing and eating cookies.

There is a soldier here that has a pet monkey; he is outside on the window sill begging me for more cookies. He is the smartest animal I ever saw; he will climb upon you and search your pockets for candy and gum. If you have any he will soon find it. I am going to have my picture taken with him sitting on my shoulder, hugging me and send you one.

Well mother, I'm glad you goaches to can, they are my favorite fruit. Mary said she had canned quite a few qts. Well, I will ring off, as I want to write to Mary. Take best care of your self. With love, from your son, Forest.

L. L. Dille, of Govington, Va. sends this letter from his brother, PFC. Kyle C. Dille who is serving in the Infantry somewhere in France.

Aug. 24, 1944.

Hello Lawrence & All:

I will drop you a few lines to let you know I am well yet. How are you all? Fine, I hope. I am getting the mail all right. I am in combat. I have been in five days and I have been up in the front lines. We've got the boys on the run now. I cannot tell you much news in a letter. I will tell you the news when I get home. I hope it will be soon. I hope to get the box of candy soon. You can send me candy any time.

Well the big guns are roaring now. Tell the rest of the folks hello for me, and keep the good work up. We will win the war soon.

I don't have any more news for now. I will close for now.
Love, Kyle.

Soldier Hughes M. Cook writes as follows to his wife from Guam in the South Pacific, under date of August 15:

My Dearest One:
Just a few lines in reply to your letters I have received since I have been here on the Island of Guam. I have gotten twenty-three letters from you since I came here but just have not had the chance to answer any of them until now. You know, I just can't fight the Japs and write letters at the same time. I did not get the letters from our daughter and your mother you mentioned in your letter; if I had I would certainly have answered.

This leaves me well and getting along fine. Hope this letter finds you and all the same.

I am sending you a bill of Japanese money as a souvenir. The bill is called a five yen piece. I will send your daughter a Japanese half yen (half-dollar) piece in paper, as that is the largest bill I have at hand as I write.

I want you to tell my buddy, Jess, that he should be here to go hunting with me. We have an open season here on Japs. There is no limit on how many you can kill in a day or a night.

Love to you and our daughter.
Your devoted husband,
H. M. Cook.

The following letter was received by Mrs. John Clark, from her son, James G. Quick, who is at Sea in parts unknown. He has been on the water since March and is now on the U.S.S. Scrogan, which is the fourth ship.

Dear Mom:

I received the Testament you sent me, and I like it very much. Mother remember the ship I came off? Well, a torpedo struck her mid ship and she went down in 4 miles. The Charles Lawrence got hit too; that was the other ship I was on. There were three ships I have been on struck, two sunk and one damaged. 31 men on the Darnell, D. E. 56 and 76 men on the Scrogan D. E. 53.

I sure am thankful that I was transferred in time. I don't like the ship I am on now and I am going to apply for a transfer. I don't know whether I will get it or not. I am sending you a picture of myself as soon as I have time to get some made.

Closing with love and the best of luck. Your son, Jimmy.

The following letter was received by Howard Ray from his son-in-law, Pvt. Reed Turner, who is serving overseas. Reed has been a member of the Armed Forces since Sept. 9, 1942. His wife and daughter are residing with her parents near Marlinton. Somewhere in China July 29, 1944.

Hello Grand dad and All:

As I am not doing anything at present I will try and write a V-mail letter to you for a change. The weather here sure has been hot and dry, but we had a good rain yesterday, and last night, which cooled the air off some, but it is still plenty hot.

There is not much going on here at the present time and nothing that we can tell. Suppose you are getting the news everyday over the radio, and that is about all I could tell even if we could write it. I am glad Velma took the radio down with her and was able to get a battery for it, as it will be a lot of company to her and Bunny as well as the rest of you.

We have been over here more than a year now, so it will not be very long until we can get home again. Really will be glad when that day does come. Take care of yourself and Velma and Bunny and write when you can. Some of these days, I will be home again.

As ever your son, Reed.

Air Force Service Command Station, England—Private First Class Claude A. Stimeling, Cass, W. Va., serves in a quartermaster truck company at this air base. Son of Mrs. Eula Blake, Cass, he aids in the delivery of vital war supplies needed to sustain the aerial offensive in Germany. A farmer prior to entering service in April, 1942, Pfc. Stimeling is now operating a vehicle. He has been overseas since February, 1944.

Mrs. Kate B. Ware, of Mingo, received the Purple Heart which was awarded her son, PFC. Okey P. Ware, for the honor of being wounded in the invasion of France on July 4th. We are glad to say he is recovering fast. Mrs. Ware has another son, Ole M. Ware, S.K. 20, of the Navy, somewhere in the South Pacific, who at last reports was getting along fine.

Pvt. Delbert Kerns of Butner, N.C. recently visited his friend, Miss Mary Simmons, at Marlinton. Also, parents and friends at Elkins. Pvt. Kerns has been over seas for two years.

Born in Col. and Mrs. Forrest H. Turner, September 3, 1944, a daughter, name, Doris Marie.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Daisy Simmons, of English from her son, Frederick G. Simmons, who has been serving in the United States Navy for two years and who has been over seas somewhere in New Guinea for almost a year.

Dearest Mother:
It is not easy to express in words the things that he deeply in our hearts, and a boy's love for his mother is deeply rooted there. On this Mother's Day, May 14, 1944, all the boys on board this ship want to remember their mothers. The long distances in space and time prevent us from seeing them or talking to them directly. Under the circumstances, we make use of the only medium at our disposal, namely the written word.

We know this letter is going to reach you weeks after Mother's Day has passed, but it will serve to tell you that we were thinking of you more than anyone else on that day. It is a kind of Thanks giving Day because millions of sons and daughters the world over are thanking their mothers for all they have done for them. They are trying to make them feel how much they are loved for all their motherly labors and such is the reason for this message of mine to you today.

Love shows itself in giving, in sharing the best we have with one loved dearest. Since we are so far apart, we can not send you even flowers or candy, or any of the other little things that in a very small way indicate our love for you. But we can give you something that is infinitely better and more lasting than all material things. I am remembering you by the prayers, the gratitude, the loyalty of a loving and devoted son.

Affectionately, Freddie.

DEAR MOTHER
Can't throw bouquets at you this Mother's Day, sweetheart. Can't shower you with other gifts Cause we're so far apart.

Can't write down why I love you, Tho' I have pen and pad, It would take a hundred pages And that would make the censors mad.

Can't even buy a card With a verse already on it. Can't make you, one myself, Cause I am no poet, darn it. So Mother dear, I'll only send This letter but I'll pray That next year we'll be together To celebrate the day.

Love, Your son, Freddie.

The First Egg

Is the signal to start feeding
Southern States Laying Mash

WHEN your pullets lay their first egg—then is the time to start switching from growing mash to Southern States Laying Mash. A good laying mash must do a double job for your pullets:

1—Supply raw materials for keeping up body weight and health.
2—Supply raw materials for producing eggs. Southern States Laying Mash does both of these jobs economically and efficiently because the formulas used are based on scientific research in State Colleges and Experiment Stations. . . because the best available ingredients, carefully balanced, supply the raw materials for growth, vigor and egg-making. We'll be glad to help you pick the Southern States Laying Mash best suited to your flock's needs.

Mr. and Mrs. Farmer, we know that you ask no praise, but we cannot let this day pass without saying what we know to be a fact: that your country is very proud of you and your deeds.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear husband and father, William Oscar Turner, who died on September 10, 1943:

Rest in peace dear husband, it is sweet to breathe your name, In life I loved you, In death I do the same. You are not forgotten, father dear, Nor ever shall you be As long as life and memory last. Some day we hope to meet you. When we have crossed to the heavenly shore, And clasp your hand in a better world To part no more.

His Wife and Children.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Chris. McLaughlin, who departed this life five years ago today Sept. 13.

One is the face we loved so dear Hushed is the voice we loved to hear; We cannot help but wonder why The best are always the first to die.

Often to the grave we wander, Flowers to lay with loving care; On the grave of our dear loved one, Who is sweetly sleeping there.

Could you ask us if we miss you? Yes, it fills our hearts with pain. But your spirit sweetly whispers courage We will meet again someday.

We don't know why you had to leave us, But we hope to meet you in the sweet bye and bye.

Mrs. Chris McLaughlin & Family.

11,000 post-war plans

Get it over with. Get back home. Get a job. This is what our fighting men are thinking and talking about.

First—victory. Next—nail down the peace. Then they want to throw off the rigid regimentation of military life—and not run into the same sort of regimentation back home.

They want to set out for themselves, as Americans always have... to use their own heads and hands in fashioning their own destiny.

A job and an opportunity—in the American system of free enterprise. This is the post-war plan of men in uniform.

They can't be expected to carry out the plan. It's up to every one of us at home to make sure they're fulfilled—eleven million of them.

Not just because it isn't railroad!

THE LIFE I LIVE

The following poem was written by the late Andrew Price and is reprinted in this paper at the request of Mrs. Page Sutton of Darbin.

The life I live, the life I prize
Seems tame to world-worn weary eyes;
Those frantic souls spurred on by lust,
For power and place till all is dust;
They never know the sweet release
Among the purple hills of peace.

I know not what the years may hold,
My dreams may fade if I grow old,
But this I know, each golden year,
Makes home, and friends, and life more dear.

Each year the heavens brighter gleam,
Each year enhances field and stream,
Come with me to the mountain height
Bathed in a flood of morning light.

On every side the mountains stand,
Awful, indomitable, grand,
Yet through an all-wise Thesmothee,
The wild flowers bloom about our feet.

I know I gaze with raptured eye,
On scenes that I once idled by,
I envy not the potentate,
The rich, the mighty, high and great.

My books, my friends, my mountains free,
Have been and are enough for me.

Believe it or not, I have actually received a message in black and white, asking me to write an editorial on this political turmoil now boiling.

Well, you know how it is in election years when we all go crazy, and most anything can happen. One election year we chose for our president Woodrow Wilson; four short years later we had gone so far down grade as to pick W. G. Harding. However, after going from bad to worse until we got Hoover, then a great popular upheaval gave us Franklin D. Roosevelt. Since then the people have played safe in keeping Roosevelt at the head of our nation without further experimenting with fourth, third and second class raters like Hoover, Langdon and Wilkie.

While the campaign is now merely beginning to take on form there are signs beginning to show that our great President Roosevelt is still as popular with the common run of people as ever he was. If I read this sign right, it means a great overwhelming of Governor Dewey, this fall like the defeat which befell Mr. Wilkie four years ago.

The guess is based on the premise that the great majority of the people of America are liberal in politics; that whatever else the busy thinking Mr. Wilkie might have been, he actually is progressive in his political views; that the liberal republican vote being joined to the reactionary anti-administration forces gave Wilkie a really respectable showing as number of ballots cast for him.

Now, it is not to be denied that the reactionary element of the republican party dominated their national convention through the thorough trimming of Mr. Wilkie in the party primary elections last spring. He was so beat out, he did not even put in appearance at the Chicago convention. No one can tell me that Mr. Hoover and his crowd who dominated this convention did not have complete understanding of and control over the nominee. Dewey did not stumble and take the nomination away from the bosses like Wilkie did at Philadelphia four years ago. Those old gray wolves are not taking a pig in a poke any more. So my guess is the liberal republican vote will not go to Dewey like it did to Wilkie.

The issues this political year are clearly drawn along logical lines—between liberal and reactionary policies. This is how it should ever be. A citizen should know for whom and for what he is voting. However, it is not always so. Just the other week the New York Times editorially deplored the fact that in 1920 Harding was able to work both the liberal and reactionary sides of the political street on the then live issue of the League of Nations.

Now, no presidential candidate since the days of Taft wants to be classed as a reactionary. The radically liberal third parties of 1912 and 1924 polled just too many independent ballots to come over since the most thick-skinned reactionary politician assume a pretense of liberalism. Where politicians have no strong points to present to the people, they take the safe route and once master politicians in the state, caluminate in the hope and expectation that some of the along mud would stick!

The opposition has pitched its campaign a bit low through the Roosevelt boss have been left out of it so far. The republican Congressman whose specialty was beating those fighting boys was kept at home this year by voters in his own party primary.

One loose-mouthed woman however did attempt to make an issue in the campaign by computing the tens of thousands of gallons of gas a plane would consume on trip such as Mrs. Roosevelt made to the South Pacific. A republican writer, who is a stand pat but honest, came out with the truth; that the lady traveled by planes which were making scheduled trips anyway; that one passenger more or less made no difference in the amount of gas burned.

Cropping up, too, is the lie long trumpeted about in Germany that our President had the war started to help take care of the unemployment situation.

Even the reactionary anti-administration Sat. Eve. Post appears to be sickened by such blather to such extent as to publish an editorial denying that President Roosevelt bombarded Pearl Harbor.

They have even rung in the President's dog as a live campaign issue. It took an Admiral of the Navy to lay the lie that a war vessel had steamed a thousand miles to find the poor lost dog.

It was all right for the late President Lincoln as commander in chief to visit his generals on the battlefields of Virginia; it is too expensive for Commander-in-chief Roosevelt to go to war areas in the Pacific to consult with the Admirals and Generals who are doing such grand work on the Japs. Mr. Churchill has been at the fronts in Italy and France. He and Mr. Roosevelt are now in Canada, further mapping out the war and the peace.

Support of the administration by contributions from Mr. Hillman was a pretty live issue until it came out that the same gentleman contributed liberally to Governor Dewey in one of his campaigns, and was asked for more of the same.

Such things merely emphasize the weakness of the opposition. Certainly such things cannot be expected to attract the great mass of independent voters now abroad in the land, nor to hold the really sizable liberal element in the republican party.

The big fight against President Roosevelt by reactionary democrats and republicans broke out like the measles last spring. There was more fuss and fury than actual power. Roosevelt stalwarts, like Pepper of Florida, won out in party primaries. Reactionary congressmen all along the line in both parties were defeated in the primaries. I would refer particularly to Senator Clark of Missouri, and Senator Smith of South Carolina, as outstanding examples.

Down in Texas last spring a fraud picked convention flew off the handle with the declaration that if the Chicago convention did not comply to the letter with their every want, wish and whim, they were off the reservation, and the Texas nominees for the electoral college would not be bound to vote for the choice of the majority of voters in the State. This is no new thing under the sun, for old pistol totting Aaron Burr pulled this bag of tricks to defeat Thomas Jefferson by throwing the election in the House of Representatives. Just last week, another State convention was held in Texas; it was overwhelmingly Roosevelt in sentiment. It looks like things will come straight again and the desires of the majority of the people will prevail even in the heart of Texas.

This brings me around to the future being raised over the suggestion to do away by Federal legislation with the payment of poll tax as a requisite to voting. These howls came from political bosses and their machines in the States where this system of keeping out the voters and keeping down the vote has kept said political bosses and their machines in power. While I am for poll taxes for roads, schools and general or special revenue in the smaller municipalities, the payment of such a tax as prerequisite for exercising the State given right to vote in elections is certainly not the American and New Deal way.

In our West Virginia we require no such qualification for voting, and my, how we do tumble bosses and would be bosses in either party now and then. Just across the mountain in old Virginia they have the poll tax payment as a qualification for voting and since the days of Billy Ma hone has it been a potent means of self perpetuation of political bosses and their machines. Here is a first hand illustration of the injustice of such qualification for voting. I know of a big landed estate on which the owner is delinquent in his taxes for several years—just as long as the law will allow and then some. This man pay his poll tax, so he can vote regularly but holds public office as well.

Of course, in this election as in almost every election of my remembrance democrats are fighting democrats. This is the strength as well as the weakness of our party. It has kept us out of office in many an election, but in the long run such an independence of spirit and voice has well served our country and the cause of democracy generally. Taking with complacently party dictatorship from political bosses and their machines is no way to serve the best public interest and a poor way to attract support of the great mass of independent voters and the really large liberal wing of the opposition party.

What makes the political bosses and their machines in both parties voice such bitterness against Mr. Roosevelt? Why that is easy; he has stood out and still stands against their selfish and often greedy wants and ambitions. The presidential bee makes every politician crazy. Mr. Lincoln said one of the symptoms of this mental distress was the aberration that the way to the presidential chair was over the political dead body of the one who occupied it. That can easily be explanation for a lot of insanity we see manifested in high places every four years.

After all, principles and not policies; issues and not propaganda should win elections. The record of Mr. Roosevelt, whether you like him personally or not, is truly great in the stress of twelve most trying years in our history.

Our Army and Navy Boys

The following letter was received by Mrs. Abbie Tacy of Casa, from her brother, Private Oliver H. Tacy who is stationed at Fort Pierce, Florida:

Dear Abbie:
I received your letter yesterday and was glad to hear from you and to know you and all the rest were well. Was I glad to hear that George got his furlough? I bet he is as big as a skinned mule isn't he? Tell him I said for him to be a good boy, ha! Also tell him I will try to come to see him when he gets back to camp. It is 400 miles from here to Savannah. I bet you were scared to death when you got in that plane wasn't you? Well Florida surely is beautiful. All the coconut and palm and banana trees. I like it just fine here. I have already gotten used to the heat.

I received your letter yesterday but just didn't have time to answer it. I was working hard. I have been working all day loading a train car, but I can't tell you what I was putting on it, as it is a military secret.

Boy! I wish you could see the beautiful ocean in the evenings when the tide starts coming in. Fort Pierce is the most beautiful little city I have seen. It has been built up mostly since the war started. They have skating rinks and everything here. This island is completely surrounded by water. The salt water tastes kind of funny though. It don't have the taste of good old West Virginia water. I am about 1500 miles from home now, but I am not a bit lonesome for the people here in Florida as clever as they can be. I think we will be here six months. I hope so any way.

Have you seen Emma lately? When you see her, tell her I said hello. Well news is scarce, I can tell you more when I get home. I will close wishing you the best of luck.

Oliver.

Mrs. Virgil Gladwell of Hillsboro sends in the following letter from her brother, written to her Father, N. T. Hollandsworth, by Pvt. Dale Hollandsworth from somewhere in France:

Hello Dad:
How are you by now? I guess you will be surprised to hear from me. I hope you are feeling fine. I am sitting in a wheat field in France writing this letter. I just came back from the front. I was up there several days and things has been pretty hot up there, but I made out O. K. This is a beautiful country. But there is not much left of it. When we go through, cities and towns are pretty well torn down. The Germans have no chance. We don't have to worry about their Air Force, only at night. They have a few planes out at night. Then is when we have to be careful. I don't think it will be long until it is over.

My family is getting along fine. I wrote Mary a letter but I have not heard from her, it takes mail so long to get to me.

Well Dad, don't worry about me. I am one of those guys who are coming back from this war, so take good care of your self, I want to see you when I get back home. Love to all.

Dale.

Mr. J. G. Beard, of Marlinton, received the following letter from his son, Lieut. J. G. Beard, Jr., who is serving with the U. S. Army in Italy:

Hello Dad:
I've been moving around a little since the last time I wrote you. Right now we're living in "I Duce" territory and confidentially he can have it. We're set up pretty well here. I have a good bunch of boys to fly with, and some boys on the ground, who really know how to keep an air plane "in the pink." We're flying the P-51 Mustang and that's the ship I've been "sweating" for two years. It is the answer to a boy's prayer. Just about the hottest thing that ever flew.

I have been on eight missions and have seen quite a bit of Hitler's territory. The old Hun has his back to the wall and the Russians are tearing the wall down. However, they still have plenty of power and we aren't underestimating their strength, not for a minute.

I will send you some snap shots of me and my ship in a few days. I would like to have Joe over here keeping my guns in shape, but seems he's stuck in Texas.

I hope you're in good shape. Let me know how things are coming up there. Don't bother "salting" a buck for me this year. I've got to "salt" a few Jerries first.

Just Jack.

Pvt. Harry Keene, writes from Camp Stewart, Georgia:

Hello Mr. Price:

Just to say I am well and okay. I got back to Camp on time, after seeing you in Watson State Park Sunday August 19. I returned here August 24th. I sure enjoyed myself while home in those W. Va. hills, and I plan to be back to stay some time. The South is O. K. for Christmas vacations but I don't think it would suit very well for a permanent home. Frankly and not bragging, I can't be slow enough to be a citizen in this climate.

I had better sign off by saying I'll send you a good tale for your paper some time.

My new address is
Pvt. J. H. Keene, 35077574,

Camp Stewart, Ga.

Staff Sergeant L. S. Geiger, of the Army, stationed in Texas, was home last week at Stony Bottom. He is a son of the late Squire John M. Geiger. He is a veteran soldier of six and a half years' service. In this war he has been training infantry to a fare you well. I asked him if he had trained West Virginia boys. He said most of the men he helped train came from New York and New England.

Speaking about training men for war service, the Sergeant said there was plenty of responsibility on the part of the soldier training raw recruits if he wanted to shoulder it and do the right thing by men coming into his hands. Actually the proper teaching ment so often the difference between life and death the properly trained soldier knows how to take care of himself and his fellows as well in camp and on the battle line.

Sergeant Geiger has proper pride in his work, as he was made to realize by reading of the experience of a man from Texas who had come under his care from the beginning, to be taught right face. He was a paratrooper in Normandy; behind the German lines he fought a one man war until his leg was terribly mangled with a bursting grenade. Then the Germans took him prisoner. They searched him for all weapons but overlooked a knife he had concealed somewhere about his person. As two stretcher-bearers were carrying the wounded man to a first aid station, he came to, killed both the Germans with the knife and started crawling toward the advancing American line. He finally made it, but his leg was so badly infected, it had to be amputated.

With all the many hundreds of Pochonts County boys in the service, and so many of them on the active battle fronts and the list of casualties still down to a comparatively low number, Sergeant Geiger remarked that it was a sign of good men properly trained.

The following letter is from Denny W. Sharp, who is with the U. S. Forces in New Hebrides:

Dear Mr. Price:

Well as I sit here in the hut with a few minutes of spare time, I will write you a few lines. It sure is a lot different being here in one of these islands than being back in the good old United States.

I receive The Times here. It sure helps to break a lot of monotony in the spare time I have. Which at one time was just another paper, but sure means a lot now.

This is a pretty nice island I am on, but at that nothing to brag about. We have pretty good food and very good living quarters. I left the States on the twenty-first of May and have been on this island since.

I was at home at this time last year, but haven't been back since. There is one boy still with me from West Va.—John Matheny, from Greenbank, and I saw another fellow from Marlinton that I knew before I entered the Service. His name was Harry Wilfong—Sedbert Wilfong's son. I was on my way out of the Sick Bay one morning and he hollered at me. I was surprised to hear anyone call me by my first name, because all the boys I knew called me Sharp or "Shorty" so I knew it wasn't one of them.

And for women here, I haven't seen any beautiful ones yet like you read about. There are a few natives here, and they are always trying to sell you something. The person who taught them to speak the English language taught them to say five dollars instead of one.

Well, guess I had better close for this time, so just keep The Times coming.

A friend,
Denny W. Sharp, Sp (M) 3C.

CAMP CARSON, Colorado.—S. Sgt. Carl L. Rosberg, Co. H, 201st Infantry, son of Mrs. Lillian Johnson, Boyer, W. Va. has just recently returned to Camp Carson after participating in an experiment conducted by the Quartermaster Corps, Medical Department and Ground Forces to determine how soldiers fare on an exclusive diet of emergency rations.

Six companies from the 201st Infantry Regiment commanded by Col. James H. O'Reilly, have been in the Pike national forest for eight weeks undergoing the test. One of the companies, a "control unit," lived on a field ration. The others ate assorted emergency rations for various periods to see how they compared physically with those of the control unit.

The war department needed some idea of how men would get along on field rations for extended periods in view of conditions arising in this war where men may spend weeks in forward or isolated positions beyond the lines of normal supply.

All the men were in excellent physical condition when they started the experiment and finished the test in even better health.

Sergeant Rosberg has a brother Oscar H. in the Navy. Sergeant Rosberg attended Greenbank High School, Greenbank, W. Va.

CAMP WOLTERS, Texas.—Pvt. Hugh Young Jackson, 22, husband of Mrs. Lucy Amanda Jackson of Marlinton; Pvt. Wallace Gatewood Lightner, 22, son of Anna Florence Lightner, of Dunmore, and Pvt. Alva Hugh Stewart, son of Ruby Sue Stewart of Marlinton, have arrived at this Infantry Replacement Training Center to begin his basic training as an Infantryman. They have been assigned to a battalion strong in rifle heavy weapons—specialist training.

Sgt. Roscoe H. Cogar of Warren, Ohio, is spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cogar. Sgt. Cogar has been stationed at Orlando Florida, for the past two years.

15th AAF in Italy—St. Sgt. Frank B. Crigger, 25, Huntersville, W. Va., has received official recognition in orders it was announced by the 15th AAF Headquarters. In the words of the citation which accompanied the award of the Good Conduct Medal, Sgt. Crigger's work has "demonstrated fidelity through faithful and exact performance of duty, and efficiency through capacity to produce desired results."

Sgt. Crigger is in charge of engineering records of a B-24 bombardment squadron in Italy. His unit participated in repeated aerial assaults against Nazi industrial and transportation centers in France, Romania, Austria and northern Italy. Before entering the service on February 21, 1943, Sgt. Crigger was employed as a timekeeper.

"Injuries and wounds that the men are receiving at the battle-front don't suddenly heal with good news from the war front areas," Lt. Patricia Powers of the Women's Army Corps said. And neither do our responsibilities toward these men stop now. We need thousands of women to perform hundreds of different jobs in army hospitals from coast to coast and from border to border of these United States.

Women with a high school education, with no children under 14, women of good health and high moral character who enlist for work with the medical department of the army of the United States are being sent to Wakeham General Hospital, Camp Atterbury, Indiana, upon completion of basic training at Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

High school and college graduates are wanted—women who want to help the men who have fought our battles in Italy, France, the South Pacific, and now lie in long rows of hospital cots.

Full information about the course, requirements, and training for work with the Medical Department of the U. S. Army may be obtained from Lt. Patricia Powers, U. S. Army Recruiting Office, 404 Raleigh St., Bluefield, W. Va. Phone 5512.

Gadgets? I love 'em.

A periscope on cars, instead of the little old mirror?... Doors that slide?... Or a sunshine top? Bring 'em on! Till then, however, my one main idea is to keep this car rolling. I need to. You can start naming motor oils or anything else that you think's helpful. First though, I want to warn you not to let engine acids do their worst damage, when you can easily outsmart them by getting your engine's insides OIL-PLATED. Listen, right on a can of Conoco Nth motor oil you'll read about Nth oil's modern synthetic. It works something like magnetism. That's how it makes metal surfaces keep hold of OIL-PLATING. Then what if the engine explosions produce deadly corrosive acids, as every expert and his brother will tell you? Those acids still wouldn't gnaw direct at fine steel that's shielded by OIL-PLATING—a real acid-fighter! It fights for your car. While waiting for new ones—who knows how long?—don't delay switching to Conoco Nth oil.

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL

It means something to all these people when you buy a War Bond

WHEN YOU BUY a War Bond, it affects a great many people.

FIRST, it buys weapons for the American boys overseas.

SECOND, it encourages our fighting allies, by demonstrating that the American people are in this scrap to the finish.

THIRD, it brings cheer to the starving and oppressed in Nazi-occupied territories, because it means a quicker end of hunger and tyranny.

FOURTH, it discourages Hitler and Tojo—and is a punch at the morale of the German and Japanese home fronts.

FIFTH, it helps to guarantee peace and liberty to future generations of Americans.

AND THE BLANK SPACE? Put yourself in that picture. For when you buy a War Bond, it certainly means as much to you as to anyone else in the world.

It's a wonderfully advantageous way to invest your money. It pays $4 for every $3 you put in. It's safe. And it'll give you a financial nest egg—a nest egg you can use after the war for such things as buying a home, educating your children, and traveling.

So buy more War Bonds right now—TODAY!

Let's all KEEP BACKING THE ATTACK!

Clearwater, Fla.

Being a Pocahontas man and at one time a hunter and fisherman, I like best of all in your paper, the stories of fishing and wild life. I would like to submit some wild life narratives for your paper, but the sort of wild life most widely encountered here is altogether non-romantic nor enchanting as everyone knows, which variety consisting mostly of the all too numerous species of mosquitos, ants and roaches. I should also mention our climatic conditions here as well—the temperature being nearly one hundred and not much below at night.

Florida also, has its advantages and good things—the waters of the Gulf as a refuge from the heat, the stately palms, and last but not least, Orange Blossoms.

Yours truly,

J. W. Sutton.

HONORED FOR HELPING BLIND—Representative Randolph, Democrat, of West Virginia received a plaque from Wade Mitchell, vice president of the National Society for the Blind, in recognition of his sponsorship of the Randolph-Sheppard Act to improve the economic condition of the blind. Blind Rehabilitation

Leads Pay Honor to Randolph at Dinner

Fifty leaders in blind rehabilitation work turned out last night to honor Representative Randolph, Democrat, of West Virginia, co-author of the late Senator Sheppard's act of a bill to improve the economic condition of the blind. Wade Mitchell, vice president of the National Society for the Blind, which sponsored the dinner meeting in the Mayflower Hotel, presented a plaque to Representative Randolph "on behalf of the 2,500 blind who operate vending stands, 3,000 who earn their living in private industry and hosts of others who are without sight."

Joseph Chubb, chief of the national Rehabilitation, reported that up to the enactment of the Randolph-Sheppard bill in 1936 there was no agency to consider employment of blind persons. He said there are now 346 concession stands operating in Federal buildings.

Mr. Clunk, however, emphasized that much remained to be done and predicted if rehabilitation work was done properly, within 10 years persons who have lost their sight will be regarded the same as any one else with a personal income.

Dr. J. E. Blaydes, Bluefield, W. Va., told how he found 44 persons who could be helped by surgery in West Virginia in 1938, and with the support of Representative Randolph, then governor of the Lions Clubs for West Virginia, arranged for operations. He reported 20 of them regained enough sight to go into public schools, 10 had enough to go into industry and the remaining eight had travel vision.

Paul McNutt, Federal Security Administrator, called the Randolph-Sheppard Act a "liberal, practical application of democratic ideals." He added the problem of selling blind workers to employers should be comparatively easy in the future as a result of the splendid record now being compiled.

Dr. Harry Best, University of Kentucky sociologist and author of one of the leading books on the blind, said the public has shown "an unbelievable lack of intelligence" in dealing with the blind and is just now beginning to understand them as it should have done long ago.

A motion picture showing various types of work which can be performed successfully by the blind was shown. It was prepared by John E. McCullay, industrial specialist for the blind in the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 28, 1944

Superintendent Arthur A. Wood of the Monongahela National Forest, was around over parts of the nearly a million-acre national forest area last week on an inspection tour. He was accompanied by W. E. Hedges, of the regional headquarters office, now in Philadelphia. Mr. Hedges is native to the Greenbrier Valley, and he is a forester of long experience. At one time he was superintendent of our Monongahela National Forest.

In the regional office Mr. Hedges has supervision of the important and highly commendable and rankly socialistic work of doing what is possible to help out people stranded when the government takes over lands for public forests. These are usually tenants or squatters on the holdings of large companies. The number of such stranded people on the Monongahela Forest is small as compared with the Cumberland, for instance. The idea is to get such families down out of the heads of hollows to public owned lands better adapted for family keep, close to churches, schools and civilization generally.

Twenty or thirty years ago, such humane practice was not to be thought of. Squatter families were moved out regardless, and the miserable huts and shacks burned. They surely did clean out of the forests undesirable tenants, but it created hardship and social problems and expense for communities into which they were thrown. Now the Forestry Service is facing like a man its responsibility as a good neighbor to this stranded population and the surrounding neighborhoods generally.

In its wholesale buying, the government did acquire an occasional tract of land here and there which is as well adapted to farming as it is for forest. In straightening out and consolidating national forest boundaries more of such land will be acquired in the future. It has already been found by fixing up nice home steads on such lands and bringing in stranded and neglected people and requiring that they keep up such property and themselves by specified good farm and household practice, that a really large percentage of these people improved their standing socially and materially. Socialism of the rank sort, you say! Why sure it is, the same rank kind of socialism as public schools and public roads, and conservation of natural resources, and such like. We are all for them.

Speaking about National Forests, I see in the papers and hear over the radio how Lawyer Dewey, the prosecutor, took the Roosevelt administration severely to task for acquiring land for national forests. He seems to want it returned to the States. I hear tell there is a plank in the Republican platform which might be so good to mean this, if anything.

Lawyer Dewey, the prosecutor, seems to have been hearing down especially hard on the Roosevelt administration for accepting a gift from John Rockefeller to the Government for a public monument several hundred thousand acres of land in the Jackson Hole somewhere out west in the Yellowstone National Park country. I happen to know this was the wintering ground of the thousands of elk and deer which summer in those high mountains, to be driven down in winter by deep snow to lower grass lands. Thrifty ranchers fenced the Jackson Hole country and the poor animals perished until it was a shame, and threatened the utter extinction of the great herds of elk. It was a ticklish local political problem, and Congress side stepped. The Coolidge administration took the matter up. The Rockefeller family has proved the good angel to many a cause, including the Republican party. Let me take room for the side remark however that most of the Rockefeller backed causes are all to the good, for the advancement and happiness of mankind.

Anyway, Rockefeller bought the winter range of elk and deer, gave it to the United States, for a public monument, with the result the valuable wild animals, once threatened with extinction, are now increasing greatly in number.

I will admit that such fine public service is what we have learned to expect from the Roosevelt administration, but it must be admitted that the late Mr. Coolidge, with the aid of Mr. Rockefeller, did do the right thing in this particular instance.

Here I go branching off from a field note to skin a political snake. I humbly beg your pardon, for here is a snake story.

Clifford I. Sharp, who lives at the tunnel on the Greenbrier a dozen miles above Marlinton, took a little walk in Marlinton town the other day. The wild cats had been killing lambs for him all summer, and it was his day to look for them. He carried his rifle.

On a south hill side in an open spot where a big pitch pine had been turned out of root, he saw a big black rattlesnake all knicked up in the sun. Looking closer, he made out a big copper head neatly coiled beside the rattler. Looking more carefully, the open spot was literally covered up by dozens of little, month old baby rattlers; dirty gray in color and about fifteen inches long.

While looking around for a long like stone to drop on the big rattler and copperhead to get both snakes at one stroke, the big rattler crept off to the hole left by the old tree, followed by a number of the baby rattlers. Mr. Sharp did drop the long stone. It crippled the big copperhead, and crushed the life out of several of the little ones. It also stirred up a nest of yellow jackets. One of the hot little stingers stung Cliff on the bare arm, and for a second he knew he was snake bit, and badly bitten.

Mr. Sharp then put the copperhead out of business with a well placed rifle bullet; killed as many little rattlers as he could find and then proceeded to get himself a long bull-horn pine knot to work on the snakes in the hole. As he put the stick in the hole, he thought he saw a flash like a snake striking at it, but he could not be sure. Pulling the stick back, he knew he had caught something. And sure enough he had—two big yellow rattlesnakes. The snakes had hooked their poison fangs into the splintery wood, and were hauled out in the open, before the needle-like cat-claw fangs were pulled out or broken off.

Cliff killed these snakes and puched around in the hole for more. He could feel snakes in the hole, so he took a few shots with his high powered rifle gun. With his prodding and with his shooting, before he got too sick from the noisome smell of poison snakes, he checked in on a total of twenty-two little rattlers, four really big rattlers and one copperhead—a total of twenty-seven in all.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Noonan, of Clover Lick, send in this letter received from their son, Corporal Ralph Noonan, a paratrooper, who was recently wounded in France:

England, July 26, 1944.
Will write you a few lines to let you know that everything is just fine with me. Some of the boys are going back to the States in a day or two and I am sending this letter with one of them so they cannot cut it all out.

Yes, Dad, we jumped in France June 6th. We sure had a big time. I jumped 18 miles from the jump field. You can guess what a time I had. There were damn Germans everywhere you looked. We got some of them. I was back of their lines 12 days before they got me. They took us to Cherbourg and put us in a prison camp. They could not get us out of France and into Germany for the Yanks had them cut off. That is all that saved me from being a prisoner of war in Germany today.

I was a prisoner five days before I got hurt. A Yank shell hit me. The Germans took me to their hospital and sure were good to me. I was in their hospital four days before the boys took Cherbourg. I did not get hurt very bad. Got 12 little holes in my hide, ha ha. One hit me in the knee and they had to take it out. I am almost well now.

I will have a lot to tell you all when I get back. Guess I had better close this time. You and Mother take good care of your selves. Tell Roundie he should have been along.

As ever, Ralph.
Mr. and Mrs. Noonan have received a telegram from J. A. Clutter, the Adjutant General, reading as follows:

"Am pleased to inform you that your son Corporal Ralph L. Noonan returned to duty on August thirty-first."

FSA For War II Veterans

Veterans of World War II are applying for assistance to Farm Security Administration in increasing numbers in reestablishing themselves on farms, reports R. G. Ellyson, State director, Farm Security Administration.

Ellyson reveals that a late state survey shows that 22 recently discharged veterans had made application to county FSA offices to buy farms, or to buy equipment and livestock needed in establishing themselves in farming. In addition, he states, 117 other men still in the armed forces have contacted FSA county offices and advised that they would be seeking credit and supervisory assistance to reestablish themselves on farms when they are discharged from the service.

Two farm purchase loans have already been approved to World War II veterans in West Virginia, and rehabilitation or farm operating loans have been made to 49 more. Several applications were received too late to enable veterans to begin farming this year, but will be in a position for preferred handling for the next crop year.

The assistance offered to returning veterans through the FSA program is in addition to financial assistance to veterans authorized by the G. I. Bill of Rights recently passed by Congress. The FSA program supplements the assistance offered in the G. I. Bill by providing credit and on the farm guidance when needed.

Many veterans of the first World War, who had never achieved any degree of success at farming, have become successful farm operators and owners in the past nine years with the help of credit and guidance furnished by the Farm Security Administration. A total of 562 veterans of the first World War are now borrowers of the FSA in West Virginia, and a great many more have been borrowers during the past nine years have paid off their loans and are now operating with out FSA assistance. The recent survey shows that 40 veterans of world war I in the state have purchased farms of their own under the farm ownership program of FSA and a far greater number are operating farms with loans from the FSA in the rehabilitation program, with family type farm ownerships their goal.

Ellyson says the FSA is endeavoring every possible way to help the returning veterans who desire to reestablish themselves on farms. Loans can be made to applicants who have a farm background or have had sufficient farm experience to operate a farm. They must be able to show they cannot obtain the assistance needed through banks or other credit agencies. There is a county FSA advisory committee in every county, composed of three practical farmers who review and pass on all applications received in their county and are giving special attention to the need of the returning soldiers who wish to return to the farm.

The guidance and personal help given by these committees and the county FSA supervisors are in many instances of much more value to the veteran and his family than the loan money involved. Without the loan it would be impossible for them to refinance their start in farming, and without practical guidance and on the farm help in planning their operations, they often would be unable to succeed and repay their loan.

The Storm Tossed World

Jesus was out on the sea one day with his disciples and he went to sleep. A terrible storm came up and the boat rocked and tossed, and the disciples became frightened lest they should perish. Their faith lowered with the intensity of the storm, so they awoke Christ and said to him, "Carest thou not that we perish?" and he calmly answered, "O thou of little faith." So he said to the storm, "Peace, be still." And there was a great calm.

In this world of sin and wickedness there is a terrible war raging like a terrible storm. The cause of the war is sin, greediness, selfishness, ungodliness, pride, lust of the flesh, of power, and other things which keep Christ from saying to the curse of war, "Peace, be still."

The war is just one way of punishing a sin-cursed world. Instead of repenting and turning to Him who is the Prince of Peace we just go on with the war of hate, bloodshed, suffering, and sacrificing our loved ones on the field of battle. Christ said, "I came into this world not to destroy but to save that which is lost."

Satan came into this world to destroy homes, property and souls, by deceiving the people by saying that might makes right. But Christ said, "It is not by might nor power but by my spirit, saith the Lord." The Lord said, "Render not evil for evil, also Christ said, "Be not overcome with evil but overcome evil with good." Christ said in Matthew 5, 38-42, "It has been said an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, but I say unto you love your enemy, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you."

I plead with all humanity to try Christ's way so he can say to the storm "Peace, be still."

Christ said, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." He wants us to repent and turn from our wicked ways and he will heal our land and cleanse us from all unrighteousness. Christ's yoke is easy and his burden is light, if we follow him.

So in this hour of darkness and uncertainty and while we are burdened to the limit with war debts and suffering caused by sin, it behooves us to turn from our wicked ways and repent.

"If my people that are called by my name would humble themselves and repent, I will hear from Heaven and heal their land and cleanse them from all unrighteousness."

Have not the various national leaders through the centuries failed to lead the world out of its dilemmas of periodic wars? May God be the Judge.

—Carson A. Porter, Rd 3, Meadville, Pa., member of the United Brethren Church.

Let Him That Heareth Say Come

If we are a Christian we do as Jesus did. He was not afraid to speak. Neither did he hide. He was busy every day. Walking in the narrow way. His Creator to obey. And was proved and tried.

Pleatuous the harvest but the laborers are few. Jesus uttered these same words. Therefore they are true. There is a great multitude who have not yet understood. But the Master called them good. Matthew, twenty-four.

Many are the hidden ones who make light of it. And walk off the other way. Or just yawn and sit. They refuse to take a part. They have shunned it from the start. Showing themselves wrong at heart.

Lo, the harvest field is white, And the end is near. Not the end of time, no, no. Nor this earthly sphere. But the end of Satan's rule. Over those who he can fool. Into acting as his tool. Others to ensnare.

If we are a Christian we cannot be at ease. Doing nothing or conte off. To do as we please. But in God's word we have faith. And are searching for the truth. To declare it with our mouth. And give God the praise.

Help Some One You Know Through the USO

1944 National War Fund

Beginning September 15, our Pocahontas County is asked again for $3,500 for Our Own and Our Allies through the USO.

Mr. Harper Smith
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear Mr. Smith:
I know you will be surprised to hear from me, but the wife wanted me to write you something concerning the USO. But before you go into that I certainly hope you, Mrs. Smith, your mother-in-law and your daughter are enjoying the best of health this summer. I hear it has been quite hot there this summer.

Mr. Smith, I don't think enough can be said about the USO. Of course I haven't been in too many cities since I have been in the service but I can tell you about the ones I did have occasion to visit. I have visited the USO in Williamsburg and Richmond, Va., and Long Beach, San Pedro, Los Angeles and Hollywood, Cal. They all seem to be doing everything that can be done to help service men, from making phone calls for him to getting him a bunk to sleep. I would like to say right here, of the several places I've visited, Hollywood is my choice. The USO is well and I don't think a service man could ask for more other than being home. I think the reason it is so homelike is the attitude the civilians have toward us. If a man cannot find a place to sleep in a regular service center he will generally be taken to a civilian home. Very few, if any of them will ever charge a cent.

The USO here works right along with the YMCA and YWCA, which makes it very nice in one getting a place to stay when on liberty. One can get a bunk for the night for fifty cents, which is a nice price with clean linens, soap and towels furnished. Plenty of showers and places to wash our clothes; dancing floors, ping pong tables and pool tables. There is always a large writing room and plenty of stationery.

Most of the USOs out here have free sandwiches and coffee which is more than I can say for Richmond, Williamsburg. Enough cannot be said about the ladies who work, making San Pedro, California.

Why should we not support the USO to the limit? Why shouldn't we give the boys all the happiness we can? After all, OUR happiness is what they are fighting for, isn't it?

Our Army and Navy Boys

R. H. Elliott, of Boyer, sends the following letter from his son, S. Sgt. Rufus J. Elliott, who is serving in England:

Dearest Mother, Dad and All:
I will write you a few lines again. I received your letter on August 15th. Sure was glad to hear from you. Hope this finds everyone well at home. I just fine.

Well I guess you were glad to get done with the hay. Hope I can be there next year to help you. You may have to teach me all over again, ha! After two years I may have forgotten all I knew about farming. About all I know now is to climb into an airplane and hope that it will take off. ha!

Maybe I will have to get me one after the war.

Well Dad you must have had a pretty good load on the truck when you went to Marlinton. Say does mother allow you to load it like I did? But maybe I wasn't a good boy and didn't listen to mother. When I get back I sure will. No one misses their parents until they are away for awhile and I already realize that myself. Well when you see Frank tell him I said hello, and and them others. Tell him I have a couple of pet ones over here, only they are two legged ones.

Well mother, I sure hope to be there to open those cans for you. I'll even go to the cellar and get them for you. ha!

How is Grandma by now. Tell her hello and I wish her a happy birthday.

I sure have a lot of letters to write, they sorta piled up on me while I was in Scotland. I have received a few copies of The Times. I got the one where the piece was about me. I guess I will have to write Mr. Price a letter sometime.

I believe this is about all for this time. Hope to hear from you soon again.

Your son, Junior.

PFC. Loran S. Jordan writes from "Somewhere in India" under date of September 4th:

Dear Mr. Price:

I hope that you will not be too awfully bored with this letter, but as I had a little time, I thought I would arrange a few words for you. I received three copies of The Times the other day, and boy they sure was real news from back in good old West Virginia. There sure was some real good letters from the boys that I'm serving over seas; and I hope that there will never be any misfortune fall to anyone of them.

I received a letter from my sister-in-law to-day and I sure was real sorry to hear of Emile Grogg getting killed in France. He was a real good boy and I am sure he will be missed by everyone that ever knew him. There's quite a few boys here in this outfit from West Virginia, and they sure have what it takes to be a soldier. I have had boys from back in the good old USA write to me and say, "Boy, I wish I were over there with you."

But I'm sure it wouldn't be very long until they would want to be back in the States. I know that we are getting real good eats over here, as we have a change from day to day. To-day, we had Corned Beef, and tomorrow we will have Spam. When they're late it from day to day it isn't so bad at all. We just shut our eyes and think we are eating good old West Virginia ham, and enjoy our meal to the fullest.

When does school start this fall? I have a boy to go to school this winter and it sure makes me homesick at the worst stage not to be there with him. I sure hope this war ends soon, for I have three of the sweetest babies, and their mother is what I call an ideal wife. It sure is hard to have a stay over here away from my family, but you know the army. Tell my wife and babies hello for me and that I hope to be home with them before so very long now.

Best of luck always,
Loran S. Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cain, of Frost send the following letter from their son, Pvt. Arthur A. Cain, who is serving in France:

Dearest Mother & Dad:

Will write you a few lines to let you know I am well at the present time. Hope all the family is the same.

Mother, I am in France. The towns here look like ash piles. I sure do feel sorry for the people that are trying to live here.

I am going to send twenty dollars home, you can put it in the bank for me. I am going to save every cent I can, because after this war it is going to be hard to make a living and you can't buy anything here. We are given everything we need—shaving cream, candy, and cigarettes.

Well mother, I have moved around a lot and have seen a lot. I could sit here for a month telling you sights I have seen.

Tell everyone back there that I said the Red Cross sure is a wonderful organization. They are at our service place over here. I am sending you a little French money.

I will write again when I have a chance. Answer soon.

Arthur.

Mrs. Bonnie Peterson of Marlinton sends the following letter from her son, Webb, who is in England:

Dear Mother and Dad:

I will answer your letter which I received today and I sure was glad to hear from you and to know you are all well and getting along fine. As for me I have a little cold, but I will be over it in a few days.

Mother I am some where in England and what I have seen of the country I like it fine, for the fields are green and the crops are looking good, and the people appear to be thrifty for every piece of ground has something planted in it, and that makes a fellow from the States think they are doing things to help win the war.

We really had a nice trip coming from the States, and I really surprised myself coming over, for I didn't get seasick, and I am glad I didn't for they say that is terrible.

How is everything around home? Going good I hope. Sure wish I could be with you all, but I guess that I will have to wait a while, but I don't think it will be so long or I hope not anyway. Cleotus and Frank think they will get to come home soon. I hope they do for they have been over about two years, and that is quite a long time. You ask if the Oscar boy was still with me. Yes, and I will tell him that you have seen his mother.

Say Wilma is still mean as ever. You tell her she had better start writing or when I get home she will be one sister who will get a good spanking. How is Dad getting along? Has he been drinking much beer lately? Tell him there isn't much beer here to drink, but I guess a fellow will be better off.

I will close hoping to hear from you soon.

Webb.

Mrs. Duffie Underwood of Huntersville, sends this brief letter from her son, Pvt. Calvin Underwood, who is stationed at Camp Stewart, Ga.:

Well Mom, I got back okay and in plenty of time. It took me only a day to get to Savannah. We had to lay over in Richmond about five hours, and from there we caught a fast train.

They have us in the headquarters here. We don't know what they are going to do with us. They might leave us here in this camp or they may ship us some where else. We get plenty to eat here and I have to work K. P. tomorrow. They have had us working around here, cutting grass and cleaning guns. I think we are going to a search light out fit. I am only hoping that they ship us out of this camp. It is a little better than the other place we were. Guess I had better close for now.

Love, Calvin.

Here follows a letter and poem from PFC. C. J. Galford of Sept. 1st in New Guinea:

Dear Cal:

Here I'm sending you a little poem that I picked up on this island. I could say much more about this island but it would not pass censorship. They sure like to cut a letter up so one can't read it; after it does go through, but that's part of the Army, and I guess there is much more that I'll never know.

Well how's everything in Pocahontas county these days? I sure will be glad when I get back there. This island has its hills but they aren't like those of home. The jungle is different from the beautiful timber and forest of the West Virginia hills.

I have always wanted to see what was on the other side of the world and since I have seen it I don't care to stay here. Don't let anyone tell you there's a better place than home in the hills of West Virginia.

I have received several of your papers since I have been here and they sure are good to read here. As ever a soldier in New Guinea.

Pfc. Calvin J. Galford.

Somewhere in New Guinea

Somewhere in New Guinea Where the rain is like a curse And each day is followed by an other slightly worse.

Where your tents are always muddy And your clothes are always damp Where shaving is a torture and a man lives like a tramp.

Somewhere in New Guinea Where mosquitoes are a pest, And stay awake both day and night You never get any rest.

Somewhere in New Guinea Where going is so tough Spotlights searching every night For Tojo's plans above.

Somewhere in New Guinea Where the mail is always late, And a Christmas card in April is considered up to date.

We never have a pay day And we never have a cent We never need the money And we never could get it spent.

I'm somewhere in New Guinea Where wild beast always stray Disease, mosquitoes and lizards, In jungle danger lays

So take me back to West Virginia Where my folks and friends all dwell For this God forsaken country Is a substitute for H—
